Little Labor Savers.

Have a system in your work.

Keep a high stool in the kitchen.

Use a wooden handled spoon for stirring.

See that knives are kept sharp.

A potato sliver will be found a most useful device.

Get all the materials together before starting baking or cooking.

A stiff brush will be useful for cleaning greasy pans.

Keep a little scrubbing brush for scouring potatoes.

Keep a housepainter's brush for dusting tufted furniture.

Fill dishes and pans with water as soon as empty.

Wash dish towels daily. When greasy throw them into hot water strong with borax or household ammonia. They should be boiled at least once a week.

A Christmas Gift.

What is more beautiful for a Christmas present than flowers? Yet they are extremely expensive all over the country at all holiday seasons. You want to give a friend something beautiful, yet inexpensive. Buy a cheap round rose jar. Good ones can be had for 25 cents. Get half a dozen good sized white narcissi bulbs and plant in the jar, slightly covering with sand and any bright pebbles or shells you have. Cover with water and leave in the cellar until the sprouts are at least three inches high. Bring to the room, though not to the strong sunlight for some time, at least not until buds appear or the leaves grow too long and bend over. A slow growth is best for these water plants. By planting them now and allowing them to grow very slowly they will bloom by Christmas, and if good bulbs are purchased the flowers should be profuse. A gift of this kind would cost $7 or $8 at the florist's, yet less than a dollar if grown at home.

Milk For Ink Stains.

When ink is spilled on any article steps should at once be taken to remove the stains. The following is a useful and quick method: Put some milk into a vessel large enough for the stain; the whole of the article need not be put into the milk. Place the inked part at once in and rub as when washing. The rubbing will fetch the ink out more quickly. Unless this is done before the ink has had time to dry in it will not be effective. When the milk becomes inky it should be renewed.

Bridge Tables For Motor Cars.

The tiniest possible bridge tables are being sold for long motor car drives to devotees who cannot abandon their favorite amusement even when they are on the road.

In the very large covered cars that are so prevalent now the bridge table of a miniature size can find plenty of room. It is a very neat little affair, and makes a fashionable wedding or birthday present to an inveterate player.

To freshen the air of a room one of the best mediums is that of ground coffee. This should be sprinkled on a shovel or coal scoop previously heated in the fire. A match should then be held to a small piece of camphor gum, and when this is alight it should be placed in the center of the shovel. The burning gum gives an aromatic aroma to the coffee which is very refreshing.

If an enameled kettle has been left on the stove until it has boiled dry it is a mistake to fill it up with cold water, as this will cause the enamel to chip off. This will not occur if boiling water is poured into the kettle instead.

White spots can be removed from polished mahogany furniture by rubbing them with camphorated oil and allowing the oil to soak.

A cup of hot water will relieve a sick stomach, and for those who cannot take it plain try a little lemon juice, a lump of sugar or a pinch of salt.

A Christmas Fantasy.

Softly agleam was the mistletoe
Where we stood from the rest apart
And clung together in mad embrace,
Regardless of people or time or place
And vowed that we never would part.

Ah, the mad, glad riot that through us ran
Defied the restraining art
Of comb and brush, for we were the pair
That stood for the last of an old bear's hair—
We would have been hard to part!

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS

TOIL THAT BREEDS MADNESS.

The Only Wonder Is That Any of These Lonely Workers Escape Insanity—Pitiful Plight of the Isolated Keeper at Four en Finisterre.

A French writer, telling of the life of the lighthouse keepers along the coast of Brittany, thinks it strange that any of them escape insanity.

The system of relief that prevails in this country has no equivalent in the French service, and, with short intervals, months apart, a French lighthouse keeper may spend forty years of his life tending the lamps in one station, with a single companion, and that station may be on a rock out in the channel or the bay of Biscay, which boats can approach only in fine weather.

As a matter of fact, the men often do become insane or at least develop monomania. Sometimes it takes the form of hatred of each other.

In one case, at Terennec, one of two men was found by a party who came off from the shore in response to signals lying dead in his bed with a long keen bladed knife through his heart.

His companion's story was that he had committed suicide after a long period of melancholia. There was no proof to the contrary, but after examining the wound the authorities doubted the truth of the story.

On another occasion, where father and son tended an isolated beacon together, the young man was seized with an attack of acute mania. When the time came to light up he planted himself in front of the stairway to the lantern and refused to allow his father to ascend.

The old man attacked his son and, finding he could subdue him in no other way, so that the lights on which so many lives depended might be kindled, strangled him to death. The next day he signaled to the shore for help and gave himself up to the police, telling what he had done.

Sickness and death are no strangers in the lighthouses. There is ninety-nine times out of a hundred no chance of medical aid, and the well man prescribes from the medicine chest for the sick one as best he can. He also does double duty until his partner recovers or relief comes.

There are not infrequent cases when the survivor has to sew up his dead comrade in a hammock and launch his weighted body from the rocks into the sea. Then come long nights of lonely watching.

In winter time the lamps must be tended and the clockwork kept going for fourteen to fifteen hours. The lantern is unheated except for the glow of the lamps up in its ceiling, and the government allows the watcher no chair lest he fall asleep.

It is no wonder that weird fancies come to the men. They hear voices calling from the sea and see drowned men and women looking up at them from the breakers. One of their horrors is of the birds that beat against the windows of the lantern at night, attracted by the glare.

Just as is the case with American lighthouses, the feathered armies that migrate at night beat against the walls and balconies of the beacons with their wings and dash against the panes of the lantern, sometimes breaking the glass with their beaks. As their eyes shine in the glare they seem to express anger or bloodthirstiness to the men within.

One of the most pitiful stories of lighthouse life is told of the keeper at Four en Finisterre, who kept all alone a station on an isolated rock a couple of miles out from the shore, but so surf beaten that only once a month or so was a boat sent out to it with supplies.

The cabin in which the keeper made his home was on the shore opposite his lighthouse, and the recreation he most enjoyed was watching it through his telescope. He could see the people go in and out and the children playing in front of it.

One day he saw something fluttering from the door jamb. He was puzzled. Then it flashed on him that it was crape and that some one had died in the house.

Was it his mother, he wondered, or his wife or one of his brothers? He counted the children later in the day, and they were all right.

The wind blew, and the water raged. No boat could come near him, and he watched the crowd of sympathizing friends come and go. Then he saw the funeral.

He recognised the cure at the head of the procession by his white surplice and the altar boys walking beside him. Then came the coffin, carried by six men.

As the mourners walked after it he strained and strained his eyes trying to identify each and thus determine the missing one. But in vain. All walked with bowed head. The women's faces were buried in their handkerchiefs; the men held their hats before theirs. He could make out nothing characteristic.

The men who eight days later risked their lives to row out to him and break the news of his wife's death found him a physical and mental wreck from sleepless anxiety. But he had kept the light burning faithfully all the time.

The French lighthouse keepers receive from 700 to 950 francs a year—$140 to $190. When they are worn out they retire on a pension of $6.80 a month.

"Say, paw," queried little Tommy Toddles, "what is the bone of contention?"

"The jawbone, my son," answered the old man, with a side glance at his wife.

THE MOSQUITO A TERROR.

Pests That Swarm In the Bush of Northern Ontario.

Webster's English Dictionary defines Mosquito as "a small dipterous stinging insect of several species, having a sharp pointed proboscis, by which it punctures the skin of animals, and sucks their blood."

This description, though doubtless scientifically correct, seems tame to one just returned from the bush, in the rapidly developing district of New Ontario, where the mosquito is to be met by the million in full vigor, and is one's constant assailant from early morn till dewy eve.

The writer was recently engaged for some weeks in telegraph construction work from Englehart all along the line to McDougall's Chutes, sixty-five miles or so on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, and can therefore personally vouch for the latter part of Webster's definition, if the words "and human beings" are inserted after "animals."

Anyone who has not traversed this district would hardly believe the actual conditions that exist, as regards the mosquito, and their able and indefatigable companion, the black fly. In our camp we had three men who had lived in South Africa, and one for seven years in Australia, and we met a man who had resided both in India and South Africa, and they all agreed that they had never seen these pests in such swarms, nor so virulent. Here again, Canada leads the world.

At night, time before attempting to finally turn in, we had to light a "smudge" of wet leaves and wood in a pail, and let this smoulder for some time in the tent to drive out our undesirable companions; then, when this was effected—we in the meantime being stung by the mosquitoes hovering about outside—we all entered and fastened up the flaps of the tent as securely as possible, and the residue of smoke hanging above our heads as we lay or sat up on our straw mattresses and blankets, seemed sufficient to keep out further intruders, at any rate till we had dropped off to sleep.

Some of us fixed up an arrangement above our heads made out of a rectangular piece of iron wire, about four feet by three, with cheesecloth sewn on to it, and let this hang over us, but even this was insufficient to keep them out entirely, and a few generally managed to creep in under the folds, to be discovered next morning on the inside top of the net, in a bloated condition, proving that they had enjoyed a prosperous night. Ordinary fly netting is quite useless. I have actually watched mosquitoes alight on the outside of this, and carefully walk through a double thickness of it.

During the daytime it is almost impossible to work without keeping one's face, neck and arms copiously smeared with "fly oil" or carbolic ointment, which can be bought at any store north, but the effects of this, though instantly efficacious, soon pass off on a hot day, and has constantly to be renewed to get any continued relief.

The black fly swarm here also in myriads, crawling all over and under one's clothes, and biting ferociously. One of our party, a Scotchman, who had lived in Durban, South Africa, for four years, was so terribly bitten on the legs that they swelled to more than double their usual size, and he at one time seriously contemplated having to give up his job, and return south, eventually, however, getting them right again with carbolic ointment, and careful bandaging.

It is difficult to get people to realize from mere description the intense continual irritation caused by these insect pests, and for some the danger of blood poisoning that sets in. We heard of prospectors being obliged to leave their claims, as they were being driven mad by the flies hovering around them in black clouds all day long, and biting till the blood ran down their faces in streams. My Scotch friend and I suffered a good deal at first at Englehart, and our attempt to bathe one evening in the White River there, was a miserable fiasco. We had to content ourselves with trying to wash in a pail of water, but by the time we had our faces soaped, could not see the top of the pail for black flies, and emerging from our endeavor very little, if any, cleaner than we were before. Washing is at a decided discount under such circumstances.

The mosquito, at the point of attack, bores through the epidermis, or outer skin, injecting a minute quantity of formic acid to thin down the blood, the diluted mixture being drawn out through the proboscis, by the insect working its body as though it were a pump. If disturbed, however, the injected acid remaining causes great irritation, and raises small bumps which take some little time to disappear. If you allow them free use of your body, the subsequent irritation is slight—but who can reflect in this way whilst being devoured.

The black fly on the other hand seems to take a small piece of flesh right out, causing the blood to flow freely, although at the time you feel nothing of the bite, but the annoyance of the swarms of them around you constantly, and the tickling sensation, make their attacks almost worse than the mosquito.

As the country is cleared and settled, doubtless these pests will gradually die out, but at present the moist nature of the land enables them to exist and multiply indefinitely.

The Irishman as Speaker.

Irishmen make good speakers, but they never get a chance at Westminster. In the parliaments of Great Britain, however, an Irishman is almost invariably found in the presidential chair, placed there by a majority of English, Scottish and Welsh votes. Sir Francis Murphy, Sir Charles McMahon, Sir Charles Gavan Duffy and the Hon. Peter Lalor, who twice refused knighthood, are a few of the Irish-Australian speakers of the past. At present three of the Australian parliaments are presided over by Irish speakers—the Hon. Frank Madden (Victoria), the Hon. T. F. Quinlan (Western Australia) and the Hon. John Leahy (Queensland). The last named was elected a few weeks ago by a new parliament and is said to give his rulings in a "mellifluous Cork brogue."—Westminster Gazette.

The Dollar and the Peso.

The question in Mexico of what a "dollar" means has recently been authoritatively settled. The department of finance has decided that the word "dollar" shall mean the American gold dollar and that when the Mexican silver dollar is meant the word "peso" shall be employed. Some time ago an American resident at Tampico wrote "dollars" on a check, and the Tampico bank cashier to whom the check was presented paid the amount in gold values. The drawer of the check claimed that it was his intention to have silver paid. Litigation was threatened, but upon investigation the authorities decided against the drawer of the check. The Mexican ruling applies to all documents—notes, drafts, etc.—Mining World.

IN THE FOG

BY

Richard Harding Davis.

CHAPTER I.

THE Grill is the club most difficult of access in the world. To be placed on its rolls distinguishes the new member as greatly as though he had received a vacant Garter or had been caricatured in "Vanity Fair."

Men who belong to the Grill Club never mention that fact. If you were to ask one of them which clubs he frequents, he will name all save that particular one. He is afraid if he told you he belonged to the Grill, that it would sound like boasting.

The Grill Club dates back to the days when Shakespeare's Theatre stood on the present site of the "Times" office. It has a golden Grill which Charles the Second presented to the Club, and the original manuscript of "Tom and Jerry in London," which was bequeathed to it by Pierce Egan himself. The members, when they write letters at the Club, still use sand to blot the ink.

The Grill enjoys the distinction of having blackballed, without political prejudice, a Prime Minister of each party. At the same sitting at which one of these fell, it elected, on account of his brogue and his bulls, Quiller, Q. C., who was then a penniless barrister.

When Paul Preval, the French artist who came to London by royal command to paint a portrait of the Prince of Wales, was made an honorary member—only foreigners may be honorary members—he said, as he signed his first wine card, "I would rather see my name on that, than on a picture in the Louvre."

At which Quiller remarked, "That is a devil of a compliment, because the only men who can read their names in the Louvre to-day have been dead fifty years."

On the night after the great fog of 1897 there were five members in the Club, four of them busy with supper and one reading in front of the fireplace. There is only one room to the Club, and one long table. At the far end of the room the fire of the grill glows red, and, when the fat falls, blazes into flame, and at the other there is a broad bow window of diamond panes, which looks down upon the street. The four men at the table were strangers to each other, but as they picked at the grilled bones, and sipped their Scotch and soda, they conversed with such charming animation that a visitor to the Club, which does not tolerate visitors, would have counted them as friends of long acquaintance, certainly not as Englishmen who had met for the first time, and without the form of an introduction. But it is the etiquette and tradition of the Grill, that whoever enters it must speak with whoever he finds there. It is to enforce this rule that there is but one long table, and whether there are twenty men at it or two, the waiters, supporting the rule, will place them side by side.

For this reason the four strangers at supper were seated together, with the candles grouped about them, and the long length of the table cutting a white path through the outer gloom.

"I repeat," said the gentleman with the black pearl stud, "that the days for romantic adventure and deeds of foolish daring have passed, and that the fault lies with ourselves. Voyages to the pole I do not catalogue as adventures. That African explorer, young Chetney, who turned up yesterday after he was supposed to have died in Uganda, did nothing adventurous. He made maps and explored the sources of rivers. He was in constant danger, but the presence of danger does not constitute adventure. Were that so, the chemist who studies high explosives, or who investigates deadly poisons, passes through adventures daily. No, 'adventures are for the adventurous.' But one no longer ventures. The spirit of it has died of inertia. We are grown too practical, too just, above all, too sensible. In this room, for instance, members of this Club have, at the sword's point, disputed the proper scanning of one of Pope's couplets. Over so weighty a matter as spilled Burgundy on a gentleman's cuff, ten men fought across this table, each with his rapier in one hand and a candle in the other. All ten were wounded. The question of the spilled Burgundy concerned but two of them. The eight others engaged because they were men of 'spirit.' They were, indeed, the first gentlemen of the day. To-night, were you to spill Burgundy on my cuff, were you even to insult me grossly, these gentlemen would not consider it incumbent upon them to kill each other. They would separate us, and to-morrow morning appear as witnesses against us at Bow Street. We have here to-night, in the persons of Sir Andrew and myself, an illustration of how the ways have changed."

The men around the table turned and glanced toward the gentleman in front of the fireplace. He was an elderly and somewhat portly person, with a kindly, wrinkled countenance, which wore continually a smile of almost childish confidence and good-nature. It was a face which the illustrated prints had made intimately familiar. He held a book from him at arm's-length, as if to adjust his eyesight, and his brows were knit with interest.

"Now, were this the eighteenth century," continued the gentleman with the black pearl, "when Sir Andrew left the Club to-night I would have him bound and gagged and thrown into a sedan chair. The watch would not interfere, the passers-by would take to their heels, my hired bullies and ruffians would convey him to some lonely spot where we would guard him until morning. Nothing would come of it, except added reputation to myself as a gentleman of adventurous spirit, and possibly an essay in the 'Tatler,' with stars for names, entitled, let us say, 'The Budget and the Baronet.'"

"But to what end, sir?" inquired the youngest of the members. "And why Sir Andrew, of all persons—why should you select him for this adventure?"

"It would prevent him speaking in the House to-night. The Navy Increase Bill," he added gloomily. "It is a Government measure, and Sir Andrew speaks for it. And so great is his influence and so large his following that if he does"—the gentleman laughed ruefully—"if he does, it will go through. Now, had I the spirit of our ancestors," he exclaimed, "I would bring chloroform from the nearest chemist's and drug him in that chair. I would tumble his unconscious form into a hansom cab, and hold him prisoner until daylight. If I did, I would save the British taxpayer the cost of five more battleships, many millions of pounds."

The gentlemen again turned, and surveyed the baronet with freshened interest. The honorary member of the Grill, whose accent already had betrayed him as an American, laughed softly.

"To look at him now," he said, "one would not guess he was deeply concerned with the affairs of state."

The others nodded silently.

"He has not lifted his eyes from that book since we first entered," added the youngest member. "He surely cannot mean to speak to-night."

"Oh, yes, he will speak," muttered the one with the black pearl moodily. "During these last hours of the session the House sits late, but when the Navy bill comes up on its third reading he will be in his place—and he will pass it."

The fourth member, a stout and florid gentleman of a somewhat sporting appearance, in a short smoking-jacket and black tie, sighed enviously.

"Fancy one of us being as cool as that, if he knew he had to stand up within an hour and rattle off a speech in Parliament. I'd be in a devil of a funk myself. And yet he is as keen over that book he's reading as though he had nothing before him until bedtime."

"Yes, see how eager he is," whispered the youngest member. "He does not lift his eyes even now when he cuts the pages. It is probably an Admiralty Report, or some other weighty work of statistics which bears upon his speech."

The gentleman with the black pearl laughed morosely.

"The weighty work in which the eminent statesman is so deeply engrossed," he said, "is called 'The Great Rand Robbery.' It is a detective novel, for sale at all bookstalls."

The American raised his eyebrows in disbelief.

"'The Great Rand Robbery!'" he repeated incredulously. "What an odd taste!"

"It is not a taste, it is his vice," returned the gentleman with the pearl stud. "It is his one dissipation. He is noted for it. You, as a stranger, could hardly be expected to know of this idiosyncrasy. Mr. Gladstone sought relaxation in the Greek poets, Sir Andrew finds his in Gaboriau. Since I have been a member of Parliament I have never seen him in the library without a shilling shocker in his hands. He brings them even into the sacred precincts of the House, and from the Government benches reads them concealed inside his hat. Once started on a tale of murder, robbery, and sudden death, nothing can tear him from it, not even the call of the division bill, nor of hunger, nor the prayers of the party Whip. He gave up his country house because when he journeyed to it in the train he would become so absorbed in his detective stories that he was invariably carried past his station." The member of Parliament twisted his pearl stud nervously, and bit at the edge of his mustache. "If it only were the first pages of 'The Rand Robbery' that he were reading," he murmured bitterly, "instead of the last! With such another book as that, I swear I could hold him here until morning. There would be no need of chloroform to keep him from the House."

"I WOULD HAVE HIM BOUND AND GAGGED AND THROWN INTO A SEDAN CHAIR."

The eyes of all were fastened upon Sir Andrew, and each saw with fascination that with his forefinger he was now separating the last two pages of the book. The member of Parliament struck the table softly with his open palm.

"I would give a hundred pounds," he whispered, "if I could place in his hands at this moment a new story of Sherlock Holmes—a thousand pounds," he added wildly—"five thousand pounds!"

The American observed the speaker sharply, as though the words bore to him some special application, and then at an idea which apparently had but just come to him, smiled in great embarrassment.

Sir Andrew ceased reading, but, as though still under the influence of the book, sat looking blankly into the open fire. For a brief space no one moved until the baronet withdrew his eyes and, with a sudden start of recollection, felt anxiously for his watch. He scanned its face eagerly, and scrambled to his feet.

"And yet Sherlock Holmes himself," he cried, "could not decipher the mystery which to-night baffles the police of London."

At these unexpected words, which carried in them something of the tone of a challenge, the gentlemen about the table started as suddenly as though the American had fired a pistol in the air, and Sir Andrew halted abruptly and stood observing him with grave surprise.

The gentleman with the black pearl was the first to recover.

"Yes, yes," he said eagerly, throwing himself across the table. "A mystery that baffles the police of London. I have heard nothing of it. Tell us at once, pray do—tell us at once."

UNLUCKY LAUNCHING.

Queer Accident to Largest Steamer Ever Built in Italy.

A feeling akin to consternation has been spread through Italian shipping circles owing to the mishap in launching the biggest passenger steamer yet constructed in Italy.

The day fixed for the launch was a typical Italian day—bright sunshine, a cloudless sky and delightful temperature. The trains from both directions of the Riviera took hundreds of eager spectators to the place, and many steamers, large and small, took other visitors down from Genoa, and, the sea being quite smooth, these were largely patronized.

Shortly after midday the naming took place in due form, and the bottle of sparkling asti, decorated with flowers and the Italian colors, was broken in the traditional manner. Twenty minutes afterward the signal was given that all was clear, and the vessel gradually began to move, quickly increasing her rate of speed, and, amid the cheering of thousands, the hoarse tones of the whistles and the shrieking of sirens, the launch was quickly and triumphantly completed.

But no sooner was the vessel fairly afloat than she was seen to keel over in an alarming manner. The cheering ceased in an instant, and the huge mass of the vessel slowly going over was so horrifying to the spectators that they started to flee from the spot.

The tugs had at once got hold of the vessel, and she was pulled around parallel to the shore. The inclination was to port, and by this time the water had reached the portholes of the main deck, some of which had been left open, and the cabins quickly filled. She was soon on her beam ends, her funnels being about two metres clear of the water and parallel with its surface, and in that position she gradually subsided until all that was to be seen of that great steamer was a portion of her side, looking like the back of a whale, about a meter and a half above the surface at its highest point.

The effect on the spectators was intense. The shipyard is so situated in the corner of the bay that the vessel seemed to dominate everything. That she should have entirely disappeared in such fashion was horrifying to the onlookers. It seemed as if some terrible nightmare had got hold of them, and they could hardly speak. The officials who had been responsible for the construction stood there as if turned to stone and remained gazing at the spot as if they could hardly believe their eyes, while the workmen who had built her, and who, with their families, had almost cheered themselves hoarse a few minutes ago, now were weeping and hugging one another in a state bordering on delirium.

Bad as the disaster was, it was not rendered still worse by loss of life, for the disappearance was so gradual that all on board were got off before the hull went under.

Meanwhile she is lying on a bottom of sand and very small stones, and as she is nearly submerged no great harm can come to her as long as the weather is not very bad.—Engineering.

A Doctor's Wonderful Discovery.

What gives promise of being one of the most beneficial discoveries in the history of the world was modestly suggested by Dr. Albert Calmette, director of the Pasteur institute at Lille, France, in the course of an address before the international conference on tuberculosis in Vienna. He reported that he had been able to render all the animals used for experiment at the institute—cattle, sheep and guinea pigs—immune against the most formidable doses of tuberculosis virus—that is to say, the immunization has been complete for the eleven months during which they have been under observation. If it be proved that it is permanent or that it lasts even for a period of only a few years and that a similar treatment may be applied to human beings the importance of this little heralded discovery can hardly be overestimated.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Difference.

"The people I lived wid before, ma'am," said the new cook, "was very plain."

"Well," asked her new employer, "are we not plain here?"

"Yes are, ma'am, but in a different way. They was plain in their way o' livin', not in their looks, ma'am."—Minneapolis Journal.

...IN THE FOG...

"No one but the police has heard of it," he murmured, "and they only through me. It is a remarkable crime, to which, unfortunately, I am the only person who can bear witness. Because I am the only witness, I am, in spite of my immunity as a diplomat, detained in London by the authorities of Scotland Yard. My name," he said, inclining his head politely, "is Sears, Lieutenant Ripley Sears of the United States Navy, at present Naval Attache to the Court of Russia. Had I not been detained to-day by the police I would have started this morning for Petersburg."

The gentleman with the black pearl interrupted with so pronounced an exclamation of excitement and delight that the American stammered and ceased speaking.

"Do you hear, Sir Andrew?" cried the member of Parliament jubilantly. "An American diplomat halted by our police because he is the only witness of a most remarkable crime—the most remarkable crime, I believe you said, sir," he added, bending eagerly toward the naval officer, "which has occurred in London in many years."

The American moved his head in assent and glanced at the two other members. They were looking doubtfully at him, and the face of each showed that he was greatly perplexed.

Sir Andrew advanced to within the light of the candles and drew a chair toward him.

"The crime must be exceptional indeed," he said, "to justify the police in interfering with a representative of a friendly power. If I were not forced to leave at once, I should take the liberty of asking you to tell us the details."

The gentleman with the pearl pushed the chair toward Sir Andrew, and motioned him to be seated.

"You cannot leave us now," he exclaimed. "Mr. Sears is just about to tell us of this remarkable crime."

He nodded vigorously at the naval officer and the American, after first glancing doubtfully toward the servants at the far end of the room, leaning forward across the table. The others drew their chairs nearer and bent toward him. The baronet glanced irresolutely at his watch, and with an exclamation of annoyance snapped down the lid. "They can wait," he muttered. He seated himself quickly and nodded at Lieutenant Sears.

"If you will be so kind as to begin, sir," he said impatiently.

"Of course," said the American, "you understand that I understand that I am speaking to gentlemen. The confidences of this Club are inviolate. Until the police give the facts to the public press, I must consider you my confederates. You have heard nothing, you know no one connected with this mystery. Even I must remain anonymous."

The gentlemen seated around him nodded gravely.

"We will refer to it," said the gentleman with the black pearl, "as 'The Story of the Naval Attache.'"

"I arrived in London two days ago," said the American, "and I engaged a room at the Bath Hotel. I know very few people in London, and even the members of our embassy were strangers to me. But in Hong Kong I had become great pals with an officer in your navy, who has since retired, and who is now living in a small house in Rutland Gardens opposite the Knightsbridge Barracks. I telegraphed him that I was in London, and yesterday morning I received a most hearty invitation to dine with him the same evening at his house. He is a bachelor, so we dined alone and talked over all our old days on the Asiatic Station, and of the changes which had come to us since we had last met there. As I was leaving the next morning for my post at Petersburg, and had many letters to write, I told him, about 10 o'clock, that I must get back to the hotel, and he sent out his servant to call a hansom.

"For the next quarter of an hour, as we sat talking, we could hear the cab whistle sounding violently from the doorstep, but apparently with no result.

"'It cannot be that the cabmen are on strike,' my friend said, as he rose and walked to the window.

"He pulled back the curtains and at once called to me.

"'You have never seen a London fog, have you?' he asked. 'Well, come here. This is one of the best, or, rather, one of the worst, of them.' I joined him at the window, but I could see nothing. Had I not known that the house looked out upon the street I would have believed that I was facing a dead wall. I raised the sash and stretched out my head, but still I could see nothing. Even the light of the street lamps opposite, and in the upper windows of the barracks, had been smothered in the yellow mist. The lights of the room in which I stood penetrated the fog only to the distance of a few inches from my eyes.

"Below me the servant was still sounding his whistle, but I could afford to wait no longer, and told my friend that I would try and find the way to my hotel on foot. He objected, but the letters I had to write were for the Navy Department, and, besides, I had always heard that to be out in a London fog was the most wonderful experience, and I was curious to investigate one for myself.

"My friend went with me to his front door and laid down a course for me to follow. I was first to walk straight across the street to the brick wall of the Knightsbridge Barracks. I was then to feel my way along the wall until I came to a row of houses set back from the sidewalk. They would bring me to a cross street. On the other side of this street was a row of shops which I was to follow until they joined the iron railings of Hyde Park. I was to keep to the railings until I reached the gates at Hyde Park Corner, where I was to lay a diagonal course across Piccadilly, and tack in toward the railings of Green Park. At the end of these railings, going east, I would find the Walsingham, and my own hotel.

"To a sailor the course did not seem difficult, so I bade my friend good-night and walked forward until my feet touched the paving. I continued upon it until I reached the curbing of the sidewalk. A few steps further, and my hands struck the wall of the barracks. I turned in the direction from which I had just come and saw a square of faint light cut in the yellow fog. I shouted 'All right,' and the voice of my friend answered, 'Good luck to you.' The light from his open door disappeared with a bang, and I was left alone in a dripping, yellow darkness. I have been in the Navy for ten years, but I have never known such a fog as that of last night, not even among the icebergs of Behring Sea. There one at least could see the light of the binnacle, but last night I could not even distinguish the hand by which I guided myself along the barrack wall. At sea a fog is a natural phenomenon. It is as familiar as the rainbow which follows a storm, it is as proper that a fog should spread upon the waters as that steam shall rise from a kettle. But a fog which springs from the paved streets, that rolls between solid house-fronts, that forces cabs to move at half speed, that drowns policemen and extinguishes the electric lights of the music hall, that to me is incomprehensible. It is as out of place as a tidal wave on Broadway.

"As I felt my way along the wall, I encountered other men who were coming from the opposite direction, and each time when we hailed each other I stepped away from the wall to make room for them to pass. But the third time I did this, when I reached out my hand, the wall had disappeared, and the further I moved to find it the further I seemed to be sinking into space. I had the unpleasant conviction that at any moment I might step over a precipice. Since I had set out I had heard no traffic in the street, and now, although I listened some minutes, I could only distinguish the occasional footfalls of pedestrians. Several times I called aloud, and once a jocular gentleman answered me, but only to ask me where I thought he was, and then even he was swallowed up in the silence. Just above me I could make out a jet of gas which I guessed came from a street lamp, and I moved over to that, and, while I tried to recover my bearings, kept my hand on the iron post. Except for this flicker of gas, no larger than the tip of my finger, I could distinguish nothing about me. For the rest, the mist hung between me and the world like a damp and heavy blanket.

"I could hear voices, but I could not tell from whence they came, and the scrape of a foot moving cautiously, or a muffled cry as some one stumbled, were the only sounds that reached me.

"I decided that until some one took me in tow I had best remain where I was, and it must have been for ten minutes that I waited by the lamp, straining my ears and hailing distant footfalls. In a house near me some people were dancing to the music of a Hungarian band. I even fancied I could hear the windows shake to the rhythm of their feet, but I could not make out from which part of the compass the sounds came. And sometimes, as the music rose, it seemed close at my hand, and again, to be floating high in the air above my head. Although I was surrounded by thousands of householders, I was as completely lost as though I had been set down by night in the Sahara Desert. There seemed to be no reason in waiting longer for an escort, so I again set out, and at once bumped against a low iron fence. At first I believed this to be an area railing, but on following it I found that it stretched for a long distance, and that it was pierced at regular intervals with gates. I was standing uncertainly with my hand on one of these when a square of light suddenly opened in the night, and in it I saw, as you see a picture thrown by a biograph in a darkened theater, a young gentleman in evening dress, and back of him the lights of a hall. I guessed from its elevation and distance from the sidewalk that this light must come from the door of a house set back from the street, and I determined to approach it and ask the young man to tell me where I was. But in fumbling with the lock of the gate I instinctively bent my head, and when I raised it again the door had partly closed, leaving only a narrow shaft of light. Whether the young man had re-entered the house, or had left it, I could not tell, but I hastened to open the gate, and as I stepped forward I found myself upon an asphalt walk. At the same instant there was the sound of quick steps upon the path, and some one rushed past me. I called to him, but he made no reply, and I heard the gate click and the footsteps hurrying away upon the sidewalk.

"Under other circumstances the young man's rudeness, and his recklessness in dashing so hurriedly through the mist, would have struck me as peculiar, but everything was so distorted by the fog that at the moment I did not consider it. The door was still as he had left it, partly open. I went up the path, and, after much fumbling, found the knob of the door-bell and gave it a sharp pull. The bell answered me from a great depth and distance, but no movement followed from inside the house, and although I pulled the bell again and again I could hear nothing save the dripping of the mist about me. I was anxious to be on my way, but unless I knew where I was going there was little chance of my making any speed, and I was determined that until I learned my bearings I would not venture back into the fog. So I pushed the door open and stepped into the house.

"I found myself in a long and narrow hall, upon which doors opened from either side. At the end of the hall was a staircase with a balustrade which ended in a sweeping curve. The balustrade was covered with heavy Persian rugs, and the walls of the hall were also hung with them. The door on my left was closed, but the one nearer me on the right was open, and as I stepped opposite to it I saw that it was a sort of reception or waiting-room, and that it was empty. The door below it was also open, and with the idea that I would surely find some one there, I walked on up the hall. I was in evening dress, and I felt I did not look like a burglar, so I had no great fear that, should I en-

WERE JEROME'S WITNESSES

Half the Jury Now Chosen — Big Panel Summoned — Two Hundred Talesmen to Attend — Selections Are Slow—Jurors Kept Severely Apart — Counsel Will Resist Thaw's Detention as Lunatic.

New York, Jan. 9.—The work of securing a jury to try Harry K. Thaw a second time for the killing of Stanford White was half complete when court adjourned shortly before six o'clock last night. The original venire of 300 special service jurors had been exhausted at that hour, and the customary night sitting was abandoned. Two hundred additional talesmen have been ordered to report this morning, when the task of searching out satisfactory trial jurors will again be taken up.

The oath of service was administered yesterday to three men, making six in all, who have been finally accepted. Three provisional jurors were also in the box at the close of the day's sessions, but they are still subject to peremptory challenges. Another storm of those arbitrary removals struck the panel when all 12 seats had been filled at 4 o'clock and six chairs were left vacant when it subsided. The defence now has exercised 11 of its 30 challenges, and the prosecution eight.

Keeping Them Apart.

The plan of maintaining both permanent and temporary jurors in the trial panel until 12 men finally are selected for service is unique in the New York courts, and has imposed a double duty upon the guards, who are directed each night to keep the sworn jurors and the provisionals separate.

In the selection of the jury Martin W. Littleton, Thaw's senior counsel, is so conducting his examination of talesmen as to indellibly impress upon them the fact that if the defence introduces evidence tending to show that Thaw was insane at the time of the Madison square Roof Garden tragedy, the burden of proof falls upon the shoulders of the district attorney and he must prove beyond all reasonable doubt that the defendant was legally sane. The principle of law was not so clearly enunciated at the first trial.

Spring a Surprise.

Thaw's attorney yesterday furnished the first big surprise of the second trial by admitting that several of the expert witnesses who served on the staff of the district attorney at the first trial, and who declared when Mr. Jerome made application for a lunacy commission, that in their opinion Thaw was so insane as not to know the nature of the proceedings against him and was entirely incapable of intelligently advising with his counsel, are now under subpoena by the defence.

They made affidavit that in their opinion Thaw at the time of the tragedy was suffering from an incurable form of insanity. These same doctors, however, had previously testified on the witness stand, in response to Mr. Jerome's famous hypothetical question, that they believed Thaw knew what he was about when he shot and killed Stanford White. This move by the defence is intended as a block to the prosecution in putting these same doctors on the witness stand, and taken by some as showing a determination that Thaw shall not be convicted even with the danger of a stay in an asylum for the criminal insane at Manhattan, as the alternative.

The alienists who were the mainstay of the prosecutor at the first trial were Drs. William Mabon, Charles MacDonald and Austin Flint. They were present at the former hearing from the very first day, and their absence this year has been commonly noted.

The defence in the present trial is insanity at the time White was killed. In making out this case it will require delicate handling to show Thaw so mentally deranged at that time as not to know the nature or quality of his act, and at the same time show that he is mentally sound.

If they are placed on the stand, Mr. Littleton may interrogate and draw from these men the opinion that Thaw was also insane at the time of the homicide, and then endeavor to limit all testimony as to the defendant's mental condition to the immediate period of the tragedy.

Storm at Digby, N. S.

Digby, N. S., Jan. 9.—Heavy damage was done by a storm here yesterday. Wharves and several houses on the waterfront were washed away.

GRADING TO BE MAIN THING

Grain Commission Makes Many Important Recommendations.

WOULD PROHIBIT POOLING

New Grades Suggested — System of Public Weighing Advocated—Samples Should Be Kept, and Adequate Inspection Adopted—Supervision of Cleaning Operations—Trade With Orient.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—The report of the Grain Commission was tabled by Hon. Frank Oliver yesterday. The commission finds:

That the grading system is most suitable to our requirements, but, owing to the ever-increasing production of certain types of grain in the new provinces, some new grades are suggested.

That a system of public or Government weighing at country elevators would be impracticable.

That, to prevent substitution and mixture of grain, samples should be kept of all specially binned grain.

That the suggestion that the Government should build and operate interior storage elevators should not be acted upon.

That at all shipping points where over 50,000 bushels are shipped, railways should be compelled to appoint agents, when not otherwise provided.

That, to reduce loss from leakage in transit to ocean ports, it should be provided that no grain shall leave Manitoba inspection division without being officially weighed and cleaned.

That the proposal to establish a sample market at Winnipeg be not accepted, as it would create confusion.

That pooling agreements between elevator companies should be prohibited.

That there should be more complete supervision of cleaning operations at Fort William and Port Arthur, and larger cleaning machines should be installed.

That a weighmaster's department should be established in the east for grain being shipped outwards.

That a method should be adopted of identifying inspection certificates with parcels of grain for which they are issued.

That the rate of insurance be reduced to one-eighth of one cent.

That the Government should encourage the development of grain trade with the Orient.

DUBLIN CROWN JEWELS.

Dublin, Jan. 9.—The Irish administration has at last appointed a commission which is to sift the mystery of the disappearance last July of a portion of the state regalia, valued at $250,000, from Dublin Castle.

The authorities have been impelled to this step by reports that the jewels are known to have been deposited as security for a loan.

It is understood that King Edward has insisted that the matter be cleared up.

Poisoned By the Dead.

Brampton, Jan. 9.—As the result of blood poisoning, Alexander Nixon Broddy, a prominent citizen, died yesterday morning.

He was a son-in-law of James Fallis, who died a week ago last Saturday at the age of 77 years from erysipelas. When the undertakers took charge of the body, Mr. Broddy volunteered his assistance. As the corpse was being shaved he touched the face of the deceased and afterwards rubbed his own face with his hand. There was a pimple on Mr. Broddy's face and this become inoculated with the poison from the dead man.

Mrs. Broddy was not able to be with her husband for some days last she, too, would be infected by the poison.

Doctor Arrested.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9.—The Crown Attorney's Department received word yesterday afternoon from the chief of detectives in Montreal, that he had arrested Dr. Margolese for them. Dr. Margalese was the consulting physician to Bertha Edwards, and an operation was performed and the girl died. Margolese has been out of the city since the preliminary hearing, and his whereabouts has not been known until yesterday.

Vesuvius Is Troubled.

Naples, Jan. 9.—Following a number of heavy detonations yesterday a portion of the cone of Mount Vesuvius sank within the crater, causing great internal ebullitions. An enormous column of smoke rose from the crater and spread out for miles.

TREATY AND TRADE ARE DISCUSSED

Mr. Monk's Motion For a Committee Defeated in Commons.

THE INTERMEDIATE TARIFF

Finance Minister Tells Mr. Foster Where It Was Useful — Canadian Tobacco Industry Discussed—Trade With Japan — Manitoba Boundaries — New Members—Fires From Locomotives.

Ottawa, Jan. 9.—A fair attendance of members and the transaction of a considerable amount of business marked the resumption of the session of Parliament after the Christmas and New Year's vacations. The French treaty was the subject of a brief discussion, started on a motion by Mr. Monk, which in effect proposed that it be the subject of investigation by a select committee of seven members. This was objected to by Hon. W. S. Fielding, who expressed some surprise at the method adopted by the member for Jacques Cartier in bringing the subject up. It was against precedence, unreasonable, and improper, particularly in view of the fact that there was already on the order paper a motion that would result in the whole question being thoroughly discussed. Hon. George E. Foster advanced the opinion that the mission of the Minister of Finance had shown the uselessness of the intermediate tariff. The Finnace Minister promptly answered that Mr. Foster was mistaken. He had no hesitation in saying that but for the intermediate tariff there would be no French treaty. The motion was lost. Tobacco had an innings during the afternoon, methods of advancing the industry being interestingly discussed by a number of members on both sides on a motion by Mr. Dubeau, member of Joliette. Lord and Lady Middleton occupied seats to the right of the Speaker, and were interested listeners to the discussion on the French treaty.

Replying to Mr. Macdonell, Hon. Mr. Paterson said that for the fiscal year 1905 the total imports from Japan were $1,914,787, the exports to that country $510,925, a total of $2,425,712. For the fiscal year 1906 the imports were $1,662,239, exports $493,952, total $2,156,681. Fiscal year 1907, imports $2,097,506; exports, $683,570; total, $2,781,135. For five months, July to November 1907, imports, $1,102,416; exports, $200,127; total, $1,302,543.

Two new members were introduced yesterday, C. B. Major of Labelle and J. B. T. Caron of Ottawa city. Sir Wilfrid introduced both amid Government applause.

In the House yesterday afternoon R. L. Borden asked the First Minister if any steps had been taken by the Government to obtain the consent of the Legislature of Manitoba to the proposed extension of that province. Had the nature of the extension been communicated to the Legislature?

Sir Wilfrid rplied that the Government did not require to take any such steps. In introducing this legislation they were complying with the request of the Province of Manitoba and it would be for that province to say if it accepted the boundaries. Manitoba had made a request for a very large extension. If the Government agreed to the whole request the consent of Manitoba would doubtless be obtained, but the Province of Ontario had protested against the demand being granted, and it would be for the Government to say which demand would be acceded to.

International Controversies.

Mr. Borden asks for information concerning negotiations between Great Britain and the United States in matters of controversy, such as the international boundary and the Behring Sea fisheries, and fisheries on the Atlantic. Sir Wilfrid said the negotiations had not taken formal shape, except in respect to the international waters.

Hon. G. P. Graham said, in reply to Mr. Boyce, that 60 miles of the main line of the Algoma Central & Hudson Bay Railway had been completed, 20 miles of the branch lines and nine miles of side tracks, for which subsidies of $4,111 had been paid. On the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway 14 miles had been completed, the subsidy being $3,200 a mile.

In reply to Mr. Lake (Q'Appelle) the Finance Minister detailed steps taken by the Government to formulate shipment of feed wheat from the prairie provinces to eastern markets. The railways were communicated with by the Government, the result of which the C. P. R. gave the preference to feed wheat over all shipments. Mr. Chisholm (Antigonish) was informed by Hon. Mr. Brodeur that it was the intention of the Government to take steps to ascertain whether an all winter open route between P. E. I. and the mainland exists.

Mr. Kennedy (B. C.) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Railway Act by making railway companies liable for damages from fire caused by locomotives. In the present act some of the objects which may be damaged are enumerated, and Mr. Kennedy wants to make it general.

Hon. G. P. Graham said the bill should go to the railway committee, and the words objected to by Mr. Kennedy were put in.

Claude Macdonell's bill to amend the Copyright Act by simplifying the forms was also given a second reading.

The encouragement of the tobacco industry and the respective merits of the Canadian weed and imported leaf formed the principle topic of discussion yesterday. Several of the French-Canadian members spoke in their own tongue, complaining that the regulations of the Department hampered the industry, and there was a consensus of opinion that the special stamp for Canadian leaf, generally considered the brand of inferiority, should not be employed.

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $100 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be gauged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid —let our results tell their own forceful story.

PETERBOROUGH THURSDAY JANUARY 9 1908

IS A DOUBLE ROMANCE

On The Mount Royal—Books New Passenger in Mid Ocean —A Life Saved

THE VESSEL'S HAPPY OMEN

The "Mount Royal," on her recent involuntary roving commission, made a voyage not free from romantic incidents. As might have been expected, a woman was a prominent feature. A cable despatch states that on Christmas eve one of the Bulgarian passengers, who formed a large part of the steamer's list, Josefa Mulczyaski, gave birth to a male child. Both mother and child did well, and there were great rejoicings on board, though a hurricane was raging. The emigrants regarded the event as a happy omen and had the child christened "Josef Royal." Strangely enough, their trust in the omen seemed justified, for the same evening Seaman Stewart was washed overboard from the bridge deck, and swept back to the main deck by the next wave, while on Christmas morning the machinery was repaired. The captain and crew, and especially the engineering staff, bear traces of an exceptionally trying time.

APPOINTMENT OF LOCAL MAN

Honoured by Important Position With Railway Society

Mr. W. H. Noyes of Toronto Junction, son of Mr. Chas. Noyes, East City, has been appointed Grand Auditor of the Grand Lodge of Confederated Maintenance of Waymen. This is one of the strongest railway organizations on the continent, and the position of auditor is certainly an honour for this former Peterborough boy. He was formerly secretary of the branch of the society in Toronto, and by his ability and interest in the work proved himself worthy of the appointment.

Adams' Rebate Sale

Interesting Event for Peterboro' Ladies —Reductions so Simple and Plain That All Can Understand

The attention, especially of lady shoppers, is directed to the new and attractive Rebate Sale, which Mr. Harry Adams announces in another column. As a quick clearance of a number of lines is desired, before stock taking, Mr. Adams will begin his rebate sale on Saturday morning, and continue for two weeks. Everybody knows that a rebate is a general discount or allowance off the purchases made during the sale. The goods are not marked up with an inflated price, and then marked down, but are sold at the regular selling prices, and the rebate or allowance, handed back to the customer in cash. On every dollar's worth of goods purchased the customer receives back 20 cents in cash, so that with $10 worth of goods the customer gets back $2.00 in cash. See advertisement.

The tree will be laden with presents and each child is remembered. The distribution of prizes won for diligence in lesson study and catechism, good conduct and faithful attendance will also take place. Mr. David Spence who is the superintendent will act as chairman. A silver collection will be taken up at the door to defray expenses.

BOAT SHIPPED TO NEW ONTARIO

This morning the Peterborough Canoe Company shipped the strange craft, which had been ordered by a Montreal firm, for Northern Ontario. It was described in detail in a recent issue of the Examiner. The boat was shipped to McDougall's Chute, Northern Ontario. It is a staunch boat, but built for grace and beauty, but for strength and endurance. It should give every satisfaction in the new country where streams are rapid and dangers frequently met with on a voyage.

STORY OF A DUMMER FOX HUNT IN WHICH MR. REYNARD LIVES UP TO HIS REPUTATION

VERY SENSATIONAL ESCAPE

Examiner Special:

(Warsaw, January 9. — We often hear of deer hunting stories, bear hunting stories and fish stories, but a really good, true, fox-hunting story is not so common, but here is one.

Some few weeks ago, when the fleecy snow was gently spreading its white mantle o'er mother earth, Louis and John Rose, and Walter Patterson, the recently married, thought the day propitious for a "still" hunt.

Armed with rifles, guns, ample ammunition and an axe, they sallied forth, leading their trusty dog, "Con" as an extra precaution. Fortune smiled benignly on them, for almost at once they struck a fresh track, easily recognized in the freshly-fallen snow. Breathlessly it was followed until — luck of lucks!— it entered a hollow log. Reynard caught napping! The foxy fox trapped! Of all places desired, this was the most desirable. Visions of a nice, clean, crisp five dollar bill, of their renown as hunters, floated softly, easily before them. It only remained to stoop and lift the prize. The log was in the open, nothing to hinder operations. Both ends were hollow. They could even hear the fox moving in the log.

The dog was sent in to reconnoitre, when, like a flash of greased lightning, the passing of a red meteor, or an arrow from Robin Hood's bow, out dashed the laughing fox, and before the amazed hunters had recovered from their surprise, was safely pattering o'er the farthest hill. It is said that a prise is being offered for the best Limerick on the incident. The following is offered in competition:

Three hearty bold hunters of Dummer,
Found a fox in a log—'twas past summer;
The fox got away,
'Twas a strange trick they say,
Now, they're hunting excuses for blunder.

NEW STORY BEGINS IN TO-DAY'S ISSUE

The Examiner to-day begins a new story, which will be one of the best that has ever appeared in a Peterborough paper. It is entitled "IN THE FOG," and comes from the pen of Richard Harding Davis, one of the standard authors. He has written several novels of a superior class, and is recognized as a writer of fame, and above the average ability. The story, "In the Fog," is a novel of a high order, and will command attention from any reader who reads the opening chapters, which will be found on pages four and five.

LINDSAY, FRESH FROM COBOURG WIN, WILL BE HERE TO-MORROW

Good ice is assured for to-morrow night's big game, the opening O. H. A. attraction between Lindsay and Peterborough, and indications point to a game of the fastest variety. Lindsay showed their class last night by defeating the mush courted Cobourg seven on their own ice, and the Scugog team are confident of administering the same treatment to Peterborough to-morrow night. They will have their strongest line up and are determined to wipe out old scores by taking the Straths into camp. Whether they are successful or not they will not go down to defeat without the hardest kind of a struggle, and the hockey public may depend upon seeing a battle of the hammer and tongs variety.

The locals had a fine practice last night before the city league games, and will be in the best of shape. Derocher, who has been doing great work at practice, will be seen in the nets, and should make a good showing. Moore is not in shape to play to-morrow but will be in the game against Cobourg next week. His presence will do a lot to steady the young players, and he will be of great assistance to the seven. Capt. Wally Parnell is playing the hockey of his life this winter and will be on the forward line to-morrow night, with the pick of the city league champions. The team is confident of beating Lindsay, and will play hockey from the drop to the last.

The reserved seat plan opened at the rink to-day, and judging by the way in which the tickets are going, there will be a record crowd present at the game. Play will be started at 8.15 o'clock sharp. Reserved seats may be secured at the rink to-night and all day to-morrow after ten o'clock a.m.

A gentleman from the West who is visiting in the city, was relating to a number of his friends the methods of wintering horses and cattle in his locality. West of Winnipeg the people generally expect a mild winter and the hardy western horses are seldom put in stables, but are turned out to search for their living as best they can. The cattle are also left to themselves as it would be impossible, practically speaking, to feed such a large number, during the winter months.

Last winter was an exception and the cold and snow worked havoc among the live stock. In the spring the cattle died on the plains in great numbers causing an untold loss to the country. This gentleman said that he has seen the cattle with their noses and foreheads lacerated, raw and bleeding from searching through the snow and crust for the grass and herbs that was concealed beneath it.

The horses do not suffer in this manner as they paw the snow away thus reaching the hard pan of earth where their sustenance is found. The speaker had been told of a man who took a herd of horses many miles up north where the snow lay four feet deep on the earth and the weather was quite cold. In the spring when they returned they were fat and plump and in every respect in good condition. They were not the ordinary horses but what is known as cayeuses. However, he believed Ontario horses would thrive well in the West.

A VERY LARGE GATHERING AT THE WEEK OF PRAYER MEETING

Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's church, gave the message at last night's meeting of the Week of Prayer. His subject was "The Punishment of Sin," and he dealt with the subject in a very effective and helpful manner. The congregation was one of the largest that has ever assembled in Peterborough, the George street church being filled to its utmost capacity.

The result of the meetings thus far has been most gratifying, and splendid results are being obtained. The whole spirit of last night's meeting manifested a still greater interest in the Week of Prayer on the part of the people of Peterborough, and the closing meetings of to-night and to-morrow night should, if possible, excell the previous ones. Rv. A. H. Brace presided, and the assistance of the choir was particularly helpful. Two sacred solos were also appreciated.

To-night a meeting will be held in Knox Presbyterian church and the Mark street Methodist church. As usual the names of the speakers are not announced, but the subject will be "The Forgiveness of Sin."

The different clergymen of the city have expressed their extreme satisfaction with the Week of Prayer, ad hope that the enthusiasm will be continued. A great deal of good is being done and large attendances are expected on the remaining evenings.

WEDDING BELLS

STICKLE-BRISBIN

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Jan. 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brisbin, near Roseneath, when their youngest daughter Carrie, was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest Stickle, son of Mr. Geo. Stickle, Ainwick township. The happy couple left next day on their wedding trip, and will visit in Peterborough, Cobourg and Port Hope, after which they will make their home in Midland, where the best wishes of a host of friends will follow them.

OFF TO OLD HOME

MANY FRIENDS AT STATION

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hensley, left this morning for Halifax, from where they sail for England on Friday evening on the steamship "Empress of Britain." They are going back to the land of their birth on a holiday trip, and will visit the "old folks at home" before their return. Mr. Hensley is a member of the Salvation Army Band, and played the G trombone very efficiently, so that his services will be greatly missed until his return, which he expects will be next April. While in England they will also visit friends in Southampton, Ramsbury, London and other places.

On Sunday evening the band said farewell. Mr. Hensley was made the recipient of a handsome suitcase from his fellow employees at Adams Hall's. "Ernie," as he is familiarly known, will be greatly missed. Besides being an efficient trombone player, he also held the position of war correspondent in the band. A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hensley were at the station to see them off.

Two Comets Photographed

The local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society has been apprised of some interesting information from the Harvard College Observatory, Cambridge, aMss. Astronomical bulletin No. 320, of January 3, 1908, states that a cablegram has been received there from the astronomical centre at Kiel, stating that Encke's comet was photographed by Prof. Max Wolf on January 2, right ascension of comet was 23 hours, 13 minutes, 16 seconds; declination, plus 1 degree 19 minutes. This comet is visible only through a large telescope.

Bulletin No. 321, January 4, says a telephone message has been received from Rev. Joel H. Metcalfe of Taunton, Mass., stating that the comet 1907a was photographed by him on January 3; right ascension, 2 houre, 14 minutes, 8 secs.; declination, was plus 50 degrees, 29 mins; magnitude 14.5; too small to be seen by small telescope.

It may also be again mentioned here that the annual meeting of the local branch of the society has been postponed until next week, the date and place to be announced to-morrow.

This afternoon a special train of emigrants passed through the city, via the C. P. R. They were mostly from the west, and there was a large number on board. THE INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS AT NORWOOD

A Committee From Local Oddfellow's There Last Night

Mr. Robert Matchett who has been in Norwood and Marmora the last couple of days, attending the installation of new officers of the I. O. O. F., returned this morning on the early train. The installation at Norwood was held on Tuesday and at Marmora last evening. A committee composed of W. Hill, G. Maitland, W. Freeburn, Wise, Col. Miller, M. T. Breckenridge, and A. A. Fowler, accompanied Mr. Matchett.

The installations were largely attended by the members of Havelock and Lakefield Lodges; the former intends to hold an installation of their own in a few weeks.

At Marmora after the installation was held the lodge adjourned to the Royal Hotel where a delightful banquet was held. The room was gaily decorated and several speeches were made by the members of the visiting lodges.

ARE THE DAYS OF PIONEERING A THING OF THE PAST ? NOT IF MR. WM. SCULLY KNOWS IT

He Has To Walk Just Ten Miles For His Mail in Northern Ontario — Where Nature Holds Sway

FARMING IN THE NORTH

To walk by trail a distance of ten miles through a forest country sounds like the times when the pioneers of Ontario began to open up this country in the early days of its history. Yet similar experiences are being met with in New Ontario at the present day, according to the stories of Mr. Wm. Scully, a former resident who is here on a visit from the Temiscamingue district to his sister, who resides at 223 London street. Mr. Scully has just been north since the first of July, yet he is enamoured with that country and would not again settle here.

Being a volunteer in the 46th Battalion, Mr. Scully was given a government grant of 160 acres of land about ten miles from New Liskeard. In that district there are only about twenty-five settlers, who in after years will no doubt be known as the pioneers of New Ontario.

Mr. Scully says the greater number of them walk along the forest trail, a distance of ten miles to New Liskeard for their mail and provisions, and think nothing of it. Wild game is plentiful, including fox, bear, mink, and feathered game, so that the time along the road passes quickly when the pedestrian has a gun. For sport, Mr. Scully knows no better place than the Temiscamingue district, with its abundance of fish and game.

A Farming Country

The country there is excellent for farming. The clay is rather heavy, but none is better for potatoes and roots. Oats and barley yield about forty bushels to the acre. The timber is good, and makes the country wealthy.

The people of New Liskeard and district have experienced colder weather than we have been given. The mercury has gone down as low as 25 and 30 degrees below, but this is expected there, and the residents do not mind it.

BOGUS BALLOT FOUND IN LOCAL OPTION VOTE

Campbellford, Jan. 9.—(Special)—In the voting for the local option bylaw vote taken here Monday a bogus ballot was found in the ballot box at No. 1 polling booth. As the by-law carried by a vote of 371 to 241, the opponents of the by-law are talking of having the ballots recounted, and if not successful that way to have another vote taken on account of the bogus ballot found at No. 1 polling booth. The bogus ballot is supposed to have been slipped from the Herald newspaper, which printed a fac-simile of the ballot used.

The finding of the ballot has caused a great deal of discussion, and insinuations are being cast from both sides.

A HASTINGS MAN CHARGED WITH STEALING A HORSE

On a charge of stealing a horse from Louis Florence, George Rogers, a Hastings man, appeared in the police court this morning. Mr. S T Medd appeared for Florence and Mr. Kerr for Rogers. Mr. Kerr had to leave at 11 o'clock and his place was taken by Mr. G Gordon.

Florence said he bought a horse from a farmer sometime ago and Rogers wanted the loan of it to match with a little horse he had. Rogers wanted to take the horse to Hastings to gather scrap, etc., and he let him have it on condition that he would feed and take care of it. He also gave Rogers the privilege of selling the horse for $60 or trading it, but must first tell him of such a transaction. The little horse was then at Doig's and Rogers went there to get it and took the beast to Hastings. Witness went down to Hastings 3 days ago and found that his horse had been traded and the last horse sold. He asked for the horse or money and Rogers said he had nothing coming. Witness said he insisted on a gettlement, but Rogers threatened to choke him. He then went away.

"He must have been a farmer to sell you a horse for $60," said Mr. Kerr.

"Or a Jew" said his Worship.

Florence told Mr. Kerr that he knew he was stung on the deal. He did not want his father to know about it and it his father asked Rogers where he got the horse, to tell him that he bought it from some one else. He went down to see Rogers tember and told him he was getting the loan of it for his feed. He valued the horse at $100.

A former employer of Rogers, Mr. S. Hetherly, said that he stabled the horse for 30 day and would give $10 for it. The horse, when it arrived, was a crippled animal with a hump on its back, and a week after its arrival had its leg torn by a bolt. The cost of feed was 40 cen's a day, besides the expense incurred by a doctor's attendance on the injury.

Mr. Medd rehearsed for Mr. Hetherly's benefit the luxuries derived in a local livery barn for 50 cents a day. The witness said in reply that he would bring in his team for the winter.

"The horse looked to me like a camel when I first saw it," said Mr. W. B. Sherman, the next witness. "I think the beast was worth about $15 or $20."

The prisoner, Geo. Rogers, was the next on the stand. He met Florence on September 17, and after considerable coaxing, decided to take the horse to Hastings and see if he could trade or sell it. Florence said his father would soon return, and he wanted the horse out of the way. He said he would take him away, but would not feed him for nothing. Florence said to take it, anyway, and get rid of it. He paid Hetherly $22 for the keep of the horse, out of the proceeds of the sale of the second horse. Florence came down to see him and raised a big fuss. He wanted either the horse or the money. He told the former he would give him the money after he got his. After a few more words Florence went away. He has now a bill against the claimant for $3.50.

After hearing the evidence His Worship thought Florence should have taken his case to a civil court. The evidence was not clear, and was contradictory in parts. Roger should have rendered some accounts or reports to Florence. However, His Worship decided to dismiss the case, the Costs of the court, $7.72, to be paid by Florence.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES FAIRWEATHER

His Death Took Place in Toronto This Afternoon After an Illness of About Two Years

THE FUNERAL SATURDAY

Examiner Special.

The numerous friends and acquaintances of Mr. James W. T. Fairweather, of Toronto, and formerly of the city will learn with regret of his death which took place at the family residence, Queen's Park, Toronto this afternoon at 1.15. Mr. Fairweather has been in a weak state of health for the past couple of years and has not been able to give much attention to business. Mr. Fairweather was the eldest son of the late Mr. William Fairweather, who was for many years a prominent Peterborough merchant. On the death of his father some years ago he succeeded to the business which he conducted for several years, disposing of it to Mr. Thos. Harris in 1895, when he removed to Toronto where he conducted a large and expanding business. About two years ago Mr. Fairweather was united in marriage to a Miss lady. While he lived in Peterborough he was popular among a wide circle of business and personal friends and in Toronto he achieved a similar popularity. He leaves behind him a widow, his mother, one brother, Herbert, and two sisters, Misses Nellie and Jessie Fairweather, all of whom reside in Toronto. From the time of his father's death in 1884, he was practically the head of the family to which he showed every possible kindness and consideration. He was 48 years of age.

Interment will take place in Peterborough. The funeral will proceed from the C.P.R. station on the arrival of the 11.45 train on Saturday, January 11, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery.

CHIEF WARNED THOSE IN COURT

That They Must Not Expectorate on The Floor—Liable to a Fine

Th men who gather daily in the police court to listen to the different cases had better not spit on the floor of the room in future. The habit is an unhealthy as well as a filthy one. The chief has apparently made up his mind to put a stop to the nuisance, and warned those who were in court this morning that if he found any one spitting on the floor he would bring him before the Magistrate, and have him fined.

THE WEATHER.

ANOTHER moderately cold snap is with us accompanied with a brisk wind, which has made the day feel much colder than it is in reality. Last night the lowest the thermometer got was within 2 degrees of zero, while by noon it had risen but one degree. To-night will likely be quite sharp, although the present cold wave does not promise to be long continued. The present month to date is very much like January of last year. The first half was comparatively mild, and not until the 16th did the thermometer descend below zero. On the 17th decidedly cold weather set in and continued until the close of the month. Fifteen, seventeen, eighteen and twenty below zero were daily occurrences.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURES ARE ABOVE

It is not generous to gloat over the the failure of others even though the failure is in respect of the risky role of prophecy. Yet Canadians are justified in rejoicing over the complete and utter failure of Sir Charles Tupper, as prophet. He declared that the Liberal tariff when introduced by Mr. Fielding would bring ruin, disaster, destruction, extinction and a great many other ore rotundo calamities to Canadian manufacturing industries. The wails of despair which he put into the mouths of manufacturers have become paeans of praise. Our manufacturers have flourished under the Liberal policy so that their products have not only filled the home market to repletion, but abundantly over-flowed into the foreign market. The products of Canadian manufacturers are taking a foremost place in the European markets. Senator Jones, president of one of the most important manufacturing concerns in Canada, or on this continent, the Massey-Harris Company, has returned from a three months' journey on the continent. He comes home deeply impressed with the fact that Canadian goods are getting so large a proportion of the trade of Europe and on the most favourable terms too. The Senator characterizes as altogether erroneous the impression which is prevalent in some quarters that our manufacturers sell their goods abroad at lower prices than those obtained at home. On the contrary, not only is the entire European business obtained on a higher basis of price than in Canada, but our manufactures bring higher prices in Europe than those exported by any other country—higher, indeed, than European manufactures. Even in free trade England with all its long experience in manufacturing, Canadian goods, Mr. Jones declares, bring higher prices than those of any maker in England, and Canadians do business in every grain-growing country of Europe, but in no case are agricultural implements at so low a price as in Canada.

In the Senator's opinion the Canadian farmer lacks but one thing to enable him to compete successfully in the world's markets, and that is transportation facilities equal to those of any other country. No one will dispute the assertion that "compared with some countries some parts of Canada are meantime not so favourably situated in the matter of trasportation," but great strides are being made in that direction, and the great efforts that are being put forth by the Government to increase the railway facilities of the West are certain to result in material improvement in the near futuure.

Senator Jones finds that the British preference has done much to bring Canada before the people of the Mother Country, and indirectly has been materially helpful. Our treaty with France has most favourably impressed the people of that country who will welcome closer trade relations with the Dominion. In France many lines of Canadian manufactures will, there is reason to believe, under the new arrangement, find a profitable market. There seems to be no reason why Canadians should not be well content with the conditions of industrial prosperity as well as general prosperity provided by the statesmanlike administration of the Liberal Government of Canada.

The dreary tale of the "talesman" in the second Thaw trial has begun. Justice works differently in Canada. Without precipitancy or delay the trial takes place,—the headsman takes the place of the talesman, and justice is free to go about her business of promptly rounding up some other malefactor.

When it's your horse, it is a very ordinary beast; when it becomes my horse, it is a thoroughbred worth countless dollars. Eviction practised in Ireland, especially, by absentee landlords, is an odious outrage; when it is practised by Irish landlords in New York, as is now being done wholesale, it becomes good business. It makes a great difference whose ox is gored.

According to the Manitoba Free Press, the Bell Telephone Company had, as it should have had, in the interests of shareholders, an eye to business when it sold its telephone system in Manitoba, to the Government. All it has to do now is to sit back in its easy chair and collect $132,000 interest on the purchase bonds, a sum greater, it is alleged, than its profits from the operation of its system in Manitoba. This sum is all clean profit, without responsibility in respect of giving effective service. It was claimed by the advocates of the purchase that, under Government management, the public would get telephone service at cost. This may be true, but the cost will be as great as the profits made by the company, if not greater. So that the people will not be any great gainers. They will nominally receive telephone service at cost, but they will also have to pay, in the shape of interest on purchase bonds, dividends to the shareholders, besides resting under the responsibility of operation.

Havelock Men Finding Trouble—"Perils of a Great City" in Peril There

ERECTING WATER TANK

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Jan. 6.—The drama, "Perils of Great City" which held the boards here on Christmas night proved a failure indeed. From the beginning it was, using a vulgar expression, "on the bum," and the Havelock citizens in attendance, well trained to jollying at baseball and football matches soon made the company feel cheap. At the end of the third act, the audience would stand it no longer and began to leave. The company dissolved in Havelock and for a few days were left stranded in town without a cent.

The lumbermen to the north of Havelock are thanking the weatherman for the weather which he is dealing out at present. When the snow first came, it covered the ground before it was frozen, and thus there was no bottom in the swamps. Since the snow has melted and the weather got cold, the swamps have frozen up and the lumbermen will now be able to get to work. The different camps back of this town are reported to have a large number of logs on the skids.

Another dental office has been opened in Havelock opposite Philips hardware store, by Dr. McLennan of Bancroft, who is well known in town, having for several years acted as dentist in this town before.

Swift & Company will commence operations in a short time at filling their ice house here. The ice at present is nine inches thick and they begin to cut when it reaches a thickness of 12 inches. About 300 cars will be stored for next season.

The City League Opening Last Night Was a Success

Strathconas Defeated The High Lifes in a Great Exhibition by 8 To 6—Condition Told in The End — Lakefield Had It On Bridgenorth

A BIG CROWD ON HAND

The Strathconas and Lakefield were the winners in the opening City League games last night. The former defeated their old rivals, the High Lifes, in a splendid exhibition of hockey by 8-6, and the Cementville seven swamped the aggregation from the classic shores of Mud Lake by 6 goals to 1. The biggest crowd in the history of the league for the opening games was present, nearly six hundred people being on hand, and the officials of the league are more than pleased with the largeness of the gate, which indicates that the organization will have a most successful season this year.

If all the hockey seen in the league this year is as good as that dished out by the Strathconas and High Lifes in the first game the patronage of the hockey public is assured. It was a battle royal from start to finish, and the High Lifes came near furnishing a surprise. They started off at a clip that opened the eyes of their opponents and the crowd, and before the Strathconas got into their stride they had lined up a lead of three goals, which it took the champions until half-time to overcome. Even then the High Lifes did not let up, and on starting out in the second half once more went into the lead. The Straths, however, had the steam and had it over their doughty opponents in the last period, although Manager Rose's aggregation kept plugging away in a dangerous manner until the finish. Had they been in better shape the High Lifes would have made it even closer than they did, although it was close enough to suit the winners. On their early form they looked like winners all over, playing better together, while their defence put up a stubborn resistance that for a time made the efforts of the Straths' forward line futile. The ultimate winners were hammering away, but did not seem to have any system, and the result was that the High Lifes were enabled to beat Wilson three times before their opponents dreamed of it at all. The condition of the champions came to their rescue in the second half when they set a pace that had the High Lifes backing up all the way. However, although the Straths outskated and outclassed their adversaries in this period, they still failed to show much team work and their score was therefore not as large as it should have been under their circumstances. They registered a clean-cut victory, however, and will do much better thier next time out. They were under a handicap, owing to the fact that their defence men were not available last night and the had to fall back on two forwards to fill up the vacant positions. Under the circumstances they did excellent work, but were new to the positions, and showed it by leaving the nets unguarded at times, and the police might have resulted more disastrously than it did.

The High Lifes showed surprising strength and will take a whole lot of beating before the season is over.

Considering that they have had very little practice they played good combination, and although the fast skating and better condition of the winners wore them down in the last period, they were always factors. In the early stages they worked well together, batting away with a lot of useful passing that enabled them to work their way well in on the flags.

Individually the Strathconas played good hockey, Dusty being especially prominent. His two rushes through the High Life team at the end of the first half were the feature plays of the game, and he cheered and relieved well. Weatherston was playing a new position when he started out at point but did good work for the position, stopping many hot looking advances and clearing often by pretty rushes. In the second half he was moved up to his own position at left wing, where he showed up to better advantage. Dobson did some pretty stick-handling at centre, playing the position in a manner that would have been very effective had he received the support of the rest of the forwards. Dunnigan at right wing shot well and was in the game all the time, as was Long, who was always working. Wilson performed well in the nets, picking off some wicked shots. The six that beat him were at close quarters when the shot came after the defence had been beaten. Foley was the star of the High Lifes during the early part of the game, doing some very useful stick-handling and rushing, but the pace was too much for him and he fell in the second chapter. Quinn was always to the front, playing a splendid game all through. Pentland did fine work at right wing, making and taking passes in a manner that enabled the losers to work up a dangerous combination. Most of the goals were scored on passes from him and he was always playging away along the boards. Manager Rose was always dangerous when he got away for a rush, but he was also is watched by the Strathconas and was given but few opportunities to score. Ferguson and Myers did great work on the defence, especially the former, who checked and rushed brilliantly. Thornton's splendid playing in the nets kept the Strathconas' score down. He shone especially in the first half when he stopped a score of shots at close range.

Geo. Lynch refereed to the satisfaction of both teams, and the line-up was as follows:

STRATHCONAS	HIGH LIFES
Goal
Wilson	Thornton
Point
Weatherston	Myers
Cover
Dusty	Ferguson
Rover
Long	Quinn
Centre
Dobson	Rose
Right Wing
Dunnigan	Pentland
Left Wing
McMillan	Folley

Play started off at a terrific clip with honours even for the first few minutes. Each goal was assaulted in turn and the puck travelled up and down at a pace that aroused the crowd to a high pitch of excitement. Quinn was the first man to be penalized, going off for tripping Weatherston, and Dusty followed for giving Myers the "hook." Finally, after 9 1-4 minutes of hard playing, Pentland scored neatly on a pass to centre from Folley. High Lifes 1, Strathconas 0.

McMillan scored for the Strathconas, but the play was off-side and the puck was called back. Dobson and Rose mixed it up and there was a fracas for a moment, resulting in both players being sent away for the balance of the half. Dusty was penalized again for chopping. Folley carried the puck up the side nicely and centred to Quinn, who beat Wilson. High Lifes 2, Strathconas 0.

A few moments afterwards Quinn got away for a long rush which resulted in a score. High Lifes 3, Strathconas 0.

The champions came back with one in short order, Dunnigan doing the trick on a nice rush and shot. High Lifes 3, Strathconas 1.

Dusty went off for tripping, and Ferguson was sent away after him for slashing. Dunnigan bodied Folley and also warmed a seat in the penalty box.

Dusty tied the score for the Strathconas before half time by two spectacular rushes, carrying the puck nearly the length of the rink in the second case and dodging the whole High Life team. Half-time score—High Lifes 3, Strathconas 3.

Rose put his team in the lead at the beginning of the second half by scoring from a scrimmage. A moment after he was penalized for tripping Dusty, and while he was on the boards Long evened matters up by a shot from quarter way. High Lifes 4, Strathconas 4.

Once more the High Lifes showed that they were not beaten, and Pentland carried the puck down and passed across to Quinn, who scored from the side. High Lifes 5, Strathconas 4.

Weatherston was benched for tripping Rose, and Folley followed him for bodying. Dusty, after a pretty combination rush, pulled the Strathconas up on even terms again. High Lifes 5, Strathconas 5.

Long was penalized at the beginning of the next period, but the Strathconas still pressed, and in a few moments Dobson put his team in the lead by a neat shot. McMillan followed this by scoring after a pretty rush and shot, and the score was Strathconas 7, High Lifes 5.

Dunnigan increased the lead by scoring on a pretty shot from away out, but the High Lifes came back with another before time was up, Ferguson doing the trick after a pretty rush. McMillan was ruled off for slashing two minutes before time was called. Final score — Strathconas 8, High Lifes 6.

1—High Lifes, Pentland.

The game was a rattling exhibition of hockey, and was greatly enjoyed by the crowd. The teams travelled at an awful pace considering that it was the first game, and there was not the slightest let up from start to finish. The teams were evenly matched and played splendid hockey throughout, pleasing the fans.

Lakefield Won

The second game was a raw exhibition as compared with the first, although it was always interesting and the crowd seemed to heartily enjoy the fray. Lakefield had much the better of it, as the score indicates and if they had been able to shoot, would have rolled up a big score. They had more speed and a better knowledge of the game than the Mud Lake team, but did not show any signs of combination work, and their scores were all made on individual rushes by Quinn, who was head and shoulders over the rest of the bunch as a hockey player. Both defences lifted repeatedly or slammed the puck along the boards, and this, combined with the fact that the forwards scrambled in a heap after the puck, made the play slow and far from scientific. Both teams slashed freely but little damage was done and the best of feeling was in evidence at all times.

Neither aggregation has had any practice to speak of, which accounted in a measure for the showing. It was Bridgenorth's first appearance in the City League, and they will improve with practice. Quinn and Tony Sabatino were Lakefield's stars. The former made man brilliant rushes, galloping through the Bridgenorth line time after time, and getting all of their half dozen goals. The Italian youth caught the eye of the crowd with his stick handling and shooting, and when he improves his shooting a little he will be a dangerous forward. Crawford at left wing did some good work in spots and Murdoff's lifting relieved the pressure.

For Bridgenort, E. Belleghem, Jopling and Cullen, were the most prominent. Belleghem played a fine game in the nets, stopping dozens of shots, some at very close quarters.

Referee Geo. Lynch had an easy time as the players showed no inclination to smash each other.

The teams were:

Lakefield.	Bridgenorth.
Goal.
C Crawford	E Belleghem

M Sabatino.	Conway

Murdoff	Cullen

The Poisons Must Be Removed

FROM THE SYSTEM—BOTH KIDNEYS AND BOWELS ARE RESTORED TO ACTION BY

There three ways, and three only, by which the system can be rid of poisonous waste matter, the bowels, the kidneys and the skin.

The bowels are named first, because on them falls the greater part of this work, and so long as they do do their duty there is seldom trouble with the kidneys, or skin, as excretory organs.

When the bowels fail, however, and become sluggish and constipated, there is work thrown on the kidneys which they have no business to do, and which they cannot do for any length of time without becoming deranged.

Now, there is only one medical treatment which recognizes this condition of affairs, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This is, so far as we know, the only kidney medicine that regulates the bowels, as well as the kidneys, and thereby removes the cause of trouble, and cures the most complicated cases.

You can scarcely find a case of kidney disease that did not begin with liver and bowel troubles and which could not therefore have been prevented by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Jas B. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were very sharp, like a stab with a knife, and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me, and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

Thousands of people are ready to testify to the superiority of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, as a cure for kidney troubles. The reason of their efficiency is found in their action on the Liver and Bowels, as well as the Kidneys.

PORT HOPE DROPS OUT OF DISTRICT

Not Enough Interest Taken in Intermediate Team—Play Junior

Peterborough will have to contest the championship of this district with only three teams instead of four. Port Hope yesterday decided to drop out of the intermediate series thus leaving Whitby, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough to fight it out.

Port Hope intermediates notified the secretary of the O.H.A. yesterday as follows:—"Owing to the lack of interest taken by our intermediate players, we have decided to withdraw our intermediate team, figuring that having two teams our dates would be too crowded before the end of the month. We do not feel that this will inconvenience the teams in No. 2 Group, as there are still four teams left."

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Otonabee hockey team easily won their game last night against the Colts of the south end by tallying five goals in 40 minutes, giving their opponents nothing but a goose-egg. Both teams lack combination but with a little more practice some of them will develop into good players in the future. Gus Rose of the Otonabees was the star of the game, getting most of the goals. Jimmy McMartin's body checking at point, was a feature, as he usually took good care to get his man. All the team showed up well in individual play. Anderson for the Colts, was their star. The Otonabees lined up as follows: Mahoney, McMartin, G. Rose, Close, Coughlin, D. Rose and R. Howden. Jas. D. Clarke handled the bell perfectly.

MISSION NOT A FAILURE.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux Says His Business Was Solely With Japan.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9.—Hon. Mr. Lemieux was questioned in regard to the mission which had taken him to the Orient.

"The Associated Press of America has stated," said Mr. Lemieux, "that my mission to the Orient was a failure. The reason they gave for the failure was that I had not called upon the American Minister in Tokio. But I had nothing whatever to do with the American Minister. My business was a serious one with the Japanese Government, and I was not responsible in any degree to the representative of a foreign power. I wish to be judged by my own Parliament, by the people and by the press of my own country, and not by the Associated Press of America."

"How about the talk of war between the United States and Japan?" he was asked.

"In Japan it is not taken seriously, especially since the last message of the President. Economically, they are in a very poor condition and the late war has drained their resources and they are all for peace. You hear no talk of war and no one even thinks of it.

"The question at the present time is that of immigration. It is a most important one and that is why the Canadian Government will be very careful. Fortunately Count Hayashi is the brains of the Japanese Government to-day. He is the man who made the treaty with Great Britain before the late war and that is a sample of his ability. He is an eminently safe man and is to be trusted to settle this question of immigration satisfactorily. This question, however, is interesting the people of Japan very greatly. There are about fifty daily paper in Tokio and the people are kept thoroughly informed in regard to it.

"The Japanese are most progressive in every way. I do not judge merely by their army, which is probably the most efficient in the world to-day, nor their navy, which is second only to that of Great Britain; but I judge by their universities, their schools and by their public institutions and Government. As regards the actual result of my mission, I cannot speak at the present time."

Four Thousand Laid Off.

New Orleans, Jan. 9.—Between 3,000 and 4,000 Illinois companies employees have dropped from the payroll on account of the financial situation.

EXECUTION AT TORONTO.

Negro Boyd Hanged For Murder—Faced Death Calmly.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—"Ready? Yes, sir," these words uttered in answer to the greeting of his executioner were the last words uttered by John Boyd, who paid with his life at the jail yesterday morning for shooting Ed. Wandle last spring. Boyd left his cell in the north east corridor of the jail at six minutes after eight o'clock, and five minutes later with a deafening clang of the falling trap, which drowned the closing words of the prayers of the attending clergyman Boyd was shot downward into eternity.

He never moved after the fall. The neck was broken, and after nine minutes the pulse at the wrist was gone and in five minutes more the last wavering beat of the heart was stifled.

Boyd were hanged in a room on the north side of the east wing of the building. He had not more than 100 feet to walk from his cell and was not exposed to the gaze of the idly curious as has been the case with executions held heretofore. The procession to the gallows was led by Sheriff Mowat and Governor Chambers. Following these were Rev. Frank Vipond and Rev. E. E. Thompson. Then came Boyd supported on either side by a jail guard, and followed by John R. Radcliffe.

As they came down the hall the clergymen repeated a psalm service, Boyd was apparently calm. His face was utterly devoid of expression, and he showed no sign of weakness, save for a slight unsteadiness in his gait.

Turning into the room in which the drop was arranged he was placed upon the trap doors. The hangman nervously adjusted the black cap over his head. He bound a strap securely about the knees and then, turning almost petulantly to the clergymen, he said, "Lord's prayer, please."

The clergymen began that simple petition and as they reached the words "Deliver us from evil," the bolt was shot with a loud clang and Boyd disappeared from view, dropping seven feet into a like room in the corridor below. The rope, a three-quarter-inch manilla cable, according to the hangman, had not been stretched previously. It slipped over the man's chin, but caught about the lower lip and the neck was broken.

Boyd, according to those who passed the last hours with him, was calm and resigned. He slept well and ate a good breakfast.

Coroner Elliott held an inquest at the jail.

The hanging was the most private yet performed in the city. Only about 15 persons were present.

FIRE CAUSES PANIC.

Three Hundred Motormen Flee From Train in Subway.

New York, Jan. 9.—A short circuit of an electric current of 11,000 volts, and a fire so terrifying in its effects as to cause three hundred motormen and trainmen to desert a train of eight cars in panic, under the middle of the East River, and to flee through pitch darkness to the stations on either side of the river, occurred in the Battery Tuesday night.

The accident cost one life, George Keyburn, an electrician, manipulating the system of the switchboard at the Brooklyn end of the tunnel, in a moment of carelessness, grasped an exposed wire near a lever and was electrocuted.

This human connection worked as the agency of the short circuit and caused the accident to the eight car trains that was being run back and forth through the tunnel as a school for the trainmen.

New York, Jan. 9.—After a ceaseless search of nearly two years, Jan Janoff Pouren, alleged to be a notorious Russian brigand, who is wanted in the Province of Livonia, Russia, for murder, arson and robberies without number, was caught here yesterday.

The Russian is charged with numerous crimes in Riga, Livonia, where, with several fellow-countrymen, he terrorized the province and defied arrest. It was the custom of brigands to make demands upon citizens for large sums of money, and after the expiration of several days, if the money was not forthcoming, they would rob houses and set them afire. When the inmates resisted, the inmates were murdered, it is said.

Ottawa, Kan., Jan. 9.—Robbers yesterday wrecked the safe in the State bank of Quenemo, at Quenemo, Kansas, near here, and escaped with between $7,000 and $8,000.

Not Insurmountable.

London, Jan. 9.—(C. A. P.)—"Our negotiations with the United States and Canadian Governments have been characterised by eminently cordial sentiments. There are no insurmountable difficulties before us and we have every reason to believe that we shall soon arrive at a satisfactory settlement." The foregoing was cabled to The Paris Matin from Tokio by Count Hayashi, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Family Almost Asphyxiated.

Woodstock, Jan. 9.—A colored man named Marshall, his wife and three children, residing in the west end of the city, were within an ace of being asphyxiated last night by gas escaping from a defective coal stove. When they were discovered this morning by neighbors all were in an unconscious condition. A physician was called in and they were revived.

George Sing, a local Chinaman, who conducts a laundry business in the city, was arrested yesterday charged by another Chinaman with stealing a sum of money. Sing was intending to leave town. The other man, whose name is Ying, claimed that he owes him over $400. It is said that the money is owing Ying as a balance on a large gambling debt. For the past while it is said that the local colony of Chinamen have been at the game of fan-tan continually.

Accidentally Shot.

Windsor, Jan. 9.—Elwood Morphy, aged 19, was found on his bed in a pool of blood by his mother yesterday evening on her return from a message outside. In his temple was a wound and by his side was a revolver which had evidently been discharged. The circumstances favor the theory of accident, as on the table nearby were some tools for cleaning a revolver.

Montreal Musician Dead.

Montreal, Jan. 9.—The death is announced of Prof. William Bohrer, a prominent musician of this city, at the age of 70.

Cure That Cough!

YOU CAN DO IT BY USING

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

The Most Perfect Throat and Lung Healer in the World.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup gives prompt relief from that choked up, stuffed up feeling which is so distressing, it loosens the phlegm, checks the raging and useless cough, and heals and soothes the irritated breathing organs. It is a pleasant preparation to take, and is therefore specially adapted to the coughs and colds of children and those who dislike nauseous mixtures.

This is no vain boast, but a fact that can be backed by unimpeachable testimony. One 25 cent bottle, indeed, a trial dose, will prove its merits.

Mr. Frank K. Purdie, Brandon, Man., writes: "I have used your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for some years and have always found it a sure remedy for all colds, coughs, sore throat, hoarseness, etc. I cannot too highly recommend it to anyone suffering from any effect of cold."

Contract For That Section to be Let Soon—Causing Great Interest Among Contractors

TO COST ABOUT $100,000

Examiner Special:

Montreal, Jan. 9.—The contract for the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific eastward from Prince Rupert will probably be given out shortly, and is attracting much interest among the contractors, for this is declared to be the heaviest piece of work on the line. Experts declare that the cost of a great part of this section will be at least $100,000 per mile, and that some miles will even exceed this figure, as there will of course be a large amount of rock cutting, tunnel and side hill work.

Tenders are now in for the part of the road west of Edmonton to the foot-hills, and it is likely that the work will start in the early spring. It is now thought that the whole line from the Red River to the Saskatchewan over eight hundred miles, will be completed and ready for traffic between Winnipeg and Edmonton by next fall.

The work on the line between Winnipeg and Port Arthur Junction, and on the branch line down to Port Arthur, is proceeding more slowly, and although it was first announced that the road would be completed from Lake Superior to Edmonton this season, many now pronounce this out of the question. The Winnipeg-Port Arthur contract is the McArthur contract, and the estimated expenditure is some $1[illegible],000,000, of which to date only about three millions has been paid to the contractors. This leaves a large amount yet to be done, and it is hardly thought that this year will see the section completed.

On the Port Arthur branch, where Foley Bros. have the contract, some difficult problems are being met with, and engineers state that the last ten miles of the distance will take at least two years to complete. Railway experts think that if the road between Port Arthur and Winnipeg is completed in 1910, that those in charge will have done as well as could be expected.

BOUQUET FOR DR. O'BRIEN

The concert given in St. Peter's School Hall under the auspices of St. Peter's T.A.S. on the occasion of their eighth anniversary was a gratifying success. The bright new hall was well filled by the friends of the society and the programme was appreciated as shown by the warm applause which greeted each number. The choir of St. Peter's acquitted themselves in a creditable manner in their opening number. The trio, Miss Hallihan, Mr. E. Keon and Mr. Mark Creedon, was also a splendid number the voices blending with fine expression. Miss Lavina Hallihan sang in her usual finished manner the different selections which she rendered providing ample scope for her beautiful voice. Mrs. Clapperton, a stranger to a local audience, also sang in a splendid manner.

Alderman Phelan who acted as chairman, referred to Rev. Dr. O'Brien's efforts on behalf of the society, stating that its great success was mostly due to his energy and faithfulness.

A particularly pleasing features of the evening was the presence of Their Lordships Bishop O'Connor, and Bishop Scollard, Rev. Dr. O'Brien and Rev. Father McColl.

Bishop O'Connor made a few remarks expressing his appreciation of the work done by the T.A.S. There was a great improvement in morality, sobriety and religion. It was a great pleasure he said to watch the wonderful and almost miraculous work done by Rev. Dr. O'Brien and the T.A.S. He expressed the hope that God would spare him, bless him and prolong his life which had already seen such excellent service.

Bishop Scollard

Alderman Phelan invited His Lordship Bishop Scollard to say a few words. The latter said that it was an unexpected pleasure that his visit should coincide with the entertainment. Not only have the people of the parish improved in sobriety and temperance but also in the cultivation of the fine arts. His Lordship paid a tribute to the T.A.S. on their wisdom in providing for that education of its members. He was also pleased to see the young men capable of doing themselves justice before the public. He also favourably remarked on the splendid building and assembly hall and stated that if the young people were not well educated they had only themselves to blame. The congregation and the priests were providing the very best equipment and excellent results should be derived.

Rev. Father McColl spoke a few words and Rev. Dr. O'Brien also gave a brief address disclaiming the praises that had been bestowed upon him. He said that one man could do nothing in a temperance movement but it was due to the united efforts of the clergy and the men and women of the congregation.

The following is the programme:

GEORGE STREET CAR OFF TPACK

Jumped The Rails at The Loop Near The River

Last night street car No. 11 on the Auburn-Exhibition grounds route, jumped the rails at the loop at the southern terminus. An effort was made to replace it, but after working until one o'clock this morning the men gave it up deciding to wait until morning. To-day Mr. Fife began the work with a gang of men.

MAJORITIES IN DOURO ELECTIONS

A Large Vote Polled in That Township —Great Interest Displayed

The contest for the reeveship in Douro was the keenest that was ever known in the township, as both the men are well known and well thought of. Mr. Mober's seat in the council last year, coupled with his numerous connections throughout the township gave him a great advantage over Mr. Moloney, but the latter's long experience in municipal matters made him a strong opponent. As there were a number of capable men out for councillors, nearly every available vote in the township was polled. In No. 1 division Mr. Mober's majority of 13 last year was changed this year to a minority of 22. In No. 2 division, where both men reside, the contest was very hot. Mr. Moloney's majority at this point was 5. In No. 3 Mr. Mober's stronghold, the latter secured a majority of 16. In No. 4 division, which is always favourable to Mr. Moloney, his majority last year of 19 was increased this year to 24. Mr. Moloney's total majority was 32.

PROBLEM IN STONE BREAKING

"One Who is Interested" Answers Yesterday's Communication—Wages Not Satisfactory

THEY DRINK COLD WATER

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—In reference to a small item in your paper of last evening concerning the unemployed, it states the men were told to come back on Saturday to begin work at breaking stones, but I desire to contradict that, as the work began on Friday afternoon, and of the thirty-one men that mustered on the market square there were only eleven given work, and three more started on Saturday morning, and I believe other men have applied for work, but were refused until after the elections. At that rate a poor man has to go hungry on account of the elections. Now, as regards the work itself, I am given to understand that the men have never done such work before, and are working on what you would call "a dead horse," that is, they don't know what they are going to receive for their labour when it is finished. They think that if they work hard all day they won't receive more than between 40 and 50 cents a day. Is that going to keep himself, wife and family? I say it is only an existence—nothing more nor less. Yes, and according to the looks of some of the men, a pound of steak would not be amiss. I know, there are one or two there that have forgotten the taste of meat. It says that the stones are being poorly broken. Can you expect anything else from such poor fellows as these? And yet the men seem very willing to do such work as try to keep a wife and family. I think it is the last job a man has got to go at. I also notice that of the men that were started, they were all Englishmen except one foreigner, and no Canadians, as was reported. I am glad to see that somebody took pity on them and bought them a sack of apples, for all that the men have to quench their thirst is cold water, with the temperature well below freezing. It is a pity an old barn could not be found for them so they could have a little shelter. It would be better than the open air. And I am given to understand that there are several single young men in the city who have applied for the work, but were refused. How are they going to live? They have got mouths the same as the rest of us. Now this will meet the eyes of some of the readers of this paper, and I hope they will sympathize with me and say that the men should get a fair wage.

Thanking you, sir, for space in your valuable paper, I remain,

ONE WHO IS INTERESTED.

OPERA ORCHESTRA AT REHEARSAL

Met at Home of Mr. Nichol Last Night —Making Good Progress

The members of the Grand Opera House Orchestra met last night at the home of their leader, Mr. H. Nichol, and had a good rehearsal of several new pieces of music. The members feel that it is up to them to present to the patrons of the opera house, good classical selections, as well as all the latest and popular music, and they have therefore secured some of the best standard overtures and selections ever published. Some of the numbers at which the orchestra had a good steady grind last night were the following: Semiramide, Bohemian Girl, Italiana in Algeria, Lucretia Borgia, Le Nozze de Fijaro, Tancredi, Tannhauser.

The orchestra finds one difficulty in taking these classical lessons, viz., the lack of a set of Tympani. These play a very important part in all good music. To remedy this defect the members are starting a subscription amongst themselves and friends and soon hope to realize their ambition of having a good set. If any lover of music would like to help them in this project their donations will be gratefully supplied and acknowledged by any of the orchestra.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

WEDDING BELLS.

TAYLOR-McCARTHY

Rev. E A Pearson, pastor of George street Methodist church, officiated at a quiet but pretty wedding yesterday evening at 5 o'clock, when Miss Ellen Harriet McCarthy, formerly of Canterbury, Eng., and daughter of Chas. McCarthy, 1401-2 Park street, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert Taylor, formerly of London, Eng. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate friends of the two families, the bride and groom being unattended. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside at 1401-2 Park street.

TAYLOR-HANBIDGE

A very pretty Otonabee wedding was celebrated yesterday evening at 5.30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Robt. Hanbidge, Otonabee, when his daughter, Miss Helen, became the wife of Mr. Herbert Taylor of the same township. The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Coon, pastor of Mark street Methodist church, in the presence of almost forty guests. The bride wore a costume of white organdie trimmed with Valenciennes lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She also wore orange blossoms. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Deyell, a cousin of the bride, and she was similarly attired. The flower girl, who was prettily gowned in white organdie also, was Miss Bertha Sargeant, a niece of the bride.

The wedding march was played by Miss Annie Deyell, and Mr. Bert Deyell sang "Her Wedding Morn" as the bride and groom entered the parlour.

Many handsome presents were received by the bride and groom, as both were very popular in the section in which they reside. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain, and to the bridesmaid a beautiful bracelet. The usual wedding supper was partaken of after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Otonabee.

WIFE DOES NOT WANT TO PRESS CHARGE

Husband Remanded For Another Week —Drunk Fined

A young man who was arrested some time ago on a charge of vagrancy and was given thirty days in jail, appeared in the police court this morning togged out in a neat blue suit and presented a very respectable and gentlemanly appearance. A certain church society of this town is trying to have this man deported to England. Arrangements have not yet been completed and he will go back to the jail for eight days more until an officer arrives to take him away.

"James Norris you are charged with being found drunk in a public place. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty your Honour."

"I fine you two dollars to be paid in five days or ten days in jail."

James Williamson who was remanded last week on a charge of assaulting his wife was one of the prisoners who sat in the box this morning.

Mr. Gordon appeared for Williamson and asked to have his client let out on bail. It was only a case of common assault and from what he gathered from Williamson's son, Mrs. Williamson did not wish to press the charge. The fact of Mrs. Williamson being burned was not intended in the assault. Williamson was drunk and fell over a chair, lamp in hand and both he and his wife were burned.

Williamson's oldest son appeared in court and asked to have his father let out. He wanted to go back to Detroit and attend to his business. He had seen his mother and her burns were not serious and would be out in a few days. She also said she would not prosecute the old man.

Williamson was allowed to go on a cash bail of $200 and to appear this day week.

Health and Vitality for old People

A old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery, and the power to resistance is lessened. It is thee old people above all others who require the new life and energy, which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Thousands of old people depend on this treatment, because it calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood, builds up the system and instills new life and vigour into their shrivelled arteries.

THE CURLIN' MATCH

(By W. S. Cowper Edinburgh)

The weavers an' the grocers met
Ae day in last December
An' sune the curlin' health were set
In style I'll lang remember
The weavers had a "skip" McPhee,
Wha roared wust like a deevil
An' as his stanes alang wad flee
His language wasna ceevil.
The grocers shook wi' perfect fear,
They ne-er had heard sic swearin';
An' see their play was unco queer,
Tae reckless it was nearin',
The ice it seemed as tho' 'twad brak',
It swung as "Mac" went jumpin';
In faith, some said they heard it crack,
An' cautiously gued limpin'.
As watter-hens skip owre the stream
As larks fa' at the e'enin',
The curlin' stanes, as in a dream,
The grocers sent aroaming'.
They couldna gusge the road ava,
Nor hand the stanes for shakin',
Judgment, they thocht, was shair tae fa',
See conscience started rakin',
Wi' little thocht o' endless fire
Prepared for sinful weavers.
M'Phee gat worse, an' didna tire
O' his blasphemous havers.
The meenister, I should explain,
Tae referee consented;
He'll never dae the like again,
The main was maist demented.
Jist when the grocers seemed tae score,
An' owre the stanes were bendin',
M'Phee loot oot An' awfu' roar
As 'twas the worl's endin',
Some fell in terror an' tik stane
Amang the lave got shifted;
The hope sance lichted oot had gane,
Doncast the stanes were lifted.
Tae's wife were pleased an' did a shot
Good by the bouncin' websters,
She weel they sinked baith mou' an' throat,
For pleased they were sic dab, airs,
But likka "curkie" was "ten" "ten,"
The brainy twa they flaunted;
See when the weavers couldna see
The grocers fairly shouted.
The tables turned the ither way,
M'Phee had ceased his roarin',
The e'enin', wi' its mirky grey,
Set him tae steep and snorin'
The ither weavers couldna staun',
The walk was oot o' seasons.
Their legs, tae let ye un'erstaun',
Were left without their reason.
The game the weavers had begun
But couldna end when wanted—
The grocers claimed—could they had won
The meenister this granted.
As mornings sit an' gape an' glower,
An' as they sometimes shatter,
The weavers sat without the power
Tae look, or act ocht better,
What should tae them by right has been
A cronin' frame o' welcome
Was ane as fine the "News" is seen,
Fe'd rather ne' hae tall some.
I hear it said ye pass thro'
A keen ne' fear frae Pintry
Spier, "Are the weavers curlin' noo?"
An' then flee oot the Kintry.

Bonetti Will be Allowed Out on a Bail of $200

The three Italians, Bonnetti and the two Morrone brothers, who took part in the boarding house scrap two nights ago, appeared again this morning and were remanded until to-morrow. Bonnetti's hand is still bound up and the other two men bear several marks about the face.

The Chief was not ready to go on with the trial and the charges were layed over until to-morrow morning. Mr. G. Gordon, Bonnetti's counsel, agreed bail for him for $200.

FINGER CRUSHED IN A RUNAWAY

Horse Took Fright From a Passing Street Car

About 9.30 last night a runaway occurred on Charlotte street, which resulted seriously for the driver, Mr. Nelson Roddy. Mr. Roddy was crossing the G. T. R. tracks, when his horse took fright at a passing car. The animal bolted and ran to Aylmer street, where it attempted to turn. The cutter was upset and Mr. Roddy was thrown to the ground. His middle finger was broken above the first joint.

The horse was stopped by a young man who was coming up Aylmer street and [illegible] was taken home.

COMMITTEES WERE STRUCK FOR THE YEAR; MR. FAIR AGAIN CHAIRMAN

Inaugural Meeting Of Board Of Education Held Last Night—Mr. Hill is Chairman of The Committee on Appointments

MR. FAIR'S BRIEF REMARKS

Mr. Dumble is Chairman of Combined Committees of King Edward And Queen Alexandra Schools

Mr. Robert Fair, who so successfully performed the duties of chairman of the Board of Education during 1907 was re-elected to that position at the inaugural meeting held last night. The vote was taken by ballot without nomination. Mr. Fair expressed his appreciation of the honour that had been conferred upon him and assured the Board that the position presented no difficulties owing to the harmony and good will with which all the meetings were carried out. Last year had been an eventful one, he said, in the advancement of education in the city and in 1908 the harvest of all those efforts should be reaped. The various institutions should be completed and Peterborough made equal with any city of its size in the Dominion as an educational centre.

The Standing Committees for the new term were next chosen. On motion of Dr. Burnham and Dr. Morrison Messrs. Hayes, Ackerman, Nelson, Hill and Dr. Burnham were appointed to strike those committees. The report as follows, was on motion, adopted:—

Finance Committee—Mr. Hayes, chairman; Messrs. Ackerman, Robinson and Crane.

Committee of Appointments—Composed of the whole Board, Mr. Hill was elected chairman.

Mr. L. M. Hayes' name was re-appointed by the Separate School Board to represent them on the Board of Education.

The Queen Alexandra School Committee with the King Edward School Committee were drafted into one, to be known as the Public School Committee.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HELD IT'S INAUGURAL MEETING OF THE NEW YEAR LAST NIGHT

MR. H. R. H. KENNER
Who Has Formally Accepted Principalship of Collegiate Institute

MR. ROBERT FAIR
Re-elected Chairman of The Board of Education Last Night

MR. H. R. H. KENNER ACCEPTS PRINCIPALSHIP OF COLLEGIATE

Mr. H R H Kenner officially signified his acceptance of the principalship of the College Institute in a communication to the Board of Education presented last night. He expressed his gratitude to the Board for having seen fit to appoint him to fill the vacancy and assured the members that he would devote his best interests to the welfare of the Institute. He said he would communicate with men who had the most improved ideas of management. Mr. Kenner said he would carefully study the demands of the position and report his results to the Board for their approval at a later date.

Mr. Kenner's acceptance of the principalship of the Collegiate is most gratifying to his friends who are extremely pleased with the recognition of the ability he has demonstrated since joining the staff. He has established himself in the favour of his fellow teachers, has gained the esteem, and respect of the pupils and has the confidence of the Board who offered him the position. Mr. Kenner is favourably known in the city and the sincere hope of his many friends is that he will fulfill the managerial duties as capably as he performs his duties as an educator.

Popular Cure for Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

NATIONAL CO-OPERATION CANADIAN CLUBS

To Make Plains of Abraham a National Park—Representative From Here

A meeting of the executive of the Canadian Club of Peterborough, was held yesterday evening, when a number of questions were discussed.

In reference to the proposed joint meeting of Canadian Clubs in Canada to discuss with the Governor-General the proprity of resouing the Plains of Abraham at Quebec, the executive decided to send a representative.

The meeting will be held in Ottawa on January 15th, Wednesday, and it is probable that President F. D. Kerr, will go, although an official announcement will be made later.

The speaker for the next meeting of the club has not yet been decided upon but it is expected this will soon be known.

SLAUGHTER OF DEER IS ON THE INCREASE

The Express Companies Carried 3,886 Carcases Last Season

Returns of the number of carcases of deer carried from the hunting grounds of Ontario by the express companies have been received by Mr. Edwin Tinsley, superintendent of game and fisheries. In all the companies handled 3,886 deer, as compared with 3,310 last season. Before the close of the hunting season the Dominion Express oCmpany transported the heads of 117 moose. These figures by no means represent the slaughter of deer and moose in 1907, for they do not include the animals killed by settlers or hunters living near the haunts of the game.

"THE WALLS OF JERICHO" TO-MORROW EVENING

This Attractive Comedy-Drama Will Be One of Season's Features

"The Walls of Jericho," the comedy-drama that comes to the Grand to-morrow night, should be greeted by an large house, according to its merits. Henry Stanford and Laura Burt, who were seen last year in that attractive comedy-drama, "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," are the stars of the play. "The Walls of Jericho" is undoubtedly one of the best attractions coming to the Grand this season, and all who have an opportunity should see it.

MAGISTRATE EDMISON HAS BUSY TIME

Cases for County Police Court From all Parts of The County

Magistrate Edmison, accompanied by Mr. Wood and Mr. Kerr, went to Norwood yesterday to deal with several cases that had been arranged. The first was that of Buck v. Cavanagh, the latter being charged with theft. Cavanagh elected to be tried by a jury, and on the preliminary hearing was committed for trial. He was admitted to bail on two sureties of $200 each.

The second case was that of Puffer v. Saunders. The defendant was charged with having used gross insulting language towards Mr. Puffer while the latter was driving with his three sisters. His Worship imposed a fine of ten dollars and costs, which was paid into court.

There are other cases which have yet to be dealt with.

Alonzo Phillips was again remanded for a week this morning on the charge of non-support.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane to-day served summons on Mr. Wm. Stewart of Smith for not paying the wages of a man named Hamilton, who worked for him.

The case of Crouter v. Cochrane will also be heard in a few days. Albert Crouter is charged with having cruelly treated a horse that died in his stable.

STOLEN ROBES WERE RETURNED

And Mr. William Croft Received a Very Pleasant Surprise

Mr. Wm. Croft, the well-known ginger-beer manufacturer, of 259 Park street, was a surprised man last night when he went home and found his two buffalo robes which had been stolen at noon yesterday. Mr. Croft left the sleigh outside his door while getting his dinner, and on his reappearance an hour later the robes were gone. The police were informed of the missing furs, but their assistance was not needed as the robes had been returned. The thieves have apparently relented and decided that the right course to follow, was to return the stolen property.

TURKEY STUFFED WITH GOLD AND GEMS

DENVER, Col., Jan. 10, (Special) — When the family of Nelson J. Campbell, custodian of the state capitol, sat down to their Thanksgiving dinner, Mr. Campbell announced to the assembled guests,

"Now you must prepare to enjoy this dinner—the turkey stuffing especially. Incidentally you may name what kind of stuffing you will take—gold nugget, silver nugget, amythyst, moonstone—just name the kind you want, and it will be dished out to you. It is not often you have the opportunity to sit down to a Thanksgiving turkey which is stuffed with gold and silver and precious stones."

In the craw of the turkey were found the following valuables: Four gold nuggets, assaying $45,000 a ton; three silver nuggets assaying $4,000 to the ton; one amethyst, value not known; twelve moonstones, value not known; one trousers' button, three shoelace tips, three halves of marbles, particles of twine and a point of a knife blade.

Mr. Campbell was offered $40 each for the output of the turkey's gizzard, but refused it. The bird was bought from a commission company for $1.25. Mr. Campbell discovered it was shipped to Denver from El Paso, Tex. The commission firm that handled the turkey shipment from El Paso through its shipper has secured a lease on the mineral lands on which the turkey grazed and will at once take out a mineral patent under the mining laws of the United States.

Give Fair Play to Zutoo

A really reliable remedy for headache—Zutoo.

If you have got it into your head that Zutoo Tablets will hurt you, you are mistaken.

It isn't fair to us for you to judge Zutoo by other headache cures.

The fair thing for both of us is—to judge Zutoo on its merits—to test it.

If you find it does not cure your headache, sick, nervous or otherwise, in twenty minutes, break up a cold in a night and leave you feeling good every time—no bad after effects, then discard it.

But do not condemn it unfairly without a trial, and keep on suffering. You really do not have to, and one trial of Zutoo will prove it.

INAUGURAL COUNCIL MEETING

It may be thought by some that the inaugural meeting of the City Council, to be held on Monday next, would be a matter of minor importance since it is, in one sense, a formality—a meeting for organization. This very fact renders it the most important meeting of the year, for the preliminary meetings at 11 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock in the evening on Monday next, very largely determine the course of the Council for the year, and determine the quality and scope of its administration.

The matter of selecting suitable chairmen for the several committees is one of the first importance, and corresponds to the selection of a cabinet by a prime minister, who, if he is not supported by efficient heads of the several departments of government, can expect little success. In like manner, the success of civic administration depends upon an efficient and capable mayor, supported by a group of heads of committees efficient and capable, and both in turn loyally supported and co-operated with by the general body of aldermen. While functions may be individualized, the success of the council's work, as a whole, depends upon the active and sympathetic co-operation of the whole body. It seems to be indicated that this co-operation should begin with the selection of the chairmen of committees. It goes without saying that these should be chosen for the special fitness they possess for assuming and effectively discharging the duties attaching to the respective positions. To secure the best and most suitable chairmen should be the earnest aim of the Council, and the selection should be the subject of very careful and deliberate consideration. If the members-elect of the new Council should hold what might be called a caucus before the inaugural meeting, there would be an opportunity for an informal and friendly consultation, in which the merits and demerits of available and suggested heads of committees could be freely canvassed. The aim of all should be to man the committees with the best. At the same time, the general policy for the year might recieve attention, and upon this the collective wisdom and experience of the several aldermen should be brought to bear. No one member of a council knows it all: but with the friendly co-operation of every member, each aiming to contribute all in his power to the success of civic management, a strong and united force can be applied to this end. These suggestions may be regarded as theorizing; but theory is the parent of system, and system is the indispensable requisite of successful management in any enterprise, private or public.

THE STONE BREAKERS

The Examiner has received a letter relating to the employment of labour in breaking stones for the city. We cannot use the letter for two reasons—the failure of the writer to enclose his name is in defiance of an established rule of journalism, and, besides, the tone of the letter, which is evidently written with unkindly animus and bias, makes its use impossible. A sarcastic suggestion is made that an enclosed space, heated by a furnace, should be supplied the stone-breakers. This is unkind. The writer of the letter, whoever he is, should, to appreciate the position, put himself in the place of the stone-breakers. Let him place himself in an open field, exposed to the sweep of chilling zero winds, with insufficient clothing, with perhaps, an empty stomach, and unused to such work, and he will appreciate the complaints of some of the stone-breakers. Who that has thought of the matter, and has a heart to feel, has not, while enjoying a hot meal in a warm, cosy dining-room, thought with a shudder of the men employed in stone-breaking, shivering and shrinking in the wintry winds, with not enough strength from continued lack of nourishing food, to exert themselves sufficiently to keep warm; with, perhaps, no food or insufficient food to sustain hard work when the meal hour comes? Some of the men may be shiftless and unthrifty, but they are our fellow men, and suffer cold and hunger as any of us would do under the conditions in which these come to them. We should be charitable in judgment as well as in action. Some of the stone-breakers wouldn't do much breaking if they had to use their hammers upon the hearts of some of their critics.

IMPROVED POSTAL SERVICE

A day or two ago the Examiner referred to the project of a modified system of rural mail delivery or service in the vicinity of Peterborough. Since that a number of persons have spoke favourably of the idea, and consider one or other or both of the suggestions then made as practicable and feasible. The idea suggested was to have a number of pillar postal boxes placed at convenient points between Peterborough and the nearest surrounding post offices to be served by a daily delivery, or the establishment, on an economical scale of a number of supplementary post offices at likewise convenient points, with daily service. Peterborough is well situated in relation to the surrounding district to be a convenient centre for some system of the kind mentioned, which it seems could be made effective and serve a large section of the people very acceptably without very much cost. Therefore the members representing the county of Peterborough might well bring the matter to the attention of the Postmaster-General. The Post Office Department has a comfortable surplus. This department exists not for making money or paying dividends, but in the public interests; and a part of the surplus might well be applied to further serving the convenience of the public who contribute to it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Grand Trunk Railway's generous pension scheme is very warmly endorsed by the British press.

No wonder the editor of the Globe is threatened with jail. Yesterday he referred to the "Maineiacal" outbreak that caused the war with Spain."

Sir Charles Tupper is again predicting that the "Tories" will sweep the country at the next general elections. Sir Charles is a creature of habit, and, at 4h age of 87 years, he can't be expected to change.

London, England, is the greatest human sardine box in the world, yet in spite of its fog, and smoke, and miscellaneous dirt, its death rate is lower than any 200,000 city, except Bristol or Leicester, and lower than that of New York, Paris, Berlin and Vienna.

When the Mail and Empire, to discredit the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the Government, says that the railway in the west, has not yet carried a pound of freight, it tells an untruth. When the organ says it for political effect, one knows it is not true, as, in fact, it is not.

The Whitney Government may claim that its three-fifths local option requirement, is in the interests of the decrease of intemperance, but the friends of local option point out, that in the voting on Monday, January 6th, the three-fifths clause "cheated" twenty-five municipalities out of the benefits of local option, for which the majority voted.

Senator Cartwright's old age annuity scheme, seems to be misunderstood. It is something quite distinct from old age pensions. It provides that every Canadian may begin at, say, the age of twenty, or twenty-five, to pay to the Government a certain sum yearly, till the age of sixty or sixty-five, when he can draw a certain sum thereafter till death. He cannot withdraw this sum, but if he dies before the annuity age, his heirs can withdraw what he has paid in, with a reasonable interest added. There does not seem to be anything pauperizing about the proposal. On the contrary it will tend to develop habits of thrift and saving, and to rescue many a dollar, which might otherwise go in drink, or other wasteful expenditure.

Mr. Bergeon, M.P., swears by Canadian tobacco which does not prevent critical smokers from swearing at it. Canada may grow the finest of the wheat, the best of apples and produce the best of cheese, etc., but it is not quite in the banana belt and the tobacco she grows, while leaving nothing to be desired in the matter of strength, does not suit every smoker. It's all a matter of taste and while thousands enjoy Canadian tobacco, create a demand for it and make its growth a profitable industry, which it may be the duty of the Government to foster, Mr. Bergeon should not expect everybody to share his predilection for Canadian grown tobacco. Everybody does not share Mr. Bergeon's taste in potties and all cannot be expected to share his particular taste in respect of My Lady Nicotine.

Chief Justice Mulock has indicated a new way "back to the land." He suggests a jail in a large cultivated area. For the good of the country, confinement of criminals or malefactors in jail should have more a reformatory than a punitive object. The employment usually provided prisoners is monotonous, dwarfing and degrading. If prisoners were employed in some healthy and uplifting occupation like farming they would have the consciousness of being self-sustainers, and in many cases, where the virus of vice has not eaten too deeply, and indolence has not become chronic, a taste for rural occupations and the wholesome life of the open fields and smokeless skies might lure them from city haunts to become tillers of the soil in new homes that lie open for them, apart from all old associations and temptations. The submerged manhood of many an amateur criminal might be brought to the light and to life in the air of a prison farm.

WOOD, HAY AND STRAW ON MARKET

Large Sales Made This Week—Prices Are Fair

The past week has been a busy one for the market clerk, and since New Year's a decided increase in business has been felt. Plenty of hay and straw has been brought in, with prices hovering with persistence at from $16 to $18 per ton for the farmer. Wood is also in good supply. Ordinary hardwood sells at $6 per cord, tamarac at $4.50, mixed wood at $5.50. The farmers have no difficulty in disposing of it. There were also large numbers of cattle and hogs sold. Morris and Brown have been shipping hogs, and Mr. Brackenridge of Indian River has had an extensive business this week, among his shipments being two loads of hogs from Millbrook. Dressed hogs sell at from $7.50 to $8 and at $5.75 live weight, although there was a forced offer of $6 for a short time.

DISTURBANCES TO BE STOPPED ON MARK STREET

A note of warning is given to those parties who are acting in a disorderly manner in East City and disturbing the occupants of 381 Mark street. From reports received, disturbances, annoying in their character, are made there, and prosecutions will follow, if they are not discontinued.

Girl Toilers

Gain Strength for Work

In office and factory, shop, store or kitchen girls are at work all over this land, and, alas! far beyond their strength. Young women who work are especially liable to female ills. Too often the girl is the bread winner of the family and she must toil unremittingly, no matter if her back does ache, her limbs and abdomen throb with dull pain and dragging sensations, and dizzy spells make her utterly unfit for work. These are the sure signs of female irregularities which kill beauty and youth.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

builds health and strength for all women who work and are weary. It creates the vitality that makes work easy. From the thousands of grateful letters written by working girls to Mrs. Pinkham we quote the following:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Overwork and long hours at the office, together with a neglected cold, brought on a female trouble until finally I was unable to go to work. I tried change of scene and climate, but found that I did not regain my health. I then thought of a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when her health was in the same condition that mine was, and straightway sent out for a bottle. I finished that and took two more before I really began to improve, but after that my recovery was very rapid, and when I had finished the sixth bottle I was well and able to go back to work again. I certainly think your medicine worthy of praise, and am indeed glad to indorse it.

MLLE. ALMA ROBITAILLE, 78 rue St. Francois, Quebec, Que.

Oh, if Canadian girls who work would only realize that they have but one life to live, and make the most of their precious health and strength!

Mrs. Pinkham extends to every working girl who is in ill health a cordial invitation to write her for advice. Such letters are always kept strictly confidential, and from her vast experience Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help you—and may save your life.

counter one of the inmates of the house, he would shoot me on sight. The second door in the hall opened into a dining-room. This was also empty. One person had been dining at the table, but the cloth had not been cleared away, and a flickering candle showed half-filled wine-glasses and the ashes of cigarettes. The greater part of the room was in complete darkness.

"By this time I had grown conscious of the fact that I was wandering about in a strange house, and that, apparently, I was alone in it. The silence of the place began to try my nerves, and in a sudden, unexplainable panic I started for the open street. But as I turned, I saw a man sitting on a bench, which the curve of the balustrade had hidden from me. His eyes were shut, and he was sleeping soundly.

"The moment before I had been bewildered because I could see no one, but at sight of this man I was much more bewildered.

"He was a very large man, a giant in height, with long yellow hair which hung below his shoulders. He was dressed in a red silk shirt that was belted at the waist and hung outside black velvet trousers which, in turn, were stuffed into high black boots. I recognized the costume at once as that of a Russian servant, but what a Russian servant in his native livery could be doing in a private house in Knightsbridge was incomprehensible.

"I advanced and touched the man on the shoulder, and after an effort he awoke, and, on seeing me, sprang to his feet and began bowing rapidly and making deprecatory gestures. I had picked up enough Russian in Petersburg to make out that the man was apologizing for having fallen asleep, and I also was able to explain to him that I desired to see his master.

"He nodded vigorously, and said, 'Will the Excellency come this way? The Princess is here.'

"I distinctly made out the word 'princess,' and I was a good deal embarrassed. I had thought it would be easy enough to explain my intrusion to a man, but how a woman would look at it was another matter, and as I followed him down the hall I was somewhat puzzled.

"As we advanced, he noticed that the front door was standing open, and with an exclamation of surprise, hastened toward it and closed it. Then he rapped twice on the door of what was apparently the drawing-room. There was no reply to his knock, and he tapped again, and then timidly, and cringing subserviently, opened the door and stepped inside. He withdrew himself at once and stared stupidly at me, shaking his head.

"'She is not there,' he said. He stood for a moment gazing blankly through the open door, and then hastened toward the dining-room. The solitary candle which still burned there seemed to assure him that the room also was empty. He came back and bowed me toward the drawing-room. 'She is above,' he said; 'I will inform the Princess of the Excellency's presence.'

"Before I could stop him he had turned and was running up the staircase, leaving me alone at the open door of the drawing-room. I decided that the adventure had gone quite far enough, and if I had been able to explain to the Russian that I had lost my way in the fog, and only wanted to get back into the street again, I would have left the house on the instant.

"Of course, when I first rang the bell of the house I had no other expectation than that it would be answered by a parlor-maid who would direct me on my way. I certainly could not then foresee that I would disturb a Russian princess in her boudoir, or that I might be thrown out by her athletic bodyguard. Still, I thought I ought not now to leave the house without making some apology, and, if the worst should come, I could show my card. They could hardly believe that a member of an Embassy had any designs upon the hat-rack.

"The room in which I stood was dimly lighted, but I could see that, like the hall, it was hung with heavy Persian rugs. The corners were filled with palms, and there was the unmistakable odor in the air of Russian cigarettes, and strange, dry scents that carried me back to the bazaars of Vladivostock. Near the front windows was a grand piano, and at the other end of the room a heavily carved screen of some black wood, picked out with ivory. The screen was overhung with a canopy of silken draperies, and formed a sort of alcove. In front of the alcove was spread the white skin of a polar bear, and set on that was one of those low Turkish coffee tables. It held a lighted spirit lamp and two gold coffee cups. I had heard no movement from above stairs, and it must have been fully three minutes that I stood waiting, noting these details of the room and wondering at the delay, and at the strange silence.

"And then, suddenly, as my eye grew more used to the half-light, I saw, projecting from behind the screen as though it were stretched along the back of a divan, the hand of a man and the lower part of his arm. I was as startled as though I had come across a footprint on a deserted island. Evidently the man had been sitting there since I had come into the room, even since I had entered the house, and he had heard the servant knocking upon the door. Why he had not declared himself I could not understand, but I supposed that possibly he was a guest, with no reason to interest himself in the Princess's other visitors, or perhaps, for some reason, he did not wish to be observed. I could see nothing of him except his hand, but I had an unpleasant feeling that he had been peering at me through the carving in the screen, and that he still was doing so. I moved my feet noisily on the floor and said tentatively, 'I beg your pardon.'

"There was no reply, and the hand did not stir. Apparently the man was bent upon ignoring me, but as all I wished was to apologize for my intrusion and to leave the house, I walked up to the alcove and

Nicholas Renzetti Was Fined For Assaulting P. C. Newhall

OTHER ITALIANS DISMISSED

The charges against the three Italians, Nicholas Renzetti, Antonio and Nicholas Marrone, were heard in the police court this morning. Mr. G. Gordon, of O'Connell and Gordon, appeared for Renzetti and Mr. Kerr for the two Marrones. Mr. D. M. Miniccio acted as interpreter.

"Nicholas Renzetti, you are charged with having caused a disturbance in a public place on Charlotte street. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty, your Worship."

P. C. Newhall, the officer who made the arrest, was first in the box. He was called down there, and as he neared the place he heard yells, scrambling noises, the front door was wide open, and some girl was standing there. Two or three Italians were running from the door to the street in a very excited manner. On entering the house he found five or six Italians in the front lobby, and Renzetti was in the rear in a state of intoxication. He rushed at Marrone, and said he wanted this — taken out of this, and grabbed hold of Marrone. Marrone put his hands in front of him and backed away, but Renzetti backed him into a side bedroom, where a number of men were sleeping in small beds. Renzetti was asked to be quiet and to give the circumstances. I noticed, said the officer, that his left hand was bleeding, and tried to determine the reason, but you could not hear yourself for shouting. At the finish he told me Marrone had assaulted him, and also that the younger Marrone hit him, and we arrested the two men. The tall one had been drinking, but the short one was perfectly sober and quiet. When we got to the bottom of the staircase Renzetti ran forward and hit Nicholas Marrone a blow between the eyes. The officer then took charge of Renzetti and handed the Marrones over to P. C. Adams. Renzetti became very violent, tried to bite, struck the policeman a blow on the left cheek and was very violent all the way to the police station. In the cells he called me, and asked for Dr. Marshal, said P. C. Newhall. I asked him how he got his hand hurt, and said I cut it with a glass. When he went to look at it Renzetti said, "You fight me once, you fight me twice," and he spit a mouthful of blood in Marrone's eyes.

The next charge was urged against Antonio Marrone for having caused a disturbance, and he pleaded not guilty. The evidence of P. C. Newhall in this last case was also taken in this case, and the case was dismissed as there was no other evidence against him.

Marrone in his evidence said there was trouble between him and Renzetti, and the latter ordered him out of the house. The disturbance commenced when Renzetti came into the house drunk. He ordered all hands to go to bed, and witness asked to remain up a minute. Renzetti answered, "Well, if you are going to run the house, you can get out." A fight began between Renzetti and Antonio Marrone, and witness went in to separate them, receiving a blow on the head for his kindness.

The trouble arose from Marrone asking Renzetti for the money he owed them, which was to be paid at $10 a month. This is what started the row. After a few words, blows were struck and Nicholas Renzetti hit Antonio Marrone three or four times and also bit him on the arm. Then they both exchanged blows. It was Renzetti who sent for the police.

His Worship after hearing the evidence said there was not enough to convict Renzetti and dismissed the charge.

The charge of Renzetti for assaulting P. C. Newhall while in the discharge of his duty, next engaged the court's attention. Mr. Gordon, appeared for Renzetti, who pleaded not guilty and asked to have the case tried by his worship.

P. C. Newhall again went into the box. He said he had nothing more to say than in his last evidence.

Nicholas Marrone was again called. He said he was arrested on Tuesday night and said that Renzetti tried to resist him, and also saw him make a blow at the constable.

Renzetti next went into the box. He said his little girl telephoned for the police and she told them to come right away. The reason was the two Morrones had caused him trouble three times that day. He came in at nine o'clock and asked them all to go to bed and the two Morrones said they would not go to bed. I asked them were they the boss of the house; and they said no. Antonio said he wanted to go and he told him to go. They asked for money and he said he would not pay till next month. Nicholas Morrone started a row and struck him with his fist. Young Morrone came in to separate them and Antonio bit Renzetti's hand. He said he never told P. C. Newhall that he cut it on the glass. The row had been in progress 15 minutes before the police came. When the constable came Newhall took hold of him by the neck and arm. He denied ever hitting or spitting at Newhall and all he said was "Don't kill me Mr. Newhall, I have a sore neck." He said the bump on his head was due to the blow struck by P. C. Newhall. He said he was not drunk; it would take a keg to get him full.

Vincenzo Vitale was the next witness called and he gave the details of the disturbance.

When the evidence was completed the Magistrate imposed a fine of $20 and costs on Renzetti for assaulting Police Officer Newhall and $5 and costs for causing the disturbance. The other men were acquitted.

Hurt on the Ranch

—News has been received by his friends in Norwood of an accident which happened to Mr. F. C. Reynolds' son, who resides in the State of Washington. Itching Eczema's Cause and Cure

THIS DREADFULLY TORTURING AND OBSTINATE DISEASE IS ENTIRELY OVERCOME BY

Eczema is common to rich and poor, old and young, and is neither contagious nor an indication of uncleanness, as some suppose.

Teething, improper food, inoculation vaccination, poisoning by clothing, or from ivy, etc., are named among the causes.

There is inflammation, redness, heat, swelling, discharge, formation of crust and all the time annoying, troublesome itching and burning, which often becomes so torturing as to be almost unendurable.

This ever present itching is what makes eczema so dreaded, and it is this feature to which Dr. Chase's Ointment gives relief from almost the first application.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is not only delightfully soothing, but is a wonder as a means of healing the skin. It is not long before the raw, itching sores are thoroughly cleansed, the itching subdued and the process of healing begun. Persistent treatment will then bring about a thorough cure.

This great ointment is always beneficial to the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety, and, besides being the most effective treatment known for the cure of eczema, is useful in every home in a score of ways.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left.

"My little daughter two years old has also been cured of eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to be."

CORRESPONDENTS' OPINIONS

More letter regarding the stone breaking now being attended to, for the benefit of the unemployed have reached the Examiner office. They are as follows:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I was surprised when I read your paper of Wednesday's issue regarding the stone breaking for the unemployed. I am one of the stone breakers and I wish to refute some of the statements in that letter. The first is that 31 men reported themselves for employment; there were only 11 men started. This was all the hammers they had. Two left for other employment and three have been sent in their places, and I think that one should not expect men who are living on short food to do the same as men who are well fed. Some of us have been working for a week with no money or food so I think that if the writer of the letter would come to the stone heap we will do as much as him any time that he likes. As regarding the abusive language, they should not ask impertinent questions from a stone breaker.

Yours truly,
CHARLES COLVIN,
Peterborough, Jan. 9, 1908.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the statement in the Examiner about the stone breaking, I am writing to say it is not true that the men did not turn up at Mr. Finch Miller's store, as I, myself, and between thirty and forty others were turned back as there were only enough hammers to start thirteen men and the men that were started can only earn from 30 to 50 cents a day. Out of that they have to keep a wife and family of from 2 to 5 children, and do you think that is encouraging to any man, whether English or Canadian? I myself am willing to work at anything to earn an honest meal and on applying again I was told I could start when they got more hammers, but they have no more at present.

Yours truly,
"UNEMPLOYED."
Peterborough, JJan. 9, 1908.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS

Endorse Our Cod Liver Preparation Vinol

Many of the most eminent physicians are now prescribing Vinol as the most satisfactory cod liver preparation. Thus it is fast superseding other forms of cod liver oil and emulsions.

W. N. Rand, M.D., of Evans Mills, N.Y., writes: "From personal experience, I am able to appreciate the value of your cod liver preparation, Vinol. I have used it and prescribed it largely during the past eighteen months, and I want to say that Vinol is all you claim for it and more."

Dr. Bonchelle of Thomasville, Ga., a physician well known in the South, writes: "I use Vinol in my family and in my general practice with most excellent results for bronchial and pulmonary troubles and to create strength."

Another physician writes: "I am satisfied that Vinol derives its wonderful life-giving and strength-creating power from the medicinal curative elements found in the cod's liver. It is the most satisfactory strength creator and vitalizer for old people, weak women and delicate children which it has ever been my pleasure to prescribe."

The reason that Vinol has such remarkable curative and strength-creating power is because it is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with peptonate of iron (which is a needful constituent for the blood) all the medicinal, healing and body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

We ask every person in Peterborough who is in need of such a medicine to try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont., also The Market Drug Store.

FIRST MEETING OF THE COUNCIL

Will be Held on Monday Next—Committees To Select

The inaugural meeting of the City Council will be held on Monday next at 11 a.m. in the Council Chamber, when the members will take the oath of office and be sworn in by City Clerk Armstrong. Following this ceremony, Mayor-elect Rush, as is the custom, will address the Council, outlining the work and policy for the year. It is probable that the Council will then follow the practice of adjourning until 8 o'clock in the evening, when the standing committees will be struck and the chairmen appointed. It is not likely that any other business will be done at the first meeting.

ACQUAINTANCE WITH TEACHERS BETTER

A VISIT FOR NEXT MONDAY

A hidden note of the meeting of the Board of Education last night was a desire on the part of the members to become acquainted with the teachers of the city. Mr. Fair expressed himself on the subject and considered that the reception held at the King Edward School was a step in the right direction, and that it would be well if the affair were made an annual event. Mr. Dumble and other members also considered the movement a good one, and suggested that steps be taken this year to bring the Board into closer contact with various staffs. The value of this was pointed out, and the general opinion was that something should be done during the coming term in that direction.

Mr. Fair suggested the revival of the Visiting Committee, but there was a doubt expressed as to whether this committee had previously been a success. Accordingly, nothing was done in the matter.

However, on Monday morning at 11 o'clock the Board will visit the new Queen Alexandra School to inspect it, now that the addition is practically completed.

OBITUARY

JAMES FAIRWEATHER

The Toronto Globe has the following account of the death of Mr. J. W. T. Fairweather, which was published exclusively in yesterday's issue of the Examiner:

The death occurred at 1.30 p. m., yesterday at his residence, 94 Glen Road, of Mr. James William Thornburn Fairweather, head of the firm of J. W. T. Fairweather & Co., furriers, Yonge street. Mr. Fairweather has been ailing for more than two years with a complication of diseases, and for the greater part of the past fifteen months he has been away from home in search of health.

Mr. Fairweather was one of the foremost of the younger generation of Canadian business men and had a wide reputation as a furrier, being well known in London, Leipzig, New York and other places. He was a man of pleasing personality and of fine executive ability.

Born in Toronto in 1866, the eldest son of the late Mr. William Fairweather, who conducted a large dry-goods business in Peterborough, he was at the age of sixteen established by his father in the hat and fur business, and was pronouncedly successful from the start. His father died when he was but eighteen years old, and shortly after his brother, Mr. Robert H. Fairweather, became associated with him in the business. In Peterborough their house was regarded as one of the best and among the leading establishments of its kind in the smaller towns of Ontario.

About twelve years ago Mr. Fairweather came to Toronto, retaining the Peterborough business, which for a number of years was looked after by his brother. Later as the Toronto business grew, Mr. Fairweather disposed of all his outside interests, and was joined here by his brother, Robert H. So closely have the two brothers been identified in the business that it was not known to the general public that for the past fifteen months, Mr. J. W. T. Fairweather had not been actively connected with it.

Mr. Fairweather was married about a year and a half ago, to Miss Margaret Carruthers, daughter of the late Mr. Andrew Carruthers. She with his mother, brother and two sisters, survive.

Mr. Fairweather was an adherent the Presbyterian church, and was a member of the National Club, the Victoria Club, the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, the Toronto Rowing Club the Lambton Golf Club and a non-resident member of the New York Athletic Club.

The interment will be at Peterborough, the funeral being private.

THOMAS FRASER

Norwood, Jan. 10.—(Special). A telegram reached here early this morning from Calgary telling of the death of a former resident of this village and a man well known throughout Peterborough County, in the person of Thomas Fraser. He passed away yesterday afternoon in the Western city, where he went three years ago, surrounded by the greater number of his large family. His death is attributed to a paralytic stroke with which he was afflicted about the end of November.

The late Mr. Fraser was very well known here where he followed the occupation of an auctioneer. He also held the position of clerk of the Division Court in this village for many years.

Three sons and six daughters survive him. The sons are David, James and Thomas, and the daughters Mrs. Bradley, Alice, Toronto; Margaret, Eliza, Ethel, Jene and Emeline, all of Calgary. The remains will leave Calgary to-morrow night and are expected to arrive in Norwood on Tuesday or Wednesday for interment. They will be accompanied by his son, Thomas. Mr. Fraser was more than 60 years of age.

GREAT REDUCTION IN PRICE OF SLIGHTLY SOILED GOODS

C. G. Gemmell is holding a great reduction sale of goods that were slightly damaged by the fire, which destroyed the Peterborough Curling Rink. The goods have been but very little damaged by water—in fact the new look has hardly been taken off them—but the settlement with the insurance company has enabled us to make the great reductions we are giving, which is necessary to clean out these goods at once, in order that we may put in a fresh stock of undamaged goods. This is the greatest sale in the history of the C. G. Gemmell store. Watch for further particulars. 1d

APOLOGY OFFERED AND RECEIVED

Slight Difference is Removed, and Best of Feeling Exists Between Members

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night, Mr. W. S. Robinson referred to the little difference which had arisen between himself and Mr. Dumble in regard to the notification of a meeting of the Queen Alexandra School Committee. Mr. Robinson, in a quiet manner, stated that there had been a misunderstanding on his part as to the invitation, and he was very anxious to rectify matters so that there should be nothing but the best of feelings between all the members of the Board. He offered an apology for what he had done in the matter, and was very sorry that it had occurred.

Mr. Dumble acknowledged the apology, and was pleased that Mr. Robinson had acted in such an honest, straightforward manner. He felt sure at the time of the affair that Mr. Robinson would find out that he had been treated with the same consideration as the other members, and was glad he had acted as he did. Courtesy to everyone is the motto of the Board, and the settling of this difference arising out of a trivial matter was pleasing to the rest of the members, who manifested their approval by applause.

DISCUSSION ON WORK OF IRRIGATION

Government Leave Much to Individual Enterprise.

DISCUSSION IN THE HOUSE

Municipalities Must Give Consent—Surveys of Public Lands—Irrigation Urged as Government Duty—Mr. Sifton's Authority on All-Red Scheme — No Further Influx of Japanese Immigrants.

Ottawa, Jan. 10.—A discussion on irrigation in the west occupied the bulk of the time of the House yesterday. Mr. Bergeron urged upon the Government the desirability of undertaking the work of irrigation, instead of leaving it to private enterprise. In reply to a question Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the Government had no information as to a fresh influx of Japanese to British Columbia.

On Tuesday next the House will resolve itself into committee of the whole to consider the French treaty. Mr. Foster desired that the figures should be reduced to English terms, but the Finance Minister said this would be a difficult proposition.

"That is the very reason why we should have it done," said Mr. Borden.

Mr. Fielding finally agreed to see what could be done, though the consideration of the treaty might be somewhat delayed.

Dr. Sproule said the House ought to have information showing what advantages might be expected from the proposed reduction.

Mr. Fielding replied that on some articles we get the best treatment accorded to any nation, and if that was of no advantage we could not help it.

Hon. G. P. Graham, replying to R. L. Borden, said the report of the Quebec Bridge Commission would be ready shortly.

To Mr. Bergeron, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he was not aware that there had been a new lease of the Beauharnois Canal.

Status of Sifton Abroad.

Hon. Mr. Foster called attention to a press despatch from London, giving a report of an address by Mr. Sifton on "The All-Red Line." Mr. Sifton had stated that Canada was ready to contribute one-half towards the establishment of a fast service on the Atlantic, and a considerable proportion of the cost of a fast Pacific service. Had Mr. Sifton authority to pledge Government support of the project.

Sir Wilfrid did not understand that Mr. Sifton had undertaken that the Government would aid the project, but he was aware there was a strong inclination on the part of the people to do whatever was necessary to carry the scheme to completion.

R. L. Borden desired to know if the Premier had any information concerning a renewal of the influx of Japanese into British Columbia. He had read of such in the newspapers.

Sir Wilfrid said the information was not correct. There was no influx at present, but he believed that such was possible.

Claude Macdonell (Toronto) asked if it was the intention of the Government to discontinue the subvention to the Canada-Australian steamship service.

Sir Wilfrid replied that on July 27, 1907, an order-in-council was passed, authorizing the Minister to enter into a contract. This had been prepared and sent to New Zealand, to be signed by the Union Steamship Co., that has a service between Vancouver and Australia.

The Irrigation Question.

Mr. Oliver's bill, respecting surveys of public lands, was read a third time, and his bill to amend the Irrigation Act was considered in committee of the whole. The amendment requires the consent of municipalities to the construction of irrigation works.

Mr. Bergeron of Beauharnois thought this would be the proper time for the Government to undertake irrigation works to increase the value of the lands, as in the United States.

The Minister of the Interior said the Government did not build all the railways. There was some room yet for the exertion of private enterprise and individual energy. That there was a great deal to do was not conclusive evidence that the Government ought to do it.

Mr. Borden remarked that in the United States the irrigation of public lands had been vastly successful, and was adding enormously to the income of the country by bringing into the market thousands of acres of land upon which crops are almost certain.

Mr. Foster pointed out that there had been a great stirring up in this country in respect to preservation of our timber and water resources. This was the time for the Government to put itself on record. A great opportunity had arrived to formulate a policy which would make clear whether we were going to develop the Northwest water and timber areas as a Government enterprise or go on as at present by handing them over to be exploited by private enterprise. Mr. Foster said nothing was so important at the present time as the formulation of a policy in respect to the preservation of the water and timber supply of the Northwest.

The bill was left over for further consideration.

Fire In Orphanage.

Montreal, Jan. 10.—Fire in the Jardin de Lentance yesterday morning caused $3,000 damage. There are 450 pupils in the orphanage, but they were in another part of the building. They had just left the chapel when the sanctuary lamp fell to the floor and set fire to the altar drapery.

DAVID MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence of Wife's Immoral Life Admitted by Judge.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 10.—The trial of David, the wife murderer, proceeded yesterday.

Mr. Hazen claimed that the defence would show under the criminal code that the offence charged could not be more than manslaughter. He told in detail of the relation of the Davids and how, on several occasions David had forgiven his wife, and taken her back after she had left him. He said they would also prove that Mrs. David had no intention of leaving Nicholas, and when she bought her ticket at Woodstock to go with her husband it was a return ticket to McAdam Junction. The defence would show that at McAdam Junction the woman had told David that Nicholas' shoe was worth David's whole body, and that she intended returning to Woodstock. This would lead any man of jealous disposition to act quickly. Mr. Hazen urged strongly that homicide under some circumstances was justifiable, and the facts in this case practically warrant it. The second ground of defence was that David was not responsible for his actions. A history of the David family showed that the prisoner's insanity was inherited. There were experts here to give testimonial that the prisoner was subjects to fits, and that he was not responsible.

Two witnesses were then called by the defence, Mrs. Anna Yardid, who testified as to getting money for Mrs. David's return ticket from Woodstock to McAdam Junction, thus showing that Mrs. David had no intention of going further than McAdam, and Mr. Irvine, the ticket agent, who testified to getting the money for the return ticket.

"DRANK BAD WHISKY."

Jury Thought That Was Good Defence at Cornwall Assizes.

Cornwall, Jan. 10.—At the Assizes here this week the grand jury brought in a true bill against John Elliot of Dundee, Que., who was accused of stealing a horse and buggy belonging to Peter Lacroix, lot 29, concession 6, of Lochiel, about a month ago.

The defence claimed that Elliot had imbibed some very bad whisky at Coteau on his way to Alexandria, and was therefore not responsible for his conduct. The jury thought likewise, and brought in a verdict of "not guilty."

John H. Cameron of Finch Township was acquitted of a charge of shooting with intent to cause bodily harm, but was found guilty to carrying a revolver.

To-day Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, inspector of prisoners and asylums, and Dr. Moore of the Brockville Asylum will examine Joseph Ashworth, who is charged with attempting to murder his wife, and will give evidence as to his sanity.

J. Gauthier has secured $150 damages from J. McLeod of Lancaster Township for false arrest. McLeod claimed that Gauthier was taking more wood than he was entitled to.

EPIDEMIC SWEPT LANSING.

Hundreds of People Stricken With Mysterious Disease.

Detroit, Jan. 10.—A special from Lansing, Mich., says: "Whether from the flight of bacilli over the city, from deleterious matter in the city water, or from some unknown cause, Lansing was seized by a strange malady sometime during Tuesday night, thousands being suddenly stricken with extreme nausea, accompanied by acute intestinal troubles.

From midnight until morning and all during the afternoon calls for physicians were incessant. Whole families were stricken.

Two boys were found lying on the street, too ill to make further progress.

The disease, which most physicians attribute to atmospherical conditions, yielded readily to treatment.

Fifteen city teachers and hundreds of pupils were absent from school. All the stores were short of help.

Sending Children to Canada.

London, Jan. 10.—Lambeth guardians have decided to emigrate 30 children to Canada, thinking it better to detach them entirely from their pauper surroundings.

THERE WAS MAD FIGHT FOR FOOD

Terrible Experience on Crippled Liner Mount Royal.

UNDER BATTERED HATCHES

Passengers Thought They Would Starve to Death—Made Wild Rush For Stewards at Meal Times—Women Lay and Screamed—Even Sailors Were Scared—At It Worst Christmas Eve.

Queenstown, Ireland, Jan. 10.—Ladislaus Szechenyi, an Hungarian peasant, on his way to the United States for the second time, and understood to be one of the retainers of the count of that name soon to marry Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, was one of the passengers on the steamship Mount Royal, which put in here like a lame duck on Tuesday, a month out from Antwerp. Telling of the experience, he says:

"The big waves made the ship lean away over, and, oh, we were all so sick. Many of the passengers never saw the ocean before, and they were much frightened, but I tried to tell them that it was nothing, but I was much frightened myself. The women lay about on the floor of the ship, and sometimes when the boat seemed to be going right over one would scream, and they would all start in and scream until they were tired and fell asleep.

"We thought when we sailed that we would all see Christmas in America, but it was on Christmas Eve—we make a lot of that night in the old country—that it was the worst, and even I, though I am a good sailor, and have been across the ocean twice before, thought we were lost.

"The sailors put us down below, where it was dark, and fastened all the doors, so we were more frightened than ever. Somehow we couldn't get our food very well for a long time, and when they would come in with the big wooden trays and the people would fight for bread and meat, though they thought they were going to be drowned.

"On Christmas Eve though, when it was at the worst, our priest, a very old man—Father Echegrzu his name was—made them all stop and pray all together, and after that every day and every night we prayed and sang together. Once they wanted to recite the litany for the dying, but he would not let that.

"The sailors told us we were safe, but the fear was on them, too, and when we would begin to chant our songs they would run away fast."

A scarcity of food in the steerage is explained by the ravenous appetites of the passengers themselves, who seemed to fear that they were to be starved as a preliminary to being drowned. It was then found necessary to guard each steward entering their quarters with food to repel rushes upon him and see that the weaker ones got their share.

SEEKS TO ESCAPE CHAIR.

Gillette Appeals Against Death Sentence—Says Girl Suicided.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Chester Gillette's appeal from conviction of murder in the first degree and sentence to die in the electric chair, for the alleged wilful and premeditated killing of his sweetheart Grace, or "Billy" Brown of South Otselic, Chenango County, was argued yesterday afternoon before the Court of Appeals, which assigned the entire afternoon to the hearing of the case.

The defence claimed by the mouth of Gillette, and still claims that after a desperate canvassing of their plight the girl in despair suddenly arose exclaiming, "I will end it all," and before her companion could prevent it leaped into the water, overturning the boat as she jumped. Gillette claimed that he was unable to rescue her.

Chief Justice Retires.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 10.—The retirement of Chief Justice Tuck opens the way for the introduction of the Judicature Act, which has been held in abeyance for the past two years. This will mean an increase of one in the bench, necessitating the appointment of two new men under the act. The Supreme Court judges will be divided into two groups of three each. Three will sit en banc for the hearing of appeals, while the other three will give their whole time to circuit duties.

Mr. Justice Barker will be elevated to the position of chief justice, and will be succeeded in equity by Hon. A. S. White of Sussex. There are several names mentioned for the vacancy. The choice will undoubtedly be between Hon. F. B. Carvell and Hon. H. A. McKeown.

Having been a judge of the Supreme Court for over twenty years, and being upwards of 75 years of age, Chief Justice Tuck retires on his salary of $5,000.

Fire at Port Credit.

Port Credit, Jan. 10.—Fire from some unknown cause completely destroyed the planing mills of William Seaife at an early hour yesterday morning. In the mill was a lot of valuable machinery, recently installed, and adjoining it considerable lumber, all of which was destroyed. The loss will be between $3,000 and $4,000, partially covered by insurance.

May Become Premier of Belgium.

Brussels, Jan. 10.—M. Schollaert, president of the Chamber of Deputies, has been appointed Minister of the Interior to succeed M. de Trooz, who died Dec. 31.

It is possible that M. Schollaert later may be appointed Premier, which office M. de Trooz also held.

Subway Under East River.

New York, Jan. 10.—Service in the new tunnel by which New York subway trains run to Brooklyn yesterday for the first time was more than ample to carry the early morning rush of passengers from Brooklyn. Not a passenger was compelled to stand up in any of the rush hour trains.

FIGHTING REPORTED IN INDIA

Town Captured by Abyssinians After Fierce Battle.

ENTIRE GARRISON SLAIN

Desperate and Unequal Fight—Outpost Defended by Hundred and Twenty-Five Natives Under Italian Officers — Attacking Force Consisted of Two Thousand—Protest to King Menelik.

Rome, Jan. 10.—News has been received here of a terrible battle in Italian Somaliland, on the east coast of Africa, between the Italian forces there and the Abyssinians.

It is learned on good authority that Lugh, the furthermost Italian station in the interior, was besieged by the Abyssinians and destroyed after a desperate and unequal fight, and its defenders were killed.

It is believed here that the Italian Government is concealing a severe reverse in order to prepare the public for graver news.

The importance of the situation lies in the establishment of the fact as to whether or not the King of Abyssinia ordered the attack upon the Italian possessions.

Lugh was garrisoned by about 125 natives, under the command of Capt. Bongiovanni, and the attacking party consisted of about two thousand Abyssinians, according to reports received here.

The Italian Government has ordered the squadron now in the Red Sea to proceed to the coast of Somaliland in order to protect the towns along the coast, as the entire territory is garrisoned by no more than two thousand natives under the command of Italian officers.

At the same time the Government has telegraphed to the Italian legation at Addis Abeba, the capital of Abyssinia, instructing the Italian Minister to present a protest to King Menelik against the violation of the status quo.

CHOPPED TO PIECES.

Fragments of Human Bodies Found In Bed of River.

Florence, Colo., Jan. 10.—That Ercole Buffeti, Daminick Minichette, Joseph Minichette and Mrs. Frank Palmetto, who mysteriously disappeared in this city, were murdered, and their bodies then chopped to pieces is the opinion of the police, as human lungs, a thorax and a piece of tongue have been found in the Arkansas River.

It is believed that the other dismembered bodies are being scattered along the bed of the river by the swift current. Tony Boveri, who is in jail charged with the murder of the Minichette brothers, is said by the police to have confessed to killing a man in Italy before coming to America. In the house was found a bundle of letters addressed to Tony Noroni, and this is believed to be his real name.

Boveri was engaged in market gardening here in partnership with the Minichette brothers, and is accused by the police of having murdered them in order to obtain their money and other property. He had $350 when arrested.

RIOTERS BURN MISSION.

Chapel and School Destroyed by a Chinese Mob.

Shanghai, Jan. 10.—Rioters at Kiahsingfu, a town in the Province of Chekiang, have burned the Protestant chapel and school there. The official residence of the local magistrate also was destroyed. The foreigners at Kiahsingfu are safe. The disorders have been directed principally against the dynasty.

Rev. Dr. MacKay of the Presbyterian missions says that none of their workers are within 300 miles of the scene of trouble, and is also outside the zone of operations of the Church Inland Mission.

Refused to Commit Magistrate.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—Justice Mabee yesterday refused the application to commit Alpheus F. Wood, police magistrate of Madoc, for publishing a letter in The North Hastings Gazette commenting severely on the steps taken to endeavor to collect $10,000 damages from him for alleged false imprisonment of one Lowry, who was accused of having appropriated a horse and rig, the property of another man, and was sent down for four months, being afterwards, however, released owing to irregularity in the proceedings.

Jumped From College Dome.

Lawrence, Kas., Jan. 10.—Urbar Angney, aged 22 years, captain of last year's football team of the Kansas University, committed suicide here yesterday by jumping from the dome of Fraser Hall, at the university grounds. Angney left a note reading:

Dear Jesus: My life passed. My pleasure is gone. No pleasure for me. You can know the reason. I was called for what I owe. Good-bye. May you all live happy.

Great Ice For To-night's Big Game With Lindsay

Famous Midgets Will be Here To-night With a Big Bunch of Rooters—Confident of Beating Peterboro' on Their Own Ice

THE LOCALS STRONG TEAM

The O. H. A. season will be ushered in to-night, when the rivals for many years, Lindsay and Peterborough, will do battle for the first time this season. A grand sheet of ice, the fastest of the year, is ready for the contest, and the game should be a spectacular one, with both teams fighting for every ounce that is in them for victory. A record crowd is assured, the bitter rivalry between the two teams, bringing the interest to fever heat. Lindsay will bring down a big bunch of supporters, to help to cheer their team on to victory, and their win in Cobourg on Wednesday night has made them very confident of the honours. Cobourg had been picked as the district winners and the Sougog team must certainly have a fast seven to put the Indian sign on the lakeshore bunch on their own ice.

They will have to be fast to beat Peterborough to-night. The locals are in the best of condition, and will travel the whole 60 seconds on their toes. The team selected for the opening game is a strong one, and the players are confident of a victory, although they realize that in the famous Midgets they are going up against a very awkward proposition.

W. S. Hancock, the well-known Toronto referee, will likely handle the whistle. The locals wanted Waghorne but Lindsay remembered the game with Belleville last year, and kicked, whereupon Secretary Hewitt of the O. H. A., informed President Graham last night that he would appoint Hancock.

The game will start sharp sharp on time with the teams facing each other like this:

Lindsay.	Peterborough.
	Goal.
Newton	Derocher
	Point.
Koyl, capt.	Glover
	Cover.
Sullivan	Moore
	Rover.
Cotey	Dusty
	Centre.
Lane	Dobson
Reilly	Parnell, capt
Ramsay	Weatherstone

The locals' line up, it will be seen, is a strong one, and will make Lindsay travel all the way. Glover and Parnell were with the Peterboroughs last year, Derocher with the Auburns, Dusty with the Charlotte street team, Dobson with the Orphans and Weatherstone with the Strathconas, the city league champions, so that the line up is decidedly representative. Trainer Dick Baker, of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers, has the men in the best of shape, and there will be no let up in the play as far as they are concerned.

The opening O. H. A. game, will, from all indications, be seen by a big crowd.

TODDARD WILL BE ON LINE-UP

Lindsay's Star Rover will be Out Against Peterboro' To-night

It is to be hoped that the members of the Intermediate hockey team go to Peterborough Friday night, and help win out for Lindsay. Stoddard was unable to go to Cobourg, but the boys hope to have him with them at Peterborough and thus have the regular team on the ice. As a good many Lindsay people will attend the game, they will be disappointed if all are not in their places and a defeat made possible by the absence of one man.—Lindsay Post.

THE LINDSAY SPECIAL TRAIN

Will Bring Down a Big Crowd of Rooters To-night

Lindsay will be here to-night on a special train and will have a big crowd of rooters with them. They are confident of victory and half the town will be on hand to see them try to beat the Strathconas. The Post says:—

There will be a special train for Peterborough to-morrow night at 6.45, in order that Lindsayites may see the Lindsay-Peterborough intermediate hockey match. A special car will be reserved for ladies, and no rowdies will be allowed on the train. It will be the first opportunity Lindsay people have had this year of seeing their favourites play real hockey, and the game will be one of the most exciting of the series. The management absolutely guarantee the comfort and enjoyment of ladies attending the match.

LADIES HAVE A HOCKEY TEAM NOW

Showed Good Form in Practice Yesterday Afternoon

The young ladies of the city have caught the hockey fever, and have organized a team. The first practice was held yesterday afternoon, at the Brock street rink, and the young ladies all showed good form. Several of them are skilful stickhandlers, and all are good skaters, who will quickly pick up the fine points of the game. The girls' screst will be heard from again. They will meet next week for the purpose of electing a captain, and they will then be ready to hurl a challenge at any of the skirted teams in the district.

ENGLISH'S CLAIM GOAL FROM OFF-SIDE

Say Score Should be a Tie—Will Be Played Again

The final score was 3—2, but the second goal scored by the Peterborough Canoe Company was on an offside, at least that is what the English Canoe makers say. However, the game is over and the Charlotte street fellows are still satisfied that they can trim them at hockey in play-ed. The English seven said to-day that some of them could scarcely work from injuries received.

The chief offender was Richardson and there is a memorial being signed at English's, asking the management to give him first place as a slugger and chopper.

The half time score was two all, and a hard game was fought all the way through. The teams lined up as follows:—

English.	Peterborough.
	Goal.
Rogers	Naylor
	Point.
Robinson	Ringer
	Cover Point.
Dummit	Bill Richardson
	Rover
O'Dette
	Centre.
C Dummit	Miles
	Wings.
Hopkins	Johnston
E Dummit	Gillespie
	Goal Umpire.
T Hartshorn	McDonell

Referee—Waring.

As the game was really in doubt there should be no chances whatever of one team claiming a tie while the other claims a victory. Another deciding game will probably be played in the near future for a supper.

Band in Street Railway Rink To-night

WERE CURLING IN THE LINDSAY RINK

The Local Team Had a Good Practice Yesterday

Six rinks of the local curling club went to Lindsay yesterday morning on the invitation of the curlers of that town. The Peterborough skips were Messrs. R Hicks, R Davidson, D Hall, A Moore, C N Brown and R Foote. The six rinks played among themselves in the morning, but were defeated by six Lindsay teams in the afternoon. The tables were turned in the evening, however, and the local curlers won out. They had a good time, and enjoyed the hospitality of the Lindsay curlers.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Lindsay has never beaten Peterborough on local ice, and the Strathconas are going to see that they don't accomplish the trick to-night.

Certificates have been signed for the following Bridgenorth players:- Stubbs, F Jopling, H Bellegham, H Cullen, E Bellegham, J Conway, W Mann.

Lindsay announces that they will send a big crowd of their citizens down to Peterborough to-night, which is hard to reconcile with the further statement that no rowdies will be allowed on the train.

• • • •

The "Never Sweats" of Form U. P. C. I., will have a practice to-night from 6 to 7 at the Knox church rink. The following are requested to turn out: Perks, McCabe, Quinlan, Creedon, Bell, armstrong. Potter, Kelly, Bogue and Rankin.

ing teams: Cressman's, Pill Pounders, Knox church, and the Park street Baptist. The Grafters is a new organization and have about 15 members to choose from, most of whom are good players. This aggregation does not supply the ice; they leave that for the team accepting their challenge.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 10.—The market opened exceedingly strong, and active to-day, with the appearance of the bidding up process in Reading. Before the first hour was over the whole list was exceedingly strong with short covering in evidence all around the room. A good deal of profit-taking took place on the advance, and in most instances there was almost a sharp re-action in the afternoon.

Room traders who had helped along the early advance took the bear side on the appearance of the November statement of the Union and Southern Pacific Railway. While Union Pacific gained 1-2 in its gross earnings and saved $64,000 of the increase for its net, the Southern Pacific's showing was decidedly unfavourable.

PIMPLES

ALTHOUGH, NOT A DANGEROUS DISEASE, ARE A VERY TROUBLESOME AND UNSIGHTLY AFFLICTION . . .

They are caused by either poverty or impurity of the blood and require the prompt use of a good blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters, for their eradication, which it speedily accomplishes, at the same time strengthening the entire system. Pimples also often arise from dyspepsia and constipation, and in these cases Burdock Blood Bitters has the double effect of removing the pimples together with their cause.

Mr. D. P. Semmens, Osceola, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with pimples all over my face and hands. I paid out money to doctors but they could do me no good. A friend convinced me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and after using two bottles the pimples vanished, and I have not been troubled with them since."

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR SKIN

Zam-Buk Unequalled as a Skin Cure.

About 80 per cent. of prevalent skin disease is due to neglect and the remaining 20 per cent. to some weakness or infection. The skin, in fact, rules the health. In proportion as the skin acts well or ill, we are well or sick, for every square inch of skin has no fewer than 2,800 pores through which all waste matter, which would be injurious to health if allowed to remain, is expelled from the body.

The skin, because it has important work to do, and is so exposed to injury and disease, deserves far more attention than most people give it. Often the timely use of Zam-Buk, the well-known healing balm, will avert a nasty attack of eczema, prevent festering, allay pain and inflammation and prevent other skin troubles which, if neglected, would only upset the general health.

A sudden chill, dirt in a cold-crack, or sudden contact with disease-germs, are all dangerous to your skin health, and neglected cuts, sores, chafings or chaps, may lead to festering or blood-poisoning.

Neglected scald caused months of agony—spent dollars seeking a cure—One box of Zam-Buk cured.

Below we give the testimony of a lady who, if she had known of Zam-Buk earlier, might have saved nine weeks of painful agony.

Mrs. Frederick Bryant of 169 Railway Ave., Stratford (Ont.), says: "I scalded my foot while preparing supper. Next day the skin came off and my foot was in a serious condition. I could not wear my shoe and had to lay up for nine weeks. During this time I used dozens of salves, but none did any good, in fact the wound developed into a running sore. I got no rest day or night from the cruel pain. At this point a sample of Zam-Buk was left at my house and I tried it. Several applications of Zam-Buk had immediate effect in soothing the pain and irritation, and I was encouraged to buy a box. One box of Zam-Buk was sufficient to heal the scald, although I had spent dollars in other remedies. New skin has formed nicely over the whole open sore. Zam-Buk is the most wonderful and effective remedy I have used, and I advise others to use it."

Zam-Buk is so refined that it soaks easily through the skin to the seat of disease and exerts a wholesome influence upon the rest of the body. Absolutely pure, soothing and antiseptic, Zam-Buk is recognized as the world's one great and only perfect healing balm for everyday household use. It is just as invaluable for cuts, bruises, burns and sprains, as it is for eczema, ulcers, piles, bad legs, festering sores, ringworms, swellings, scalp sores, hidden sores on back or joints, pimples, rashes, chafings, chaps, inflamed and irritable patches, and all diseases of the skin. Every family needs a box of Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk is sold by all druggists and medicine vendors at 50 cents a box, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 3 boxes for $1.25. Send for free trial box. See special offer.

TRY ZAM-BUK FREE

Mrs. Bryant tried a free sample. You can do likewise. Send this coupon and 1 cent stamp for postage to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and we will mail you a trial of Zam-Buk free. I.K.1.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1907 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Perm t me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

BUFFALO HUNT OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE CANADIAN WEST WHEN THE BISON WAS KING OF THE PRAIRIE

FREE PRESS, WINNIPEG

I read with great interest some time ago the Examiner story of the notable Buffalo Hunt of 1907, in which Pablo's herd, the "old guard" of the once vast army of American buffalo was rounded up for shipment by railway in cattle cars acrooss an imaginary line to Canada. I could not read however, nor could any other "old timer" nor indeed any right thinking man, without pangs of regret for the vanished thousands of these finest of all game animals, which once literally covered the western prairies.

This modern buffalo hunt, which had for its object the preservation and care of the buffalo among the rich pastures of Alberta foothills, recalled to me a hunt of a far different sort, of which I witnessed a part, when on a journey to the far west in 1872. Of course the year 1872 was not yesterday, and I was very young at the time, so might have forgotten most of the details of the hunt, had they not been recalled to me time and again, as my father and other old plainsmen rehearsed this and other similar stories of the chase. But the scene itself made a deep impression upon my boyish mind. So it is not strange that what I saw of the buffalo hunt, stands out almost as vividly in my recollection, as if it had been an episode of last week.

I was at that time a boy of 11 years of age and had accompanied my father from our home in St. Paul, to Montana Territory, where he had some business to look into, in the way of trade with the Indians. In Dakota Territory we travelled by stage coach, and from there went on horseback to Fort Benton. It was near Fort Benton the hunt took place and preparations for it were under way when we arrived. Buffalo had for some time been bunching near the foothills of the Teton range, and it was estimated that there were fully twenty-five thousand in the vicinity. It was in the month of October and they were gathering towards the sheltering hills in anticipation of the coming storms of winter, their general direction being southerly. These plans being somehow pretty stubbornly fixed within the shaggy heads of the buffalo, the hunters know that when stampeded it would be easy to keep the herds near the hills and in a southward direction. Acting upon this knowledge of buffalo modes of thought, a pretty definite course for the chase could be marked out and the preparations made accordingly.

Getting Ready

The first thing to be done in the way of preparation was to place relays of horses along the route of the proposed drive, these to be kept in readiness for the hunters when the chase should be in progress. The bunches of horses were herded in groves of timber or deep ravines, where they would be out of the way of the vast herd of panic-stricken buffalo. These relays were thus placed at intervals of about fifteen miles, making, with the first mounts from sets of fresh horses in the range of sixty miles or so, along which it was proposed to follow and slaughter. In addition to these saddle horses, wagons were placed with the last relays, containing provisions for the killing party, which when the practical extermination of the herd had been accomplished, and a short rest taken, after the hard ride, would become a "skinning party," and in this capacity work backward towards the starting point.

The "killers," for that they were very fitly called, not hunters, the men who followed the herd and did the shooting, numbered about 75. A party, almost or quite as large, with wagons, was prepared to follow in the rear of the slaughter, skinning the dead animals and cutting out and salting the tongues, the hides and tongues being the only parts saved from this wasteful slaughter of the greatest game animal ever a native of this continent. After the second day nothing but the skins would be removed, the tongues then being unfit for food.

Scouting for Buffalo

While all these preparations were being made, the greatest care was exercised to prevent the buffalo taking alarm. The remount parties and the wagons took a wide circuitous route to reach their assigned stations so that they would not be seen by the herd. Scouts were kept out day and night to warn the hunters, if their quarry should take premature alarm. The preparations, which occupied about a week, were completed without mishap of any kind, and all all augured well for a great slaughter.

On the morning of the hunt, my father and I, in company with about twenty others, rode out behind the body of "killers" to see the first onslaught. About seven or eight miles southwest of Fort Benton we began to see scattering bunches of buffalo. Here we were met by two scouts who reported that the main herd was about ten miles farther to the southwest. As small bunches were alarmed by our approach, they also took this direction. The hunters followed, riding slowly, trying to alarm the animals as little as possible, so that the main herd might not be stampeded, but remain comparatively quiet until the men should approach within a short race of killing distance.

All plans worked perfectly, and as we broke over the top of a low range of hills about fifteen miles from our starting point, we came in sight of a vast herd of from seventy-five to one hundred thousand buffaloes. We were less than half a mile from the nearest bison. The entire herd seemed to be uneasy, roused and made nervous by the arrival of small bunches of frightened animals, and were only waiting for the sight of some actual cause for fear to begin a stampede. When they caught sight of us on the crest of the ridge, they began to move off, those first on the outer edge of the herd, on the side nearest us. As these crowded into the main body, the others began to realise that their natural enemy was upon them, and soon the enormous mass was in motion, with a thundering of thousands of hoofs like to the roaring of a vast cataract.

The Killers at Work

At a command from the leaders, the hunting party divided into two sections, half riding to the right and half to the left flanks of the fleeing herd. With their horses at full gallop it required a race of only about two miles to put the killers abreast of the hindmost of the herd, and here the slaughter began. With their horses at utmost speed, and keeping pace with the terrified buffalo, the hunters began shooting, loading and firing as they galloped. It is almost incredible that men riding at breakneck speed, in a blinding cloud of dust, over a country honey-combed with prairie dog burrows, dashing through ravines and tearing through sage bush, should be able to maintain their seats, load muzzle-loading rifles, and shoot accurately. Of course, all shooting was at point blank range, where aiming is unnecessary, and the ponies bred on the prairie are very sure footed. But the men must have been almost literally to the saddle born in order to accomplish the feat.

From the eminence upon which we stood to witness the beginning of the chase, we watched until it disappeared, or until all that we could see was a cloud of dust on the horizon. Even then we could still hear the rumbling of hoofs like the muttering of distant thunder. We then proceeded along the trail of the hunt. This was thirty-five years ago and I was, as I have said, a boy of ten; but I will never forget the scene that path presented. Dead buffalo by scores lay scattered over the prairie, and here and there a sorely stricken animal staggered toward shelter. For a wounded buffalo was considered a dead buffalo by the hunters, and a second shot was never wasted on him. If he did not die of his wound he could be dispatched by the skinning party when it should arrive. In addition to these there were many weak animals and calves which did not need a hunter's shot, but fell in the race and were trampled by their stronger fellows until crippled or killed outright. Wounded animals lay all around with legs broken, horns knocked off, broken backs or other injuries. Some of these would die in a short time, others would live until the skinners arrived; many more would wander off to suffer a lingering death in some out-of-the-way ravine or valley. The suffering in such a chase was appalling, the causing of it a greater crime than the actual destruction of game.

Camp on the Trail

We followed along after the chase until we came to the point at which the first relay of fresh horses had been posted. So sound was the judgment shown of those who planned the hunt that the nearest buffalo had passed within half a mile of this sheltered bluff. We camped for the day with the men in charge. So tired were the horses that they were not until next day in fit condition to start on the homeward journey.

After partaking of a meal of fresh fried buffalo hump, smoky flapjack and black coffee, we rode on for our way reviewing the scene of blood. We saw nothing new except that the further we went the more numerous were the wounded and killed. During the first part of the rush the speed had been so terrific that the shooting had been, as a matter of course, inaccurate, but as the pursued animals began to tire and slacken speed, the killing increased. We took advice from experienced men of the party, and kept clear of the direct path taken by the fleeing herd, thus avoiding frenzied attacks from wounded buffalo, which might have proven dangerous to tenderfeet such as we were.

On returning to our camps we met the party of skinners who had already done their work up to that point. In the evening around the campfire we listened to stories of other hunts, and had vividly described to us what this one would be late in the day, when the buffalo, becoming more and more wearied, would reduce their speed almost to a walk. Then would be perpetrated the real slaughter: the hunters would shoot until all the ammunition, of which a fresh supply was obtained at each relay, was exhausted.

The Plunder

We returned to the fort next day, remaining there about a week. Before that time the wagon train had returned with the first loads of hides and tongues. The men reported that about half the herd had been killed, the number, including those trampled to death as well as those shot, being estimated at thirty thousand. Probably not more than seventy-five per cent of these would ever be skinned, as before the task could be completed the hides would have been rendered useless by decomposition, and the entire mass of flesh which might have fed thousands would become an orgy for buzzards and coyotes.

It was in just this way that the buffalo of the plains, once thought to be inexhaustible, were in a few short years practically exterminated. We hold up hands in horror at the uncaring greed which prompted such slaughter, but we forget that to some extent history is being repeated in our own time, that our forest animals are being decimated yearly contrary to all law. In another article I would like to show to what extent the game laws are being violated in western forests, and to suggest one or two practical ways in which they might be better enforced.

BLENDING OF FLOUR SUCCESSFUL

And There is Every Indication of Price Of Ontario Wheat Going Up

THERE IS LACK OF WHEAT

There is every indication that the price for Ontario wheat will steadily advance. The introduction of blended flours has met with complete success wherever Ontario blended flours have been placed on sale—in Toronto for instance, and also in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Cape Breton and Prince Edward Island, they have recaptured the market from "Western hard patent flours" to a considerable extent, and the good work goes on.

The only drawback to a sweeping victory is a lack of wheat. Blended flours are principally Ontario fall wheat with a little Manitoba wheat to add the necessary amount of gluten (or strength.) This combination makes the "big" loaf of bread of the Western flours—and, at the same time, has the delicate flavour of our best Ontario flours.

With the sale of these blended flours constantly increasing, it would seem that there was good money for our farmers in Ontario wheat. However it is the soundest kind of business sense for every farmer, stockman and dairyman in the province to buy blended flours. There are enough users of flour among our agricultural population to keep the mills busy the year round. And if the head of every household would see that only blended flours were bought for home consumption there would be an enormous increase in the sale of these flours, and a corresponding increase in the demand for Ontario wheat. Our farmers would then make the money instead of the wheat growers and millers of the west.

Our stockmen and dairymen will share in the good fortune too. With our millers having a good run every day there will be an abundance of bran and shorts. Instead of paying about twice as much as these feed stuffs are worth, the prices would come down to normal and there would be money in dairying and stock raising. As it is the farmers and millers out west seem to be getting all the profit, for, of course, our dairmen and others using large quantities of bran and shorts have to pay the freight on such stuffs from Manitoba and Alberta, perhaps not directly but in the end.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

THE FACTS ARE PUBLISHED

Some Medical Journals are making a strenuous fight against the sale of medicines which contain opiates, claiming that people are sometimes led into contracting drug habits through their use. It is certainly only fair that people should be informed as to the nature of medicines which they take, and some of the highest class firms have adopted the plan of plainly printing the formula on the bottle or wrapper. Prominent among these is the King Palmetto Company. Theirs is a remedy which has proven its worth, and many former sufferers from Kidney and Liver and Bowel troubles beat willing testimony to its virtues. King Palmetto Compound is offered for exactly what it is, without any false pretenses, a perfect and scientific preparation that will cure constipation, purify the blood, invigorate the system and overcome any tendency to stomach, liver or kidney complaints. This covers a wide ground, as almost any trouble, except the germ diseases, will disappear if the blood is made pure and the stomach, liver and kidneys stimulated into healthy activity. In fact this will ward off the germ diseases, as germs cannot thrive in a perfectly healthy body. Send for free sample to the King Palmetto Company Bridgeburg, Ont. King Palmetto Compound is sold at $1.00 per bottle and is guaranteed by McDermid & Jury, druggists.

The Helmet of Navarre

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

Copyright by The Century Co.

I ran at once, through a fusilade of jeers from soldiers, grooms and housemen, across the court, through the hall and up the stairs to Marcel's chamber. Never was I gladder of anything in my life than to doff those waddling petticoats. Two minutes and I was a man again. I found it in my heart to pity the poor things who must wear the trappings their lives long.

But for all my joy in my freedom I choked over my supper and pushed it away half tasted, in misery over M. Etienne. Vigo might say comfortably that Mayenne dared not kill him, but I thought there were few things that gentleman dared not do. Then there was Lucas to be reckoned with. He had caught his fly in the web; he was not likely to let him go long undevoured. At best, if M. Etienne's life were safe, yet was he helpless, while to-morrow our mademoiselle was to marry. Vigo seemed to think that a blessing, but I was nigh to weeping into my soup. The one ray of light was that she was not to marry Lucas. That was something. Still, when M. Etienne came out of prison, if ever he did—I could scarce bring myself to believe it—he would find his dear vanished over the rocky Pyrenees.

Vigo would not even let me start when I was ready. Since we were too late to find the gates open we must wait till ten of the clock, at which hour the St. Denis gate would be in the hands of a certain Brissac, who would pass us with a wink at the word St. Quentin.

I was so wroth with Vigo that I would not stay with him, but went upstairs into M. Etienne's silent chamber and flung myself down on the window bench his head might never touch again, and wondered how he was faring in prison. I wished I were there with him. I cared not much what the place was so long as we were together. I had gone down the mouth of hell smiling so be it I went at his heels. Mayhap if I had struggled harder with my captors, shown my sex earlier, they had taken me too. Heartily I wished they had; I trow I am the only wight ever did wish himself behind bars. And promptly I repented me, for if Vigo had proved but a broken reed there was monsieur. Monsieur was not likely to sit smug and beclare prison the best place for his son.

The slow twilight faded altogether and the dark came. The city was very still. Once in a while a shout or a sound of bell was borne over the roofs, or infrequent footsteps sounded in the street beyond our gate. The men in the court under my window were quiet too, talking among themselves without much raillery or laughter; I knew they discussed the unhappy plight of the heir of St. Quentin. The chimes had rung some time ago the half hour after nine, and I was fidgeting to be off, but huffed as I was with him I could not lower myself to go ask Vigo's leave to start. He might come after me when he wanted me.

"Felix! Felix!" Marcel shouted down the corridor. I sprang up; then, remembering my dignity, moved no further, but bade him come in to me.

"Where are you mooning in the dark?" he demanded, stumbling over the threshold. "Oh, there you are. Dame! you'd come downstairs mighty quick if you knew what was there for you?"

"What?" I cried, divided between the wild hope that it was monsieur and the wilder one that it was M. Etienne.

"Don't you wish I'd tell you? Well, you're a good boy and I will. It's the prettiest lass I've seen in a month of Sundays—you in your petticoats don't come near her."

"For me?" I stuttered.

"Aye; she asked for M. le Duc, and when he wasn't here, for you. I suppose it's some friend of M. Etienne's."

I supposed so, indeed; I supposed it was the owner of my borrowed plumage come to claim her own, angry perhaps because I had not returned it to her. I wondered whether she would scratch my eyes out because I had lost the cap—whether I could find it if I went to look with a light. None too eagerly I descended to her.

She was standing against the wall in the archway. Two or three of the guardsmen were about her, one with a flambeau, by which they were all surveying her. She wore the coif and blouse, the black bodice and short-striped skirt of the country peasant girl, and, like a country girl, she showed a face flushed and downcast under the soldiers' bold scrutiny. She looked up at me as at a rescuing angel. It was Mlle. de Montluc!

I dashed past the torchbearer, nearly upsetting him in my haste, and snatched her hand.

"Mademoiselle! Come into the house!"

She clutched me with fingers as cold as marble, which trembled on mine.

"Where is M. de St. Quentin?"

"At St. Denis."

"You must take me there to-night."

"I was going," I stammered, bewildered; "but you, mademoiselle"——

"You knew of M. de Mar's arrest?"

"Aye."

"What coil is this, Felix?" demanded Vigo, coming up. He took the torch from his man and held it in mademoiselle's face, whereupon an amazing change came over his own. He lowered the light, shielding it with his hand, as if it were an impertinent eye.

"You are Vigo," she said at once.

"Yes; and I know not what noble lady mademoiselle can be, save—will it please her to come into the house?"

He led the way with his torch, not suffering himself to look at her again. He had his foot on the staircase when she called to him, as if she had been accustomed to addressing him all her life:

"Vigo, this will do. I will speak to you here."

"As mademoiselle wishes. I thought the salon fitter. My cabinet here will be quieter than the hall, mademoiselle."

He opened the door and she entered. He pushed me in next, giving me the torch and saying:

"Ask mademoiselle, Felix, whether she wants me." He amazed me—he who always ordered.

"I want you, Vigo," mademoiselle answered him herself. "I want you to send two men with me to St. Denis."

"To-morrow?"

"No; to-night."

"But mademoiselle cannot go to St. Denis."

"I can and I must."

"They will not let a horse party through the gate at night," Vigo began.

"We will go on foot."

"Mademoiselle," Vigo answered, as if she had proposed flying to the moon, "you cannot walk to St. Denis."

"I must!" she cried.

I had put the flambeau in a socket on the wall. Now that the light shone on her steadily I saw for the first time, though I might have known it from her presence here, how rent with emotion she was, white to the lips, with gleaming eyes and stormy breast. She had spoken low and quietly, but it was a main-force composure, liable to snap like glass. I thought her on the very verge of passionate tears. Vigo looked at her, puzzled, troubled, pitying, as on some beautiful, mad creature. She cried out on him suddenly, her rich voice going up a key:

"You need not say 'cannot' to me, Vigo! You know not how I came here. I was locked in my chamber. I changed clothes with my Norman maid. There was a sentry at each end of the street. I slid down a rope of my bedclothes; it was dark—they did not see me. I knocked at Ferou's door—thank the saints, it opened to me quickly! I told M. Ferou—God forgive me!—I had business for the duke at the other end of the tunnel. He took me through and I came here."

"But, mademoiselle, the bats!" I cried.

"Yes, the bats," she returned with a little smile. "And my hands on the ropes!" She turned them over; the skin was torn cruelly from her delicate palms and the inside of her fingers. Little threads of blood marked the scores. "Then I came here," she repeated. "In all my life I have never been in the streets alone—not even for one step at noonday. Now will you tell me, M. Vigo, that I cannot go to St. Denis?"

"Mademoiselle, it is yours to say what you can do."

As for me, I dropped on my knees and laid my lips to her fingers softly, for fear even their pressure might hurt her tenderness.

"Mademoiselle!" I cried in pure delight. "Mademoiselle, that you are here!"

She flushed under my words.

"Ah, it is no little thing brought me. You knew M. de Mar was arrested?"

We assented; she went on, more to me than to Vigo, as if in telling me she was telling M. Etienne. She spoke low as if in pain.

"After supper M. de Mayenne went back to his cabinet and let out Paul de Lorraine."

"I wish we had killed him," I muttered. "We had no time or weapons."

"M. de Mayenne sent for me then," she went on, wetting her lips. "I have never seen him so angry. He was furious because M. de Mar had been before his face and he had not known it. He felt he had been made a mock of. He raged against me—I never knew he could be so angry. He said the Spanish envoy was too good for me; I should marry Paul de Lorraine to-morrow."

"Mordieu, mademoiselle!"

"That was not it. I had borne that!" she cried. "Mayhap I deserved it. But while my lord thundered at me word came that M. de Mar was taken. My lord swore he should die. He swore no man ever set him at naught and lived to boast of it."

"Will"——

She swept on unheeding:

"He said he should be tried for the murder of Pontou—he should be tortured to make him confess it."

She dropped down on her knees, hiding her face in her arms on the table, shaking from head to foot as in an ague. Vigo swore to himself, loudly, violently: "If Mayenne do that, by the throne of heaven, I'll kill him!"

She sprang to her feet, dry-eyed, fierce as a young lioness.

"Is that all you can say? Mayenne may torture him and be killed for it?"

"I shall send to the duke"——Vigo began.

"Aye! I shall go to the duke! I can say who killed Pontou. I know much besides to tell the king. I was Mayenne's cousin, but if he would save his secrets he must give up M. de Mar. Mother of God! I have been his obedient child; I have let him do so with me as he would. I sent my lover away. I consented to the Spanish marriage. But to this I will not submit. He shall not torture and kill Etienne de Mar!"

Vigo took her hand and kissed it.

"Shall we start, Vigo? Once at St. Denis I am hostage for his safety. The king can tell Mayenne that if Mar is tortured he will torture me! Mayenne may not tender me greatly, but he will not relish his cousin's breaking on the wheel."

"Mayenne won't torture M. Etienne," Vigo said, patting her hand in both of his, forgetting she was a great lady, he an equerry. "Fear not! you will save him, mademoiselle."

"Let us go!" she cried feverishly. "Let us go!"

Gilles was in the court waiting, stripped of his livery, dressed peaceably as a porter, but with a mallet in his hand that I should not like to receive on my crown. I thought we were ready, but Vigo bade us wait, I stood on the housesteps with mademoiselle, while he took aside Squinting Charlot for a low-voiced, emphatic interview.

"Must we wait?" mademoiselle urged me, quivering like the arrow on the bowstring. "They may discover I am gone. Need we wait?"

"Aye," I answered; "if Vigo bids us. He knows."

We waited then. Vigo disappeared presently. Mademoiselle and I stood patient with, oh! what impatience in our heart, wondering how he could so hinder us. Not till he came back did it dawn on me for what we had stayed. He was dressed as an undergroom, not a tag of St. Quentin colors on him.

"I beg a thousand pardons, mademoiselle. I had to give my lieutenant his orders. Now, if you will give the word we go."

"Do you go, M. Vigo?" She breathed deep. It was easy to see she looked upon him as a regiment.

"Of course," Vigo answered, as if there could be no other way.

I said in pure deviltry to try to ruffle him:

"Vigo, you said you were here to guard monsieur's interests—his house, his goods, his moneys. Do you desert your trust?"

Mademoiselle turned quickly to him:

"Vigo, you must not let me take you from your rightful post. Felix and your man here will care for me"

"The boy talks silliness, mademoiselle," Vigo returned tranquilly. "Mademoiselle is worth a dozen hotels. I go with her."

He walked beside her across the court, I following with Gilles, laughing to myself. Only yesterday had Vigo declared that never would he give aid and comfort to Mlle. de Montluc. It was no marvel she had conquered M. Etienne, for he must needs have been in love with some one, but in bringing Vigo to her feet she had won a triumph indeed.

We had to go out by the great gate, because the key of the postern was in the Bastile. But as if by magic every guardsman and hanger-about had disappeared—there was not one to stare at the lady, though when we had passed some one locked the gates behind us. Vigo called me up to mademoiselle's left. Gilles was to loiter behind, far enough to seem not to belong to us, near enough to come up at need. Thus at a good pace, mademoiselle stepping out as brave as any of us, we set out across the city for the Porte St. Denis.

Our quarter was very quiet; we scarce met a soul. But afterward, as we reached the neighborhood of the markets, the streets grew livelier. Now were we gladder than ever of Vigo's escort, for whenever we approached a band of roysterers or of gentlemen with lights mademoiselle sheltered herself behind the equerry's broad back, hidden as behind a tower. Once the gallant M. de Champfleury, he who in pink silk had adorned Mme. de Mayenne's salon, passed close enough to touch her. She heaved a sigh of relief when he was by. For her own sake she had no fear; the midnight streets, the open road to St. Denis, had no power to daunt her; but the dread of being recognized and turned back rode her like a nightmare.

Close by the gate Vigo bade us pause in the door of a shop while he went forward to reconnoitre. Before long he returned.

"Bad luck, mademoiselle. Brissac's not on. I don't know the officer, but he knows me, that's the worst of it. He told me this was not St. Quentin night. Well, we must try the Porte Neuve."

But mademoiselle demurred:

"That will be out of our way, will it not, Vigo? It is a longer road from the Porte Neuve to St. Denis?"

"Yes; but what to do? We must get through the walls."

"Suppose we fare no better at the Porte Neuve? If your Brissac is suspected he'll not be on at night. Vigo, I propose that we part company here. They will not know Gilles and Felix at the gate, will they?"

"No," Vigo said doubtfully; "but"——

"Then can we get through!" she cried. "They will not stop us, such humble folk! We are going to the bedside of our dying mother at St. Denis. Your name, Gilles?"

"Forestier, mademoiselle," he stammered, startled.

"Then are we all Forestiers—Gilles, Felix and Jeanne. We can pass out, Vigo; I am sure we can pass out. I am loath to part with you, but I fear to go through the city to the Porte Neuve. My absence may be discovered—I must put myself without the walls speedily."

"Well, mademoiselle may try it," Vigo gave reluctant consent. "If you are refused we can fall back on the Porte Neuve. If we succeed—— Listen to me, you fellows. You will deliver mademoiselle into monsieur's hands or answer to me for it. If any one touches her little finger—well, trust me!"

"That's understood," we answered, saluting together.

"Mademoiselle need have no doubts of them," Vigo said. "Felix is M. le Comte's own henchman. And Gilles is the best man in the household next to me. God speed you, my lady. I am here if they turn you back."

We went boldly round the corner and up the street to the gate. The sentry walking his beat ordered us away without so much as looking at us. Then Gilles, appointed our spokesman, demanded to see the captain of the watch. His errand was urgent.

But the sentry showed no disposition to budge. Had we a passport? No, we had no passport. Then we could go about our business. There was no leaving Paris to-night for us. Call the captain? No; he would do nothing of the kind. Be off, then!

But at this moment hearing the altercation, the officer himself came out of the guardroom in the tower, and to him Gilles at once began his story. Our mother at St. Denis had sent for us to come to her dying bed. He was a street porter; the messenger had had trouble to find him. His young brother and sister were in service, kept to their duties till late. Our mother might even now be yielding up the ghost! It was a pitiful case. M. le Capitaine; might we not be permitted to pass?

The young officer appeared less interested in this moving tale than in the face of mademoiselle, lighted up by the flambeau on the tower wall.

"I should be glad to oblige your charming sister," he returned, smiling, "but none goes out of the city without a passport. Perhaps you have one, though, from my Lord Mayenne?"

"Would our kind be carrying a passport from the Duke of Mayenne?" quoth Gilles.

"It seems improbable," the officer smiled, pleased with his wit. "Sorry to discommode you, my dear. But perhaps, lacking a passport, you can yet oblige me with the countersign, which does as well. Just one little word now and I'll let you through."

"If monsieur will tell me the little word?" she asked innocently.

He burst into laughter.

"No, no; I am not to be caught so easy as that, my girl."

"Oh, come, monsieur captain," Gilles urged, "many and many a fellow goes in and out of Paris without a passport. The rules are a net to stop big fish and let the small fry go. What harm will it do to my Lord Mayenne or you or anybody if you have the gentleness to let three poor servants through to their dying mother?"

"It desolates me to hear of her extremity," the captain answered with a fine irony, "but I am here to do my duty. I am thinking, my dear, that you are some great lady's maid?"

He was eying her sharply, suspiciously; she made haste to protest:

"Oh, no, monsieur; I am servant to Mme. Mesnier, the grocer's wife."

"And perhaps you serve in the shop?"

"No, monsieur," she said, not seeing his drift, but on guard against a trap. "No, monsieur; I am never in the shop. I am far too busy with my work. Monsieur does not seem to understand what a servant lass has to do."

For answer he took her hand and lifted it to the light, revealing all its smooth whiteness, its dainty, polished nails.

"I think mademoiselle does not understand it either."

With a little cry she snatched her hand from him, hiding it in the folds of her kirtle, regarding him with open terror. He softened somewhat at sight of her distress.

"Well, it's none of my business if a lady chooses to be masquerading round the streets at night with a porter and a lackey. I don't know what your purpose is—I don't ask to know. But I'm here to keep my gate, and I'll keep it. Go try to wheedle the officer at the Porte Neuve."

In helpless obedience, glad of even so much leniency, we turned away—to face a tall, grizzled veteran in a colonel's shoulder-straps. With a dragoon at his back he had come so softly out of a side alley that not even the captain had marked him.

"What's this, Guilbert?" he demanded.

"Some folks seeking to get through the gates, sir. I've just turned them away."

"What were you saying about the Port Neuve?"

"I said they could go see how that gate is kept. I showed them how this is."

"Why must you pass through at this time of night?" said the commanding officer civilly. Gilles once again bemoaned the dying mother. The young captain, eager to prove his fidelity, interrupted him:

"I believe that's a fairy tale, sir. There's something queer about these people. The girl says she is a grocer's servant, and has hands like a duchess's."

The colonel looked at us sharply, neither friendly nor unfriendly. He said in a perfectly neutral manner:

ESTIMATES AND RESULTS

The evidence before the Royal Commission showed that over 700 SUN LIFE policies had already matured and that in thirty-four per cent. of the cases the amounts originally estimated as likely to be received at the end of the terms, had been realized or exceeded. On all the cases combined the average amount paid had been about ninety-seven per cent. of the estimate. The management may be pardoned for being proud of this record. The estimates now in use since 1900 are lower than former ones, and premiums are higher, so that present estimates should certainly be realized. Statements were also filed showing that $108 is on hand for every $100 required to pay the amounts called for by the present estimates for every deferred profit policy on the books and this without taking into account the Company's great and increasingly valuable contingent fund. Our policyholders are therefore justified in being particularly optimistic in regard to the Company's probable future profits.

Some one has said "the true value of a life assurance policy must be guaged by the security of the protection given; if it proves to be a good investment, all the better: when both are shown, there is nothing on earth to equal it."

The security of the protection afforded by the Sun Life of Canada needs no comment and the profits paid—let our results tell their own forceful story.

Beauty and Health in Fruit Juices.

Apple juice acts directly on the liver, increasing the flow of bile, and this bile, entering the intestines, causes the bowels to move regularly.

Orange juice softens and beautifies the complexion, stimulates the action of the skin glands, and thus assists in purifying the blood.

Figs and prunes—free of acids and skins—soothe the stomach and bowels and strengthen the digestion.

Fruit juice is about 80 per cent. water and 10 per cent. acid. The solids are made up of nine-tenths sweet, and one-tenth bitter material. It is this small quantity of bitter material that acts medicinally.

"Fruit-a-tives" — those wonderful tablets that are curing so many people—are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, concentrated and intensified. An Ottawa physician discovered a process, by which an additional quantity of the bitter principle of the orange peel could be forced into the juices. The ferment—a new compound—many times more effective as a medicine than the fresh fruit juices—and without any of the indigestible pulp or acid. In order to further improve its tonics and antiseptics were added and the whole compound made up tablets. These are "Fruit-a-tives"—the certain cure for Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headaches, Backaches, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Skin Affections. 50c a box; 6 for $2.50. At all druggists, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

YOU CAN EASILY OPERATE THE TYPEWRITER YOURSELF

It won't worry your correspondent. Don't write him anything by hand that takes time to make out that will leave him in doubt, that he can't easily read. And don't fill out special papers or card index— or make out accounts or hotel menus in your own hand writing. It looks bad reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and sometimes ambiguous.

You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memos—make out your accounts, or note, menus—or do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper, and space any way you want on

The OLIVER Typewriter

The Standard Visible Writer

You can write any of these things yourself if you do not happen to have a stenographer.

For you can easily learn with a little practice to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly as an expert operator on the Oliver. Because the Oliver is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 30% more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 30% less wearing points than most other typewriters.

30% easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "mastering"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special space—with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you pay expensive special attachments requiring experts to operate.

You can adjust the Oliver to any reasonable space—you can write on any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without he aid of any expensive attachment or special skill, and your work will be neat appearing, legible and clear.

For the Oliver is the typewriter for the doctor, the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor—or any man that does his own writing.

Write us now for our booklet on the implified features of the Oliver. The Oliver Type, write Building, Chicago, Illinois.

STORMY AROUND EUROPE.

Two Vessels Founder and Forty Lives Reported Lost.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The storm on the English Channel, along the west coast of Europe and North African coast, is still raging, and many fishing boats already have been lost.

A despatch received here from Tangier says that two native passenger boats foundered off El-Araish, Morocco. Forty persons were drowned, including some Europeans.

Kiel, Jan. 10.—A violent northeast wind has driven the waters of the Baltic inshore, and the low lying districts of this city are flooded to the depth of six or seven feet. Many casualties to fishing and other small crafts are reported. A similar driving-in of the sea is occurring at all the coast towns. Guns have been fired all day from the Lubeck fortress to warn the villages that the sea is rising and likely to flood the country, and that they should move further inland.

The scheduled manoeuvres of a German fleet have been postponed on account of the weather.

BROKE UP THE MEETING?

Row at Municipal Elections Leads to Serious Assault Charge.

St. Catharines, Jan. 10.—The keen municipal contest in Niagara Township has resulted in a serious assault case. William Muir, resident of the township, has laid information against Emanuel Stewart, charging him with assault, occasioning actual bodily harm.

It is said that Stewart believed Muir had endeavored to disturb the nomination meeting a week ago, and as a consequence the offence was committed. Muir is in bad shape as a result. He claims he did nothing to break up the meeting. The charge will be heard by Charles Lowry, J. P., at St. David's this afternoon.

IRISHMEN DID IT.

Redmond Says Success of Australia Is Due to Them.

Rome, Jan. 10.—William K. Redmond, member of the British House of Commons from East Clare, and brother of John F. Redmond, delivered a lecture in this city yesterday on the progress of Australia. He described this country as being more wonderful than America, and said the fact that political liberties were greater and the rights of the people more advanced in Australia than in the United States, was due to the circumstance that Irishmen formed the nucleus of the Australian population.

Never Heard of Thaw Case.

New York, Jan. 10.—One new sworn juror was added to the Harry K. Thaw trial panel yesterday, making seven in all selected from the 400 talesmen summoned since the beginning of the second hearing on Monday. Another panel of 100 will report this morning. Justice Dowling has announced that he will hold court on Saturday, if necessary, to complete the jury.

The sole surviyor of the day, who took his place as trial juror No. 7, was William F. Doolittle, chief clerk in the auditing department of the New York Central Railroad. The rate of progress was not gratifying to prosecution and defence, and better things are hoped for to-day.

Patrick McCue, a hat manufacturer, furnished the only bit of color to the proceedings by declaring that he had never heard of the case. Consequently he had no disqualifying opinion and was placed on the temporary side of the trial panel, only to be excused permanently later on.

An Old Treaty Applies.

New York, Jan. 10.—England's commercial relations with the United States are still governed by the treaty of 1815, which ended the war of 1812, according to a decision handed down by the board of general appraisers here yesterday. Several importers of British whiskies protested against the tariff of $2.35 a gallon, when French liquors were admitted for $1.75. The board, however, held that Great Britain was barred by the treaty from "the most favored nation list," and sustained the collector's charges.

Cleveland "Black Hand" Centre.

Cleveland, Jan. 10.—That Cleveland is a centre of so-called "Black Hand" operations is the declaration made by eighteen detectives from several important cities in the United States now here searching the city for members of that organization.

The wholesale manufacture of explosives, it is claimed, have been conducted in Cleveland and several hundred "dangerous" Italians have lately found asylum here.

Terrorists Arrested.

Lausanne, Switzerland, Jan. 10.—Eleven alleged Russian terrorists, including a young woman, were taken into custody here yesterday after an encounter with the police, in which they put up a desperate resistance. They are charged with threatening to assassinate a wealthy local Russian unless he contributed $100 to the revolutionary cause.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS CURE ANAEMIA

Watery blood is an open invitation to disease to take possession of your system. Watery blood is responsible for nearly all the headaches and backaches and sideaches that afflict womankind. Watery blood is responsible for the dull eyes, sallow cheeks and the listless, dragged out feelings that is found in so many growing girls. Good blood means good health, and good blood actually comes through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Weak, ailing, despondent women who use this medicine are made active and strong; listless pale-faced girls are given new health, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and a new sense of happiness and security. Mrs. E. S. Nightingale, Chesley, Ont., says:—"My daughter was ill for a long time with anaemia and would often be confined to bed for three or four days at a time, and we feared she was going into a decline. A lady friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got a half dozen boxes. By the time these were used there was a marked improvement, and I got a further supply for her. The change these pills have wrought in her condition is so great that you would not think that she was the same girl. I will always have a kindly feeling for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Arrest In Whitmore Case.

New York, Jan. 10.—Two important arrests were made Wednesday in the case of the murder of Mrs. Theodore S. Whitmore of Brooklyn in the Lamp-black Swamp at Harrison, N. J.

Fred W. Elliott, the railroad man who visited Whitmore from Christmas Day until the following Saturday, was arrested in Boston.

Mrs. Cassie McKay, who may be of equal importance with George Dickenson in bringing the murderer of Mrs. Lena Whitmore to justice, was arrested by Detective Hymes of the central office. The woman has confessed that she was with Whitmore, the husband accused of the crime; George Dickenson and Fred W. Elliott the day after Christmas.

Traveler Found Dead.

Sarnia, Jan. 10.—C. F. Allison, traveling representative for the London Printing & Lithographing Co., who has been in town for the last couple of days on business for that firm, was found dead in his room at the Vendome Hotel here yesterday morning. Mr. Allison was found kneeling on the floor of his room beside the bed in his nightdress, but life was extinct. Dr. Bently was called, but nothing could be done, although the body was still warm.

Buried In Gravel Pit.

Fergus, Jan. 10.—Buried beneath several feet of gravel, Daniel McDermott was killed in the pit in which he was working in West Garafraxa, near here.

Ice Threatens Village.

St. John, N. B., Jan. 10.—The movement of ice in the St. John River is threatening the destruction of villages along its banks.

MESSENGER BOY'S FEAT.

Only Sixteen, He Beats the Record From London to Berlin and Back.

What can be done by a well-trained messenger boy over land and sea, and returning quickly with the needed answer, has just been shown by Sergeant Williams Bevan of the District Messengers. Bevan is only sixteen, and small for his age, being known amongst his intimates because of this as "the Bloomsbury Giant."

On Friday evening, the 15th inst., he received a call. Answering it he received an order, brief but pointed:—"Take this letter to this address in Berlin, get it signed for, and bring back an answer. Don't be long away, as we're busy."

Off without question went little Bevan. The time was 7.45 p.m. He had to catch the 8.35 p.m. train from Holborn Viaduct to Queenborough, going to Endsleigh Gardens first for his ticket. He did it without stopping to take anything but a clean shirt, collars, and an overcoat. When he reached Flushing he was a little poorly from sea-sickness, for the sea had been heavy, but he at once boarded the train for Berlin, which he reached at 7.20 on Saturday night.

He was quite unable to speak German, but hailed a cab, showed the driver the address on the letter he was carrying, and was at once driven to a well-known club. Here he delivered his missive into the hands of the gentleman it was intended for. His coolness, his uniform, and his small size attracted great attention, and the club-men, many of whom could speak English, made much of him.

He was taken round in a cab to see the sights of Berlin by night, as he desired to do, and then went to sleep at an hotel. Next morning he was at the club betime to get the answer to his message. When he got that he spent the time until the train started at the Berlin Zoo. Then he repeated his journey across Germany and Holland, caught the boat, and was back in London by half-past nine on Monday night, having beaten the quickest postal route by some five hours.

Sergeant Bevan thinks Berlin "a fine, clean city," but considers the German food "somewhat peculiar, though tasty."

TO DISPEL LONDON FOGS.

Mists to Be Dissipated by Means of Air Projectors.

A scheme to disperse fogs by currents of air shot over London from "projectors" six miles away has been laid before the public control committee of the London County Council, and M. Demetrio Moggiora, the inventor, is ready to start experiments.

M. Moggiora says his apparatus has already been subjected to severe tests at Milan, Italy, where fogs, clouds and hailstorms were quickly dissipated. With his projectors, or air cannon, placed within a radius of six miles from the Houses of Parliament, he says, he will clear away the worst fog in London within twenty minutes.

"The theory is that the fog hangs over London simply because there are no air currents to carry it away," said M. Moggiora. "Now, my projectors, acting like cannon, furnish the necessary currents of air.

"Each projector is about sixty feet long. An explosion is caused as in a cannon, and the concussion has an effect for six miles. Thus if ten or more of these were ranged over London from different directions the fog would be lifted immediately to an altitude where the wind would blow it away. After the apparatus was permanently installed the cost would be 14 cents for each explosion, and twenty explosions would rid the metropolis of its densest fog. The cost for original construction would be $3,000.

"I am confident," said M. Moggiora, "that my experiments will demonstrate the practicability of a fogless London."

"The suggestion is no more incredible than wireless telegraphy," said an official. "Who knows but in a short time we shall have a department for the control of fogs and rain, with experts to regulate the proper proportions of sunshine and cloudy weather?"

How Flint Ware Was Invented.

A Staffordshire potter named Astbury once stopped at Dunstable on his way to London in order to obtain advice as to his horse's weak vision. The hostler at his inn burned some flints and pulverised them into a fine powder, which he blew into the animal's eyes.

Astbury was astounded—not at the nature of the operation, but at the fact that the erstwhile black flint became white with the heat.

Surely, thought he, if this powdered flint were added to the ordinary pipeclay it would, on being fired, produce a far harder and more serviceable white ware than ordinary clay.

He tried the experiment, and flint ware was added to the list of British manufactures.

Aged Couple Perish.

Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 10.—Albert Moulton and his wife, both aged more than 75 years, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home in this village yesterday.

Their 18-year-old grandson ran out of the house, expecting that the aged couple were following him. He tried to go back to their aid, but smoke and flames barred the stairway.

PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY

PE-RU-NA IS EFFICIENT

IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.

SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

CATARRH of the respiratory organs is a common ailment in Canada for at least two-thirds of the year.

This condition is no doubt caused by the long, severe winters experienced in this part of the continent.

Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine, not only among individuals and in families, but in the great hospitals, where it was used as a preventative and relief in hundreds of cases.

These institutions do not hesitate to give their endorsement of the remedy which has been so helpful in the treatment of their poor and sick.

Among these institutions is that of the Sisters of Good Shepherd, who gave the following endorsement:

The Peruna Company,
Columbus, Ohio,

Having used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
August 20, 1903. Montreal.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its good opinion of the remedy and expresses its satisfaction in the following terms:

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1903.

We found Peruna a relief in several cases.

We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.

A systemic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who write, as follows:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old, Repoul Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Before the treatment I could not walk for a quarter of an hour without experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.

"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."

Hospital St. John, of St. Johns, Province of Quebec.

A later letter received from the same institution reads as follows:

"Three weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuralgia.

"I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour."

Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask., N. W. T., Canada, writes:

"I suffered with pelvic catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."

Peruna not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage.

Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight attack of catarrh than would be required to relieve the ailment after it had been allowed to become chronic.

B E E F

Beef extracts contain only the flavor and stimulating elements of beef—the nutritive values are lost in the making. Baron Liebig, the inventor of beef extracts, admitted that. He said "It is but a condiment and stimulant, containing no matter capable of sustaining life."

That is where BOVRIL differs from beef extracts.

BOVRIL does contain the nourishment and life-sustaining elements of beef as well as its rich flavor.

BOVRIL gives strength and nourishment to the invalid. With its help you can make left-over scraps into delicious consommes, bouillons and soups with very little trouble.

ENGLAND

A Plymouth woman has just had a splendid piece of good fortune. A cablegram from Australia announces judgment has been given in Melbourne in favour of the claim of Mrs. Moule, the wife of a shoemaker living at Plymouth, to a fortune of £100,000. Litigation has been going on for a long time regarding the matter, and Mrs. Moule died three years ago, so the money passes to her husband and children. All are in humble circumstances, and two of the sons are in the navy. The owner of the money, William Henry Osmond, formerly a member of the Victorian Legislature, and uncle of Mrs. Moule, died in 1901, leaving all his property to his next of kin. It was disputed by other claimants that Mrs. Moule's father was illegitimate.

The story of a romantic will has just come to light in Bristol, Gloucestershire. The late William Towgood, who died in 1883, left £1,000 to the Bristol Royal Infirmary, payable after the death of his widow. The will was vague, and the court of appeal held that the legacy was contingent on the widow dying intestate. Notwithstanding the decision of the court, Mrs. Towgood has always said the institution mentioned in her husband's will should benefit eventually. The committee of the Royal Infirmary has been pleased to receive from the solicitors of Mrs. Towgood, now deceased, a statement that she has left £1,000 to the Infirmary and that it will be paid in due course.

It is proposed to hold a great pageant in London next July, to be called the "London Historical Pageant, 1908," and to devote the profits as a contribution to the Kind Edward VII. Hospital Fund. From seven to eight thousand ladies and gentlemen from all the London municipal boroughs will take part. A central site has been selected in the heart of London, and Prof. Oman, Chichele Professor of Modern History at Oxford, is assisting the committee in arranging the pictures. The first scene will depict a sacrifice to Diana, and the pageant will end with scenes of the days of the powdered wig and patches of the 18th century.

South Wales University College, Cardiff, and other Welsh institutions benefit under the will of Mrs. Annie Fulton, of Gwentland, Penarth, who has left an estate valued at £70,057 gross and £68,610 net. Testatrix, who was the widow of the late Alderman Andrew Fulton, left over £30,000 for charities and education and religious purposes. After bequests to relatives, she leaves the residue of the estate in trust equally in four shares to the Cardiff Infirmary, to the completion and decoration of the Cardiff town hall, to the Cardiff University College buildings, and the Cardiff University College for professorships.

SCOTLAND

The St. Andrews students created considerable excitement through their attitude to an attempt made by the women students to hold a meeting in favour of the suffragist movement. The women gathered in one of the class rooms of the United College, but the men effected an entrance and created such an uproar that the proceedings had to be abandoned. Subsequently the women met in their own union, being followed by the men. The latter failing to get in by the front door, climbed a wall and made their way into the dining room. Chairs, etc., were pitched into the garden, window blinds torn and other damage done. As the suffragists emerged they were surrounded by about eighty students, who joined hands giving vent to their feelings in sarcasm, pon their victims. The women were allowed to disperse to their abodes, but the male students formed a procession and marched through the town with a smashed coal scuttle hled on high as a trophy and an emblem of their view that woman's place in the world is at her own fireside.

The Rev. G. H. Williamson, Bishop of St. Andrew's and Primus of Scotland, died suddenly at a meeting in Edinburgh of the Representative Council of the Scottish Episcopal Church. He had just concluded a speech on the decrease of the Clergy Sustentation Fund, when he suddenly fell backwards and expired. A short service was at once engaged in. Dr. Wilkinson, who was born in 18333, was, was formerly a London clergyman of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, and he was widely esteemed. From 1879 to 1881 he was select preacher at Oxford; two years later he became Bishop of Truro, and in 1892 he went to St. Andrews, where he has since carried on an energetic and useful ministry. He was a scholar of Oriel College, and contributed extensively to the literature of the church.

The great oak tree which has for far beyond living memory been one of the sights of the fine woodlands on the Marquis of Tweeddale's estate in East Lothian, has come to an untimely end. The giant measured 15 feet around the bole and was of magnificent appearance. It is estimated to contain 400 cubic feet of timber and to date back to the Union of the Crowns of Scotland and England.

IRELAND

The County Meath Rural Council at a recent meeting received several notices claiming compensation for injuries arising out of cattle driving and the agitation connected with the anti-grazing movement. The largest of those was made on behalf of Mr. William Dove, who claims £2,260. In his claim he sets forth that on Sunday, December 1, on the lands of Lisclogher, two cattle-sheds with corn lofts over them, fifty barrels of rye, 100 barrels of old oats, three carts, two sheep racks, one hay seed sower, one corn barrow, 100 oat sacks, thirteen fat bullocks, one pony trap, and one thoroughbred foal were wilfully set fire to, burned, and destroyed. Other claims of varying amounts were made, and the council decided to oppose the claims when they come up for hearing.

Galway County Council has resolved to address their letters in Irish, to print demand notes for rate receipts, advertisements for situations, tenders, etc., bilingually, requested their Committee of Agriculture in all future appointments to make a spoken knowledge of Irish necessary for teachers in the Irish-speaking districts. A resolution was also passed expressing regret that the directors of the National Bank had not yet agreed to the request of the Irish public bodies on the question of Irish signature to cheques. Mr. L Conroy, J.P., thought it would be going too far to shut out residents of the eastern part of the county, where Irish was not very much spoken, of positions under the council.

"Intimation has just been received by the Board of Directors of the Cavan and Leitrim Light Railway from the Chief Secretary's Office, Dublin, that the £21,000 free grant offered by the Government for the proposed extensions of the line at Arigna and Dromod has now been withdrawn by the Treasury in consequence of the company and the Leitrim County Council failing to agree on a scheme for carrying out the extensions. The grant was given from the Irish Development Fund as a result of Mr. Walter Long's (late Chief Secretary for Ireland) visit to the Arigna mineral district. It is expected that the grant will now be given towards the projected line from Arigna to Sligo town."

It seems likely that there will be a lot of trouble yet over the police force in Belfast. The inspector-general of constabulary has lately been in that city and has ordered the transfer of a number of non-commission officers to various stations. It is supposed that this order has been made in consequence of the trouble that took place in the force during the recent troubles in Belfast over the strike disturbances. Many of the constables who spent years in the constabulary employ speak of resigning altogether if obliged to leave Belfast.

MANY CASES HERE OF RHEUMATISM

A Mixture Which Makes The Kidneys Filter Out Poisons And Waste

TRY THE MIXTURE ANYWAY

All medical authorities are agreed that the blood is the great source of disease or of health in the human system. If the blood is pure, the individual is strong and healthy; if the blood is impure or diseased, then there is sickness or decay in the whole system.

Rheumatism is strictly a blood disease. It is caused by excessive uric acid. Sores, pimples, etc., mean bad blood. Catarrhal affections must be treated through the blood to get permanent results. To get well, to feel strong, hearty and vigourous, one must have good clean blood and lots of it. You can't clean the blood thoroughly unless the kidneys are made active. Bad blood means clogged, inactive kidneys and liver, which causes, too, such symptoms as backache, nervousness, bladder and urinary difficulties and other sympathetic troubles.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime. The ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

Here the readers of this paper have a simple yet powerful and effective remedy for all forms of blood, kidney and bladder diseases which should relieve rheumatism and catarrhal affections and replace that weak, worn-out, indifferent feeling with strength, vigour and health.

KEPT WITHIN BOUNDS.

Young People In Virginia In Chief Justice Marshall's Day.

In an old biography of Chief Justice Marshall there is an anecdote which gives a significant hint of the discipline to which young people were subject in that earlier day.

Several of the great jurist's nieces were in the habit of visiting him, and as they were young and attractive the house became a rendezvous for the leading young men of the city during the afternoons. Judge Marshall's black major domo, old Uncle Joseph, held a tight rein upon these visitors. Every day at 4 o'clock he would appear at the door of the drawing room in spotless livery and with a profound bow would announce:

"Ladies, his honor the chief justice has retired to his room to prepare for dinner.

"Gentlemen, dinner will be served at half past 4 o'clock. It is now 4. His honor will be pleased if you will remain, and covers have been laid for you at the table. If you cannot remain, will you permit the young ladies to retire to prepare for the meal?"

The gentlemen usually took their leave, and the ladies retired in an ill humor, but any remonstrance with Joseph was only answered by: "It is the rule of the house. Young folks must be kept within bounds."

In Virginia houses of the better class, notwithstanding their almost boundless hospitality, the calls of young men in that day were strictly held within limit. No one was received as a visitor to an unmarried girl unless his antecedents and character were well known to her parents.

GRAVITATION.

The Mystery of This Wonderful Force in Nature.

When plants are grown in receptacles fastened to the rim of a rapidly revolving wheel, the shoots and leaves grow toward the center and the roots away from the center of revolution. This is remarkable as showing the influence of centrifugal motion upon growth.

But the earth, any point in whose surface at the equator passes through fifteen miles in one minute, has a centrifugal motion so swift and so great that it is almost inconceivable. Why, then, reasoning on the basis of this wheel experiment, do not trees and plants grow in the directions they are urged by this centrifugal force—namely, with leaves and boughs toward the earth's center and roots pointing to the sky?

The answer is because there is a force called gravitation which overpowers the enormous centrifugal force and practically reverses it. Whether this overmastering force which we call gravitation is electrical or what it is no one has yet been able to discover. There can be no doubt that it is the greatest force we know of.

To unveil the mystery of it would be to become masters of a power whose possibilities dazzle the human mind. It would simplify the problem of building, water and air navigation, projectiles and many other branches of mechanics. It would revolutionize present methods.

Are You Strong?

Do You Eat and Sleep Well? —Or Are You Pale, Weak and Miserable?

Has your nerve given out? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become such an awful burden that you look upon it with horror?

There's just one thing left to do, and that is to take Ferrozone and get your system into good shape again.

It's quite impossible for anyone to be weak or nervous that uses Ferrozone. It contains so many strength-giving properties benefit is bound to result from its use.

Ferrozone possesses the power to kindle new vitality and vigor where almost a dying condition of weakness exists.

It is an extraordinary and magical tonic, containing more actual nourishment and strengthening elements than you can get at in any other way. As a blood purifier, nerve strengthener and appetizing tonic there is simply no equal to Ferrozone. Of this we are positively sure.

It is crowned with the success of splendid cures; will restore anyone to health who uses it. The following letters from people who have actually experienced what Ferrozone can do will clearly show you just how beneficially it acts:—

No Medicine Ever Did So Much Lasting Good as Ferrozone.

"It would be difficult to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Ferrozone," writes Miss Eva Wight, of Florenceville. "I was so weak and miserable that I could scarcely go around the house. My head ached, there was a dragging weakness in my limbs, and I felt as if every spark of life had left me. Ferrozone improved my appetite, toned up my blood, and soon made me well. Nothing I ever used did me half the good I got from Ferrozone."

The Great Tonic, Ferrozone, Brought Back Life.

"I am anxious to speak a good word for such a magnificent tonic as Ferrozone," says E. P. Genow, of Yorktown. "I was wretchedly worn out. I was apprehensive, and lacked confidence. It was simply due to my very weak state. The only remedy that really did me lasting good was Ferrozone. It rebuilt my strength, has made me as vigorous and happy as a man could be. In the whole range of medicines I never used anything with half the merit I found in Ferrozone."

Though you spend a thousand dollars on doctors, you can't get a more vitalizing, strengthening tonic than Ferrozone. It is the best that money, combined with scientific research, can produce. If anything in this world will make you strong it must be Ferrozone. Others have proved its worth. You can easily do so for yourself. It will send new vital energy and renewed youth singing through your veins. It's nature's own remedy—a true food tonic.

THE HALIFAX MEMBER ATTACKED

Scene in the House of Commons Last Night.

YOUNG MEMBER REPROVED

Expenses of Marine Department Again Under Criticism—Cadet Lancaster's Case Is Discussed — Opposition Attack on R. M. C. Commandant—Sir Fred. Borden Reads His Judgment in the Matter.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—An incident which caused a flutter in the House last night was a sharp lesson in Parliamentary manners read to Mr. Boyce, the youthful member for West Algoma, by Mr. Roche of Halifax. In the course of the discussion on the Marine Department vote Mr. Boyce took occasion to refer to the Halifax election petition, and remarked that Mr. Roche had no right to sit in the House. This roused the ire of Mr. Roche, who reproved the member for West Algoma for his personal attack, and threatened to produce a statement made by a witness in the election trial to the effect that he had been bought over by the Conservative lawyers and promised a situation if Mr. Roche were convicted. Earlier in the day the attention of the House was called by Col. Sam Hughes to the circumstances attending the rustication of a cadet, a son of Mr. Lancaster, M. P., at the Royal Military College, Kingston, and the rest of the session was spent in committee of supply on the estimates, the Opposition returning to the attack upon Mr. Brodeur and his Department on the ground of extravagance.

Attacked Marine Department.

At the evening session George Taylor led the attack on the Marine Department. In a general way he showed that there had been large increases in this branch of the Government and then he switched off to the days of long ago, when Hon. William Paterson roared denunciation of expenditures of the Conservative Government. This brought him to a reference to the noise that was made when certain C. P. R. officials presented Lady Macdonald with a diamond necklace, while nothing was said now by the same gentleman complaining of the present of an automobile by Lord Strathcona, who is interested largely in the Hill railways and the C.P.R., to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He gave Mr. Paterson credit for consistency in refusing to charge the country with cab hire for himself after condemning the Conservative Ministers for the same practice.

William Roche (Halifax) defended the Minister of Marine. The steamers employed in the lighthouse and coast service by the present Government were craft of modern construction and had been outfitted with due regard to their efficiency. Instead of condemning in a general way the alleged waste of money, Mr. Taylor should point to items that showed extravagance.

Man of Nautical Skill.

Mr. Boyce (Algoma) went after the previous speaker, who he described as a man who, by reason of his nautical skill in steering past all reefs and rocks of election courts could properly be regarded as an expert in seafaring matters. The member for Halifax had no right to sit in the House, he said.

Mr. Roche denied he was afraid of courts; he had been in them all his life, and he was prepared, if this argument were continued, to prove corrupt acts on the parts of his opponents. The discussion promised to open up the Halifax election case, and Hon. Charles Marcil, chairman, shut it off with a ruling that the debate was not relevant to the items before the committee.

Treatment of a Cadet.

In the afternoon Col. Sam Hughes called attention to what appeared to be rather harsh treatment accorded Cadet Lancaster of the Royal Military College. The young man, who is a son of the member for Lincoln, was accused of taking a cigarette case from the room of a fellow cadet with the intention not to return it. He was taken before the commandant of the college, the evidence was given in camera and the boy sentenced to rustication. There had been charges previously against other cadets, such as taking cake from the rooms of others, and Lancaster's father had championed the cause of one of these boys. Col. Hughes condemned the action of the commandant in pursuing this course. His action was cowardly and it was unfortunate that not one of the boys was compelled to testify when the accused was not present.

The result of the trial was the conviction of the cadet, and he was placed in close confinement. The matter, however, being brought to the attention of the Minister of Militia, the evidence was reviewed and the verdict of the commandant set aside. The commandant, who would thus heap odium on a cadet for committing a boyish prank, was unfit to remain in his position 24 hours. Col. Hughes said spirit should be installed into the boys that would prompt them to refuse to answer questions unless brought face to face with the accused.

"The subject," concluded the gallant colonel, copying a newspaper motto, "who is truly loyal will neither advise nor submit to arbitrary, cowardly or contemptible measures."

Minister of Militia Replies.

Sir Frederick Borden, while expressing the view that a question of this kind should not be brought up in this way, gave a detailed account of the circumstances. In justice to the commandant he did not believe he had been actuated by any low motives, and the methods employed were entirely usual. Other charges were made against other cadets, the sentence in each case being remitted by the commandant. In Lancaster's case the charge was that he had taken a cigarette case with intent to keep it, and the evidence was sent to the Department. The judgment of the Minister was that the commandant had proceeded regularly, but the Minister was unable to adopt the finding as the testimony had failed to establish that the young man's actions were inconsistent with the intention of availing himself temporarily of the cigarette case. It was also the opinion of the Minister that the act of young Lancaster was to the prejudice of good order and military discipline.

R. L. Borden believed there was not one iota of evidence to justify the sentence. The offence was a mere boyish prank and the decision of a most extraordinary nature, and indicated that the commandant was perfectly incapable of understanding the essentials of the case. To adopt a course of endeavoring to place the stigma of crime on a cadet was intolerable.

Armand Lavergne (Montmagny) believed the commandant of the college to be a man of honor. The cadets had only one choice, namely, to answer all questions put to them by their superior officers and the matter should not have been brought up in the house.

Hon. Col. Tisdale said if the commandant had power to conduct a trial in this way that power ought to be taken from him.

Col. Ward (Durham) agreed. He asked Sir Frederick Borden if the commandant had the same powers as the commander of a regiment, and being answered in the affirmative, Col. Ward read from the military rules to show that the commander of a regiment had no power to try a case of theft. In the case of young Lancaster, the cadet from whom the article was taken, would not lay a charge, and it was not till some months after, when suspicions were aroused in connection with another trivial offence, that the commandant made the charge himself, young Lancaster was refused counsel and the trial unfairly conducted. He believed there were good reasons for an enquiry as to the fitness of the commandant for his position.

[illegible] (Hastings) said it was [illegible] the young man had not [illegible] for himself.

Review Evidence in Future.

Sir Fred. Borden said as a result of this investigation instructions had been given that in future evidence must be taken down and sent to the Minister to be reviewed.

E. Guss Porter said evidently the practice of the department had been violated. Evidence not taken under oath before the board of enquiry was sent to the Minister, while that given under oath was not forwarded again. This was the third petty charge levelled against Lancaster. This disclosed a motive. It appeared to Mr. Porter that the commandant had pursued the young man, and he thought he was unfit to occupy the position. The matter then dropped.

The Opposition again assailed the methods of the Marine Department. On the House going into supply yesterday afternoon as to the expense of Commander Spain, Mr. Brodeur said the commander was allowed $6 a day for living expenses, and he was not in possession of railway passes, as was stated by an Opposition member.

Mr. Foster found, in the accounts amounts totaling $8,913 for the Minister and his secretary for traveling expenses during 18 months. What for?

Mr. Foster again interrogated the Minister for more details. Some of the amount was for expenses of officers of the Department going to England on official business.

Mr. Brodeur warmly resented the allegations of the North Toronto representative, who promised to let in some light on the extravagance of the Minister if he had to stay 15 years on the job.

Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) asked how much the British Government contributed to the comfort of the Canadian party at the Imperial Conference. The answer was unsatisfactory. The Minister had paid some accounts presented by the Hotel Cecil. He did not say how much, and Mr. Foster accused him of withholding credit from the British Government for putting up generously for their entertainment.

George Taylor went into the details of fitting out the ice-breaker Montcalm. Dickies at $1 each, were bought for the 37 sailormen who operated the craft, and thousands of dollars were wastefully laid out for the comfort of the men. The reading of the accounts occupied most of the hour before dinner and afforded much amusement.

Mr. Foster asked when the insurance bill would be taken up. The Finance Minister replied that it would be given its second reading pro forma, and would be sent to the banking and commerce committee if the Opposition were prepared to undertake that there would be no discussion. Mr. Foster, however, in the absence of his leader could not promise.

Mr. Fielding said the budget debate would not take place till after the French treaty had been disposed of.

The House adjourned at 11.35.

Mr. Speaker informed the House of the election of F. D. McLean in Centre York. The new member has not yet arrived.

Shipwrecked When a Boy.

London, Jan. 11.—Mr. John Christie, an ex-mayor of London, and the largest property-owner in the city, died yesterday morning in his 87th year.

When a child of 4 years he was wrecked in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and rescued by the late Sam Stewart of London, who swam ashore with him. Two sisters perished in the wreck.

Too Ill to Attend Court.

New York, Jan. 11.—Robert C. Caldwell, who was arrested upon his arrival here from Europe several weeks ago, on a charge of perjury in connection with the famous Druce case in London, was too ill to appear before United States Commissioner Alexander for arraignment yesterday. Caldwell is at the home of his daughter on Staten Island. He is under $5,000 bonds to appear before the commissioner.

Polish Terrorists Busy.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Jan. 11.—The terrorists of this city, who have been quiet for some time past, have resumed operations. Yesterday morning they made an attack on the Post-Car Station at Sokolow, on the Vistula Railroad, threw a bomb at the car, killing two and wounding ten soldiers and railroad employes. After looting the safes, the terrorists made their escape with considerable money.

Drank Acid by Mistake.

London, Jan. 11.—Mr. Bert Hinchamp narrowly escaped death by drinking from a carbolic acid bottle, in mistake for a cough mixture yesterday. Although his throat was terribly burned, he was able to alarm the family, who summoned a physician. It was necessary to resort to drastic measures to save the young man's life.

Investigating Jewel Robbery.

Dublin, Jan. 11.—The vice-regal commission appointed recently to sift the disappearance from Dublin Castle last July of a part of the state regalia, valued at $250,000, held its initial session yesterday.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY JANUARY 11 1908

A SPLENDID CLOSING TO THE WEEK OF PRAYER; AID FOR THE CHILDREN

The last of the series of meetings of the week of prayer was all that was promised, and more. The large auditorium of St. Paul's was well filled, and a number was in the gallery. At 8 o'clock the city clergymen, who had been holding a brief prayer meeting in the vestry, took their seats in the front of the church. Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. H. M. Manning occupied the pulpit.

Magistrate Dumble explained that the object of the offering was to defray the expenses connected with the meetings of the week, and the surplus would be given to the Children's Aid Society. The response was a generous one, the offering amounting to over $33, and the greater part of this will go to the Children's Aid.

Rev. Mr. Manning gave an eloquent and forceful treatment of his subject, "The Sinless Future." Ground for our belief in its existence is not to be found in science of philosophy, but in revelation. It begins in the redemption of Christ, and preparation for it is made here in the lives of believers, and finds its culmination after death in the union of the resurrected body and individual spirit.

This closes the series. The people made a response, and showed an earnest spirit at all the services.

A RESUME OF PETERBORO' WEATHER FOR THE YEAR THAT HAS JUST GONE INTO HISTORY

Authentic Figures Compiled From Registrations at The Peterboro' Observatory—When The Days Were Hot and Cold

43.35 WAS THE AVERAGE

It is talking 'bout the weather
That has made the weather vain.

So says a weather wag, but, in spite of his warning, here are some facts about 1907 weather, and how it sizes up with the weather of other years.

Weather we have always with us, and take it a year at a time, it doesn't usually show great variation. However the year that has just slipped by shows some interesting variations from the usual.

The average temperature of 1907 was 44.35, the average of the past 67 years, figuring out at 44.30. The remarkable years were 1868 and 1875, which had an average temperature of 47.15 and 49.77 respectively.

Hot and Cold Months

The hottest month of last year was sultry July, with the thermometer figures averaging up to 69.30. The average of hottest months in 67 years—as calculated the weather officials at the Observatory, at Toronto—is 67.84, and the hottest month was usually July. July, 1868, had an average temperature of 75.80, and August, the hottest month in 1860, had an average temperature of only 64.48.

The most shivery month last year was February, with an average temperature of 18.50. Usually the coldest month is January.

Warmest Days

The warmest of the It-it-hot-enough-for-you? days in 1907, was June 18th, the thermometer touching 89 degrees in the shade. As will be seen no very high mark was reached last year. August 24th, 1854, holds the proud record of sending the mercury up to 99.2 degrees, in Toronto.

The lowest dip the mercury took last year in Peterborough was 20 degrees below zero on January 24th. The lowest authenticated reading of the thermometer in Peterborough, was 38 degrees below.

Given in inches last year's rainfall was 28.55. The average for 67 years in Toronto, is 27.07, and the extremes show 43.85 in 1843, and 17.57 in 1874.

The greatest depth of rain record in 1907 locally, is held by December, with 5.05 inches. September is usually the wettest month.

Given in inches last year's snowfall was 68 inches, or below the average of 67 years. An immense amount fell in 1870, the year the Otonabee went on its memorable rampage. The minimum fall of snow was in 1899.

The first half of Jan. 1907, was comparatively mild. Not until the 16th of the month did the thermometer descend below zero. On the 23rd decidedly cold weather set in, and continued until the end of the month. The coldest day during the month—and winter—was the 24th, when the temperature was down to 20 degrees below zero. The mildst day was the 28th, viz., 46 degrees. Sleighing was fairly good during the entire month, although there was not more than six inches on the level.

February was colder than the preceding month, and the cold snaps were more evenly distributed over the month. On 15 occasions the thermometer went below zro. Not very much snow fell but the sleighing was A1.

March came in comparatively mild, and on but one night was the temperature below zero, i.e., on the 7th, 10 degrees below. The crows made their appearance on the 10th, and robins and song sparrows on the 19th. There were many spring-like days during the latter half of the month. The sleighing had disappeared by the 16th.

April was unusually cold and backward. Snowstorms occurred on the 8th, 10th and 16th. The rainfall for the month amounted to less than half an inch.

May was exceedingly backward, and the unusual phenomena of snow storms on several occasion was seen. On the 4th six inches fell, and there was fine sleighing for a short time. As late as the 20th of the month, winter seemed loth to leave, and one-half inch fell.

Leafy June did not belie its name. By the 4th maples were in full leaf, elms about half leaf, but locusts did not show any signs of life. June was a normal month, but vegetation generally had been so long delayed, in the preceding months, that by the close of June everything was still weeks behind where it should be. A number of severe thunderstorms occurred during the last ten days. On the 18th the thermometer was at its highest point during the summer, 89 degrees.

July and August had a higher average temperature than usual, though there were no long continued oppressively hot spells. The rainfall was light.

September brought the usual fall rains as well as the first touch of Jack Frost. He made his debut on the 23rd. The rainfall during th month was 2.57.

The leaves began to fall from the trees on October 1st, and by the 25th the trees were gaunt and bar. Several quite cold dips occurred more especially on the 21st and 31st.

On November 7th, the first snowfall of any account occurred; during the month eight inches fell. The first half of November was on a par with the latter half, as regards temperature.

On December 4th, we had the first zero weather, 6 below, on the 5th. On two other days zero prevailed. The month was not unduly severe, and there was only one important storm, on the 14th. There was good sleighing during the month, except for a few days around the 8th.

MISSIONARY FROM THE LAND OF THE THISTLE

Rev. Andrew Allan, the Scottish missionary from Glasgow, Scotland, has arrived in the city and will begin a series of addresses at St. Andrew's church to-morrow. There will be a mass meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m., the subject being "My Palestine Passport; what it did for me." On Monday night Rev. Allan will deliver an address on "Seven years in the Gold fields of South Africa," with accounts of his experiences with the Boers and their leaders, and the causes of the South African war.

THE CONDITION IN WEST

Brother of Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, of Pearson, Man., a Visitor in The City—Mild Winter

LITTLE LOSS TO FARMERS

Mr. W S Kenner, of Pearson, Man., arrived in the city yesterday to visit his brother, Mr. H R H Kenner, principal-designate of the local Collegiate Institute, for a few days. Mr. Kenner states that the west is more than holding its own with the progress and advancement of the country.

Pearson is located about 75 miles to the south of Brandon and in that district the crops suffered little from the frost. Any damage caused by it will be more than repaid by the price of grains this year.

The weather in the west in the section from which Mr. Kenner came has been genial and as yet no severe frosts have arrived. Mr. Kenner came east to visit at his home at Prince Albert, Ontario County, and his brother here. He will only remain in Peterborough a few days.

Wanted News of Wit and Wisdom

In another place of this issue will be found a column on "Wit and Wisdom" collected from the best papers and magazines in the country. The Examiner desires to open this column to it's readers who are requested to send any short items they would like to see in print. Often a brief note setting forth some moral point carries a great deal of weight with it—sometimes even more than a sermon. The column will also be open to items of wit and humor and it is hoped that the readers of the Examiner will assist each week. Remember they must be brief.

Assembly Hall

—Special meetings conducted by Evangelists Jos. Pearson, of Byfield, Mass., and Jas. Lyon, of Toronto, will be continued Saturday night at 7 p.m., and every night next week except Saturday, at 7.45 p.m., in the Assembly Hall, under Bradburn's old Opera House, George street. All are cordially invited.

NAILED TO THE FLOOR

Police Court Case That Was Out Of The Ordinary—Wet Weather Is Not Wanted

SCRIBES PLEAD NOT GUILTY

A prominent member of the Peterborough Law Association who defends many prisoners in the local police court had a little joke played on him yesterday, worthy of mention.

The learned gentleman left his rubbers down stairs in the police station and while he was defending an Italian up stairs in the police court, some person drove a few nails through each of his rubbers and made them fast to the floor. On coming down the lawyer found his rubbers firmly fastened and went home without them. P. C. Newhall after the learned counsellor had gone, pulled out the nails with a straw driver and took the rubbers up to the barrister's office.

The court reporters are blamed for being the prime movers of this prank, but the scribes from the sanctums plead not guilty.

MAN WHO ROBBED BUCKHORN STORE SAID TO BE CAPTURED IN TORONTO

The Toronto police have in custody a man, named Edward Burke, whom they believe, robbed Purser's store at Buckhorn, about two weeks ago. Mr. George Cochrane, High County Constable, received a message from Toronto, where the police are holding the man until Mr. Cochrane goes after him. The police of the Queen City from a certain circumstance connected with his arrest, believe that he is the man who robbed the store.

The affair will be readily remembered, as it created a sensation at the time. A strange man entered Purser's general store in the evening after dark, some weeks ago, and with drawn revolver, opened the fire before the eyes of Miss Purser and Miss Stubbs. He threatened the young ladies, if they made an attempt to give an alarm, coolly took possession of the twenty-five dollars that it contained, backed towards the front door and disappeared in the darkness that lay heavy around the little village. Pursuit was impossible, and the man made good his escape, and has not since been heard of. The photograph of the man is in Mr. Cochrane's possession, and it is hoped that Burke is the right man.

Peterboro' Men At The Meetings of The Dairy Association

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie Impressed With The Necessity of Cool Curing Rooms For Cheese Factories

MEETINGS HELD AT PICTON

Alderman-elect Geo. A. Gillespie returned last night from Picton, where he has been attending the meetings of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, which were held on January 8, 9 and 10. The meetings were all largely attended, and hundreds were turned away, especially at the evening meetings. Mr. J R Dargavel of Elgin, president of the association, acted as chairman. Mr. R G Murphy of Brockville, secretary, was also present with the other officers.

Two subjects received special attention, that of cow testing and establishing cool curing rooms for cheese. Mr. Whitley of the dairy section of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, one of the speakers, gave a splendid address on cow testing, and, in fact, every speaker emphasized its importance.

Mr. Glendenning dealt with the cheap production of milk and the desirability of growing alfalfa hay. His experience in this respect was of great assistance, as he spoke intelligently and gave a clear idea of his meaning.

The cool curing of cheese was thoroughly discussed. Out of 26 cool curing rooms in Eastern Ontario, 17 are in Prince Edward county. Mr. Gillespie learned that if Peterborough county desires to maintain its position in cheese-making there have to be better improvements made.

Mr. Barr, official referee at Montreal, urged a fairer inspection of cheese. His advice was that each vat should be numbered from one up, and the cheese from each vat should be numbered on the boxes. In this way the cheese from each vat would be truly examined, when shipped, by one box out of each of the numbers being examined.

Mr. A H Campbell of Central Smith, Mr. T P Andrews of Bensfort, Mr. D E McKenzie, who is carrying out the cow testing work here, were present at the meetings.

An Excellent Address On Hibernia Given To The Local Hibernians

Mr. C. J. Foy, Provincial President Installed New Officers And Gave Historical Lecture

OTHER SPEAKERS HEARD

The lecture of Mr. C. J. Foy, Provincial President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, brought out an appreciative audience to the T.A.S. rooms last night. The occasion was the installation of the officers of the local division of the order, and Mr. Foy's official visit. Mr. N J Bibby, president, occupied the chair. There were also present Rev. Father O'Leary, chaplain, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien. During the evening the following musical numbers were enjoyed:

Instrumental quartette — Medley of Irish airs—The Misses Torpey and Messrs. Torpey and Mahoney.

Vocal Solo — "Tara's Halls"—Mr. Harry Quinlan.

Vocal Solo—Miss Laura Torpey.

Afterwards the interesting and important ceremony of the installation of the officers for the year 1908 was then performed by Mr. Foy, and are as follows:

Pres.—N J Bibby.
Vice-Pres.—John Roach.
Rec.-Sec.—Wm. Lynch.
Fin.-Sec.—Jas Drain.
Treas.—Jos. Kelly.
Sentinel—Wm. Dennis.

History of the Hibernians

Mr. Foy was given a hearty welcome on beginning his speech. He gave an eloquent and historical account of the Irish people from the earlier times down to the present. He referred to the important men who have made Ireland famous, and predicted a great future. He referred to the strength of the A.O.H., and the advantages to be gained by the individual member.

At the conclusion of Mr. Foy's most interesting address, Rev. Dr. O'Brien spoke a few words, eulogizing the A.O.H., and wishing it continued prosperity. Rev. Father O'Leary, the chaplain of the society, also made a few remarks about the good work the society has done, and thanking Mr. Foy for his scholarly lecture.

Mr. N Bibby and Mr. C P Murty were among the speakers. Mr. M. O'Brien, Separate School Inspector, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Foy, who responded in a modest speech, thanking the audience for its appreciative attention.

Mr. Foy was entertained by the officers at an informal banquet at LLong's.

REV. H. M. MANNING

Who Gave the Address at the Closing Meeting of the Week of Prayer

MR. FAIRWEATHER'S FUNERAL

WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of the late James W. T. Fairweather took place from the Canadian Pacific Railway station this morning on the arrival of the 11.14 express from Toronto. The remains were attended to the city by Mr. Robert Fairweather, brother of deceased, the heads of the several departments of the Toronto establishments and by several Toronto gentlemen, the late Mr. Fairweather's personal friends. A considerable number of prominent Peterborough citizens, including Mayor-elect Rush, had assembled at the station and with the others followed the remains to the cemetery, when in the chapel an impressive service was conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's church. At its conclusion the body was placed in the vault. The pall bearers were Messrs. G W Hatton, Alex. Elliott, Thos. Fortye, R H Fortye, R R Hall, M.P., and Hon. J R Stratton.

OCTAGON CLUB DANCE A SUCCESS

About Seventy-five Couples Present—Refreshments Served

One of the most brilliant social functions of the season, was the dance given by the members of the Octogon Club in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night.

There were about seventy-five couples present and the entire evening was spent in dancing. Mr. Musgrave of Toronto, supplied the music, which was very much appreciated by all present.

After the dance refreshments were served by the eight members of the club, and Mr. Thos. Hooper did the catering.

BEARS STOLE HIS EATABLES AND WOLVES HOWLED IN THE NIGHT; EXPERIENCES IN THE NORTH

Milton Thompson Returns Home After Spending Years in James Bay District—Can Speak Three Indian Languages

HAPPY WITH OLD FRIENDS

"It's a great thing to get back to civilization" said a stranger in Long's Grill room a few night's ago as he did full justice to an oyster stew.

His remarks were made to a reporter who was at once interested and who had hitherto not noticed the stranger.

"It's many years," he said since I've tasted these" and another "Oysters Virginians" disappeared from his spoon.

"It's a change from bear, otter and the other game that I've eaten in my travels in the vicinity of James Bay."

He said his name was Milton Thompson, formerly of Cavanville, where he spent his early days before he commenced his life in the north. Without any hesitation he began to relate some of his experiences in the woods and with which his career has been frequently illustrated. He arrived in Peterborough a week ago, after a journey of 12 miles almost south from the unsettled districts of the far north of Ontario. He spent quite a number of years in this locality when young, going afterwards into the vaster wilderness of the north. His later years have been spent among the Indians and the "cities" he has known were none other than the trading posts of the Hudson's Bay Company.

"You don't know, boys how happy I feel at getting back to the old place. It's queer and them street cars bother me worse than a whole pack of wolves. My bed hour is eight o'clock, but that is impossible now that I'm down here."

He recited in blunt that he had experienced with wild animals but spoke lightly of them. He said that he has often had a bear put his nose under his tent where he smelled meat and steal ham or whatever it happened to be. According to his statements the supply of wild animals in the north is by no means diminishing.

The Indians are too lazy to extend themselves further than to obtain mere means of sustenance. Mr. Thompson can speak in the Ojibway, Blackfoot and Sioux languages. He says that there is very little difference between them, the accent being more marked.

Mr. Thompson intends to return north again but does not like the idea now that he has enjoyed the city life and met his former friends.

A MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

As evidence of the fact that the financial stringency has not retarded the progress of the strong Canadian life assurance companies is by the statement just issued by The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada. During the year 1907, this progressive institution increased its policies in force to over $21,300,000, its assets to over $3,880,000, and its cash income to over $925,000. The new assurances applied for and policies revived amounted to over $4,000,000. The average rate of interest earned on investments for the past year was 5.98 per cent. Perhaps the most noteworthy feature of the report is the fact that notwithstanding the large new business transacted during the year, the expenses show a decrease of no less than 2 per cent. The unexcelled record of The Imperial Life and its able and efficient management are receiving at the hands of the insuring public the recognition they justly merit. Mr. W. G. Morrow is the Imperial Life's representative in Peterborough. His business, we understand, for the past year was most satisfactory.

GOOD ROADS

In the recent "Good Roads" session at Guelph, several addresses were delivered. Among these was one by Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Public Works and Provincial Highways Commissioner. In the course of the address, Mr. Campbell insisted upon features that the Examiner has frequently urged as among the prime requisites of good road-making. He insisted especially upon the supreme importance of drainage of highways and upon aiming at permanent results. He said that there are "certain principles of world-wide application which must be adhered to if we are to make good roads in the best possible way." Mr. Campbell, in dealing with provincial expenditure on roads, said:

"Probably no State in the Union has expended more money and labour on roads than has Ontario. In the last ten years, ten million days' labour and nearly $11,000,000 in cash have been spent, much of it innocently, if not in an ignorant and shiftless way, and consequently it has produced some discouraging results. It may be that much of this disappointment has been owing to imperfect equipment. It isn't necessary to raise more money or spend more time to make ideal roads. The expenditure of the past ten years, properly applied, should suffice to macadamize every rod of road."

We gather from this that a great deal of this immense amount of money has been wasted by slipshod methods—or rather, perhaps, by slipshod lack of methods. We all know that in Peterborough there has been wasted a vast deal of money, because it has been expended, or, preferably, wasted, on account of lack of system, and disregard of the fundamental principles of road-making. Here is a lesson for the new Board of Works which will be appointed on Monday night. If they will set themselves to devise a good system to be applied to dealing with out street expenditures, and adhere to it, it is safe to say that with one-half the average yearly expenditure, twice as good results can be obtained. In the course of his address, Mr. Campbell defined the "fundamental principle" of good road-making as "drainage." It is worth while to remember, by way of impressing the idea, that fundamental means really foundational, which is to say, that good drainage is the very corner, and foundation, stone, of good road making. He says:

Proper results in roadmaking require shrewd ability in direction and adherence to fundamental principles. And after all, the whole problem is a question of drainage, by which we secure a firm foundation to carry the load. To insure drainage the road must be crowned, and the crown kept scraped or smooth. Where the roads are heavily travelled, they must have metal surface to resist the action of traffic. Make the bottom; see that it is tile-drained, if necessary; then make the ditches, and them have a uniform drop to the ditch.

The question of treating "springy" hills has been raised during the previous address. With regard to these places, Mr. Campbell remarked that no matter how much gravel is piled on them, the whole mass will simply quiver, moving up and down under traffic, especially in the spring, and finally breaking all up. In treating such places it is necessary either to have a very high crown, or better still, to tile-drain. Run a row of ordinary farm tile down each side of the road, dig the trench narrow, lay the tile carefully, and fill in with gravel, broken stone or sand, which will then stand as a filter bed. Having been thus drained, a coat of gravel on the crown will secure that piece for all time to come as a good road.

Leading roads should be 24 feet wide between ditches; for others, 20 feet is sufficient, while back concessions and division lines need not be more than 18 feet. The crown should be an inch to the foot from centre to side; that is a road 24 feet wide should have a drop of one foot each way.

Too much importance cannot be attachted to the question of drainage. Fortunately, as the Examiner has frequently pointed out, there is not a town or city in Canada which lends itself by virtue of surface conformation, so easily to perfect surface drainage as Peterborough. Drainage is so easily done that it is the cheapest method for obtaining the first condition of good roads. A stretch of street, of natural soil, well graded and drained, will be far more lasting and satisfactory, than a fully macadamized street, with defective, or no drainage. This is a lesson that our Board of Works wants to lay to heart. Mr. Campbell is an expert, and he says that "drainage is the chief problem." This is not only proved true by experience but it is taught by common sense.

THE PLAINS OF ABRAHAM

We can all sympathize with Earl Grey's idea of rescuing the historic Plains of Abraham from sordid commercialism, to consecrate the spot as a national park in commemoration of a pivotal epoch in the history of this continent, and of the reconciliation of two of the world's greatest races. His Excellency naturally invited the co-operation of the Canadian Clubs of Canada and one would as naturally expect that this co-operation would be extended. However, the Canadian Club of Peterborough does not fall tall in with this idea in detail. While it is willing to give it moral support the Executive of the Club, after considering the matter, has concluded that it is not within its function to undertake the responsibility of assisting to raise a fund for the purchase of the Plains of Abraham. It is not considered fair to ask Canadian Clubs struggling in the initial stages of effort to make good their existence, to undertake a role that may prove embarrassing and a hindrance to their real work, that of developing Canadian national sentiment and spirit. It is felt that the object aimed at is one for the action of the Dominion Government. The political aspect and significance of the battle of Quebec on Sept. 14th, 149 years ago make it an event of not only national, but imperial importance. The day upon which two great races found in each other foeman worthy of the steel, the day when the fortunes of war gave the victory to the British, was the day which fixed the fate of this continent, and constituted the occasion an event of world import. The battle of Quebec and its site, the Plains of Abraham, are the real corner stone of the Dominion of Canada, and the local club takes the view that the Government of the Dominion is the power to deal with the Plains of Abraham in the way to conform to the noble idea of Earl Grey. Upon these plains, converted into a national park, the French and British can fraternize with quiet spirits, as Canadians, citizens of a common country with no distinction in rights or privileges but one people with a common interest, a common ambition. If Earl Grey's idea be to signalize the reconciliation of two races who fought and won — won without triumph and lost without shame — on the Plains of Abraham, the national character it thus assumes indicates the initiative of the National Government.

THE ROYAL BANK

No better evidence could be adduced that the continued expansion of the business of the country has developed an urgent demand for money than is shown in the gratifying annual statement of the Royal Bank of Canada, published in to-day's Examiner. The active demand for the funds of this bank has been most marked, notwithstanding the conservative policy pursued to limit its business in the best interests of the bank's customers.

A careful perusal of this year's statement of the Royal, furnishes another evidence of the sound and judicious management of our Canadian banks, during the most trying periods. While the Royal has maintained its exceptionally strong position, it has afforded legitimate accommodation to its customers, as is shown by an increase of nearly $3,000,000 in commercial loans.

In the important item of deposits, it will be seen that these have increased over $800,000 during 1907, and that they now exceed the large sum of $33,000,000. There is also an exceptionally large showing of other assets, such as cash, bonds, and balances due by banks, amounting to fully 52 per cent.

It is, therefore, not surprising to learn that the net profits of the Royal for the year, show it the largest in the history of that institution, namely, $792,934.39 — or 19 per cent. of the capital—enabling the management to wipe off the substantial sum of $250,000 from their bank premises account. After the usual contribution of $20,000 to the officers' pension fund, a balance of $156,999.76 has been carried forward to the credit of profit and loss.

The shareholders of the Royal Bank are certainly to be congratulated on their annual statement. It may be mentioned here that among the list of shareholders of the bank, holding two hundred shares, there appears the name of Mr. Richard V. Winch, son of Richard Winch, Esq., of this city. It must be a pleasure also to Mr. V. Eastwood, the sagacious local manager, to be able to have a share in the making of such gratifying results, which have been only very briefly surveyed here.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

To many of us, engrossed in the business of the world, enmeshed in social and amusement activities, the obligations of religion, and religious movements appeal too lightly. Yet there must be a saving remnant, which is growing larger in Peterborough, if the success, speaking humanly, of the Week of Prayer, is to be regarded as a basis of opinion. It is a fact that never in the history of Peterborough has this period of religious concentration enlisted so largely the co-operation of the members of all the churches. All the meetings of the series have been attended by overflowing congregations, and it is said, that never before was the spiritual and devotional interest more earnestly manifested. All the clergy and ministers have co-operated, heedless of denominational lines of division. From a human point of view the meetings have been a great success. It is natural to ask the reason for so remarkable an increase of interest. No special "booming" was employed. The idea of entertainment from special addresses was eliminated; for the names of the special speakers were carefully concealed. The only explanation remaining is the deepning of the spirituality in the several congregations, and a more united and consecrated employment of the medium of prayer, for the divine favour upon the meetings. And why should not this explanation be sufficient? If there is any belief in the verities of the Christian religion, if the essential, and primary element of religion, prayer, is not a mere shibboleth; if there is any real belief in its efficacy, why should Christians not ascribe an earnestly desired sequence of events to a divine answer? The scoffer may deride this conclusion, but the earnest believer will not be laughed out of his convictions. Faith is the fundamental principle of the Christian, and all other, religions. If we have no faith in faith, as the supreme element in prayer, then is religion vain—an empty form, without power, or reason to be.

Invalid Ladies This Is For You.

There are thousands of females who suffer untold miseries common to their sex.

This is largely due to the peculiar habits of life and fashion, and the improper training of girlhood. Then, too, the physical changes that mark the three eras of womanhood (the maiden, the wife, and the mother) have much to do with her sufferings, most of which are endured in silence, unknown by even the family physician and most intimate friends.

To all such whose hollow cheeks, pale faces, sunken eyes an feeble footsteps, indicate nervousness, palpitation of the heart, weak, faint and dizzy spells, we would earnestly recommend a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Jos. Sharp, Brighton, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, weak spells and nervous trouble, and found no relief until advised to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got one box and that helped me so much I sent and got five more. I am now cured completely."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LINDSAY FOR FIRST TIME ON RECORD DEFEATED PETERBORO' SEVEN AT THEIR OWN RINK

Strathconas Were Defeated Last Night in a Rattling Game Of Hockey by the Famous Midgets —Score 6 to 4 at The Finish And The Teams Were Even Up At Half Time going down with their colours flying, the Strathconas lost their first O.H.A. game of the season last night to Lindsay, being beaten by 6 goals to 4, after a hammer and tongs battle in which there was little to choose between the two teams. Coming from Lindsay, the first time on record that the Bengog bunch has accomplished the feat on local ice, the defeat was somewhat galling, but the showing made by the locals was most creditable under the circumstances, and the big crowd present was thoroughly pleased with the game, if somewhat disappointed at the result.

When it is considered that it was the first time the locals have played together as a team, and that they were opposed by a seven who have been together for several seasons and have, as a result, developed considerable team play, the loss is very excusable. The Strathconas have, however, a splendid team, which can be strengthened before the next game, and which is by no means out of the running yet. There are "exgellent" reasons for remembering other occasions upon which Lindsay has been defeated on its own ice, and what has been done before can be done again, and the locals are determined to do it if practice and hard work can accomplish that end.

Looking back at the play last night, it must be admitted that Lindsay had slightly the best of the play, perhaps not as much as the score shows, but still enough to make the victory deserved. It was combination that won for them, two passes over to Cotey with that individual unchecked, resulting in the goals that established a new record in hockey circles, that of Lindsay beating Peterborough on local ice. At times Lindsay played very effective combination, and this team play pretty nearly won for them. The Straths were as fast, covered back as closely, but in the attack on the Lindsay nets there was not the same systematic passing by the forwards that allowed Lindsay to score. It is true the locals tried to play combination, but they were not pulling together on the forward line and the passes were often ill-timed and inaccurate. This fault is one that can be easily remedied, however, and the next time out will see a big improvement.

The material for a splendid line is there, and with the addition of Moore the team will take a lot of beating later on.

As far as the game itself was concerned there could be no complaint, and the crowd was given its money's worth. The team travelled at a great clip all along, starting out so fast that Peterborough supporters were of the opinion that Lindsay would not last it out, so fast were they being carried along. With the score 3-3 at half-time, the chances for a victory for the homesters looked very rosy, but Lindsay had something left, and corralled the honours in the last period. At times the play was of the fastest variety and there were few lagging moments. It was good fast hockey all the time, perhaps not as finished an article as will be seen later on, but still always exciting, and the crowd seemed to thoroughly enjoy the contest, which was an ideal one from a spectator's standpoint. The checking was hard, but there was little rough work, a couple of impromptu fistic combats being the greatest offence. Lindsay line-up was practically the same that, under the name of Midgets, came so close to carrying off the junior championship last year. They are bigger and faster now, are good skaters and stick-handlers, but Peterborough can beat them, and will do so on their own ice, if the calculations of the Strathconas do not go astray. Koyl and Stoddard were the stars last night, although the whole team showed up to good advantage. Koyl, the weighty cover-point, rushed splendidly, and although he was watched closely, he managed to break away time after time for good runs. Stoddard also carried the puck splendidly and did yeoman work in checking back, nipping off many a well-meant attack by coming back fast. It was Cotey the left wing man who did most of the damage. He was always in his place on the boards, and shot splendidly. A tendency to loaf off-side was overlooked by the referee, and several goals resulted on passes across to him which he had been trailing for. Sullivan did good work at cover, and Newton got in the way of some hard shots, several wicked ones from Dusty's stick, which looked good, being nipped off cleverly.

Considering that the older members of the locals have had no practice and it was the first occasion upon which the seven have been on the ice together, the showing of the Strathconas was a most creditable one, and it is to be hoped that the hockey public will recognize this fact. It was the second time Rolly Glover has been on skates this season and he played a remarkable game at point under the circumstances, being of the greatest assistance both on the defence and attack. Lack of condition told on Wally Parnell and he was not nearly so useful in the second half as in the first, when he scored three goals, stick-handling and shooting splendidly. Meagher is another who had to jump into the game with little practice, but he was in the thick of the fray all the time and played a fine game at cover. The young players, the graduates of lasty ear's City League, all showed up remarkably well, their work indicating great things for the future. Dusty at rover worked like a Trojan both at carrying the puck and checking back. He never let up for a moment, hammering up and down the ice all night, and his work was appreciated by the crowd. Dobson also played splendidly at centre. Lighter than any of the opposing forwards, he kept at it gamely, helping out the defence considerably by his covering back. Weatherston was handicapped by a broken skate, but did fine work, keeping his check, Randall, thoroughly out of mischief all evening. He is a very speedy skater, and with a little more practice at shooting will be a most valuable man at left. Derocher, last year with the Auburns in the City League, played a cool, reliable game in the nets, getting his body in front of a large number of shots labelled for counters.

It was the first O.H.A. hockey for four of the team, and the other three had had little or no practice, so the fact that they were able to hold Lindsay down so well shows that the material is there.

Mayor-elect Rush faced the puck, and was greeted with loud cheers when he stepped on the ice to start the game.

The referee, W P Irving of Toronto, was impartial, although two of Lindsay's goals were scored on palpable off-sides which escaped his eye.

The teams were as follows:

The Play

It took twelve minutes of hard playing, in which each goal in turn was threatened, before first blood was drawn. Both teams were going at a great clip and the puck being carried back and forth with both teams having no chance to score. Weatherston tripped Koyl and went off, but was back when Stoddard tipped in the first goal on a pass from Cotey.

Dusty was penalized for bodying Sullivan and Cotey went off for tripping Dobson. In 1 1-2 minutes Lindsay scored again, Lane doing the trick. Lindsay 2, Strathconas 0.

In 1 1-2 minutes Parnell scored for Peterborough after Meagher had carried the puck down in a good rush. Score, 2-1.

Play was very even during the next period, and it was not until over 12 minutes had elapsed that Stoddard slammed another in on a pass from Cotey. Score, 3-1.

Parnell took the puck from the face-off and skated through the Lindsay defence for a pretty goal in 30 seconds. Score, 3-2.

Dusty and Cotey got five minutes for scrapping and went off. Weatherston had to stop with a broken skate, and Stoddard was dropped. Playing five men a side, Meagher got away for a good rush and passed to Parnell, who scored. 3-3. Just before half-time Meagher was ruled off for bodying Sullivan.

Lindsay quickly broke the deadlock in the second half. Weatherston passed across the rink and Cotey was there in time to score on the play. Score 4-3.

During the next few minutes Parnell and Meagher were both off for slashing. Lindsay forwards got away for a nice combination rush, and Cotey tipped the rubber into the net. Score 5-3.

In less than a minute Peterborough came back at them with a score. Parnell rushed nicely, and although his shot was blocked, Dobson did the necessary. Score, 5-4.

Things looked bright for a victory, but when, with six minutes left to play, Cotey, who was unchecked in the last part of the period, scored again on a pass from Lane, it was all off. Dusty was benched just before time was called for mixing it up with Randall.

THE STRATHS PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

Every Player is Expected to be on Hand at Seven O'Clock

Through the kindness of the rink management the Strathconas will have an extra practice to-night at seven o'clock at the rink. The team plays in Cobourg on Tuesday night and it is important that there should be a large turn out to-night. Each player is expected to be on hand to-night and Monday night in preparation for the game in Cobourg.

ALL SAINTS BEAT THE KNOX

Last night at the Knox rink a game of hockey was played between a team representing the All Saints' Brigade and the Knox Brigade in which All Saints' won by 3—2 after a great struggle. For All Saints Bell and Hatcher were the shining lights and for Knox Karl Doxsee was the star, his rushes making him famous.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

The Strathconas are endeavouring to arrange a game with Belleville seniors for Friday of next week, which is an open date, owing to the fact that Port Hope has dropped out. Belleville has formed a team with some of the famous team of several years ago as a foundation, and are anxious for a game. A contest between the old rivals will create a lot of interest, and it is probable the game will be arranged. There will be changes made on the Straths' line up before the next contest.

Lindsay brough down about 75 people on a special train, arriving at 7.30 o'clock and leaving at 11 o'clock. They rooted vigorously for the team.

No Ability To Digest Food

NERVOUS SYSTEM SO EXHAUSTED THAT THE VITAL ORGANS ARE FEEBLE IN ACTION

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The digestive system is a wonderful piece of machinery, but power is necessary to make it effective.

Overwork, worry, anxiety and excessive mental effort exhaust the nervous system at a tremendous rate.

In this case the power in the nerve force contained in the body, and if the nerve force is lacking the digestive system becomes crippled and there is suffering from indigestion, nervous headaches, neuralgic pains, dizzy spells, weakness and discouragement.

Strength cannot be regained from the food you eat so long as digestion is so important, but you can be restored by Dr. Chase's nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form the very elements of nature which and repair must be made before some dreadful form of nervous disease sets in. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, sharpens the appetite, is slightly laxative, so as to encourage the action of the bowels and strengthens every organ of the body.

You can use this treatment feeling certain that every dose is doing you at least some good, and can prove it by noting your increase in weight.

Mrs. M. A. Tripp, 246 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from rheumatism, dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

From an Old Arithmetic.

These questions are from a London arithmetic of the year 1785:

A man, overtaking a maid driving a flock of geese, said to her: "How do you do, sweetheart? Where are you going with these thirty geese?" "No, sir," said she, "I have not thirty, but if I had as many more, half as many more and five geese besides I should have thirty."

A, B and C playing at hazard together, the money staked was 196 guineas; but, disagreeing, each seized as many as he could. A got a certain number, B as many as A and sixteen more and C the sixth part of both their sums. How many had each?

A gentleman going into a garden meets with some ladies and says to them, "Good morning to you ten fair maids." "Sir, you mistake," answered one of them. "We are not ten, but if we were twice as many more as we are we should be as many above ten as we are now under." How many were there?

The Hellenic Epicures.

Enormous feasts were spread at the Persian and other Asiatic courts, and the great Grecian conqueror of those regions was once or twice in his dazzling career more lavish than even the successor of Caesar. But it was not a regular habit with him, nor was reckless prodigality ever a vice of the nation. Of course there were exceptions, and that societies devoted to luxurious living existed in Athens we know from the works of Archestratus and Athenaeus, who wrote long poems to the glory of cookery. The Hellenic epicures were ingenious and often fantastic in their ideas, but were not, as a rule, guilty of gross extravagance. They were fond of such conceits as having a whole pig served, one side roasted and the other boiled and stuffed with a great variety of delicacies, although the animal had never been cut or separated in any way. Their cooks were also skillful in preparing vegetables to taste like meat.

Chinese Methods.

One primitive method of getting water for irrigating vegetable gardens in China is to dig a hole in a shallow river bed and carry the water to fields in American coal oil tins. The well of course is lost the next time the river rises.

Unavoidable Delay.

"You can prove an alibi on this charge, can't you?" asked his lawyer.

"Yes'r," said the captured crook. "But we'll have to wait a week or two. The fellers I'm goin' to prove it by ain't out o' jail yit."—Chicago Tribune.

Wit And Wisdom

If you want work well done, select a busy man—the other kind has no time.

Most of our ills come from trying to get more out of life than there is in it.

Man is superior to woman—when he is, and when he isn't he isn't.

The things that should be left unsaid are often the things we like best to hear.

Fences are only for those who cannot fly.

It is a greater disgrace to be sick than to be in the penitentiary. If you are in the pen, it is a sign that you have broken some man made statute; but if you are sick it is a sign that you have broken some God-made law.

No man realizes the difficulty of doing business, excepting the man who has looked a pay-roll in the eye once a week for ten years.

Eat and drink just what you need; but don't be general manager of a swill barrel.

Be gentle and keep your voice low.

To button your collar behind means that you are looking backward and making progress crab-fashion.

Little minds are interested in the extraordinary; great minds in the commonplace.

A man who keeps himself in the pink of condition seldom has the blues.

Old Lady (seeing a friend off on a steamer): "Now, do be careful, dear; and don't forget to give the captain a shilling to keep off the rocks."

Professor Morselli says that tall Europeans are more given to suicide than short ones. Perhaps they grow tired of living so long.

She (after a quarrel)—"I wouldn't cry for the best man living—so there!" He—"You don't have to cry for him, dear; you've got him."

Have you ever met my wife?" "No, old chap—she's a perfect stranger to me." "Humph! She may be a stranger, but she's far from perfect!"

"Now then," said the teacher of arithmetic, "what is above par?" "I think I know," ventured a small boy. "Well?" asked the teacher, "It's ma."

"To be quite candid, Sir, that fellow you seemed so gone on was the most unspeakable little ass in the room. "George! George! You forget yourself!"

Father—"Joe, why do you suppose that old hen persists in laying in the coal yard?" Joe—"Why, father, I think she has seen the notice, 'Now is the time to lay in your coal.'"

The Burglar (to Mrs. Jones)—"If you venture to say another word, madam, I'll shoot." Mr. Jones (fascinated)—"I say, my good man, how much will you take to stay here for a week?"

Stranger—"Madam, a boy who I am informed is your son, has just thrown a stone at me, causing a very painful wound. What are you going to do about it?" Mother—"I don't know. Have you tried arnica?"

A verger was showing a gentleman over the church, and pointing out the ravages made by the dry rot. The gentleman expressed concern, and the verger said—"Oh, well, sir, that's nothing to the dry rot in the pulpit."

Scorcher—"They say that it has a bad effect on the brain to ride with your head down between the handle bars." Pedestrian—"Don't you believe a word of it. The men who ride that way can't have any brain to be affected."

No man ever reflected upon himself with regret for having done his duty to God or man; no man ever broke his sleep, or was haunted with the fear of Divine vengeance, for having lived soberly or righteously or godly, in this present world.

Maud (aged nine years)—"Mother, when I grow up I think I will be a school teacher. Do you think I can?" Mother—"I don't believe you can, Maud, because you are now only in the second grade." Maud—"Then I think I will have to be a mother. You don't have to take any lessons in that, do you?"

Inspector of Collegiate Institute Gives Report

Inspector H. B. Spotton Speaks Highly of Work of Local Staff on His First Visit---Pleased With New Collegiate Institute Building---Suggestions to Principal

The report of Inspector H. B. Spotton, who visited the Peterborough Collegiate Institute on December 9, 10 and 11 for the annual inspection, contains many features that should be interesting to those who have the higher education of children at heart. This was Inspector Spotton's first visit to Peterborough, but from what he has observed he is pleased with the prospects, and predicts a bright future when the various schools in the city are opened to the scholars intended for them.

Extracts from the report were read at the meeting of the Board of Eduction on Thursday night, as follows:

Grading of Accommodation

The different accommodations are graded I., II., etc., in order of merit, and will be understood in the following:—

Water closets, II.
Water supply, I.
School grounds, III.
School buildings, II.
Halls, I.
Waiting rooms, III.
Cap-rooms, I.
Teachers' private rooms, II.
Desks, II.
Blackboards, I.
Lighting, II.
Heating, I.
Ventilation, I.
Gymnasium.

No changes have been made in the accommodations since last inspection, except that two class rooms in the King Edward Public School building have been rented for the use of the two commercial forms. On account of the distance between the two buildings, this arrangement necessarily entails a good deal of inconvenience, and injuriously affects the organization to some extent. The fine new Institute building is making satisfactory progress, and will no doubt be ready for occupation in September next.

In the meantime I have simply confirmed the grading as at last inspection.

Since last inspection additions of $15.80 for the library, $220.00 for typewriters and $75.00 for the museum have been made. A fine collection of stuffed birds had just been added to the equipment and will unquestionably be found of great service in connection with the work in Biology.

Organization

Ratio of pupils to teachers, about 33.1.

Division of duties among the teachers is satisfactory.

Inspector Spotton suggested that an additional period per week be allotted to English Composition throughout the school. The time for oral reading should also, owing to the large classes, be somewhat increased to meet the requirements of the regulations. In French he suggests an increase of time in Form II. The time proportioned to arithmetic he says is too large. There are difficulties in the way of the most effective organization, he states, on account of the unsatisfactory accommodations and the consequent crowding of some of the classes.

Miscellaneous

Staff—Mr. Harvey holds an interim certificate which required to be extended.

Discipline—Very satisfactory.

Attendance—All properly admitted.

Text Books—All authorised.

(Registers—(Daily,) satisfactory; (general) not yet fully entered up but will be by close of term.

English literature Texts in Lower School—Sufficient provision.

Sight Translation in Latin, French and German—Sufficient Provision.

School flag—In good condition.

Class room decorations—None.

Fire Drill—None as yet.

As this was his first visit of inspection he did not grade the teaching in detail. In general the work of the teachers he pronounced very satisfactory.

Character of pupils work

Inspector Spotton gives the following statement of the work of pupils whom he examined.

Reading

Pupils last admitted — Examined 35; good 7; fair 18; poor, 8; bad, 0.

Other pupils — Examined 28; good, 5; fair, 15; poor, 8, bad, 0.

Writing of last admitted pupils—A fair average. Writing is exceptionally well taught in this school.

Book-keeping sets, satisfactory, so far as examined.

Work in Art—Very satisfactory in quality; care must be taken that the whole course shall be covered.

Note Books in Science—The notes, as far as they go, are satisfactory, but do not show that the entire ground has been covered either in the first or second year. He suggested the advantage of having some uniform style of note book.

Drill, Calisthenics and Gymnasium, not examined.

Special Report

Candidates for admission to the Normal School will be admitted to the examinations of 1908, if the principal feels justified in certifying to their proficiency in the subjects enumerated in regulation 8, circulation, 19. In the meantime all necessary care should be taken to meet the requirements of the regulations so that the school may be in the "approved list" next year.

The school is of course being conducted under great disadvantages. The accommodations are unsatisfactory and some of the classes are quite too large for effective teaching. Inspector Spotton expressed his pleasure with the intention of making a better distribution of the attendance and of adding to the staff when the new building is occupied.

He predicts an era of great prosperity for the school in its handsome new quarters.

H. LE BRUN & CO'S MONEY-RAISING SALE

Get a Grip on Some of The Bargains and Hang on—Smart Chances for Men

This must be the most favourable "sorting up" time for gentlemen. By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that the old established clothing firm of H. LeBrun & Co., have started their annual January pre-inventry sale, which means extra low prices all this month. In every department of the store bonafide reduction have been made equalling from 20 to 33 1-3 per cent. All the large stock of fine cloths, for made-to-measure garments, as well as the ready-mades, are included, besides the underwear and furnishings. Messrs. LeBrun's stock is well known to consist of the most reliable makes and when it is announced that the firm has prepared one of the greatest bargain feasts Peterborough has set. The sale must grow in interest every minute. The prices tell the tale. So it's up to men to get busy. This is the City Clothing Store's 34th winter anniversary sale and must prove as usual, a gratifying success.

Three Films of Moving Pictures Were Shown—Large Crowd

The children of St. John's gathered last night in the Sunday school under the chairmanship of Mr. A. E. Poe, superintendent, for an enjoyable evening, on the occasion of their annual entertainment.

The varied programme consist- of moving pictures, kindly loaned by Mr. Edwards, of the Crystal. Mr. Edwards, assisted by Mr. H. A. Fife, operated the machine. Chorusses were given by the children, and the Eastern Scene from "Story of a Star," by Ada Graham, Grace Dobson, Arthur Horfield and Cyril Dovey, which was well performed; a sleighing song and chorus, "Hurrah! rah for the Sleigh Bells," in costume, with bell accompaniment, was an effective number by the choir boys.

The Messrs. Coleman were engaged to supply refreshments, and cake, chocolate and ice cream wound up a pleasant evening.

CURLING RINK FLOODED TO-DAY

Debris Has Been Cleared Away—Ice Will Be Ready Next Week

The local curling rink will be flooded again some time this evening. The curlers have expressed a strong desire for this and carters have been employed in taking the debris away. The rink is ready now for the water and in all probability the curlers will have use of the rinks about the middle of next week.

There are only six stones which have come safely through the fire and several of these have their sides chipped and are unfit for use.

Early Days of Peterborough Recalled in Literary Essay

Miss Vivian Donohue Delights Literary Society Members By An Admirable Paper—Visit Of Prince of Wales

A MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. was held in the Assembly Hall on Thursday evening, when an appreciative audience assembled to enjoy the excellent programme presented. Miss Vivian Donoghue was the essayist of the evening and delighted the audience by the reading of a most interesting paper on "Early Days in Peterborough." The essay was one of great interest to the literary element of the society, while the musical part of the programme which supplemented the reading of the essay was more than ordinarily pleasing.

The essayist in a delightfully interesting manner introduced her subject by referring to the contentment and happiness which characterized the lives of Peterborough's pioneer settlers, as related by some sweet-faced old grandmother or some gray-haired old grandfather.

The history of the early days of Peterborough, which the writer stated, seemed like some wonderful fairy tale, was then very ably dealt with. As page after page is scanned one is amazed at the energy, patience and perseverance displayed by the early settlers. They were like fairy godmothers and godfathers, working as a magic spell on the wilderness and changing it into a town full of life and vigour.

Beginning with the year 1818, when a small band of emigrants, braving the perils of the bush, found their way into the Township of Smith by way of Rice Lake and the Otonabee River, the audience was carried in imagination year by year from Peterborough's earliest settlement down to the present time, when it has developed into one of the most enterprising cities of the Dominion. Many very interesting, as well as amusing incidents in connection with the hardships and privations of its early settlers were very vividly pictured. By their untiring efforts, fostered with the desire of making homes for themselves, these hardy men built homes and "Scott's Plains," as it was formerly called soon assumed a gay lively appearance.

Among the many distinguished personages, continued the writer, who visited Peterborough during its pioneer days was Sir Peregrine Maitland, to whom an address, telling him of the many hardships and difficulties which were being endured, was presented. To this His Excellency made a gracious reply and promised the people assistance, which he did not fail to render. From this time on the prosperity of the town and the success of adjoining settlements were fully assured. Mills were erected, railways were built and in the year 1854 the first train arrived in the city.

A never to be forgotten event in the younger days of the city was the visit of the Prince of Wales in 1860. Nothing was spared to make his visit a most impressive one. The city was gaily decorated and the immense crowd which assembled to greet the Prince gave him a right royal reception.

The Catholic element of Peterborough during its early days, stated the writer, was under the guidance of Rev. Father Butler, who was obliged to face all kinds of obstacles in order to perform his arduous duties. He passed away in 1853, leaving behind him a name ever to be loved and cherished by the Catholic people. In 1851 Peterborough's first Separate School was organized, Rev. Father Butler was succeeded by Rev. Father Farrelly.

Concluding, the essayist stated that Peterborough in the year 1861 was visited by three severe fires, which left the business part of the town a scene of desolation. New and better buildings were soon erected and the town assumed a more up-to-date appearance. Year by year improvements increased. Owing to the excellent water power various manufacturing concerns were induced to build, educational institutions of the first rank were constructed, banks and places of business were opened up and what was once known as "Scott's Plains," soon developed into what bids fair to be one of the most enterprising cities on the continent.

The essay was not only of a very interesting nature, with a number of passages of remarkable beauty and strength, but possessed that essential to the success of an essay, the enchaining of the hearer's attention until the last idea was exhausted.

The musical part of the programme was rendered in a most pleasing manner, the rendering of the parts being especially good. The following was the musical programme introduced by Miss N. Coughlin, who occupied the chair for the evening:

Instrumental solo—Miss R. Fitzgerald.
Vocal solo—Mr. Jimmie O'Brien.
Recitation—Miss A. Devlin.
Irish Airs (piano)—Mr. and Miss Torpey.
Violin and mandolin—Mr. and Miss Mahoney.
Vocal solo—Miss O'Dette.
Vocal solo—Miss Torpey.

The accompanyists of the evening were Mrs. Scott, Misses Picard and Fitzgerald.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting of the society will be held on Friday evening, January 24th, when essays will be read by the Misses McGrath.

N.B.—In addition to the many excellent books which are to be found in St. Peter's T. A. S. library, nearly two hundred new ones by the very best authors, have been placed there during the past week, thus affording the literary society the pleasure of perusing the very latest books.

ENGLISHMEN RECEIVE SMALL WAGES

Paid For Week's Work on Charlotte Street Stone Pile

This morning a party of thirteen Englishmen who have been employed on the Charlotte street stone pile, received their wages. The lowest amount was for $2.00, the highest for $3.50.

"What do you think of that?" one of them said, "One dollar a week for wood and the other two to keep the family."

They said they had been working 8 days and that was all they had earned, "and hard work too," one of them chimed in. They were not apparently satisfied with the wages, but said they would start in again next week and try to make more if it were possible. While not pleased with the work they say they would rather do it than starve, although higher wages would be greatly appreciated.

REHEARSAL OF STAINERS DAUGHTER OF JAIRUS

A full rehearsal of band and chorus of Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" choral work will be held to-morrow evening after the evening service in St. John's schoolhouse at 8.30 p.m. A full attendance is requested. The opera house orchestra has kindly promised its services to help the cause of choral work on this occasion, and with Mr. John Butcher, flute; Messrs. Seymour, Common and Elliott violins, who have already given valuable help, will make up an excellent combination worthy of the work.

SOCIAL BIBLE CLASS WAS ENTERTAINED LAST NIGHT

An enjoyable evening was spent last night at the George street Methodist Church parsonage, when Rev. E. A. and Mrs. Pearson entertained about fifty members of the Social Bible Class. The evening was passed in games, music and speeches, and refreshments were also served.

MET DEATH AMID THE FLAMES

Four Firemen Killed in Big Blaze at New York.

OTHERS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Twelve Storey Building Completely Gutted—Many Sensational Escapes —Walls and Floors Fell In Upon Workers — Brantford Opera House Burned Out—Reduced by Fire—Damage $15,000.

New York, Jan. 11.—Four firemen went to their deaths when they responded to a fire that burned the Parker building, a 12-storey business structure, occupying the building between East 18th street and 19th street, on Fourth avenue, last night.

Fought by half the firemen of the Manhattan and apparatus that blocked the street for blocks, the flames were with difficulty confined to the building in which they originated.

Floor after floor gave way and dropped to the basement and beneath these and crumbling walls no less than thirty firemen were caught. Four were killed outright and others seriously injured.

When the casualties began the Florence Hotel, which adjoins the burning building, on 18th street, was made a temporary hospital, where fire department physicians gave immediate aid to the injured.

The monetary loss was estimated last night as $1,500,000.

The fire was one of the most spectacular as well as disastrous in recent years. From start to finish its course was marked by heartrending scenes, sensational escapes and flashes of heroism.

Five Firemen Hurt.

Detroit, Jan. 11.—Five firemen were injured, none of them seriously, at a fire which caused about $100,000 damage yesterday in the Foster & Chaney Knitting Mills.

OPERA HOUSE BURNED.

Business Firms at Brantford Suffer Heavy Losses by Water.

Brantford, Jan. 11.—The Brantford opera house was gutted by fire at 5.30 yesterday morning. So badly damaged is the building that it will probably be abandoned. The adjacent buildings also suffered, though not to a serious extent. The cause is unknown.

Constable Boylan saw smoke issuing from the theatre, which is situated on Colborne street, in the heart of the business block between Market and Queen streets, and a general alarm was turned in and both local departments responded.

The theatre, which is on the second floor over a row of business houses, was soon a mass of flames, and it was only through desperate efforts of the department and thick fireproof walls that the conflagration was confined. The interior of the theatre, the stage and dressing rooms were completely gutted and roof destroyed.

Below the theatre, Wood's Fair, ck Kelly's cigar store and pool room, Harry Soiel's barbershop were badly damaged by water. Grafton's clothing stock was also slightly damaged.

The total loss will be in the neighborhood of $15,000. The opera house was erected in 1881.

THREE HUNTERS MURDERED.

Another Terrible Outrage Perpetrated by Russian Bandits.

Odessa, Jan. 11.—Three wealthy proprietors, while returning home in a carriage after hunting near Tiraspol, yesterday, were murdered by armed robbers.

The victims had arrived at a lonely part of their homeward road which several shots rang out from a thicket. The two horses fell dead, and the coachman dropped from his box with a bullet through his arm.

Armed men sprang into the road, pulled open the doors of the vehicle and dragging out the three unhappy victims killed them on the spot.

After rifling the dead bodies the murderers fled.

Fined the Juror.

Cornwall, Jan. 11.—One of the jurors in a case being tried at the Assizes was a few minutes late returning from luncheon Thursday. He was dismissed by the judge, and as an example to others was fined the amount that would be coming to him as fees. This caused The Freeholder to point out that Judge Anglin was a whole day late in taking charge of the court business, leaving one hundred or so jurors, witnesses and litigants to cool their heels around town for 24 hours. The Freeholder says: "They had no chance to fine the judge, nor were any comments made as to the cause of the delay. This postponement of the opening of the court on the failure of the judge to arrive on time is a common occurrence in Cornwall."

Accidentally Shot.

Bethune, Sask., Jan. 11.—Austin Stanley, a 14-year-old boy, is lying with a bullet hole through his right lung as the result of a premature discharge of a 22-calibre rifle. He was drawing the gun from a manger in the stable when it was discharged. The bullet lodged in the lad's spine, and his chances for recovery are slight.

SHE TALKED TOO MUCH.

Husband Strangles His Wife and Goes to the Police.

London, Jan. 11.—"I wish to give myself up for murder. I killed my wife this morning about 2 o'clock."

Walking into the police station at Stonehouse, Devon, George R. Crook, a young laborer of 25, startled the officials on duty by making the above confession.

On going to the man's house, in High street, the police found the body of Mrs. Crook, who had apparently met her death by strangulation. She was 21 years of age.

After the tragedy, it is said, Crook locked the door of the room, and, proceeding to the house of his parents at Pennycross, wished them "Goodbye." Then he returned to his own house, and about 9.30 went to the station and gave himself up, handing the police the key of the room.

Crook showed complete unconcern about his terrible position. After surrendering he quietly picked up a paper in the charge room and began reading the day's news.

One of his friends to whom Crook said "good-bye" asked him what he meant, and in reply, it is said, Crook made the following statement:

"I have done it—I have killed Flo. I have told out to mother's; I have broken her poor heart. I never intended to do it. She (meaning his wife) kept on talking to me, and I told her to stop. I went out for half an hour. When I came back she started again. I said 'Stop it,' and she laughed in my face. Then I did it."

DR. M'CONVILLE INSANE.

Assaulted Aged Woman and Afterwards Attempted Suicide.

Kingston, Jan. 11.—Dr. Andrew McConville, who was sentenced to 16 months in the Central for assaulting an aged woman, and who later attempted to hang himself in the county jail, was yesterday pronounced insane by Drs. Edwards and McCarthy, and upon their report will be removed to an insane asylum, likely to Hamilton.

Thomas Trotter, a farmer living near Joyceville, in the County of Frontenac, is to be tried by Magistrate Col. Hunter to-day for doing serious injury to his wife and Mrs. Blake, her mother. It seems that Trotter recently pounded his wife, and then chased her with an axe. The mother-in-law was seized, thrown on the stove, and when endeavoring to effect her escape had her arm jammed between the door and its case and seriously hurt. The two women are now undergoing treatment in the hospital here. The reason for the brutal treatment may be found in the fact that Mrs. Blake owns the farm on which her son-in-law, Trotter, lives, and, according to her intention, the property is to go at her death to her daughter, Mrs. Trotter. This disposition, however, does not suit her husband, who wants it given to him.

Scandal Ousts Admiral.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 11.—According to advices brought here by the Aki Maru, Admiral Baron Y. Ito, of the Supreme Naval Council, who commanded the Japanese navy in the war with China, has been dismissed from the service because of a scandal which involves him with the wife of a workman in the Yokosuka navy yards.

Admiral Ito was appointed Vice-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief of the united squadron in 1893. He commanded the squadron with signal success against the enemy's fleet in the Japan-China war, which broke up the following year. After the close of the war the Emperor rewarded him by creating him a peer with the rank of viscount. He was made admiral of the fleet on Dec. 31, 1903.

Empress Seriously Ill.

London, Jan. 11.—Reports of the seriousness of the condition of the Czarina have multiplied since the fact of her illness was cabled some days ago. The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail says the influenza from which she is suffering has been so protracted that she is now very weak. It is necessary to feed her hourly. Her illness was hastened by a course of vigorous massage, which was applied to combat obesity. It is rumored that her condition is complicated by pregnancy, although court circles deny this.

Settler Murdered.

Whitemouth, Man., Jan. 11.—A Russian named Alex. Schmarts, who has resided here for several years, was murdered last night. All the circumstances point to robbery as the motive.

He was found lying in a little hollow between the roadway and the river bank, a little more than half a mile south of town. Apparently there was a shot wound in the head. His pockets were turned inside out and a new belt which he wore was loosened that he might be better searched for money.

Arm Drawn Into Rollers.

Woodstock, Jan. 11.—While at work at Whitelaw's Foundry, Nathaniel Abbott yesterday met with an accident whereby his left arm was amputated at the elbow. The unfortunate man was at work rolling boiler plate when his hand was drawn into the rollers.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—The Government has sent a bill to the Reichstag, revising the telegraph laws. It provides for a Government monopoly in the erection of wireless stations.

ASIATIC QUESTION IN AFRICA

Transvaal Exceeded Powers in Deportation of Indian Leaders.

FLAW IN IMMIGRATION ACT

Sentences Must Be Revised—The Act Will Be Amended and Made More Drastic — Seven Indian Traders Sent to Prison For Three Months —Some Refuse to Leave the Country or Register.

Johannesburg, Jan. 11.—The trouble between the Government and the Asiatics in the Transvaal entered upon a new phase yesterday.

There has been discovered a flaw in the immigration act which renders illegal the sentences of deportation pronounced last month against several of the British-Indian leaders in the country, and the sentences will have to be revised.

The Government, however, is as determined as ever, and the immigration act will be so amended as to make possible more drastic treatment of those Asiatics who refuse to conform to the registration laws.

Seven Indian traders were sentenced to three months at hard labor at Pretoria yesterday for refusing to obey the law to leave the country on account of their failure to register.

THAW JURY IS COMPLETE.

Prisoner and Wife Say They Are Quite Satisfied.

New York, Jan. 11.—The second jury to try Harry K. Thaw for the killing of Stanford White was completed late yesterday and on Monday morning the prosecution will present its direct case against the defendant.

Five jurors in all were accepted and sworn at the morning and afternoon sessions. As a whole, the jury is made up of a most intelligent body of business men, most of whom are at middle age or over. When the panel had finally been completed, after many vexatious delays, and after the exercise of 23 peremptory challenges by the defence and 20 by the people, Thaw announced that he was entirely satisfied and in fact well pleased with the 12 men chosen. Young Mrs. Thaw, who has watched the selection of the jurors with the keenest interest, also declared that she was well satisfied.

"They are much nicer than the men selected last year," she said as court adjourned, and Thaw said that he echoed his wife's sentiments. The prisoner and his wife had an earnest five minutes' talk after the last juror had been sworn, and while the attorneys were conferring as to the appointment of a commission which will be sent to Pittsburg to take the testimony of Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, who is still too ill to come on to New York.

Assistant District Attorney Francis P. Garvin will make the opening statement for the prosecution, as he did at the first trial. He will not consume more than ten minutes, and it is said the state's direct witnesses will not occupy more than two hours. The defence will open Monday afternoon, Martin W. Littleton, Thaw's chief counsel, making the opening statement.

Grain Men Not Satisfied.

Winnipeg, Jan. 11.—There is considerable dissatisfaction among local grain men over the finding of the Grain Commission, particularly the report against establishing of a sample market.

Local men all claim that the establishing of a sample market at Winnipeg, where the representatives of the mills would have to come on the floor and buy their wheat from sample, instead of on straight grade as at present, would make Winnipeg as big a milling centre as Minneapolis.

And not only that, the farmer would derive great benefits because he could sell his crop on its merits and get every cent of value out of it, whereas now he is cramped by the limitations of grade.

Found Body Frozen Stiff.

Ingersoll, Jan. 11.—While out collecting on behalf of a church fund, two residents of West Zorra Thursday afternoon found the dead body of John Kindness, a young man who resided alone near Bennington. It is believed that Kindness died suddenly on Tuesday night, as this was the last time he was seen alive.

The body, which was in a stall in the horse stable, was badly frozen, and keeping watch over it was his dog. No marks of violence could be found on the body. The young man was aged 27 years, and was a son of Alex. Kindness of Embro.

Would Divert Immigration.

London, Jan. 11.—Amongst the schemes suggested for booming the Australian Commonwealth is an agreement with a well-known novelist to "write up" the country with the object of diverting the stream of emigration from Canada thereto. Australians firmly believe they will soon enjoy as great popularity as Canada. The federal authorities are devising means of making the attractions of Australia better known in Great Britain.

Bunced Out of $320,000.

Paris, Jan. 11.—An engineer named Le Moyne has been arrested on the charge of obtaining, under false pretences, $320,000 from Sir Julius Werner, a director of the De Beers Co., on a process for the manufacture of artificial diamonds which, the police assert, was nothing more than clever sleight of hand.

Mikado's Heir Ill.

London, Jan. 11.—According to the Stuttgart correspondent of The Daily Mail, Prof. Von Baelz has been summoned to Tokio to consult with other physicians concerning the health of the Japanese Crown Prince, who is suffering from lung disease. His condition has lately become more serious.

FIVE KILLED IN SMASH.

Head-on Collision on Trestle Over Deep Ravine.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 11.—A special from Vinegar Bend, Ala, tells of a disastrous wreck on the Alabama & Mississippi Railroad yesterday, caused by a head-on collision between a passenger train and a logging train. Five persons were killed outright, and two were seriously injured.

The dead: W. B. Paine, merchant, Vinegar Bend; Charles C. Busbee, a section foreman; three negroes, names unknown.

The worst injured: Frank Marks, engineer of the passenger train, will die; Henry Hall, fireman of the passenger train, seriously injured.

Twelve miles west of Vinegar Bend the road turns sharply at a trestle over a ravine. Simultaneously with the collision the trestle gave way and both trains fell to the bottom of the ravine. On the logging train were a number of convicts.

Minister in Trouble.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—Rev. Dr. James A. Kaye of Oak Park, Ill., pastor of the Presbyterian church at Wheaton, Ill., and engaged as writer on religious papers, is on trial in the Federal Court in this city on the charge of making counterfeit coins at his home in Lincoln, Ill., while pastor of the First Presbyterian Church there, with intent to pass them.

He claims he was experimenting in order to make medals for his Sunday school pupils. He was born in Woodstock, Ont., in 1845, and was reared there.

A COUGH COLD IS DANGEROUS.
There are different kinds of colds, and various ways in which they affect different people. Some constitutions will throw off a light cold, while to others it will stick tenaciously. There is one kind—the kind accompanied by a cough, the kind that turns to bronchitis, the kind that ends in consumption — that should never be neglected.
Many a life history would read different if, on the first appearance of a cough, it had been remedied with
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.
This syrup contains all the virtues of the "Norway Pine Tree," combined with Wild Cherry Bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.
Mrs. R. S. Akerly, Akerly, N.B., writes: "My little boy had such a bad cough he could not sleep at nights. I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to relieve him until I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. From the first few doses he commenced to improve, and when he had taken one bottle he was completely cured."
Be careful in purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark. Price 25 cts.

Bullet in Barber's Shop.

Vienna, Jan. 11.—Vodenicaroff, an inhabitant of Decmen, in Hungary, yesterday revenged himself on a rival in love name Saroff in a manner which proved fatal to a number of other persons.

Fearing to attack Saroff openly, Vodenicaroff watched him enter a barber shop. He then fired at him through the window with an old blunderbuss pistol filled with pieces of lead.

The shower of bullets killed not only Saroff as he sat in the barber's chair, but also the barber who was shaving him, and wounded five other persons who were in the shop, some of them fatally.

Woman and Horse Over Cliff.

Lucknow, Jan. 11.—An amazing escape from death is reported from Binsur, in the Kumoan district of the Himalayas.

A woman from Ranikhet was riding along the Dhaulchina road when her horse shied at an unprotected part, and horse and rider fell sixty feet down a precipice to a ledge below. The horse rolled over, and was dashed to pieces farther down.

The woman was afterwards found on the ledge, and was so little injured that she was able to walk home.

Learn Dressmaking
We teach you everything from the plainest shirtwaist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the lining but all the outer in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but hem, overcast, sew on hooks and eyes, and then, after you have served months there what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year than you did the first day you went there. So why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks. You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop, as there is no pay in advance. You certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up, if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.
Charge for the full course is only $10, to be paid when through, including one of the most perfect charts in use, which we will give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those who cannot come during the day. In this class we will teach shirtwaists, sleeves and escapes. Terms $4.00 Hours from 7 to 9.30. We will teach at Peterborough from
January 20 to February 7
Hours for this class from 2.30 to 5. For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at

MEN WHO WILL GUARD PETERBORO'S INTERESTS THIS YEAR

Those Who Have Been Elected By The People To The Most Responsible City Positions---New Blood in The Nineteen-Hundred and Eight Council.

THE CITY COUNCIL of 1908 contains a large quantity of new blood, from that which occupied the council chambers during the past year. There is a new Mayor to lead the affairs in connection with the welfare of the city, and four new aldermen, in whom the people by their large number of votes have placed a good deal of confidence. In view of the change, the Examiner is publishing below a brief synopsis of the municipal career, and otherwise of the thirteen men.

MAYOR-ELECT H. RUSH, needs no introduction to the public of Peterborough. The large vote with which he was elected last Monday indicates that he is widely known in the city. In the year 1900 he was elected to the council, and for four years in succession he was re-elected a member without going to a nomination or soliciting a vote. During the four years he was chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, and chairman of the Finance Committee, when Ashburnham was joined to Peterborough, retiring from that position in favour of Mr. Frank Adams, in order to "cement the union."

Mr. Rush was born in Norfolk, England, and came to Canada 48 years ago, the latter 45 of which he has spent in Peterborough, and the first three in Cobourg. He with his colleagues, the following twelve aldermen, will control the destinies of the city of Peterborough for the coming year.

ALD. W. H. BRADBURN is now beginning his second term in the City Council. He is a man well and favourably known in Peterborough and possibly for this reason he was elected to the council last year by a vote of 971. This year he was again elected by a vote of 1,160. During the year he was a member of several special committees appointed for special purposes and in these his good judgment has been shown.

ALD. WM. BULLER will sit in the City Council during the coming year for the first time. In the election last Monday he came fifth on the list showing that the people have placed considerable confidence in him. Mr. Buller is well known in Peterborough and is the manager of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company.

ALD GEO. E. ELLIOTT is beginning his third term in the council and during the past two years has shown his ability to grasp municipal affairs. His long standing with the Smith township council before he came to Peterborough had given him an insight into municipal matters. He has taken a deep interest in the affairs of the city during his two year term and the confidence which the public has in him was shown by the large vote with which he was returned last Monday. Mr. Elliott is connected with the local office of the North American Life Assurance Company as well as others.

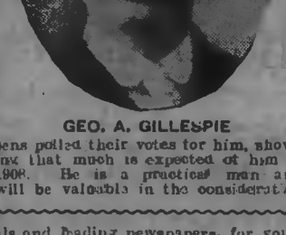
ALD. GEO. A. GILLESPIE, a new member of the Council is probably the best known dairy man residing in this district. More than 1,300 citizens polled their votes for him, showing that much is expected of him in 1908. He is a practical man and will be valuable in the consideration of dairy and county matters. He is a member of the firm of White & Gillespie.



GEO. A. GILLESPIE

ALD. W. J. JOHNSTON, who has a record of four years in the council, in 1905 was chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and inaugurated the movement which resulted in the erection of the new fire hall. Prior to his connection with the city council he was a member of the council of Ashburnham village. Mr. Johnston is a well known building contractor.

WM. J. JOHNSTON

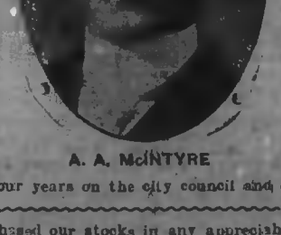
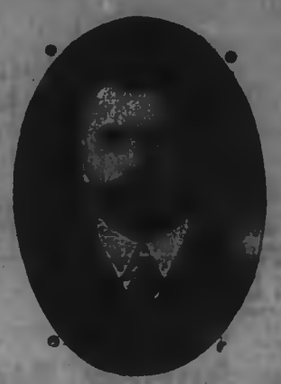
ALD. A. A. McINTYRE has spent four years on the city council and on Monday last was returned again by a four-figure vote. During the past year he was chairman of the Property Committee and was instrumental in getting and furnishing the Carters' Shelter. His name is also connected with the famous milk bylaw which passed over a year ago. Mr. McIntyre is a building contractor.



A. A. McINTYRE

ALD. HARRY MORGAN is beginning his second year in the council work, making his debut last year, when ex-Ald. Ball's resignation to accept the position of Sanitary Inspector, left a vacancy. He was for some years a member of the Ashburnham village council, and of the school board in that place. Three years ago he was a member of the Board of Education. Mr. Morgan has for many years been connected with the Peterborough Canoe Company.



HARRY MORGAN

ALD. ROBERT NEILL was elected to the council this year, and was endorsed by a large number of the ratepayers. Mr. Neill is not just entering the municipal arena, he having been a member of the council some years ago. He has been a member of the Board of health for a number of years. Mr. Neill is proprietor of the Neill Boot and Shoe Store. Mr. Neil's portrait is not given for he declined to either "stand for" his picture in the paper or even sit for it.

ALD. W. G. MORROW is serving his second term on the council, having acted as chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee during the past year. He has lived practically all his life in the city. Ald. Morrow has been secretary of the Board of Education for a number of years, and still holds that position. He is managing director of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, and has just been appointed a director of the Imperial Life Assurance Company.

ALD. HARRY PHELAN, who headed the polls on Monday last with the largest vote ever given in an aldermanic contest, was a member of the council last year, making an efficient chairman of the Legal and Reception

HARRY PHELAN

Committee. He was formerly a member of the hardware firm of Fortye and Phelan, retiring some time ago. He has had considerable municipal experience, having been a member of the town council some years ago, when the ward system of election was in vogue.

ALD. GEO J. TOVEY was again elected to the city council last Monday, after serving for three terms on the council board. During 1907 he was the Finance Minister, and is noted for his unique proposal to place a tax on bachelors. He headed the polls the first year he was elected to the council. He is a foreman in the Canadian General Electric Company's establishment.

GEO. J. TOVEY

ALD. J. J. TURNER JR., a member of the well-known firm of J. J. Turner & Sons, will occupy a seat in the city council for 1908 for the first time. He is a young and energetic man and should make a good councillor.

THE FINANCIAL NEWS FROM NEW YORK MARKET

J. R. Heintz & Co.'s Special

New York, Jan. 11.—Gross earnings of Missouri Pacific are falling off at the rate of over $100,000 a week, which represents a loss of approximately 15 per cent. This is one of the issues that we would avoid until conditions assume a more favourable appearance.

London's part in this market was of no consequence, except for the buying which took place to-day and which was mostly all short covering.

There has been hardly a day for weeks past when foreigners have purchased our stocks in any appreciable quantity.

The bank statement was very favourable.

There was considerable short covering in the last hour, advancing prices sharply.

All indications point to the continuance of the present movement, and we would not hesitate to buy the standard issues on reactions.

Electric Light Bulbs.

It has been remarked that the effective life of incandescent electric lamps is much longer with clear than with ground glass bulbs. E. P. Hyde explains this fact as follows: A thin deposit of carbon is formed on the interior surface of the bulbs, and this absorbs a certain portion of the radiation from the filament. When the glass is clear the light passes straight through, suffering a definite loss from the carbon film. When the glass is frosted the light undergoes many reflections in the interior of the bulb from the innumerable facets, and at each reflection it loses something on account of the obstructing film. The consequence is that the total amount of loss is much greater with ground glass than with clear glass. Mr. Hyde's experiments show that the filament lasts as long in the one kind of bulb as in the other.

A Lost Art.

A Richmond housekeeper had occasion many times to employ a certain odd character of the town known as Aunt Cecilia Cromwell.

The old woman had not been seen in the vicinity of the house for a long time until recently, when the lady of the house said to her:

"Good morning, Aunt Cecilia. Why aren't you washing nowadays?"

"It's dis way, Miss Annie," replied Aunt Cecilia indulgently. "I's been out o' wuhk so long dat now, when I can wuhk, I finds I's lost mah tas'e fo' it."—Lippincott's.

Savage Reciprocity.

Cannibal Queen—Well, goodby, dear. I'm going to my sewing meeting. Cannibal King—What charitable work is the meeting engaged upon now? Cannibal Queen—We are making high necked dresses for the poor society women of London.—London Tit-Bits.

Time in Liberia.

No clock is to be found in Liberia. The reckoning of time is made entirely by the movement and position of the sun, which rises at 6 a. m. and sets at 6 p. m. almost to the minute all the year round. At noon it is vertically overhead.

EIGHTY THREE DOLLARS MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED FROM HIS TROUSERS' POCKET

Mr. Edward Sisson of Cavanville Robbed—Wheat Money That Didn't Last Long

AN UNEXPLAINED ROBBERY

Examiner Special.

Cavanville, Jan. 13.—This usually quiet village has been disturbed by the report of a theft of $83 from the residence of Edward Sisson who resides about a mile north, the money having mysteriously disappeared last Wednesday evening from the pocket of the owner's trousers as they hung on the bed post in his room.

On that day Mr. Sisson disposed of a load of wheat to Mr. F. E. Wilson, of Springville and received a cheque for $83.00 which he cashed in Peterborough. After returning home that evening he came down to the village to pay the threshers an account amounting to $36 but failed to find them here.

He left his trousers containing the money hanging over the bed post. Fate was apparently against him for that night one of his horses became sick and between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock he spent at the barn.

Dr. Deyell, V.S., of Millbrook, attended the animal and after the anxiety was over he went to pay the doctor's bill when he received the first intimation that he had been robbed of the $83. His watch and a cash box containing some silver were left on a stand near by but these were overlooked, the robber getting away with nothing but the "long green."

Where the money went or who got it remains a mystery. During the time Mr. Sisson was at the barn attending to the horse, his wife was putting the children to bed upstairs and heard no noise of any intruder. A couple of strange individuals have been seen in this neighbourhood recently and it may be they are connected with the sudden disappearance of the money. The general belief, however, is that some person acquainted with the circumstances of the case got away with the "eighty-three." At anyrate it's gone and Mr. Sisson would be under a great obligation to the party who discovers where it went.

Warehouses Suffer From Fire—Electric Motor Supposed To Be The Cause

LOT OF FURNITURE BURNED

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Jan. 13.—Fire in the storage warehouse of the M. Rawlinson, Limited, on St. Joseph street, this morning caused about $200,000 damage. There were two warehouses, one a new building, and the other erected in 1903. The fire started in the basement of the old warehouse, supposedly from an electric motor, and ran up the elevator shaft, spreading rapidly. The building, which is valued at $60,000, was damaged to the extent of $15,000, covered by $27,000 insurance. There were between twelve and fifteen hundred separate lots of furniture in the warehouse, and each party storing furniture is responsible for the insurance upon it.

Ald. Phelan Chairman of The Board of Works

Committee Chairmen Were Chosen By The Council This Morning at Inaugural Meeting—Mayor Rush Will Not Accept Second Term

MEETING AGAIN TO-NIGHT

Board of Works—Six members and the Mayor: Ald. Phelan, chairman.

Fire, Water and Light—Four members and the Mayor; Ald. Johnston, chairman, re-elected.

Manufactures, Railways and Franchises—Four members and the Mayor; Ald. Neill, chairman.

Finance, Printing and Licenses—Four members and the Mayor; Ald. Morrow, chairman.

Property, Market Building and Health—Four members and the Mayor; Ald. Bradburn, chairman.

Legal, Reception, Legislation, and Joint with County—Four members and the Mayor; Ald. Elliott, chairman.

The above will be the Council committees and the chairmen for 1908, as decided at the inaugural meeting of the City Council this morning. The chairmen, on the suggestion of Mayor Rush, were elected by ballot, and the votes were so decisive that there was no doubt as to the feeling of the Council in the matter. As will be seen, Ald. Johnston is the only one of last year's chairmen who retains his committee. Ald. Phelan and Ald. Morrow were both chairmen last year, the former of the Reception, and the latter of the Manufacturers' Committee. Ald. Neill is the only new member of the Council to get a chairmanship, and his selection was unanimous.

A feature of the first meeting was the dispatch with which the business was carried out, the business being concluded in a little over half an hour. All the members of the Council were present and paired off as follows, beginning from the right of the Mayor's chair: Ald. Johnston and Ald. Tovey, Ald. Elliott and Ald. Morgan, Ald. Buller and Ald. Bradburn, Ald. Turner and Ald. Gillespie, Ald. Neill and Ald. McIntyre, Ald. Morrow and Ald. Phelan. There was no needless discussion, and the business on hand was attacked in a manner that made the reporters present feel like passing a vote of thanks to the new Mayor and Council.

The Mayor's Address

City Clerk Armstrong, as returning officer, declared the result of the election, after which Mayor Rush gave his inaugural address, of which the most significant point is the statement that it is not his present intention to seek or accept another term of office. Mayor Rush spoke as follows:

Gentlemen,—

I understand that it has been usual of late years for the newly-elected Mayor to address the members of the new Council and to outline, as far as is judicious, the business programme for the year, and to offer suggestions as to the policy that should be pursued on important matters.

I presume, however, that this is more or less a matter of discretion than a cast iron rule. At least, it is my intention to offer only a few brief remarks that can hardly be called an address.

I wish to express the personal gratification I feel in the fact that I will have the assistance of so intelligent and representative a Board of Aldermen as I see before me. I realise that I have been singularly fortunate in this respect, and I have been congratulating myself on the pleasure which it will afford me to have such good support in the discharge of the duties of my office and in meeting the responsibilities thereof.

You will necessarily do many new and important things to further the march of improvement in our city and to complete work already inaugurated. Whatever may be demanded of you, I am confident that the interests of the city at this important stage of its development will commend themselves to you as worthy of your best efforts.

I commend all the city's interests to you in the hope that you may be successful in meeting every problem which may justly claim your attention as the guardians of the city's welfare for the next twelve months, and as affecting the prosperity of Peterborough for many years beyond your actual term of office.

I may say in conclusion that the pressure of my friends has induced me to accept this important office, and I wish it to be understood that it is not my present intention to seek a second term.

On motion the minutes of the last meeting were taken as read.

Mayor Rush announced that the next order of business was the selection of chairmen for the different Standing Committees. He considered that while Ald. Tovey had made an excellent chairman of the Finance Committee and had done splendid work in that position, that it was not wise to have the chairman of such a committee employed where he was difficult to reach, and that another chairman should be elected.

Ald. Tovey thanked the Mayor for his references to the services he had rendered and stated that he had accepted the position on the condition that he should only hold it one year.

On motion of Ald. Tovey and Ald. Buller, it was decided to elect the chairman by ballot.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the council adjourn until 8 o'clock this evening and go into committee of the whole.—Carried.

The Chairmanships

Accordingly the council met in committee of the whole down stairs and little time was lost in selecting chairmen. There were no nominations, the election taking place by ballot.

The first ballot taken was for the Board of Works chairman, and resulted as follows: Ald. Phelan 10, Ald. Elliott 3.

The next was for the chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee, the result being that Ald. Johnston was elected, the result being as follows: Ald Johnston 10, Ald. Morgan 3.

Ald. Neill was elected chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee by an unanimous vote, the thirteen ballots being marked in his favour, and the result was received with applause from the aldermen.

The chairman of the Finance Committee, as was expected, went to Ald. Morrow, the vote being Ald. Morrow 11, Ald. Bradburn 2.

Ald. Bradburn was selected as chairman of the Property Committee, the other Aldermen voted for being Ald. McIntyre. The vote was, Ald. Bradburn 10, Ald. McIntyre 3.

Ald. Elliott was unanimously elected chairman of the Legal Committee.

Ald. Phelan moved that the chairman select the personnel of the committees and that the number of the committees should be composed of the same number as last year with the exception of the Board of Works which should be composed of seven with the mayor. This was seconded by Ald. Johnston and carried.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn that the remuneration of the Mayor should be $500 as usual.—Carried.

The council then adjourned until 8 o'clock to-night when some routine business is to be taken up.

The chairmen of the various committees met immediately afterwards to select the personnel of the committees and will report to-night.

BURKE WILL COME FOR IDENTIFICATION

Mr. Cochrane Will go to Toronto To-morrow For Him

High County Constable Cochrane will go to Toronto to-morrow to bring back Edward Burke, who, it is supposed, robbed the Purser store at Buckhorn, last November. Burke, as was mentioned in Saturday's issue is being held by the Toronto police and will br brought here for identification.

The following reference to the case is contained in to-day's Globe:

Chas. A. Burke, the man who was held on suspicion of being implicated in the shooting of the farmer, George Porteous, at Millbrook, but whom the victim of the assault failed to recognized, will to-morrow be faced by the young woman who surprised a burglar in Buckhorn postoffice on November 5, where he took $25, the property of J. G. Purser.

The girl, who was employed in the postoffice came down to find a man in the shop, but he made good his escape by threatening her with a revolver.

Inspector Duncan has received a telegram from the High Constable of Peterborough, George Cochrane, asking him to hold Burke until to-morrow, in response to a message sent from Toronto, asking if they knew anything of Burke there.

MANY IN ATTENDANCE IN SPITE OF THE STORM

The Rehearsal of Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" at St. John's

The severe storm threatened to stop the rehearsal of Stainer's "Daughter of Hairus" choral work in St. John's schoolhouse last night at 8.30 o'clock However, about thirty voices attended and a useful practice resulted. Some of the singers came from comparatively distant parts of the city, and great must be their interest to brave yesterday's storm and the difficulties of wading through the deep snow. The next rehearsal of combined orchestra and chorus will be held Sunday evening next, January 19, at 8.30 p.m.

RUNAWAY HORSE LOST FOR SOME HOURS

An Early Morning Run—Driver Was Attending a Party

An early morning upset and runaway occurred about four o'clock on Friday morning, when a horse belonging to Mr. Bert Arnott, of North Monaghan, disappeared, and was not recovered for some hours. Mr. Arnott, accompanied by a lady friend, was attending a party in Smith, and on returning home on Friday morning the cutter slid going around a corner in the city, upsetting the two occupants. At a post near the George street Methodist church, the cutter was smashed. The unaway animal was captured by a livery barn employee and kept until the owner was discovered.

Mr. Arnott secured a livery horse to convey himself and friend to their home.

CAR JUMPED THE C.P.R. TRACK

East of George Street Last Night—Line Was Cleared Quickly

A box-car left the C. P. R. track near the switch, just east of George street, last night about 6 o'clock. It was in line with a number of other cars that were being shunted around the yard, but the train was moving slowly, consequently but the one car jumped the track. It fell over on one side, causing a blockade. The auxiliary was called up from Havelock, and in a short time the car was restored to the rails without any great damage.

Popular Cure for Croup

It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

WHAT ELECTRIC POWER WILL DO FOR ONTARIO

Geo. Iles, writing in the American Review of Reviews, tells us that an electrical development company in California supplies energy up to a distance of 318 miles from its generating plant.

What has been accomplished in California shows that the electrical power question is one, the interest in which is not confined to the towns and cities that this month voted on the Beck scheme. There is, in the light of the demonstration on the Pacific Coast, scarcely any part of the Province that may not hope some day to have electrical energy within reach. The source from which such may be drawn is not confined to Niagara Falls. At the Sault, on the Spanish, all through New Ontario, as well as in the Trent Valley and Georgian Bay country, there are minor sources. Within fifty miles of Ottawa enough turbulent water can be chained to supply demands vastly greater than are presented by all Ontario, at the present time. With the Province encircled and dotted with possible development stations, practically every industrial centre should ere long be in a position to utilize all the white coal it needs.

It is impossible to over-estimate the possibilities thus opened up. An abundance of this cheap power will put Ontario in a better position, so far as driving force is concerned, than any manufacturing State of the Union; with electricity substituted for steam, the smoke nuisance will disappear; and with the same agent applied to the haulage of goods and passengers, the efficiency of our transportation system will be increased and its cost decreased. Many and great changes have taken place in the last generation, but we are to-day on the eve of the greatest change of all.—Toronto Star.

The possibility of the transmission of power the distances mentioned presents some measure of justification for the Government undertaking transmission lines. If such lines are only built to serve the western portions of the Province at the expense of the whole Province, the eastern portion of the whole Province will show a disposition to object. The money of the people should not be expended for sectional benefits. It would be going a little too far, it seems, to ask the people of the eastern and of the Province to contribute to the cost of building Government transmission lines for the purpose of supplying power to the western part of Ontario to permit it not only to enjoy cheap power, but to thus exercise undue competition in manufacturing industries with the eastern section of the Province.

EARL GREY'S PROJECT

The people of Ottawa will on Wednesday evening next, have a notable opportunity of learning for themselves, the salient features of Earl Grey's proposal to commemorate the tercentenary of Quebec, by the dedication of the historic battlefields of Abraham and Ste. Foye as national parks.

On that day the delegates of the various Canadian clubs of the country will gather here at the invitation of the Governor-General to discuss the best means by which to arouse public enthusiasm for this very laudable proposal, and the evening meeting which will be held in the Russell Theatre, will probably be made the vehicle of a public announcement of the highest public interest. His Excellency has promised to attend this meeting, and will make a speech in which he will still further outline the details of his project.

In addition to the Governor-General, both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr R. L. Borden, have each signified their intention to be present, and to endorse the patriotic plan of His Excellency. The Speakers of the Senate and the House of Commons, and Deputy Speaker Marsil, will also attend, so the Ottawans may look forward to a feast of oratory. It will be good policy to keep next Wednesday night free from other engagements in order to be present at what promises to be a very notable patriotic gathering. — Ottawa Free Press.

Mr. Jackson, the Conservative member for West Elgin, in an endeavour to make a political point on Friday night — to show how the Liberal Government oppressed the farmers — declared that beef was cheaper now than it was in 1896. Ask your wife.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Some Conservative speakers made a good deal out of the fact that the sailors on the Government steamers cost the country twenty cents a day for subsistence. Mr. Bureau made the good point that it costs the country twenty-five cents a day to feed the convicts in the penitentiaries. Would the Conservatives, asks the Ottawa Free Press, force the sailors of Canada to a lower rate of subsistence than the convicts?

There's a rift in the Conservative lute in Toronto, and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt is the precipitous rock upon which the party has split. The spirit of the internal reaction is expressed in the words of one prominent protesting Conservative—"We propose to find out whether the Conservatives of Toronto are running their Central Association, or whether they are yet to be dictated to by a rejected boss." The end is not yet, for Dr. Beattie Nesbitt didn't resign a $9,000 registrar snap to be knocked out by an adverse vote for the Mayoralty.

THE PERILS OF THE PRESS; WHERE IT WORKS EVIL

Newspapers Responsible For Flood, Drouth, Unequal Rainfall, Etc.

A pamphlet recently issued on "Canada's Approaching Peril" treats of the evils of forest destruction, and incidentally refers to the fearful possibility of the newspapers for evil in this direction:

Among the destructive agents in the wasting of the world's forests in recent years, the printing press stands pre-eminent. The experiments of Keller, in Germany, in 1841, by which pulp was produced by grinding wood, and the further experiments of Watt and Burgess in England in 1854, when pulp was made by a chemical process, resulted in greatly cheapening the cost of paper, especially those classes used for newspapers. The method of converting wood into pulp by mechanical grinding was introduced into the United States about 1870, and in ten years this process brought down the price of news print from 9 cents to 4 cents per lb. Since then the improvement of processes and the extension of the industry have further reduced the price till recently it sold at 2 cents a pound. This cheapening has made possible the enormous increase in the size and circulation of the modern daily newspaper—one of the marvels of the age, and as fearful in its possibilities of evil as grand in its possibilities of good to the world. To satisfy this hungry demand of the daily press, the forests of spruce, fir, balsam and poplar in the United States have been slain by counties and States, until now, those who have studied the situation begin to realize that America's supply of cheap pulp is at an end, because the remaining areas of pulp timber are either inaccessible or insufficient. Year by year, the United States pulp manufacturers have to go further away for their supplies of timber within their own territory, and year by year they have had to draw, to an ever-increasing extent upon the forests of Canada for pulpwood. During the year ending June, 1907, the United States imported pulpwood from Canada to the amount of 650,366 cords, or enough to manufacture say 520,000 tons of news paper, while its imports of ground pulp from Canada were 149,827 tons, valued at $3,230,272. Besides this it imported pulp from other countries, chiefly Norway, to the amount of 63,283 tons valued at $3,118,585, largely chemical pulp. These are official figures of the United States, but while the Canadian official returns show an export to the United States of 452,849 cords in the nine months ending March, 1907, or at the rate of over 603,749 cords for the year, it is the opinion of the "Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada" that the actual quantity of pulpwood shipped to the United States amounts to from 800,000 to 1,000,000 cords per year. Reasons for this estimate are given in a paper to be found in the Canadian Forestry Association's report for 1906. According to a special report of the United States Census Bureau, the consumption of domestic spruce wood used by United States pulp mills increased 47 per cent. in quantity, and 122 per cent. in price in the five years from 1900 to 1905, while the consumption of Canadian spruce wood by United States mills increased 102 per cent. in quantity, and 150 per cent. in price in the same period. The general cost of wood used for mechanical and chemical pulp was more than doubled in the five years named, for every variety of pulpwood except domestic poplar. Canadian poplar had increased 178 per cent. If these percentages could be applied to the conditions in 1907 the increase would be still greater.

SPEECH WAS DELIVERED A HUNDRED YEARS BEFORE

Prof. Edmund Burke, of the College of the City of New York, received a letter from a press-clipping agency. The letter informed the professor that his patronage was desired, and that as a sample of the would find enclosed a clipping from a speech by President Roosevelt, in which he had quoted the professor's words. Prof. Burke read the clipping nearly through before he realized that the President was quoting from Edmund Burke's speech on "Conciliation with the American Colonies," delivered about 168 years before Prof. Burke was born.—The Dominion Press-Clipping Agency, Toronto.

TRACKS CLEARED BY NIGHT

Street Railway Company Have Snow Cleared Away This Morning

Yesterday the Street Railway Company struggled against the worst storm since it began operations. The snow fell all day, and the early sleet left a fine coating of ice on the rails and trolley wires. However, the company went out and last night all the tracks were cleared. The sweeper, plough and two cars were kept busy with a staff of about eight men. At times considerable difficulty was experienced, but as the storm abated the company gained the upper hand and continued until it had the tracks cleared. During the evening the people used the tracks for walking, instead of the sidewalks, which were but half cleaned.

FINED FOR CRUELTY TO A HORSE

Albert Crouter Ill-treated His Steed—He Pleaded Guilty

Albert Crouter pleaded guilty on Saturday afternoon to a charge of ill-treatment to animals and was fined $10 and costs, to be paid forthwith. The alternative was sixty days in jail. Crouter was summoned because his horse was left in such unhealthy conditions as to cause its death. Magistrate Edmison imposed the fine.

MODERN MEDICINES

No sane mother would wish herself treated under the conditions of medicine or surgery of half a century ago. Why then should she give her little one the old fashioned medicines of half a century ago, which more likely than not contain poisonous opiates that cannot cure the child, but merely drug it into temporary insensibility. Baby's Own Tablets is a modern medicine prepared with all the care and skill of modern medical science. And the mother who gives this medicine to her child has the guarantee of a Government analyst that it does not contain one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. This medicine cures all the minor ailments of little ones, and makes baby a healthy, laughing happy child. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company of Brockville, Ont.

FARMERS' MEETING AT STEWARTS'

Dairy Speakers Are There This Afternoon And Evening

The supplementary meetings of the Farmers' Institute which were held held at Lakehurst, Buckhorn and Selwyn on Friday and Saturday were well attended. This afternoon Messrs. J. N. Paget, Cambo o, and J. G. Cornell, of Scarboro, accompanied by Messrs. J. N. Tafford, the president and Wm. Collins, the secretary, of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute drove down to Stewart's Union Hall where addresses were delivered at an afternoon meeting. Another meeting will be held there this evening.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

OFTEN THE BEST PART OF LIFE

Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life.

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Nervous exhaustion invites disease. This statement is the positive truth.

When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here is an illustration. Mrs. Mary J. Dabbruz, of 150 Main Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a blessing to me through that delicate period known as the change of life. For six years it disturbed my entire system. I had hot flushes, was extremely nervous, became pale and debilitated, very irregular in the monthly flow, and the blood all seemed to be in my head. I had frequent palpitation and throbbing of the heart; in fact, my whole system seemed to be in disorder.

"I received no relief from the suffering incident to this period until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; but I date my relief from the time I took the first bottle. I gradually improved, nature took her course painlessly, and in due time I was a well woman."

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick and ailing women to write her for advice. Her great experience is at their service, free of cost.

THE PEERAGE.

Curious Points About the Nobility of Great Britain.

It will doubtless be news to the majority of people that it is within the power of the British parliament to deprive a peer of his peerage. This would only be done, however, on grounds of public policy, and such a proceeding is naturally of a very exceptional character. As a matter of fact, there is only one instance to be found on record of a deprivation of this kind. In the reign of Edward IV. George Neville, duke of Bedford, was stripped of his title and dignity on the grounds of poverty, and he died a commoner in 1483. The existing dukedom of Bedford was not created until more than a couple of centuries later.

The many people who of late years have brought forward claims to titles generally regarded as extinct and the lands which go with them may take courage from the fact that peerages die hard. In the Hastings case, for instance, the peerage was claimed and the title thereto established in 1841 after remaining unclaimed 450 years, while in 1839 the Camoys title was successfully claimed after the peerage had been in abeyance for 420 years.

There are at the present day five degrees of peerage—namely, duke, marquis, earl, viscount and baron—although for nearly 300 years from the time of the Conqueror to the reign of Edward III. there were only two, earl and baron. The latter degree is the most ancient, dating from the conquest, while it is a singular fact that no new degree of peerage has been introduced since the reign of Henry VI., who created the title of viscount in 1440.

Regarding the marriage of peers, there are one or two points which may be interesting. When a peer marries a commoner, the latter becomes a peeress and fully entitled to the privileges of peerage other than the right to sit in parliament. Furthermore, she remains noble, notwithstanding the death of her husband. If, however, during her widowhood she marries a commoner then she ceases to be a peeress. On the other hand, a peeress in her own right who is married to a commoner still remains a peeress, but does not impart her nobility to her husband. A well-known example of this law, of course, was furnished by the marriage of Baroness Burdett-Coutts to William Ashmead Bartlett, who simply adopted the name of Mr. Burdett-Coutts.

Much has been written at one time or another concerning the rights, duties and privileges of peerage. Here are one or two points, however, which are not common knowledge. An English peer has the right to a summons in parliament, but he is not permitted to sit in the house until he is twenty-one years of age. Neither can a peer do so who is an undischarged bankrupt.

Biggest of All Animals.

The sulphur bottom—or blue whale, as it is better called by the Norwegians—is not only the largest living animal, but the largest that has ever lived, reaching a length of eighty feet or very rarely a little more. Whales grow much larger than this in books and newspapers, but in actual life not one in a dozen even of this species attains a length of eighty feet. The popular idea of a whale is that it is a clumsy animal, but, as shown by models, it has the graceful lines of a yacht. The total weight of a whale is about sixty tons, and unusually large and fat individuals must reach at least sixty-five tons. The largest animal of the past so far discovered is the great Dinosaur brontosaurus, and this big reptile weighed about thirty-eight tons.—Museum News.

Why He Never Married.

A matinee girl from Chicago looked up from a long and painful study of one of Clyde Fitch's autographed sentiments into that author's face.

"Mr. Fitch," she began mournfully, "I know why you have not married."

"Tell me. I would like to know."

"Certainly. It must have happened this way: You wrote a proposal of marriage to a beautiful leading woman in one of your companies. You should have proposed in person. But you wrote. She couldn't read your writing and thought it was a dismissal from the company. She drowned herself, and you are still unmarried."

The dramatic author thoughtfully rolled a cigarette.

"It is as good a reason as I know," he responded.

Five Years For Burglar.

Winnipeg, Jan. 13.—Bert Martin, Robert Calder, Malcolm Raymond, Alfred Forteseque and Henry Boyd, the daring gang of burglars, whose frequent and skillful depredations have filled the citizens of Winnipeg with consternation and emptied their stores, were sentenced to five years each at the Manitoba penitentiary. They were all young Englishmen, the oldest only 20 years.

Vagrant Writes Check For Five.

London, Jan. 13.—Kenneth McKenzie of New Brunswick, charged with vagrancy before Squire Chittrick, sprang a surprise on the assembled constables and officials in the County Court yesterday morning when he calmly drew out a check on his bank for $5, the amount of his fine and costs imposed.

Kenneth has been wandering about Westminster Township for some time, and on a complaint Constable Shaver went out and brought him in to the county jail. He appeared before Squire Chittick and was remanded.

McKenzie did not take very kindly to this detention, and even a long letter of recommendation as to his "sobriety, honesty and integrity" from a New Brunswick justice failed to move the obdurate court.

When Kenneth was arraigned Saturday he heard his sentence, and calmly asking for paper drew a check on the Postoffice Savings Bank for $5, payable to Arthur Cornant, county constable of Middlesex, in a hand that would do credit to a bank clerk.

Another Fine School Of Which City Should Be Proud

Queen Alexandra Public School Now Practically Complete --An Idea of It's Equipment and The Splendid Work In It---Has Received Particular Attention From Mr. D. W. Dumble

Another triumph for the Board of Education, which should meet the educational demands of the north end of the city for years to come, is the Queen Alexandra School. After many considerations as to what course should be followed, to fulfil the conditions required, when the Government decided to locate a Normal School in Peterborough, a plan was suggested, the merit of which can now be appreciated by everyone, although there was a feeling of doubt generally expressed at one time. The North Ward School was formerly of four rooms. The Dixon Park property was selected for the site, and the North Ward School was to be enlarged by an addition of six rooms, thus qualifying it for use by the Normal School students.

A Modern School

The new Queen Alexandra School is one of the best in the city. It is not only a credit to the Board, but particularly to Mr. D. W. Dumble, who, as chairman of the Queen Alexandra Building Committee devoted his spare time to it and carefully considered every detail. The four rooms of the old school have been thoroughly renovated, and everything was done to make it the equal of the new addition. This part, consisting of six rooms, three on each floor, with lavatories, store rooms, principal's private room, and large basement, has been carefully planned and constructed.

There is a long hall, 12 feet wide, on each floor between the two buildings, with rooms opening off it. The front of the school faces the south with main entrance opening into the hall. To the north of the building the new part extends beyond the old building, forming the 9th and 10th class rooms. These are large and well lighted, being prepared for the kindergarten on the ground floor and the fourth book room on the second storey. The other four new rooms, two on each floor, are also spacious, and the seats arranged so that the light falls over the left shoulder. The lighting, heating and ventilation would require a whole chapter in themselves for detailed description. The hardwood floors are oiled, the blackboards are all of slate, and the ceilings are metallic. The colour scheme in the painting is a silver grey. The desks are of the most modern design made by the Office and School Furnishing Company of Preston, and supplied and installed by Mr. D. Bellegham. The teachers' desks and chairs are of quartered oak, and, with the kindergarten equipment, were supplied by Mr. E B Clegg. The heating and plumbing systems were installed by Mr. C A J Duranceau. The building is provided throughout with electric lights, the switchboard being in the main hall.

The basement, divided into two parts for girls and boys, is another feature, and the best in any of the city schools. The care of the building is now in the hands of Mr. R. Baker, the caretaker, and is in splendid condition. When the rooms are provided with mural decorations, as intended, their appearance will be much improved and the last touch will then have been added.

At present, Forms I. and II. of the commercial department of the Collegiate Institute are using two of the rooms until the new Collegiate Institute is ready for occupation. When several classes occupy their rooms on Monday, only two rooms will be left unoccupied, and in September next the whole building will be in use.

Over the old portion of the school on the north wall is written in large gold letters, "Public School, 1889," and on the new part, "Queen Alexandra School, 1907." Only by a visit can a proper idea of the entire building be formed.

This afternoon the Queen Alexandra School Committee, of which Mr D W Dumble is the chairman, visited the school to make a general inspection. The entire school was open to-day for the first time.

Those Horrid Bilious Spells

HAVE BECOME A HABIT—BUT YOU CAN BREAK UP THE HABIT BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

"It is nothing when you get used to it," is a common expression which many seem to apply to attacks of biliousness.

Year after year they suffer from frequent spells of bilious headache, indigestion, constipation followed by looseness of the bowels, dizziness, despondency and ill-temper, and the habit seems to have become so firmly established that they do not think of breaking the chains of bondage.

Why not make a break for liberty, health and happiness. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills stand ready to help you. They have helped thousands under just such circumstances to know again the joys of healthful living.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure biliousness by reason of their direct and specific action on the liver, causing the bile to be properly filtered from the blood, where it acts as a poison, and passed into the intestines, where it is necessary to aid digestion and regulate the action of the bowels.

By this treatment you not only obtain relief from the attack, but bring about lasting cure, and prevent kidney disease, which is the usual outcome of neglected biliousness.

"I was suffering for years with stomach trouble and terrible headaches, and spent a good many dollars in medicine (without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended, I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted, and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments." — Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont.

GOES DOWN FOR 20 YEARS.

Joseph Ashworth Gets Heavy Sentence For Attacking Wife.

Cornwall, Jan. 13.—Joseph Ashworth, aged 60 years, was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary by Justice Anglin at the close of the Assizes here on Saturday. The crime of which Ashworth was found guilty was an attempt to murder his wife on Dec. 23, when he chased her from the house with a stove-shaker, knocked her down and when she had wrested the poker from him slashed her with his pocket-knife. Ashworth is a small man, and his wife struggled desperately to save her throat. In so doing her face was slashed, and her fingers so lacerated that one of them had to be amputated. The interference of two little children and the arrival of passers-by saved the woman's life.

Ashworth, going into the box on his own behalf, claimed to have no recollection of the assault after his wife had "sassed" him.

Dr. Bruce Smith of Toronto, inspector of prisons and asylums, who was called as an expert witness, said that he had examined Ashworth, and considered him sane and responsible for his actions. He was, however, one of the low type of emigrants, many of whom were finding their way into the prisons, and public charities of Canada. The jury was out only a short time, and returned a verdict of guilty.

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Ashworth mumbled a request for mercy in his old age. He seemed dazed by the heavy sentence, and after being removed to the cell he collapsed.

In the case of the King v. Rombrough, a verdict of not guilty, was returned. This case, in conjunction with the King v. Eamer, was a very expensive bit of litigation growing out of the alleged theft of a couple of old horse blankets. Rombrough's blanket was stolen and he claimed to have recognized it in Eamer's stable. Afterwards the blanket claimed by Eamer was found under the floor in Rombrough's barn. Eamer was acquitted at the County Court, and as the placing the blanket in Rombrough's barn was a very open question, he was also acquitted. A very large number of witnesses were heard in both cases, and the total expense will be over $1,500.

LOCOMOTIVE RUNS AMUCK.

Races Along at Terrific Speed Spreading Death and Disaster.

Punxsutawney, Pa., Jan. 13.—A runaway Buffalo & Susquehanna locomotive Saturday killed one man, seriously hurt another and wrecked itself and a freight train of 30 cars.

The exact cause of the engine's mad race is not known, but railroad men think the throttle spring was defective and a heavy pressure of steam caused it to slip several notches, letting in a full head of steam, causing the locomotive to break from its train, run 15 miles and dashed into an approaching freight train. The engine is said to have been traveling 90 miles an hour when two miles north of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Junction it crashed head-on into an approaching freight train.

Fireman Bert Griffith of the runaway locomotive fell from the tender and died soon afterwards.

The engineer and fireman of the freight train saw their danger and jumped in time to save their lives.

The Standard Oil Fine.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Attorneys for the Standard Oil Co., Saturday filed a petition in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, asking that court to certify to the Supreme Court of the United States an allegation as to the validity of the Elkins Law, under which the old company was recently fined $29,240,000 for rebating.

It is contended by the company's attorneys that the Elkins Law will be repealed by the passage of the Hepburn bill in 1906.

MISSING CROWN JEWELS.

Commission Likely to Bring Grave Scandals to Light.

Dublin, Jan. 13.—The inquiry by a vice-regal commission into the disappearance last summer from Dublin Castle of the regalia of the Order of St. Patrick, valued at $250,000, was resumed here Saturday.

Neither Sir Arthur Edward Vicars, who was custodian of the missing jewels, nor his legal representatives were present.

The members of the commission are inclined to let the proceedings drop, and they so informed the Solicitor-General, declaring that in their opinion no useful purpose could be served by proceeding without the information that Sir Arthur could give. The Solicitor-General, however, declared that the Government wished the inquiry to continue, and said he was in a position to bring witnesses who could give important evidence. The commissioners agreed to this course.

Considerable public sympathy exists here for Sir Arthur Vicars in the position in which he has been placed by the restriction put upon the inquiry by the commission. It is freely asserted that this course has been taken in order to avoid even graver scandals. It is claimed that persons of high social position had free access to the office from which the jewels were taken, and that the police hold the opinion that the missing property was not removed from Ireland, but is hidden there.

FOUNDERED IN MID-OCEAN.

Swollen Timber Causes Bark Germanic to Burst—Captain Killed.

Queenstown, Jan. 13.—The Campania reports the foundering in mid-Atlantic of the bark Germanic, Weymouth, N. S., to Fleetwood. Seven of the crew were rescued by the steamer Hotsamnewton, after suffering for eight days in an open boat. The captain was killed by a falling spar the moment the Germanic sank. The remaining seven of the crew, in a second boat, are believed lost. The foundering was due to the cargo of wood pulp becoming flooded during the heavy weather, swelling and bursting the decks. The survivors endured terrible hardships.

Publisher In Trouble.

Hamilton, Jan. 13.—The man arrested Thursday night on the charge of forgery, and who was nabbed in the act of trying to get a cheque bearing the signature of Dineen & Co., Toronto, drawn for $450, cashed at the Merchants Bank, has been identified as H. T. Wesson, publisher of The White Lyre, Toronto.

Amongst the cheques found on him was one drawn on the Carnegie Trust Company in favor of The White Lyre Company for $250. The National Bank had cashed it, and had sent a note of protest back with the cheque. It is said that The White Lyre staff are awaiting anxiously for arrears in pay.

Boston Newsboys on Strike.

Boston, Jan. 13.—Three officers were assaulted, stripped of their badges and hats, and one officer and a by-stander so badly injured that they had to be taken to the Emergency Hospital Saturday night in an attack made on the police by 200 newsboys in front of The Boston American newspaper offices.

The trouble was an incident in a strike of union newsboys, called last Tuesday against a local newspaper, which, it is claimed, has raised the price of the paper to the newsboys.

Brutal Murder.

Peabody, Mass., Jan. 13.—A most atrocious murder was revealed by the finding of the body of Ludwick Kubals, a well-to-do Russian Pole, in a field, Kubals had been killed apparently by a blow on the head. His body was mutilated in an indescribable manner. Robbery is thought to have been the motive for the crime. Three young Russian Poles were arrested on suspicion.

Two Presidents Agree.

Managua, Jan. 13.—The long-looked-for conferences between President Zelaya of Nicaragua and President Vicques of Costa Rica took place Saturday. It had to do with the question of the frontier and the commercial relations between the two countries, and before their departure an agreement was signed of fraternal friendship and commerce.

Smallpox in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Jan. 13.—Three more smallpox cases were discovered in the city Saturday night, making a total of 123 cases in the present outbreak of the disease.

Black Eye for Brockville.

Brockville, Jan. 13.—Extensive reports appearing in some of the city dailies outlining the smallpox situation in Brockville has given the town such a black eye that a meeting of the board of health was called Saturday and a statement was issued in which it was truly shown that there are no more than fifteen cases at present, and these all of a mild character.

These are being properly looked after, and every precaution taken.

Admiralty Says No.

London, Jan. 13.—The Admiralty have once more vetoed the scheme for the development of Plymouth as a commercial port.

Italians Fought Gallantly.

Rome, Jan. 13.—Advices received here from Italian Somaliland yesterday give brief details of the attack of the Abyssinians on Lugh. Capt. Bongiovanni, the commander of the native garrison at Lugh, who fought gallantly against the Abyssinians, was killed in the final encounter. Another Italian officer withdrew from the town with a number of native soldiers, but it is not known what their destination was. Only 15 native soldiers entered Lugh, as the remainder, after the Abyssinians withdrew to the north.

St. Luke's Sunday school was crowded to the doors on Friday night on the occasion of the annual Christmas tree and presentation of prizes. On the platform were two large Christmas trees, laden with presents for the children. The chair was taken by Mr. David Spence, St. Luke's indefatigable Sunday school superintendent. Before distributing the prizes, Rev. He also expressed his gratitude for the great assistance he received from his faithful lay readers, Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., and Mr. Arthur Kingdon, who gave their services most gladly and without any remuneration whatever. In awarding the prizes a very high standard had been set, so that even the third prize demanded a high efficiency in the scholar. The awards were given for diligent study of catechism and Bible lessons, exemplary conduct and regular attendance; 364 marks were the highest possible marks, which were obtained by Misses Addie Mitchell, Ruby Quartermaine, Violet Whittaker, and Gladys Whittaker, who received first prize. The other successful scholars were:

Alderman Turner was remembered by his Bible Class with a fine steel engraving, framed. The teachers were also remembered by their classes. Mr. Fred Norris was presented with an umbrella.

SNOW-PLOW MUST VISIT EAST CITY

Citizen Lodges Complaint—Sidewalks Not Cleaned Yesterday

The residents of East City are very indignant about the way their streets were left yesterday. They claim the snow plow never touched their streets until this morning. One man, a prominent citizen in that part of the city, came to the police station to complain, but finding that was the wrong place, he went to the City Engineer. He said he would have this matter settled if he had to spend all day doing so.

Yesterday the streets of East City were in an awful condition and he had to take several church-goers into his house so they could brush the snow off their skirts. They came down the side streets, expecting to find Hunter street cleaned off, and as this was not the case they refused to go any further to church.

This gentleman went to the man who has charge of the snow plow, and asked him in a mild manner why he did not clean off the streets in East City. He was told to go to an inconvenient climate. He next went to the boss of the snow plow men and asked him what his duties were, but got no satisfaction. He then went to the police station, and from there to the Engineer's office. By the determined way in which this man went about his business it is probable East City will be looked after from now on.

TWO TRAINS STICK IN A DRIFT

Railway Operators Impeded by Yesterday Snow Storm

The heavy fall of snow yesterday proved detrimental to the interests of the different railway companies. The G.T.R. experienced a little trouble which caused some amusement among the residents of the western part of the city.

About 3 o'clock this morning a double header of the Midland Division, pulling a long row of freight cars, was wending its way slowly northward. On passing Stewart street the engines became stuck in a drift and were unable to proceed. They whistled, screamed, puffed and snorted, but were held fast by the heavy bank of snow. An engine was sent out from the station and was attached to the caboose of the firmly fastened train. In a few minutes the double header was out of difficulty and started on its journey again.

About 8 o'clock another similar incident happened, but this time at Park street. A double header which also pulled her share of freight was caught in a drift, and after considerable whistling and puffing another engine arrived and pushed the train through the difficulty.

COMMISSIONER COOMBS COMING

Will Speak in The Opera House Sunday, 26th—Staff Captain Miller Here Yesterday

The services in the Salvation Army barracks yesterday were taken by Staff-Captain Gideon Miller, an architect of Toronto. The attendance at both services was exceptionally large. Brigadier Collier, who is working in Toronto, under Lieut.-Col. Pugmire, in his Social Department, will speak here next Sunday on Prison Work. Mr. Collier has spoken here several times before, and it is hoped that the services will be largely attended.

The Grand opera house has been engaged for Sunday, 26th, both in the afternoon and evening, when Commissioner Coombs will deliver addresses. In the afternoon the subject will be, "The Salvation Army of Yesterday, To-day and To-morrow," and in the evening he will give an illustrated address on "From Bethlehem to Calvary." Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., will occupy the chair, and the commissioner will be attended by several prominent officers of the Salvation Army. This will be the Commissioner's second visit to Peterborough since his arrival in this country to take charge. The last time he was here was four years ago.

BIRTH

ROBERTSON — In Peterborough, on January 6, 1908, the wife of Mr. George Robertson, 171 Aylmer street, of a son.

Her Statue Was Painted And Action May be Taken

"Mercury" Sculptured by Miss Katherine Wallis Was Renovated Without Her Consent

CURATOR MAY HAVE TO PAY

The painting of the statue, "Mercury Charmed with His Own Invention, the Lyre," the work of Miss Katherine Wallis, the well known Peterborough artist, may be the origin of an action for damages. The statue is on exhibition at the Ontario museum, and recently the curator renovated it with a coat of paint, and apparently without getting authority. A Toronto despatch says of the expected action:

Curator David Boyle, of the Ontario Museum, may have to defend a thousand dollar damage action, and all because he had Miss K. E. Wallis' statue, "Mercury charmed with his Own Invention, the Lyre," renovated with a delicate coat of creamy paint. While no writ has been served, he has been told in an informal way that the sculptor intends to issue one.

Miss Wallis, of Paris, sent the study to the Ontario museum for exhibition. According to Mr. Boyle, it had a soiled appearance, and bore evidence of some pigment. As housecleaning was in progress Mr. Boyle had Mercury and some others touched up a bit as the best means of cleaning them.

"Of course," says Mr. Boyle, "nobody would think of painting marble, and Mercury is not of marble."

Miss Wallis says that Mercury had never been painted or coloured before coming here, that the alleged colouring was natural, and not artificial. Mr. Boyle, on the contrary, argues that it was a paint or pigment.

OLD PEOPLE OF PETERBORO' NEED VINOL

It Strengthens and Vitalizes

With old age comes feebleness and loss of power; the organs act more slowly and less effectually; the blood is thin, sluggish and watery; digestion is weak and food is not assimilated as it used to be.

Vinol repairs worn tissues and checks the natural decline. It tones up the digestive organs, aids assimilation, makes rich, red blood, and strengthens every organ in the body. In this natural manner Vinol replaces weakness with strength.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, but a delicious cod liver preparation which contains all the medicinal body-building elements of cod liver oil in a concentrated form, taken from fresh cods' livers, the useless oil eliminated, and tonic iron added.

It is because we know so well of what Vinol is made that we offer to return money if it fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, Druggists, also The Market Drug Store, Peterborough, Ont.

WOOD-CHOPPER PICKS UP BLACK SNAKE IN HIS HAND ON FRIDAY

A wood chopper from the shores of Deer Bay, in Smith Township, tells a remarkable story for this time of the year. On Friday he was removing some sticks from the top of a when he picked up in his hand a big black snake. It was not only a case of seeing snakes, but he actually felt this one. It was a sensation which, he says was a novel one to him, and which still makes him shiver whenever he thinks of it.

The snake was sunning itself on the rock a short distance from the shore of Deer Bay, but it is more than probable that yesterday it crawled back into its nest to await the coming of more genial weather.

ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY TO MEET

A Meeting Will be Held Friday Night in Green Parlor At Y.M.C.A.

As mentioned on Saturday the annual meeting of the Peterborough section, Royal Astronomical Society will be held on Friday night in the green parlour of the Y.W.C.A. when the reports for the year will be made and officers elected.

The members of the society are reminded that a telescope has been loaned them by Prof. Stupart, director of the Meteorological observatory of Canada and that it may be used by any at the home of Mr. Herbert Collier, Weller street.

IN THE GOLD FIELDS FOR SEVEN YEARS

An Address Worth While Hearing at St. Andrew's by Rev. A. Allan

The address to be prepented this evening at St. Andrew's church by the Rev. Andrew Allan of Glasgow, Scotland, is attracting much attention. It will be entitled, "Seven Years in the Gold Fields of South Africa," and will be a may talk on the conditions in South Africa before the celebrated Boer War.

Rev. Mr. Allan spent seven years in that country previous to the war and has seen Johannesburg grow from a village of 300 to a city of 130,000. He has often talked to the great Boer leader, President Kruger and in his lecture to-night will give the causes of the war, many of which have never before come to light. He has taught the Boers at his church in Johannesburg and his address to-night will be a unique one to a Peterborough audience. It begins at 8 o'clock.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

Mission At St. Andrew's Was Commenced Yesterday

Rev. Mr. Allan, the Scottish Missionary Delivered Addresses—Purpose of Mission Explained

HE IS A FORCIBLE SPEAKER

Rev. Andrew Allan, the Scottish missionary from Glasgow, who is conducting a series of services in St. Andrew's church, continuing daily this week and the greater part of next, gave the first of his addresses at St. Andrew's yesterday and made a most favourable impression upon the congregations, which were not so large as usual on account of the inclemency of the weather. Rev. Mr. Allan speaks with a pleasing Scotch accent, and his addresses are eloquent, topical and forcible. He has travelled in many parts of the world and has acquired a rich store of experiences from which he draws quite freely in his discourses, applying them very effectively to make his point.

At the evening service Rev. Mr. Allan spoke from the text, Romans viii., 2,—"Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." The subject he announced was "Our divine birthright in Christ Jesus and How to enjoy it," and this was to be divided into three—the conditions, the characteristics, and the methods of manifestation. The speaker explained that the great object of the apostle was to introduce every human heart into the glorious liberty of the children of God. This was the keynote, the purpose of the mission, to endeavour to make the people strong, heroic Christians in Jesus Christ and for humanity.

Rev. Mr. Allan likened the epistle of the Romans to a grand cathedral in which the different chapters were the windows, and advised the reading of it at a single sitting. The four great doctrines taught there, the philosophy of salvation from beginning to end were condemnation, justification, consecration, and sanctification.

In the afternoon it had been the intention to hold a mass meeting in the church, but on account of the blizzard, this service was postponed and the missionary gave an interesting address to the children of the Sunday School.

To night Mr. Allan will give an address on "Seven Years in the Gold Fields of South Africa," in which he will refer to some personal experiences with the Boers, and will also touch upon the causes of the South African war.

There will be a short service each afternoon at 3 o'clock, practically a Bible conference. The evening meetings will be preceded by a song service.

OBITUARY

GERALDINE MADELINE CROUTER

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Crouter, 62 London street, will learn with regret of the death of th ir infant daughter, Geraldine Madeline, aged 1 month. The funeral will be announced later.

MRS. R. J. KIDD

At ten minutes past seven o'clock yesterday morning, at her residence, 462 Hunter street, there passed away in the person of Charlotte E. Coe, beloved wife of Robert John Kidd, one of Peterborough's most widely known and highly esteemed citizens, and the intelligence of her demise will be learned with deep sorrow and regret by all who knew her. Her death was the result of an illness of long duration, but which only assumed an acute form a few weeks ago.

The deceased lady was 42 years of age. She was born in Millbrook, and has passed most of her life in Peterborough, excepting three years spent in Port Perry. She was married to Mr R. J. Kidd about 20 years ago, and had one daughter, Olive, whose tragic death, three years ago, will be sadly remembered. She is survived by her husband, mother and four sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) Emmerson, of Goderich, Mrs. A. Fletcher, Mrs. Jos. Black, of Toronto, and Miss Jennie Coe, who resided with her.

Mrs. Kidd was a member, in full connexion, of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and had been for a long number of years. She was one of the most diligent and devoted members of the congregation, associating herself, with fidelity and intelligence, with the promotion of all the general interests of the church, and although for many years her health had been impaired by the progressive disease, which finally closed her life, she maintained her active connection with church interests till within a fortnight or three weeks ago, when she was compelled to rest from her church labours. She was an active member of the Ladies' Aid Society, a diligent teacher in the Sunday school, and in fact her interest and support extended to every branch of church activity. She will be greatly missed in church circles, where she was beloved and valued, not only for her works' sake but for her kindly and genial nature. Her example as a Christian woman and as a church worker will long remain an inspiring memory.

The funeral service will take place at the family residence, 462 Hunter street, on Tuesday afternoon, at 1.30 o'clock, and the funeral will leave at 2 o'clock for the Little Lake cemetery.

At St. Andrew's church last evening the pastor, Rev. J G Potter, referred to the death of Mrs. Kidd who he said would be a loss to the community. While the deceased had not been a member of St. Andrew's church she had always taken a deep interest in the work and he was sure that the intelligence of her death would sadden the members of the congregation.

MISS ANNIE DILLION

The death occurred this morning of Miss Annie Dillon a well known and highly respected resident of the city, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness. The deceased was born in Otonabee and had lived in this vicinity all her life with the exception of the years spent with her brother in Kansas. She was 38 years of age. One brother, Patrick, residing in Louisville, Kansas, is the only surviving member of the family. The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence of her cousin, Mr John McDonald, 281 Queen street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery.

THE WALLS OF JERICHO

The verdict of those who were fortunate in seeing "The Walls of Jericho" Saturday night's attraction at the Grand, was that as a problem play it surpassed anything as yet produced before a Peterborough audience. Henry Stanford and Laura Burt, the principals, appeared last season in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," with splendid success. However their new play vehicles their talents into a different channel. "The Walls of Jericho" deals with the London Smart Set and Miss Burt and Mr. Stanford gave a highly interesting and fascinating portrayal of a husband and wife who enjoy the distinction of being among the elite of the society of the English Metropolis.

Jack Frobisher, of a serious nature and possessed of a deep interest in the welfare of his fellow men struck it rich in Queensland, Australia. After devoting several years in improving the condition of the poorer classes, and having liberally spent some of his money in building water works and other civic necessities, returned to was a love affair but Lady Alethea, Steventon and thus socially, had attained his ambitions. The match was a love affair but Lady Alethia following the custom of her set, wasted her time and money at bridge, smoked, talked scandal with the rest flirted with married men and after three years, when the story opens, devoted little or no time to her husband and infant son. Jack who in Australia was known for his power and control over men, found himself helpless to remedy the conditions in his own home. However, a friend stirs him into action and the last straw was his wife's flirtation with Harry Dallas, when he asked her not to receive his attentions. Dallas makes love to Lady Alethea who spurned his empty passion, for at heart she really loved her husband. Jack discovers the love letter Dallas wrote, makes him read it and decided to sell all his property and return to Queensland, where his wife would be free from the baneful surroundings of the Set.

This decision made in the third act is the dramatic moment of the play. Mr. Stanford as Jack denounces his wife's companions, her neglect of himself and their child, the so-called honour of her family, the loveless marriages and the childless wives among the society leaders and their many other evils. He was very strong as he charged his wife with neglect and open preference for the company of toys and society parasites who possessed not even a spark of true manhood.

Lady Alethea refused to accompany him to Queensland but a complete settlement was quietly arranged by Hankey Bannister, an Australian friend of Jack's.

The piece abounds in heart interest and deduces an every day moral, but the main charm is the manner in which Jack as a true, honest and brave gentleman stands out against the idlers who know only how to waltz, flirt and converse mainly with any and every woman.

Miss Burt was equally as strong as Mr. Stanford and both received a flattering reception. The rest of the members are proportionately balanced, combining a splendid company.

They should be greeted by a crowded house if they appear in Peterborough on some future occasion.

THE WEATHER.

A snowstorm that had been threatening for several days, reached this vicinity early Sunday morning, and continued, with increasing force, all day Sunday. The snowfall was general from Ontario to the seaboard. About twelve inches of snow fell in this locality. At Toronto and west thereof, the snowfall was not so heavy. Yesterday's temperature was, highest, 26 degrees; lowest, 19 degrees. A decidedly cold wave is at present over the Yukon. It will probably move south-easterly to the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and then to the Atlantic over this province in the course of two or three days.

DEFENCE OF THE ENGLISHMAN

By One Who is Striving To Become Acquainted With Canadian Manners And Customs

THE VIEW AS IN BRITAIN

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — Kingly allow me through the medium of your valuable paper, to give expression to my own views regarding the unemployed and their task of stone breaking. It seem to me that the poor fellows are being unduly brought before the gaze of a curious public, and, as was intimated, "they are nearly all Englishmen." I feel obliged, as an Englishman, to protest. One would think that Great Britain was a place to be ashamed of, judging by the satarical remarks passed. You were right, sir, when you said in a late issue, that we should have a better and kindlier feeling towards our less fortunate brethren.

I am striving to become a Canadian citizen in its truest sense, but I bitterly resent the uncharitable, unwarranted criticism too often hurled at my brother Englishmen.

I may add that in the "old land" there is more kindness shown to the German Jew than the Canadian shows for the Englishman in Canada. Of course I know that there are Englishmen who do not command respect, but would not expect us to judge Canadian character by the product of a Montreal slum.

Believe me,
Yours truly,
AN ENGLISHMAN.

"A MUSICAL CRITIC" IS PLEASED

Words of Praise For Singing of Miss Lavina Hallahan

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—By your permission I would like to occupy a little space in your paper to express my delight and congratulations to the dramatic section of St. Peter's T.A.S. upon the progress they are making. I have often heard of Miss Lavina Hallihan but never did I comprehend the fact that Peterborough possessed such a talented vocalist until the other evening at St. Peter's Hall. The fascinating appearance alone of Miss Hallihan interested me, but her singing I must say amazed me. She is the possessor of an eloquent voice overflowing with richness and sweetness of tone, which certainly captivated her audience that evening.

One word in conclusion to St. Peter's T.A.S. that is, that they can boast of having, in fact, the best and most accomplished young vocalist in this city; therefore I consider that they should do all in their power to aid Miss Hallahan in her education as she will undoubtedly make a shining star in the musical world.

Yours truly,
"A Musical Critic."

NO SNOW IN MARITIME PROVINCE

So Says Letter From St. John—High Winds There

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, County Constable, received a letter on Saturday from his son in St. John, N.B., which stated that so far that district has not experienced any snow; high winds have been blowing for some days but otherwise the weather has been comparatively mild.

A different story, however, may be told after yesterday's storm when a good supply of the beautiful came from the east and came fast too.

THE WEATHER.

A snowstorm that had been threatening for several days, reached this vicinity early Sunday morning, and continued, with increasing force, all day Sunday. The snowfall was general from Ontario to the seaboard. About twelve inches of snow fell in this locality. At Toronto and west thereof, the snowfall was not so heavy. The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

MANY WERE TRAMPLED NO DEATH

Sixteen Children Killed in Senseless Panic at Public Hall.

FORTY OTHERS BADLY HURT

Awful Disaster at Barnsley, England —Gallery of Building Was Packed With Children — Mad Rush For Better Seats Ends In Panic— Bodies Crushed Beyond Recognition — Terrible Scene.

Barnsley, England, Jan. 13.—Sixteen children were trampled to death, and forty others, several of whom cannot live, were injured in a mad rush for better seats at an entertainment given in the public hall here Saturday afternoon.

There was a great crush to secure admittance to the entertainment, and when the show opened every seat was taken and the gallery was literally packed with children, who filled the aisles and were dangerously massed against the lower railing.

With a view to relieving this crowding in the gallery, the attendants decided to transfer some of the children to the body of the house, and one of the ushers called out: "Some of you children come downstairs."

Immediately the rush started, and within a few seconds hundreds of children were being trampled under foot. Even those who had seats in the gallery, doubtless being panic-stricken by the screams and struggles of the crowd fighting to reach the staircases, joined in the stampede.

The scene was a terrible one, the cries of the injured and the moans of the dying causing the greatest excitement among those gathered in the body of the hall.

Police and ushers rushed to the head of the staircase, which was literally strewn with dead and dying, and by the most desperate effort managed to drag scores of the struggling children to the corridors below. It was with the greatest difficulty that a panic among the children in the lower part of the house was averted, all of these eventually being taken to the streets in safety.

When the reserve police arrived they found the narrow stairway practically blocked with bodies, which were crushed in some cases almost beyond recognition. Scores of children were forced by the pressure from the crowd behind them to scramble over those that had fallen, whether living or dead, and many of the injured children were found later to be suffering from fractured bones and severe lacerations, caused by the indescribable manner in which they had been trampled upon.

Soon after the accident the approaches to the hall were crowded with sobbing women searching for their missing children.

JUDGE FLED FROM BENCH.

Woman Fires Shot and Creates Panic in Court.

Waukegan, Ill., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Maude Crews, aged 35, fired two shots at Arthur Nichols in a crowded court-room on Saturday, wounding Nichols seriously and causing the judge and the spectators to take refuge in flight. Mrs. Crews was arrested. The shooting followed Nichols' discharge by Police Judge Weiss, after Nichols had been arraigned on complaint of Mrs. Crews, who alleged that Nichols had tried to run her down with his horse, and had struck at her with a whip last night. Nichols asserted that the woman's act was the result of "an insane infatuation" for him. Mrs. Crews is the mother of eight children.

Collapsed at Curling Rink.

Morrisburg, Jan. 13.—Hugh Montgomery, merchant tailor, died suddenly here Saturday night. He retired from active business six years ago and took up his residence in Toronto last year. He returned to Morrisburg during the holidays, visiting friends and relatives. He went to the curling rink, and while not taking any active part in the game, he did deliver two stones. Shortly after he suddenly collapsed and fell on the ice. He was removed to the waiting-room, medical aid was summoned, but he never regained consciousness, death resulting from heart failure.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 13.—Late Saturday night the jury in the case of Thomas David, accused of the murder of his wife last summer, after they had quarreled at McAdam Junction, brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter in the lowest form, with a strong recommendation to mercy. He will be sentenced to-day. The prisoner showed no concern. It was proved during the trial that David was subject to fits of insanity and that he and his wife had lived an unhappy life.

Reopening Plant.

Belleville, Jan. 13.—For some time past the horseshoe department in connection with the local rolling mills has only been in partial operation, but to-day the full force of the department will be taken on again and the horseshoe plant operated to its full capacity. It is believed that before long the entire plant of the rolling mills will be again in operation, as scrap iron is arriving in large quantities.

Burns Prove Fatal.

Williamsford, Jan. 13.—Miss H. Pinkham, a young woman residing south of Darneck, is dead, at her parent's home. About two months ago while employed as a domestic by H. G. Tucker, Owen Sound, she was badly burned while starting a fire in the furnace. She was brought home here and after two months of suffering died.

DISORDER REIGNS IN BERLIN

Socialists Clash With Police in Streets of German Capital.

CONSTABLES CHARGE CROWD

Demonstrators Demand Universal Suffrage—Monster Procession Parades City—Women Join In the Fray—Scores Were Injured—Knocked Down and Trampled On—Mob Incensed Against the Prince.

Berlin, Jan. 13.—The determination of the Socialists to secure direct universal suffrage, combined with their indignation against Chancellor von Buelow's curt declaration refusing their demands, gave rise yesterday to an unusual scene and a monster popular demonstration, accompanied by disorders in the streets of the capital, in which 40,000 organized Socialists participated, while 30,000 sympathizers from time to time actively joined in the manifestations.

One of the most remarkable features of yesterday's uprising was the number of women who engaged in the demonstrations, and they appeared even more earnest in their activities than the men. The authorities took the sternest measures to prevent disorders and the strictest precautions to protect the assembly and other public buildings and Prince von Buelow's residence against the outbreak of fury. Groups in the streets were dispersed in the most vigorous manner and collisions between processions and manifestants and the police resulted in the injury of a considerable number of the demonstrators, but so far as known no fatalities occurred in this city. The police refrained from making arrests except in cases of extreme violence.

Several serious clashes with the police occurred, the officers dispersing the crowds with drawn arms.

Scores of the manifestants were knocked down and trampled upon, and the great crowd at length was broken up into small groups, among whom there were many injured.

CHURCH PASTOR JAILED.

Convicted In Illinois of Making Counterfeit Money.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—Guilty of having moulds in his possession for the manufacture of counterfeit dollars, half dollars, quarters and dimes, with the intent to use them unlawfully, was the verdict of a jury Saturday in the case of Rev. James A. Kaye of Oak Park, Ill, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Wheaton, Ill., and formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lincoln, Ill., where the crime was committed.

Dr. Kaye was sentenced to two years in Chester Penitentiary. Pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Kaye is confined in the Sangamon County Jail Annex.

Kaye's defence was that he had the moulds to make medals for Sunday school pupils. It was brought out, however, that Kaye's son had attempted to pass some of the spurious coins.

TO PROTECT FISHERIES.

Fast Cruiser Wanted For British Columbia Coast.

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 13.—In a report to the Ottawa Government, Capt. Newcombe of the fishery protection service, recommends that a cruiser like the Canada on the Atlantic coast, with a speed of 20 or 22 knots, and two small boats of 18 knots speed, be commissioned as soon as possible to protect the British Columbia fisheries.

He gives as a reason that the halibut grounds of British Columbia are being depleted by American fishing vessels, which, he says, took nearly 40,000,000 pounds of halibut last year from provincial waters.

Mulai Hafid Sultan.

Tangier, Jan. 13.—Further advices received here from Fez state that Mulai Hafid was proclaimed Sultan on condition that he abolish taxation, make an alliance with the Sultan of Turkey and suppress all relations with Europeans except those "prescribed by custom and rules."

Couriers have been despatched to Morocco City to summon Mulai Hafid to Fez. That city is reported to be in an uproar. The residents are armed and are fearful lest outbreaks of pillage or a massacre occur.

Will Commandant Resign?

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—It is understood that as a result of discussion in the House on Friday on the rustication of Cadet Lancaster, son of E. A. Lancaster, M. P. for Lincoln, a student at the Royal Military College at Kingston, the commandant, Lieut.-Col. E. Thornton Taylor, may be asked to resign. No further communication has been received from the commandant. The matter may be brought up again in the Commons when the estimates of the Militia Department are reached.

TAAGEDY AT RAILWAY CROSSING

Farmer and Daughter Thrown Out of Wagon at Cedar Springs.

STRUCK BY EXPRESS TRAIN

Victims Meet Instant Death—Wealthy Farmer Lies Unconscious From Terrible Injuries—Will Likely Die—Two Horses Also Killed—Light Democrat Was Smashed Up—Could Not See the Train

Chatham, Jan. 13.—A serious accident occurred at the Pere Marquette crossing at Cedar Springs Saturday night, about 6:45, when No. 4 express, bound from Walkerville to London, in charge of Engineer Bert Smith and Conductor Crouchman, smashed into a light democrat in which were seated Samuel Crouch, aged 62 years; his daughter, Jennie, aged 20 years, and David Toll, aged 72.

The party was returning home after attending the Chatham market. Mr. Crouch and his daughter were instantly killed. Mr. Toll was seriously injured, and, it is thought, will not recover. Both horses were killed and the democrat was completely demolished.

The engine struck between the horses and the democrat. The occupants of the rig were thrown about 30 feet, the girl being carried farther on down the track. Mr. Toll's injuries consist of a broken arm, hip broken at the socket, nose broken and several cuts on the face and body, besides severe internal injuries. He was immediately taken to Dr. Hank's office in Blenheim, but he has not regained consciousness since the accident. Crouch was a laborer and Toll one of the most prominent and wealthy farmers in this country. Dr. R. V. Bray of this city, the Pere Marquette surgeon attended Mr. Toll in Blenheim.

The Cedar Springs flag station is situated on the right of the road, and was between the unfortunate party and the on-coming train. It is thought that the party in the rig thought the train would stop at the station, so tried to cross the track. Either that or they were muffled up on account of the coldness of the night and did not hear the whistle or the bell. The track at this point is straight and unobstructed for two miles on either side of the crossing. Crown Attorney H. D. Smith has ordered an inquest, which will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, in Blenheim.

ISSUE DRASTIC ORDERS.

Railway Board Takes Steps to Safeguard Passengers.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The board of railway commissioners for Canada has promulgated a series of orders for the safety of passengers traveling on railways within the board's jurisdiction.

It is provided that every passenger car must be equipped with a fire extinguisher at each end of the car. The extinguisher must be of the latest approved pattern and be inspected and recharged once every six months.

Another requirement is that wooden trestles must be inspected after the passing of every train, if possible. There shall be an inspector for every five miles of track, if such inspector is provided with a track bicycle; if not, there shall be an inspector for every two and a half miles. This inspection shall be done from May to September inclusive.

Also, it is provided that there shall be a barrel of water at each end of a trestle and the ground beneath shall be kept free from leaves.

Mixed Marriages Refused.

Montreal, Jan. 13.—No less than 15 applications to authorize mixed marriages have been refused by the Roman Catholic religious authorities in this diocese since the archbishop issued his letter on the subject a few weeks since. This information was obtained in a sermon which Canon Gauthier preached in the cathedral at high mass yesterday morning.

The preacher of the day announced that his grace had refused ecclesiastical sanction to 15 of these intended unions, 12 of which were from persons in the lower walks of life, and three had been from couples occupying high social positions in the community. He said reference was made to this particular phase of the question in order that the faithful might understand that no favor could be shown when the salvation of souls was at stake.

To Prison For Life.

Detroit, Jan. 13.—"I sentence you to Marquette Prison for the remainder of your life. How old are you, Lawrence?"

"Twenty-three, your honor."

With these words closed the trial of Thomas Lawrence, the negro whom a jury in Judge Phelan's court, after deliberating 10 hours, found guilty of holding up and brutally beating Emma Clark and her companion, Prudence Brown, and shooting at the man who came to their assistance, on the night of Dec. 21.

Fire In Russell House.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—Slight damage was done by fire in the linen room of the Russell House yesterday afternoon. While running an extension ladder up to a window, Fireman George Parker was struck on the back with the crank of the winch, and two of his ribs were broken.

Actor Shot Policeman.

Omaha, Jan. 13.—Col. William Lightfoot Visscher of Chicago, poet and actor, last night shot and slightly injured Policeman H. Dillon. Visscher had been arrested for alleged disorderly conduct and Dillon was trying to put him into a patrol wagon.

Soo Will Build New Line.

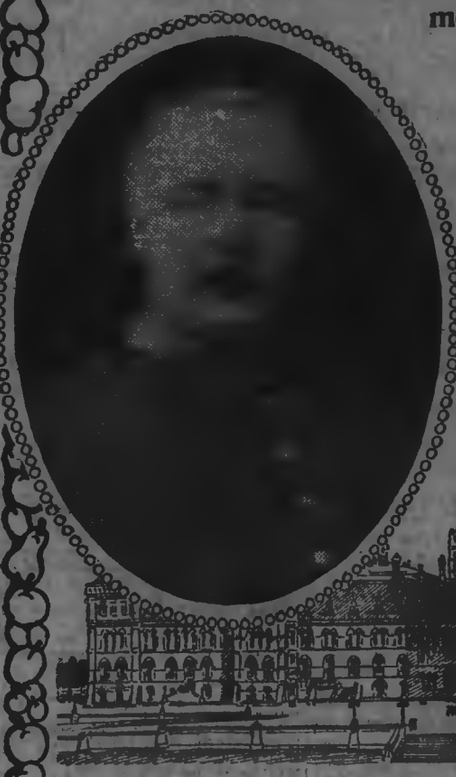
Cured Senator Costigan

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"—is the finest medicine ever produced"



OTTAWA, ONT., Jan. 8th, 1906.

I have been a dreadful sufferer from chronic constipation for over thirty years and I have been treated by many physicians and I have taken many kinds of proprietary medicines without any benefit whatever. I took a pill for a long time which was prescribed by the late Dr. C. R. Church, of Ottawa. Also for many months I took a pill prescribed by Dr. A. F. Rogers, of Ottawa. Nothing seemed to do me good. Finally I was advised by Dr. Rogers to try "Fruit-a-tives" and after taking them for a few months I feel I am completely well from this horrible complaint. I have had no trouble with that complaint now for a long time, and I can certainly state that "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine I ever took that did me any positive good for constipation. I can conscientiously recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to the public as, in my opinion, it is the finest medicine ever produced.

(Signed) JOHN COSTIGAN.

The thousands who know the Honorable Senator from New Brunswick, know that nothing short of a complete and wonderful cure could induce him to write such a testimonial as the above letter.

"Fruit-a-tives" was the only remedy that gave Hon. John Costigan any permanent relief.

"Fruit-a-tives" accomplished in three months, what the leading physicians failed to do in thirty years.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only real cure for Constipation—because it is the only remedy that invigorates the liver—strengthens the bowel muscles—regulates the kidneys—and improves the skin action. SWINDLED DIAMOND MAGNATE.

Frenchman Claimed to Know Secret Method and Got $320,000.

Paris, Jan. 13.—Considerable amusement is caused here by the revelations of the police proceedings against a well-known Parisian sleight-of-hand man and juggler who has recently been figuring as a chemist. He not only claimed that he had discovered a scientific method of making artificial diamonds, but he even succeeded in obtaining from Sir Julius Wernher of the De Beers Co., an advance of $320,000.

The swindler, whose name is Lemoine, simply placed real diamonds in his electric oven, and by sleight-of-hand manipulation produced them as the result of his alleged chemical methods. The swindle was detected, however, by one of the representatives of Sir Julius Wernher, who secretly placed a cut diamond in Lemoine's electric crucible, whereupon Lemoine handed over the cut diamond among the others that he claimed had been made in his oven.

Lemoine persisted in maintaining great secrecy in regard to his formula, which, he asserted, had been deposited under seal in the Bank of England, not to be opened until after his death. It was against this formula that Sir Julius Wernher advanced Lemoine $320,000. The money was regarded by the adroit "scientific" swindler as merely a "first instalment," to be followed by other and even larger payments.

Missionaries Safe.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The State Department is informed in a despatch from Consul-General Denby at Shanghai, China, dated Saturday, that the American Presbyterian school property was destroyed as a result of tax riots in Northern Chikiang, but the missionaries are safe. He also states that protection is promised them by the Chinese authorities.

AN EATING ULCER.

Ulcers are a skin disease, and are more or less directly occasioned by a bad state of the blood, which produces acrid humors and corrupts the secretions.

No one can expect to have a skin free from disease when the blood is in a disordered condition and the stomach and bowels acting feebly in consequence.

Through its wonderful cleansing, purifying powers on the blood, and its renovating action on the entire system, Burdock Blood Bitters has made thousands of cures of different skin diseases during the past thirty years it has been in the market.

Mrs. Joseph Robinson, Halberton, Que., writes: "I had an eating ulcer on my ankle. I took two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters and it worked like a charm, cleaning out all the impurities from my system and improving my appetite. While taking the B.B.B. internally I used it externally to cleanse the sore, and it healed [illegible]

Not "Up To The Management" But Up To The Citizens

Strathconas Are Knocked Because They Lose First Game, The Fact Of The Case Not Being Taken Into Consideration At All

ENCOURAGING, ISN'T IT?

Under the heading "Up to the Management" the Review on Saturday published a reference to the Strathcona hockey team that shows a commendable desire to prevent the public from losing its money. The article, however, indicates such a lack of inside knowledge of what is doing in hockey circles that one wonders that that journal should have been so hasty in talking about matters concerning which it seems to be entirely ignorant. The knock or rather boost, if the principle that "every knock is a boost" is true, states that "playing as they did last night the locals can't expect to go very far in the district. Peterborough has material to place a much stronger team on the ice than the septette that met defeat by Lindsay and the Strathcona management should get busy and brace up the outfit."

A lot of encouragement for a young team playing its first O.H.A. season, isn't it? Because they dropped the first game in which they have figured together as a team to a seven who have been together for several years, the graduates from the city league are practically told that they are out of their class and should be dropped. How Peterborough can expect to have a successful hockey team again if this is the general opinion, is hard to see. The Lindsay team has never won a championship and yet they have received enthusiastic support from the Sougog citizens. It took the Colts several years to develop into a championship team and if they had not been supported and encouraged by the public in the interval we would never have had the Whitcroft and the Armstrongs and the Morgans who made Peterborough known as a hockey town. The only way in which hockey can be made a success in Peterborough is to start as the Strathconas have done, with a bunch of young players. It is foolish to expect them to get out and in the first games play the style of hockey that Peterborough people have been accustomed to. The improvement will come if the enthusiasm of the young players is fostered by patient and loyal support of the public genral.

The line-up used by the Strathconas on Friday night was the best that was available and the team played for every ounce that was in them. They should be praised not criticised for their showing. The Review mentions two players who should have been on the team. That they were not is no fault of the management of the Strathconas. One of the players mentioned was understood to have retired from the game, the other will be with the team from now on and would have been on Friday if he desired. The Review was evidently ignorant of those facts when the article referred to was published and it hard to see just what good the knock was expected to do.

To again quote from the reference, "The Peterborough public will only support a winning team and the Strathcona management should lose no time in putting one on the ice." The Peterborough public is lucky to have a team of any kind this season and had not the Strathconas stepped into the breach there would have been no hockey. To lose the first game is a misfortune but to be attacked for it as if they were robbing the public is disheartening. Its not "up to the management," its up to the people of Peterborough.

NORWOOD AGAINST THE STRATHS

Will be The Attraction in The City League Game Wednesday Night

One of the best games that may be expected in the City League this season will be seen on Wednesday night when the Stratheonas and Norwood will meet in the first game of the weekly double-header. Norwood is reported to have a great team and is picked by many to win the league championship. As will be seen from the list of players published in another column, they have a most formidable line-up which includes several O.H.A. men who played with the Midland senior team. They are in the best of shape and confident of trimming the Strathconas. The latter will, however, have a strong line-up, and there will be several changes from the team which defeated the High Lifes. The Straths are not backing up any on account of Norwood's reputation, and will put up a game fight all the way.

The High Lifes and Bridgenorth are the contestants in the second game, and another battle royal should ensue. Bridgenorth has benefitted by its game last week, and is in much better shape, while the High Lifes cannot afford to take any chances, and will have their strongest seven on the ice.

QUAKER OATS MEN WON GAME

Doubled the Score on C. G. E. Office Staff Seven

In a lively game of hockey at Brock street rink on Saturday evening the office staff of the Quaker Oats Company out-lasted and out-played the C.G.E. office staff, by a score of 4—2.

BAND AT THE RINK TO-MORROW

Returns of Game in Cobourg Will be Bulletined

The 57th Band will be in attendance at Brock street rink to-morrow night, and no doubt there will be a big crowd of skaters on hand. The rink management has made arrangements for a bulletin service, and the returns of the game in Cobourg between the skeahons seven and the Strathconas will be announced as the goals are scored. The ice is in splendid shape just now.

WHITCROFT SCORES 7 GOALS

Played a Star Game for Edmonton Against Battleford

A Western paper just arrived gives an account of the first inter-provincial hockey match at North Battleford on Jan. 6th, in which Fred Whitcroft's Edmonton team put it over the home team by 8—5, before over 1,000 spectators. Whitcroft seems to have been the whole works, scoring seven of Edmonton's goals, and the pace he hit up must have opened the eyes of the natives. They don't grow them much faster any where in Canada, east or west, than that same Whitcroft.

STRATHCONAS PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

Line-up For Cobourg Game Will Be Selected This Evening

The Strathconas had a lively practice at Brock street rink Saturday night, Moore was out and will be on the line-up against Cobourg to-morrow night, when his presence will be of material interest. The Strathconas are not disheartened by their defeat at the hands of Lindsay Friday night, and are going to Cobourg to-morrow with the determination to wipe out the defeat by a victory over Cobourg.

The Strathconas will practice to-night at 7 o'clock, and every player is expected to be on hand as the line up for the Cobourg game will be selected to-night.

WANT THE CURLERS BACK AGAIN

Lindsay Players Pleased at Peterborough Going Up For Practice

On Thursday, six rinks of Peterborough curlers visited Lindsay in order to have a little practice. The Lindsay club furnished them with stones, and during the afternoon they had games — three Peterborough rinks against three Peterborough rinks. In the afternoon they played six Lindsay rinks, and, largely owing to the lack of practice, and also to the fact that they were playing with strange stones, the majority in favour of the home players was unusually large. The games between Lindsay and Peterborough, as a rule, are close and exciting.

In the evening pick-up rinks from both clubs occupied five sheets of ice until it was time for the flyer, by which train the Peterborough curlers returned home. The Lindsay players were very much pleased that their Peterborough brethren availed themselves of their ice and stones, and they trust that they may do so several times during the season. — Lindsay Post.

THE RESULT WAS A SURPRISE

Lindsay Did Not Expect to Win Friday's Game

The Lindsay Post came out on Saturday with the famous rooster and the following account of the game:—

It only happens once in 14 years or so, so it came as a surprise even to those who expected it, as Abercrombie would say, when Lindsay defeated Peterborough last night right in their own Ballewiak by the score of 6—4. Rolly Glover's bunch were pretty near, but not quite, good enough to do the trick, and the score is a fair indication of the play.

Lindsay led off with a goal in about five minutes, and alternated with Peter till half-time, when it was 3 all. After resuming play Lindsay scored two, but their lead was brought down one almost immediately, not to be raised again, till the last goal, which went into the nets about 3 minutes before time.

Peterborough got several penalties, but the game was not rough.

He Got the Girl.

"Mrs. Treiawney," said Francis Wallingford, "there is something that I have for a long time wished to say to you."

The president of the Society For the Squelching of Husbands looked over her glasses and frowned. She evidently knew what was coming, but after a moment's silence she said in her most impressive platform tones:

"Well, go on. What is it?"

"I—I love your daughter, Miss Gladys. I have reason to believe that she returns my passion, and I want to ask you to give her into my keeping."

Mrs. Treiawney's features hardened, and there was a cold, metallic ring in her voice as she answered.

"What recommendations have you to offer for yourself? How can you convince me that you will always love her—that you will always think her beautiful?"

"She looks like her mother," said Francis Wallingford. "That is enough to convince me that her beauty will not diminish as her years increase. Of course I know that this can hardly be regarded as a final test. You have not yet reached the age at which women begin to lose their"—

They were interrupted then, but he got the girl.—Cleveland Leader.

Flying By Machinery.

Flying by machinery, like musical notation and many another epoch making circumstance, owes its inception to the cloister and the cowl. The principle and idea of the balloon was first formed by Albert of Saxony, an Augustine recluse of the fourteenth century. Then the theory of construction was taken up and enlarged upon by Francesco Mendoza, a Portuguese Jesuit, who died in 1026. And, lastly, Bartholomeo de Gusmao, formerly a candidate for the priesthood, demonstrated the possibility of flying by airships and foretold great successes for the future. Toward the end of the eighteenth century two men named Charles and Roberts made a balloon with the longest side parallel to the horizon. Their wings were of the shape of an umbrella without the handle, to the top of which a stick was fastened parallel to the aperture of the umbrella. Five of these were disposed round the car. On finding themselves in a dead calm they tried the effect of their oars and discovered that in thirty-five minutes they had covered 6,000 feet. Balloons were first used in war as long ago as 1794, when Guyton de Morveau made two ascents and obtained important information during the battle of Fleurus. Their next appearance was during the battle of Solferino in 1859, and two years later the Federal army employed them near Washington, while their use for conveying the mail bags out of besieged Paris is well known.—Chicago News.

HOW YOU GET CONSUMPTION.
Most "lungers" allowed their power of resistance to fall very low. Favorable conditions were provided for the development of the baccilli. Consumption was the result.
But in a healthy body Consumption can't take root. The most potent health-maker is Ferrozone. Take it regularly and you needn't fear tuberculosis.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TO BE ENLARGED

Staff Captain Gideon Miller Now Drawing The Plans

The Salvation Army of this city, was marked last year by a conspicuous growth in membership, many of whom were new arrivals in Canada. Staff-captain Goodwin, when seen by the Examiner this morning, was greatly pleased with the way the Army had progressed during the past year, and was looking forward to a still larger increase during this year. The Salvation Army Sunday School is one of the largest in the city, the average attendance being 200 members, while the number on the roll is greatly in excess of that figure. The result of this rapid increase in juvenile work, is that the young peoples' hall in the basement has to be enlarged, and Staff-Captain Miller is here to-day drawing the plans. The school so increased five years ago that the building was enlarged, and it is now found necessary to make further improvements. For the furtherance of this work it may be found necessary to purchase some property in the rear of the barracks, but nothing definite has as yet been decided upon.

The annual Sunday school entertainment and distribution of prizes, will take place on Thursday evening at eight o'clock. The concert will be given by the members of the school and will also include several selections from the band.

MANY MEN EMPLOYED TO-DAY

To Shovel Snow For The City—Stone Breakers Did Not Show up

There is no need for any person in this city being out of work to-day. The stone pile on Charlotte street is untouched, and every available man is being used to shovel snow. The city has employed all the men possible to clear away the snow which fell yesterday, and is paying $1.50 a day. The snow is being dumped on a flat piece of ground east of the National Hotel. The stone-breakers did not turn up to work this morning. They were paid on Saturday, and it is likely that only a few will return after the snow is cleared away. One man said he would rather starve than break stone again.

Hollander Conspiracy Cause Of Famous South African War

Address by Rev. Andrew Allan On Seven Years in The Gold Fields There — Intimately Acquainted With The Conditions

BOERS NOW TRUE SUBJECTS

Why the War Lasted so Long— The Late Mr. Cecil Rhodes Planned the Jamieson Raid, the Failure of Which Caused Bloodshed

The feature of the address of the Rev. Andrew Allan, of Glasgow, Scotland, at St. Andrew's church, last night, was his version of the origin of the celebrated South African war. He touched upon questions, which, as far as Peterborough citizens are concerned, had never before been brought to light. He attributed the cause of the historic Jamieson raid to the dagerness of Cecil Rhodes, whom he termed a man of honour, and of foresight, who looked beyond the present and saw the coming of the bloody Boer war, which he did his utmost to prevent.

The South African war was hatched in Europe, he said, for several years before the Boers rose in arms at the response of their leaders. It was Dr. Leyds, who was the man to blame for the bloodshed. His ambition caused him to form a conconspiracy to drive the British from South Africa. This resulted in the Jamieson raid, arranged by the late Hon. Cecil Rhodes, who was one of the few foreseeing the deeply-laid plans.

In the Early Days

Mr. Allan introduced his interesting discourse by a lucid description of the early days of Johannesburg, when the population only aggregated about 300 people.

After concluding his studies in 1887 Mr. Allan said that he was sent straight to Johannesburg, to found a Presbyterian church. It was winter time—the month of June—when he arrived. Johannesburg is 6,000 feet above the sea level so that the air is unusually rare, and it must be a person with a strong heart and good lungs, who can reside there. There is neither snow nor rain in winter—an ideal climate, in which —picnics can be dated without fear of rain or snow, six months ahead.

When he arrived there were only 300 people, but in seven years he saw it grow up a population of 150,000. Every day the stage couch brought in new arrivals. Singularly, in Johannesburg, the first year he was there he had a congregation almost entirely of young men; in fact there were only two ladies in the whole church.

On his arrival he found no church for his services, but by an ingenious plan he contrived to change part of a store into a chapel. By assistance of the Kaffir boys he secured boxes, and other church furniture, including an organ, and set up the first church—a Presbyterian edifice—amidst the celebrated gold fields of South Africa, in their early days. The first pulpit was made of an old box; the interior of the church was of a rough and tumble character, but it served its purpose as well as the finest in the land.

There were two hotels in the place when he arrived, but every room was filled. His first bed was a "shake-down" on the floor of a grocery store but through the kindness of a Welsh-man student he later secured a portion of a bed, making his rest somewhat easier.

The speaker next detailed how he managed to collect material for a church, and raised an edifice, which, later, was replaced by a more handsome structure costing about $12,000.

In order to bring the young men into the church he lived as a brother with them, and showed them that he had a human heart, and that he desired to uplift them to a better and a higher plane.

Causes of the War

The most interesting chord of his interesting address was struck, when he began to relate the causes of the war. It was not as many Britons and Canadians had lead themselves to believe, due to the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. Any person living in that country previous to the outbreak, and who had an insight into the existing conditions would not attribute it to such a source.

He said in South Africa there are three classes of people—the Hollanders, the Dutch, and the Boers. The Dutch resided in Cape Colony, and at that time were under Premier Shriner, and lived loyal to Britain. The Boers were the farmers who resided inland, but it was among the Hollanders where the real strife was stirred up.

Dr. Leyds, the Mephistopheles of South Africa, one of the most brainy men of the day, planned the Hollander conspiracy and the Hollander war, rather than the Boer war—the Boers were later led into the strife. The end in view was to make that district a colony of Holland. The late Cecil Rhodes was the first man in South Africa who was considered a statesman. He had a conception of the future of the country and of the strife impending. His policy with regard to the Jamieson Raid was due to the condition of affairs. He saw in advance the trouble coming, and attempted to prevent it. He planned, therefore, the raid which would have succeeded but for the National Reform Union, which was a great factor in those days. This council split up at the critical time, the faction being led by a powerful demagogue, who, by his oratory, induced many of the members to follow him and set up the flag of a pure Dutch republic.

No Welcome There

When Dr. Jamieson arrived he found no support at Johannesburg. This gave the Boers time to rally their forces. They were captured and thrown into prison, and Rhodes' policy to defeat the Leyds conspiracy was a thing of the past.

Had not the union split up as it did, Mr. Allan maintained there would have been no war in Africa; no bloodshed to cast a mark on the morals of the world, and no happy homes in so many lands would have been wrecked.

The war would not have terminated so soon had it not been for Premier Shriner of Cape Colony. Of this family, by the way, Olive Shriner, author of the celebrated "Story of an African Farm," was a member. The premier prevented the uprising of the Dutch by his loyalty to Queen Victoria, and in doing so prevented sixty thousand men from taking up arms against the British.

There is now no fear about the loyalty of the Boers—they are perfectly loyal to Britain, and Canadians need not fear them nor their premier, Botha, who is an honourable man, and who will unite the Boer and Briton as no other man could do.

Dutch Not Satisfied

There is still a deep smouldering rebellion, however, among the Dutch in Cape Colony, who have not yet forgotten their negligence in rising in the great rebellion against the British.

The speaker next touched on their moral character and religion. Their ethical condition is not very commendable, but it is one handed down by their forefathers, and cannot be too harshly censured. They have a failing to appropriate everything that comes into their reach, and often they carry away many articles from stores in their loose gowns.

Canada played a very important part in the Boer war—a part which the Old Country is proud of. The cause of the early defeats was because the British generals dared to exclude the colonials from their counsels. They were men who knew the tricks of the Boers and their habits and customs. The war would have been concluded in six months if the British generals had only taken into their confidence these colonials, who afterwards played such an important part in the great campaign.

One of the great blessings of the struggle, said the speaker, in closing, was the fact that it served to cement the Empire of Britain and leave it in a stronger condition that it ever was before.

Whole Families Wiped Out By Disastrons Theatre Fire

List of Dead Now Placed at 150 And The Injured at 75—Explosion of a Tank

MANY BURNED TO DEATH

J. R. Heintz & Co.'s Special

Boyertown, Pa., Jan. 14. — When daylight dawned to-day the full extent of last night's horror, when Rhoades Opera House was burned, was apparent. The list of dead is placed at 150 and the injured at 75. How many were killed may never be known, for among the victims of this awful disaster were a number of visitors and strangers.

It is estimated that there were 400 persons in the play house when the explosion of the gas tank which was being used in connection with moving pictures occurred. An amateur performance for the benefit of the St. John Lutheran Sunday School was being produced. When the explosion occurred some one yelled "fire, fire," and in a remarkably short time the centre of the opera house was a blazing furnace. The rapidity with which the flames spread was caused by the upsetting of a coal oil lamp used as the footlights, by some of the persons on the stage, who endeavoured to allay the fright of the audience. When the explosion occurred there were at least 30 boys and girls on the stage while many more were behind the scenes.

Families Wiped Out

The fire was not brought under control until early this morning after assistance had arrived from Reading and Pottstown. Physicians and nurses from Reading aided materially in alleviating the sufferings of the injured. The monetary loss will amount to about $75,000. Whole families were wiped out.

An Instructive Lecture On China by Mr. Geo. Thomas

Addressed the Epworth League of George Street Methodist Church Last Night—A Large Audience

AN INTERESTING DISCOURSE

A special feature of the meeting of the Epworth League of the George street Methodist church, held last night, was an address by Mr. George Thomas, the proprietor of the Chinese Cafe. He spoke on conditions in China, and a general discourse on the manner in which the Chinese are treated in Canada. Mr. Thomas spoke very fluently and without any hesitation before a large audience. His command of English was easy, and he spoke of his own people in an interesting and comprehensive manner.

Mr. Thomas said that he considered the poll tax on Chinaman unjust and unfair. When he came to Canada it was $50, then it was increased to $100, and now the tax is $500. An American or a Canadian may enter China without any difficulty, and this courtesy should be reciprocated. Speaking of his own country, Mr. Thomas said that very rapid strides had been made during recent years and China with her numberless population will in a few years begin to display her actual strength. The chief weakness in the nation, he said, is that there is no true national spirit. However, this is developing, and when the desired change is wrought China will be united man for man, and all for the nation. Mr. Thomas said that when China becomes as scientific in her methods as Japan has grown, there will be no fear of the island nation repeating the war of the China Sea.

During the evening Mr. Howard Mallory sang and Miss Gladys Portland gave a reading. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Thomas by Rev. E. A. Pearson, seconded by Mr. J. J. Lang.

FARMER HELD UP WHILE RETURNING HOME IN SMITH

While a persistent rumour was being circulated by farmers of Smith that a farmer named Calvert had been held up one evening last week, not a single credence was placed in the statements. However, a Bridgenorth gentleman stated to-day that Mr. John Calvert, who lives about four miles northwest of Peterborough, had been robbed of four bags of flour which he was taking home on his sleigh. He did not know the men who waylaid him, but has very strong suspicions. It could not be learned whether firearms had played any part in the affair. Bridgenorth man said the robbery took place on Wednesday just at dark.

TORONTO BANK'S OFFER APPROVED

Will Carry The City's Account For This Year

At last night's meeting of the Council the following resolution moved by Ald. Morrow and seconded by Ald. Phelan, was carried:

Whereas, a joint committee representing the City Council, the City Trust Commissioners and the Board of Education last year asked for tenders from the several banks for terms upon which they would carry the bank accounts of the several civic bodies, and give them the accommodation required, and after much correspondence and several meetings, approved of an offer from the Bank of Toronto to allow interest on credit balance at the rate of 3 3-4 per cent., and to charge interest on the overdraft up to the amount of the credit balances at the rate of 4 3-4 per cent., and on the amount in excess of the credit balances at the rate of 6 per cent.,

Resolved, that this arrangement be confirmed by the Council, and that the City Treasurer be instructed to receive and pay the interest at the rates mentioned.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

American wholesale liquor dealers, frightened by the advance of local option sentiment, are advocating the adoption of an improved high license system and the disciplining of disreputable hotel-keepers. There is reason in this; but it is probable that the proposal comes too late. There is no doubt that, as a class, hotel-keepers have themselves very largely to blame for the increasingly insistent cry, "banish the bar." The traffic exists under the law, has a legal standing. But the notorious, persistent and grasping disregard of the law—of course, there are exceptions — the selling in prohibited hours and on Sundays, have had their effect. No hotel-keeper doing business under the law has any more right to break his part of the contract under which he does business than the state has a right to break its part of the contract by closing up his place of business if properly conducted—within the requirements of the law. The breach of the law continuously operating has had the effect of arousing an opposition that seems to be growing to irresistible proportions, which would probably not have arisen, at least, so soon, if there had been proper regard for the provisions of the law against illicit selling of strong drink. Breaking the law and "banish the bar" are, it seems, as much cause and effect as sunset and darkness.

HOLD WHAT WE HAVE

When a Conservative candidate for the Commons makes an appeal to the electors, he must do so on some larger platform than mere personal or party grounds. Party representation in the House is not a mere question of outs and ins; it is a question of policy—a question of good government and effective administration. This being so upon what grounds can a Conservative candidate appeal to an electorate in opposition to the present Liberal administration? This administration meets all the conditions which a good government is expected to embody. Under its management the country has prospered as it never had prospered in all the preceding course of its existence. The country is well governed, all its material interests are thrifty and the future is bright. Under a Conservative administration for eighteen long, dreary years there were stagnation conditions with the national finances in bad shape, deficits recurring with almost the annual regularity of seed time and harvest. All this was changed under the Liberal administration. It may be claimed that Providence should have the credit. That is a just claim; but only to this extent; Providence furnishes the means but these are vain if not wisely employed. The Liberal Government has wisely employed the means which Providence has placed at its disposal. Under the Conservative regime the same bountiful Providence bestowed its favours. The same sun shone; the same rains watered the soil, yet the bounties of Providence did not in the hands of the then rulers yield such results as have come under Liberal rule. Under the latter every interest of every department has been marked by buoyant expansion — the whole country has been, and is throbbing with irrespressible vitality. Figures could be quoted to show how great a growth has taken place since the Laurier Government came into power. One or two instances will suffice. Taking the present, and going back eighteen years, in the time of Conservative rule, in their latest, and, according to present appearances, last, innings, what do we find? In 1891, under Conservative rule, the national revenue — paid by the people, and a measure of their prosperity—amounted to only $38,579,-311. In 1906, the last complete fiscal year, this same measure of the popular prosperity, the total of customs revenue, amounted under a lessened tariff, to $80,139,167, and if the complete figures for 1907, were at present available, the disparity, judged by the first nine months, would be much greater. In 1891, the total trade of Canada was only $215,470,940. The total trade of 1907, according to the first nine months period, would be $620,000,000, nearly three times greater. The total trade per heard in 1891, when the population was five and a quarter millions, was $44 per head. The total trade per head in 1907, taking the population at six millions, was $103 per head. Note the difference. Would it be wise to exchange present conditions, certain good, for a doubtful future, doubly doubtful in the light of the past.

BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

One of the most solid and prosperous of the chartered banks of Canada, is the Bank of Nova Scotia, whose seventy-sixth annual report appears elsewhere in this issue. Its solidity is testified to by the fact that its reserve fund of $5,400,000, is 180 per cent. of its capital. Its excellent management is shown by its earning capacity, which is 22.7 per cent. on its capital of $3,000,000. On the year's operations, after wiping off bank premises, $125,000; contributing $20,000 to the pension fund; increasing the reserve by $150,000, and subscribing $10,000 to the Jamaican relief fund, there remains net earnings of $681,709.50. It is therefore no surprise that during the bank year four quarterly dividends, amounting to $360,000, were declared and paid shareholders, at the phenomenal rate of 12 per cent. per annum. There are deposits bearing interest, including $139,272.84 accrued interest, to the amount of $20,999,193.03, increased by deposits by other banks in Canada, the United Kingdom; and foreign countries, by $554,479.79. A careful perusal of the annual report, to which the attention of the reader is invited, will disclose other reasons for describing the Bank of Nova Scotia, as one of the most solid, and, at the same time progressive, of the many excellent, and flourishing chartered banks of which Canada has such good reason to be proud. One feature of national interest, as indicating the manner in which the Bank of Nova Scotia contributes to intercolonial trade, is the fact that it has four branches in the little island of Jamaica, and its generosity is shown by the bank's contribution of $10,000 to the fund for the relief of the sufferers by the Jamaica earthquake. A general review of the operations of the bank, shows a most gratifying condition of thrift and expansion, and it is a credit to this city that, under the efficient management of Mr. J. H. Ferguson, the resident manager, the Peterborough branch has contributed a generous share to the prosperity, which has attended the operations of the Bank of Nova Scotia for the past year, not one of the least successful of its three score and sixteen years of healthy existence.

THE PIONEERS

The burning down of the Westmoreland avenue Methodist church in Toronto makes a peculiar appeal to the sympathies, because the church was built on the co-operative plan. Mrs. James Conboy donated the lot and thirteen families turned in and did the work, devoting evenings and Saturdays to the purpose. The writing of a cheque may represent as much interest and sacrifice as the handling of the saw and the hammer, but it is a prosaic operation, and does not appeal to the heart and the imagination in the same compelling way. There is something brotherly about the "bee," something that carries us back to the days when the struggles of the pioneers who built up Canada were sweetened by neighbourly help and sympathy.

In the outskirts of Toronto the rapid increase of population has produced a curious repetition of those old pioneer conditions. Now a busy city men are trying to do what the early settlers of Upper Canada did. They are, to use the old expression, "hewing out for themselves homes in the wilderness," though the modern wilderness is social rather than physical. They dwell in tents, they dwell in shacks, they build their own churches with their own hands. The Baptists built such a church on Reid avenue, and the Anglicans one in or near Todmorden. The Todmorden church, we believe, was put up in one day, the men building and the ladies providing a lunch. It is a pleasant picture, making the hopeful almost hope that Howells' dream of Altruria may some day be realised.—Toronto Star.

"MARJORIES"

The Toronto Globe two days ago printed, by special despatch from Chicago, a touching story of the adventures of Marjorie. Marjorie was the daughter of an official of the Government printing office in Toronto, and, according to the touching narrative, passed the holidays in Chicago with her parents, staying at the home of a relative. Hearing her parents discuss the preparation for return, she decided to show them that she could start for home alone, and wandering into the streets fell into the clutches of a ravening trolley-car. From this she was rescued just in time by the heroism of one Sergt. Enright of the Chicago police.

An excellent tale; a most improving and Christmassy tale. But note the denouement. Hardly was the Globe on the street with this excellent and improving narrative, when, the Government printing office official, whose name was given in full, appeared at the editor's portal and demanded a retraction. Marjorie—there was a Marjorie, and an aunt in Chicago, all right—was never in Chicago in her life. Father had never been there since 1891. Telegraphic inquiry to the Globe's correspondent elicited the fact that the tale was published in the Chicago Evening Journal "verbatim as sent you." Names, addresses, relationships, all are real. Everything is real—except the story.

The Globe is now pertinently inquiring how many of the other thrillers that we daily read in or from the American press are "Marjories." Probably about ninety per cent. Truth may be stranger than fiction; but with the assistance of a directory, of a distant city and a proper sense of irresponsibility, fiction is a great deal easier to get. But we may be permitted to draw one other moral. Had the Globe been a really enterprising paper, it would immediately have taken steps to secure the photograph of Marjorie for the proper decoration of the story, and "to add verisimilitude to an otherwise bald and unconvincing narrative," in the words of the immortal Ko-ko. It would then have found out in time that Marjorie was—a "Marjorie."—Montreal Herald.

We thus have another word added to our continuously expanding language. It was a word we needed. "Fake-story" is not a very elegant or convenient word. "Canard" is Gallic, although a duck not a cock is the raison d'etre of the term. But 'Marjorie" has an euphonious sound, and expresses elegantly the character of the invented stories such as the American press teems with. Have you ever noticed that nearly all the stories of wonderful happenings—of three-headed calves, six-legged dogs, thrilling rescues from burning buildings by babies in arms, and such like yarns, come from some distant and obscure place and are served for press consumption at points so far distant from the alleged place of happening, that no one would think of verifying or disproving them. But the "Marjories" will still come; for the American press and too many Canadian newspapers must have news—shockers and thrillers—even if they have to make them.

Council's First Regular Meeting Short Session

Considerable Business Transacted —Tracks For Fire Hall—Deputation Re Manufacturers Authorized

CHOOSING THE ASSESSORS

The first meeting of the City Council last night was a short one, but considerable business was transacted. A large number of communications were read and dealt with, and bylaws and motions were passed. All the members of the Council were present, and the business on hand was dispatched expeditiously, with the result that Council adjourned before 9.30 o'clock.

The following communications were received:

From W. G. Morrow, secretary of the Board of Education, asking the Council to dispose of debentures for $25,000 to build and complete the addition to the Queen Alexandra School.

From W. G. Morrow, Secretary of the Board of Education, enclosing a copy of the estimates for the year 1908, with a resolution regarding the monthly payments of the money used for current expenditures of the Collegiate Institute and the Public Schools. The amount asked for was $46,000.

From the Municipal World, asking for order for that publication for the Council.

From Wm. Langford, chairman of the Court of Revision, recommending as follows:

That the City Council take action to carry out its agreement with Henry Best in regard to extending George street, and the amount of his assessment.

that two dollars paid by Wm. Irwin, one dollar paid by Mrs. M. Breeze and one dollar paid by Geo. Wiskin for dog taxes be refunded.

From W. J. Green, tax collector, enclosing statement of roll ending December 31, 1907, as follows:

Total amount on roll	$136,873 26
By total amount deposited	126,058 28

Taxes taken in and deposited during December... ...$1,013.51

From W. D. Lighthall, honourary secretary Union of Canadian Municipalities, enclosing a copy of Dr. Barr's bill re crossing railways by municipal works.

From T. D. Kennedy, complaining that the agreement between the city and himself in regard to the opening of Aylmer street had not been carried out in the matter of leaving his house in good condition.

From City Solicitor E H D Hall, to the effect that it is the opinion that the bylaw recommended by the Board of Works to the effect that the Engineer be instructed to impose a fine of $10 on any person opening a street without permission would not be valid.

From A B Greer, London, Ont., enclosing an account in regard to the Dan Spence ambulance.

From K W McKay, secretary of Ontario Municipal Association, enclosing a resolution to the effect that the Municipal Act be amended so as to exempt municipal corporations from civil liability for non-repair of highways.

From J. Ross Robertson, chairman of Hospital for Sick Children trust, Toronto, asking for assistance for that institution.

It was moved by Ald. Morgan, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that iron tracks be placed in the firehall.—Carried.

The matter of appointing assessors for the year was touched upon, and Ald. Neill moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that the city should advertise for assessors.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston referred to the fact that the street lighting service was not all that it should be, and thought the Council should take some action in the matter.

Ald. Morgan had a few knocks to hand out to the Peterborough Light and Power Company. It was his opinion that when the city was paying for lights they should get them, and condemned the proposal of the company to change its lighting system. He moved, seconded by Ald. Neil, that Mr. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, be asked to be present at the next meeting of the Council to go into the matter.—Carried.

Ald. Turner moved, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that the City Engineer be asked to report on the condition of the Smith street bridge.—Carried. Ald. Turner explained that he understood it was not in the best of repair, and if not that some action should be taken.

Send Deputation

It was moved by Ald. Neill, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the Manufacturers' Committee be authorized to send deputations to other places where they deem it advisable places when they deem it advisable to further negotiations in regard to prospective industries, and that the City Treasurer be authorized to pay expenses on the certificate of the chairman of that committee.—Carried.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company wishes to remind its customers that Wednesday, January 15th, is the last day discount will be allowed on December accounts. The office will be open during the evenings of the 14th and 15th, from 8 p. m. until 11 p. m.

For Diseases Of The Skin

THERE IS NO TREATMENT SO CERTAIN TO RELIEVE THE ITCHING AND HEAL THE SORES AS

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The one common feature of nearly all skin diseases is itching, annoying and oftentimes almost unendurable itching.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that by reason of its remarkable soothing qualities it relieves itching the moment it is applied.

But Dr. Chase's Ointment does more than this. It is composed of the greatest healing ingredients known to science, and its healing powers are often described as magical.

Allaying the inflammation, relieving the itching and gradually and naturally healing the raw, flaming flesh, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most effective treatment for eczema and salt rheum that was ever discovered.

There are many kinds of eczema, and nearly all itching skin diseases come under this head. In children it is known as teething eczema, and many a fond mother will tell you heartfelt gratitude of how her little one was rescued from torturing, itching eczema by the use of this great ointment.

Whatever there is itching skin or a sore that refuses to heal Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively prove effective as a relief and cure.

Miss C. Stanley-Johns, professional masseuse and nurse, 253 Simcoe street, Toronto, Ont., writes:—"In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months who was in a bad way with scaley head. It was a real nasty case causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and in ten days the child was entirely cured.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was dosing her with medicine which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has an unparalleled record of cures; 60c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A VAGRANT GETS SIX MONTHS

Raised a Row and Had to be Dragged From The Court

John Powers, one of the regulars at the police court, and who has just completed a term, was in again this morning on a charge of vagrancy and being drunk.

"Here's our old friend back again," said His Worship.

"You don't need to pass any remarks about me, my lord; we are not friends."

"Well, I see you are drunk again."

"Y'h'll was: I met a certain doctor in this city, and he got me drunk, my lord. And if you will just give me a couple of days on the hill I will be all right, my lord."

"I will give you two days, all right, with a little bit more," said his Worship. "I sentence you to six months in jail."

The old man pleaded hard to get off, and had to be dragged from the court by force. Just as he was going downstairs he said, "I hope your lordship will get six months some time yourself and see how you like it."

Institute Meetings At The Union Hall at Stewart's

Addresses on Proper Methods of Handling Milk---Growing Of Alfalfa Clover---How to Make Money in Dairying---Matters of Interest To Farmers

Supplementary meetings of the Farmers' Institute of West Peterborough were held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Union Hall at Stewart's, Otonabee. There were good attendances at both, but the interest far surpassed the numerical showing of the gatherings. The subjects dealt with pertained to the best interests of the farmers and they manifested a keen appreciation of the lectures by questions regarding matters which most concerned them. Mr. Wm. Collins, secretary and Mr. N Telford, president, were present in official capacity. The speakers were Mr. J N Paget, of Cavan boro, and Mr. G G Cornell, of Scarboro. During the evening meeting vocal solos sung by Messrs. Burt Deyell and C. Hanbridge.

President Telford, who acted as chairman, welcomed the men who were present, referring to the heavy roads which no doubt kept many away. He also complimented the farmers of the neighbourhood on the splendid hall which they had erected and equipped. He called upon Mr. Cornell to give an address on a subject which he might choose for himself.

Mr. Cornell said he would not give a lecture but would deal with the silo giving his experience as interestingly as possible." He said there was a certain prejudice against the silo which has prevented it from being acclaimed a general success. In his own district near Toronto the farmers consider it one of the greatest of cheap winter food producers there in. Last season was a very bad one for feed and as a result the Canadian dairy exports fell six millions of dollars. Mr. Cornell considered that next year would see many silos built on account of the lesson taught by last season.

Farmers in the past have not realized the cheapness of ensilage and the cost of the silo keep others from building them. A prejudice has arisen towards the silo some believing that the ensilage is detrimental to the cattle, rotting their teeth, tainting the milk, etc., but all these notions have been exploded and the value of ensilage has been proven everywhere. The silo is most valuable to cheese factories in the spring before the grass has grown when the farmers can feed it to their cattle.

A little discussion followed as to the best methods of mastitis, and general interest was taken in this subject, many of the farmers exchanging opinions with Mr. Cornell.

Proceeding with the preparation of the corn for silage Mr. Cornell said the first consideration must be the seed. The hard corn that gives a rattley sound when shaken is a good quality.

The method of sowing corn used by Mr. Cornell is the drill sowing two rows at a time. The rows are three feet apart and the seed planted to a medium depth. Before using the drill in the field it should be run over hard ground to find out how it drops the corn and thus provide against planting the seed too thickly. The time for planting is when the ground is warm, and in proper condition, and it was better to wait until the best conditions were secured, rather than to sow it earlier so as to get a good start. The seed in the case frequently rots. The Compton's Early, and the Leaming grades are the two most in use, but the latter seems to give the better satisfaction. The well-matured corn is the most preferred for feeding purposes.

Silage for Hogs

One farmer said that a neighbour of his had run out of mangolds and he then turned to the silo and fed the ensilage. The result was that the hogs did splendidly. Mr. Cornell then dealt with the cultivation of the corn. He said that there is a special corn cultivator in use, which can also be turned into the mangolds, beets, etc., for cultivation. The machines cost about $32; that is the kind that cultivates two rows at a time. The last cultivation should not be deep as the roots of the corn grow shallow. Cultivate until further work with the machine would injure the corn.

Mr. Cornell said that the corn should not be too green when cut. He said that he would rather risk a little frost than to cut it too early. The frost does not do the damage that people at one time thought it did. It should be cut when it is well matured, and before it becomes brittle. The speaker advised the purchase of a shredder with a cutting box. The ordinary blower, a farmer said, does the work of shredding well in his district.

Mr. Cornell said the harvesting machine did the work of cutting down the standing corn the best. A machine costs about $135, and could be purchased by a syndicate of four or five farmers. The general opinion was that corn is the cheapest material for ensilage.

The corn in the silo should be well tramped around the outside, as it settles of itself fairly well in the centre. In answer to a question Mr. Cornell said that he would rather do without roots than corn.

The cement silo is coming into general use. Care must be taken with the inside finish as this work should be done with fine cement in order to keep out the air. There is not much difference between the wooden and cement silos as far as the freezing of the ensilage is concerned.

Mr. Paget said that cement was the more permanent, and in this district should be cheaply built. It was said that a somewhat unusual occurrence was that of rats gnawing their way into the silo, spoiling it considerably. Mr. Cornell thought that this defect could be easily remedied. He said he had never used clover in the silo, but he had heard of the practice. Mr. Cornell has been feeding cut straw, ensilage roots and meal to his cattle, not giving them any hay on account of its high price. The milk tainted by ensilage, Mr. Cornell said, was due to the fact that the ensilage was put down while milking was carried on. He does not put anything on top of the silage, merely tramping it every day for a little while.

Value of Alfalfa

Mr. Paget agreed to speak on the value of alfalfa. He said it would not grow on flat land, where the water would collect around the roots. It should be grown on rolling ground. In his own county, Mr Paget said that alfalfa is grown on white clay in luxuriant crops, and this clay is not usually good ground. But this clay is in ridges, and thus is most adapted for alfalfa.

It has been proven that alfalfa clover is the best for producing milk. It requires more bushels to the acre. Mr. Paget had seen peas used as a first crop, with about six bushels to the acre. However, he has found that by merely turning the stock on the land until about the middle of June, when the alfalfa seed should be sown. It is usually cut three times during a year. Mr. Paget said that alfalfa grows well on gravelly, rolling fields, and he has seen it even in sand. It will grow on any of our soils if the surface is properly prepared. He advised the farmers not to cut alfalfa too late in the autumn, as it might easily be wintered. It draws its moisture from a great depth, and a dry season has but little effect on it. Last season proved this wherever alfalfa was grown. It is cut when green, after the dew has been dried off it. It is raked up in the afternoon, and the next day put in the barn. The chief care is to see that there is no foreign moisture on the alfalfa, such as dew or rain. It is easily cured in the mows and every animal on the farm will relish it and thrive on it during the winter.

Mr. Paget advised the farmers to experiment with it on their farms owing to its great value. The sowing of red clover and alfalfa has proved a failure. Mr. Paget laid emphasis on not pasturing the alfalfa, as the crop suffers in many respects, and it is of more value later on when the winter is in progress. He advised the feeding of it to horses, just the same as to cattle. Alfalfa clover seed can be bought for about the same price as red clover. While in Peterborough it may be a little dearer, in the other cities it can be secured at about $10 per ton.

Production of Milk

Mr. Cornell congratulated the Otonabee farmers on the very evident appearances of intelligence and prosperity, as seen by driving through the district.

He stated in reference to the subject of the production of milk for city trade that the City of Peterborough, should demand large quantities of milk. This fact for breakfast foods, the increased use of milk as a food, and the ordinary demands for milk should mean that the farmers are called upon for larger supplies of it. In the production of milk for this city, Mr. Cornell said that there was no item of the dairy business which required so much care and attention as it did to attain the highest standard. All through the country the milk used at present in being tested according to the recent movement started by the Government for the protection of the consumers. The farmers who send milk to the city will soon have to have their cattle examined to guarantee the purity of the milk, and especially to prevent against tuberculosis, of which milk has been found in places to contain the bacteria.

Under the new conditions, it costs more to the farmer than under the old easy going methods, therefore the farmer should demand better prices. The first thing to be considered is the cow. The farmer should see that his cows are of the best quality, and particularly should be a good dairy cow. Mr. Cornell mentioned the points to judge a cow by, viz., prominent eye, large milk veins, breadth in the region of the heart and lungs, etc. In some districts, the farmers milk cows only during six months of the year. In this district, however, they cows are milked throughout the winter. Then the cows are tracked to this habit, as in other places they are given the custom of resting six months.

Mr. Cornell dealt with the new cattle foods, such as oil cakes, Shumaker feed, linseed meal and many other kinds. The feed is shipped to all parts of the world. Originally whiskey is extracted from the food and it is sold as a by-product by the many distilleries. A good winter food Mr. Cornell said, is ensilage, which may also be used in the summer. It is used along with roots, such as sugar beets, mangolds, and turnips, although the latter should not be used at all.

Cows should be fed regularly, and should receive their allowance of salt, with the usual amount of grain and oil cake. In the production of milk for the city cleanliness of utensils is an absolute necessity. The cow should be milked with dry hands. Dust in the stables should also be guarded against, and care should be taken in providing against bad odors.

The milk should be cooled down to 50 degrees, and the thermometer is being used more every day.

Demand for Good Milk

The people of the city, want pure milk. In the larger cities the farmers bottle their milk on the farm after it has cooled to 50 degrees, the hands have been inspected and other tests are made before it reaches the consumer. For this more the farmer receives from 12 to 25 cents per quart, and the people pay that price because of the assurance of its purity.

In conclusion, Mr. Cornell answered general questions which were asked him. He said it was healthier for the cow to be allowed out in the air for a part of the day.

Mr. Pagett's subject for the evening session was the "Relations That Should Exist Between Producer, Proprietor and Maker." In prefacing his remarks, Mr. Pagett said that it was a pity, that so many of the young men and women who are born on the farms are devoting their lives in other directions. They leave the farm, and no class can take their place when the parents retire. He urged the formation of farmers' clubs throughout the county, thus helping themselves and creating an interest in farm life and ideal conditions and surroundings on the farm.

Referring to his subject, Mr. Pagett said that from the report of the exports to Britain in 1905, the dairy exports exceeded all the other exports combined. The dairy business, he said, is worth one hundred million dollars to this country.

It was introduced successfully co-operatively. Before that time the dairy products were not fit to eat. Since that time a vast change has been made through co-operation, and now Canada held the dairy trade with Great Britain. Less butter has been sent across the sea in less quantities during the past year, but the Northwest has opened up an extensive market for butter. At the present time there is a danger of losing our market for cheese in Great Britain. Better methods must be used and more attention given to the manufacture. By carelessness the United States lost the British and Scotch cheese trade. However, this was not disastrous to them, as they had a vast population to cater to. However, Canada has not this home market, and and therefore the reason for great care.

Mr. Paget gave as his reason that a danger existed that letters had been received from England saying that the cheese was the best ever received. Other letters said certain shipments were of very inferior quality. Hence the necessity of making all the cheese of the best quality.

The Remedy

The first thing to do is to begin at the foundation, in this case, the raw material. Every farmer owes a responsibility. In some factories milk is being received from which good cheese is impossible. The two great factors to be observed and practiced are cleanliness and coolness. Carefulness must be exercised in every step of the handling of milk. If during the day the cows wade through a slough their udders should be washed before milking, in fact in any case this should be done. The hands should be clean and dry and only tin utensils should be used. Milk should be strained immediately after it is drawn from the cow for many reasons which Mr. Paget detailed. As soon as it is strained cooling should begin at once. Mr. Pagett strongly urged the use of the thermometers in cooling the milk for cheese-making to 60 degrees. This is low enough for preserving the milk.

It should never be sent to the factory in a rusty can. If the producers observe the conditions mentioned they need have no fear that their milk will be tainted, nor that it will be refused at the factory. By reference to conditions that Mr. Paget had seen he showed that there should not be so many factories in a section, as they have many baneful results, and in the case where there are only a proper number of factories each equipped in the best manner, with practical makers and honest patrons, the best quality of cheese is secured. In the other case poor cheese of second grade has been found in every case.

A Competitor

Mr. Pagett said that New Zealand was coming out as the closest competitor to Canada. Hence should the Canadian people look to their factories to the methods employed there, the conditions on the farms and in the entire handling of the milk. The good cheesemakers should be encouraged by better wages. They are leaving the business at present owing to the poor pay they receive. To control the British cheese market the farmers must make a little sacrifice, pay a little more for manufacturing the milk into cheese. Rather must this be done or there is a great danger of losing all the profit of the dairy business by another country stepping in with a better article.

The Cheesemaker

Mr. Pagett then dealt with the

SPRING NUMBER OF DRY GOODS REVIEW

A Creditable Publication—Edited By Mr. M. J. Hutchinson

The special Spring Number of the Dry Goods Review, published by the MacLean Publishing Company, Toronto, has reached the Examiner office. It is a handsomely designed number, but apart from its advertisements, it contains a wealth of matter of special interest to the dry goods men, written by special correspondents from various towns and cities in the Dominion. They cover all subjects touching on dry goods, including the relationship of the printer, the adman and the clerk to the carrying on of a successful dry goods business.

The special articles include three from Peterborough men. The "Art of Card Sign Painting," is given by Mr. H. C. MacDonald, window-dresser and sign card writer for Richard Hall & Son. "The Adman and the Printer," is dealt with by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, and "The Relationship of the Adman to the Printer" by Mr. J. C. Edwards, advertising manager for A. W. Cressman.

The spring number of this year is the largest and undoubtedly the best that has ever been published. The advertising is a feature of the publication and for the business man the study of its various systems, as well as the hints given editorially and otherwise are invaluable. The Review not only gives the views of its correspondents but it gives advice to the wholesale and retail men along all lines of the business.

The publication, too, reflects great credit on the editor, Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, formerly city editor of the Peterborough Examiner, who has recently taken charge of the publication. His efforts have been most creditable and he has every reason to feel gratified at the success he has attained in Toronto as editor of the Dry Goods Review.

COMPLAINED ABOUT THE SNOW

Dr. Gray Protested to Council Against Method of Snow Ploughing

At last night's meeting of the council Dr. Gray was present and entered a strong protest against the manner in which the snow ploughing in the city was being done. He referred to the ploughs in use as obsolete and advised the council to adopt the method of the Street Railway Company in getting to work as soon as the snow began to fall and sticking to it until the storm was over and the snow had been thoroughly cleaned off.

Ald. Phelan, the new chairman of the Board of Works, promised that the work would be done better in future and that he would have it attended to.

TO REVISIT HIS OLD HOME IN RUSSIA

Mr. B. Lastar Goes on a Long Journey To The Land of His Birth

Mr. Bernard Lastar left to-day for New York, where he will take steamer for a trip to the Old Country. He will visit England, Germany and Russia, and will be absent some time. Although Mr. Lastar did not specify the object of his journey, it is to be inferred that it is somewhat political in character. His journey will embrace Russia, his former home, and the fact that he has left with his solicitor in Peterborough instructions as to the steps to take in case Mr. Lastar is not heard from within a specified time, implies that he expects to run some risk, such as Russia so generously provides.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

Learn Dressmaking

We teach you everything from the plainest shirtwaist to the most elaborate toilet that can be found in the fashion books. We show you not only the litter but all the outer in coats, skirts, waists, wrappers, sleeves, children's dresses, collars, etc. Why spend months at a dressmaking shop where you do nothing but ham, or coast, sew on hooks and eyes, and then, after you have served months there what do you know about cutting? Absolutely nothing. You will know no more how to cut out a dress at the end of a year than you did the first day you went there. So why spend your time there when we can teach you in less than two weeks. You can come and try for a few days and if the course is not what we have advertised it to be you have the privilege to stop, as there is no pay in advance. You certainly do not lose anything by trying. If you do not wish to be a professional dressmaker the cost is so small that you can well afford to take it up, if only for your own use. We have taught over 7,000 in this way within the past five years.

Charge for the full course is only $10, to be paid when through. Including one of the most perfect charts in use, which we will give free. An evening class will also be taught for the benefit of those who cannot come during the day. In this class we will teach shirtwaists, sleeves and cuffs. Terms $1.00 Hours from 7 to 9.30. We will teach at Peterborough from

January 20 to February 7

Hours for this class from 2.30 to 5.

For full information we would be pleased to have all those interested call and have the system explained to them at

AN ITALIAN HEAVILY FINED

The Result Of a Drunken Row Which Occurred at Renzetti's Last Tuesday Night

RENZETTI PAID THE FINE

On a charge of biting Nicholas Renzetti, Antonio Marrone appeared in court this morning, and after a trial of two hours and a half His Worship fined Marrone $2d or thirty days in jail.

At the beginning of the case the usual trouble between the court and counsels took place about Mr. Miniccio acting as interpreter, but the court upheld Mr. Miniccio. Mr. G. Gordon appeared for Renzetti and Mr. E. D Kerr for Marrone.

The physician who attended Renzetti said the wound on his hand looked to have been made by the teeth of a man. The hand was badly swollen and the cut was about an inch and a quarter deep, extending straight across the index finger between the knuckle and middle joint. The doctor took off the bandage and showed the wound to the court.

"You will have to examine the mans' teeth to see if they are in a straight line," said Mr. Gordon, to the amusement of the court. To Mr. Kerr witness said that when he visited Renzetti he found he had liquor in him.

Nicholas Renzetti said when he gave the order for the boarders to go to bed Marrone told him he would not. This led to words, and Nicholas Marrone wanted his money. Then the Marrones got up and began to strike him, and in the mix-up Nicholas Marrone bit his finger. He said he had had three small glasses before he went home, but was not drunk. He did not scratch Marrone and was not aware of how the scratches came to be on his face. The two Marrones went out in the afternoon with a friend named Martelle to a hotel, and came back drunk. After he had been bitten he sent for the police, and denied the statement made by P. C. Newhall at the previous hearing that he was pressing Marrone towards the door.

The Marrones struck him several times but he did not strike back. When asked why he didn't strike the Marrones, he replied, "I don't know how to fight."

Pietro Alfino said he saw Antonio Marrone bite Renzetti and saw the Marrones strike him, and pulled Renzetti's finger out of Marrone's mouth. When the police came he was in the bunk and did not see the fight.

Pietro Bruno, the next witness, said that he was in bed when the trouble occurred and heard Renzetti tell the Marrones that they would pay for this. Then Antonio Marrone ran into his room and took the scissors off a stand. He sprang from his bed and took them from him.

Frorevondes Sgrengnuole said he did not see the fight and came down as Pietio Alfino was separating Marrone and Renzetti. Nicholas Marrone struck him a slap on the face and pulled his thumb back.

Antonio Colluno said he saw the fight on Tuesday night, but did not see Marrone bite Renzetti's hand. Antonio Marrone and Renzetti both started the row, and were scratching each other.

The defendant, Antonio Marrone, next said that, while they were in a ring Renzetti made a grab at his face and made several marks on his face and nose. In pulling the hand down over his face Renzetti's hand went into his mouth.

He went to the sink to wash and he came back Renzetti went at him again and it was this time that Renzetti's hand was bitten.

"I am satisfied the wound was made by a bite," said His Worship, "and I don't see how three fingers could get into a man's mouth and just one finger marked. I think that it was a deliberate bite and I abominate cowardly fighting. I fine Antonio Marrone $20.00; ten dollarts to go to Renzetti and ten to the fine."

In option to the fine he was given 30 days in jail.

It appears that Renzetti owes Marrone $87.50 to be paid in March, and out of this Renzetti was willing to pay Marrone's fine.

WAS A TOTAL WRECK FROM HEART FAILURE.

Heart disease is characterized by its stealthy approach and its variety of forms, yet in all its forms nature gives unmistakable signals which warn us of its presence.

One of the first danger signals announcing something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again there may be the most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible palsations of the arteries. You may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief, such speedy restoration to health that no one need suffer.

Mr. Darius Carr, Geary, N.B., writes: "It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you a few lines to let you know the great blessing your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have been to me. I was a total wreck from heart failure, my wife advised me to take your pills, and, after using two boxes I was restored to perfect health. I am now sixty-two years old and feel almost as well as I did at twenty."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL CANNOT COME

Will not be Present at Demonstration on Dominion Day

His Excellency, the Governor-General will not be able to be present at the proposed demonstration here on July 1st, next, under the auspices of the Sons of England, but it is probable that Lieut. Governor Clarke may be here. At the request of the Sons of England, the council wrote to both to invite them here and the following replies which were read at last night's council meeting, were received:—

Government House, Ottawa.

Sir,—I am desired by the Governor-General to thank you very cordially for your kind invitation to visit Peterborough on the 1st of July, next, on the occasion of a patriotic celebration, by the Sons of England in your city and to inform you that His Excellency much regrets that his plans for the coming summer will not permit of his accepting your councillors invitation for 1st of July, next.

Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR F. SLADEN.

Government House, Toronto.

Sir,—I am directed by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, to acknowledge your letter of 24th inst., on behalf of your city wishing His Honour to be present at the celebration of Dominion Day, 1908.

His Honour directs me to thank the city through you for the kind invitation and to say that provided His Honour is in Ontario on that date he will be very pleased to accept.

His Honour usually leaves Ontario for a holiday before that date and although his plans are not yet completed, he may not be in Ontario.

I am communicating with the Secretary of the Sons of England and asking them if they will be good enough to communicate with me about the middle of May, when a definite answer will then be given them. I regret that I cannot be definite now, but you will understand the reason.

Your Obedient Servant,
MAJOR MACDONALD,
Official Secretary.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 14.—The market opened with fractional advances the rule, and soon became irregular with a great deal of profit-taking in some issues and good deal of bullish manipulation against the short interest. Foreigners bought on balance to moderate extent. Among the features of the early dealings were N.Y.A. and the Steel stocks, but later the whole market improved materially, when the traders found that they could do little on the short side, and changed their position. What developments there were outside of the continued easier tendency of money were not favourable.

A few small banking troubles were announced. Among the announcements were the passing of the customary six months' dividend on Osceola Consolidated Mining Company, and the deferring of the dividend on the common stock of the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company.

The market did not pay attention to these matters however. Commission houses as a rule are bullish and their customers are buying on the soft spots although some are waiting for more material reactions.

The easier money conditions make some of the railway investment shares seem very attractive, but we advise caution in following up the advance in stocks that are subject of bullish manipulation by pools or individuals. The general list will do to buy on the reactions but we would not ignore fair profits.

ADDRESS ON THE INCA INDIANS

An Appeal For Help by The Rev. Geo. Smith Last Night

A fairly large audience attended the address in the Conservatory of Music Hall last night on the occasion of the visit of Rev. Geo. Smith of South America to Peterborough. It was given in aid of the missionary work among the Inca Indians of that southern continent and was certainly worthy of a larger audience.

Mr. D W Dumble presided, and during the evening a splendi piano solo was given by Miss Wilson.

Mr. Smith treated his subject in a masterly manner. He told of the tragedy and the pathos among the Inca tribes.

The founders of the mighty nation whose capital is Cuzco—meaning the centre of a kingdom—now only tolerated by their oppressors; poor, ignorant, degraded and reduced to about two million.

It is almost impossible to realize, he said, that less than 400 years ago, the last Inca King—Atahuallpa—handed over so vast a sum of gold, valued at three millions and a half pounds sterling (17,500,000) to Pizarro the Spanish free-booter. That vast sum of gold once formed beautiful vessels, goblets, ewers, salvers and vases of every shape and size, and which had been broken up and melted by some of the Indian goldsmiths who made them.

Spain has been punished for her treatment of those people among whom she had formed her colonies, for not one foot of land in all South America is possessed by her as a Nation.

The moral assistance of these tribes was the object which he hoped, god willing, to carry out. He is purchasing a farm of about ten square miles, to be a Refuge for the Inca, where he can live and earn a fair wage, and where he and his children will learn the Gospel, the latter being in schools which will soon be opened.

SCHOOL PLEASED THE TRUSTEES

The members of the Board of Education visited the Queen Alexandra School yesterday afternoon for the purpose of inspecting it. They gathered at the Toronto Savings and Loan office and at 3 o'clock left for the North Ward in order to see the school while in session.

There were eight rooms in use, with a complete roll of pupils. In last night's issue an article appeared describing the beauty and harmony that pervades the whole building; plumbing, heating and ventilation systems were observed in use, and the trustees expressed their extreme satisfaction with the building and its equipment. Above all, the school is well situated, being on the north western elevation of land, with extensive playgrounds, fine frontage which can be easily adorned with flower beds, shrubs, etc., during the summer, and in general appearance is a prepossessing school. The trustees consider the Queen Alexandra the equal of any school in the city, or probably in the Province.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Perm t me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

Two More City League Games To-morrow Night

"Night Hawks" Of Norwood Coming Strong to Meet The Straths —Highlifes Up Against Bridgenorth

GOOD GAMES ANTICIPATED

To-morrow night two more city league games will be played at the Brock street rink when the Norwood "Night Hawks" meet the Strathconas between 8 and 9 o'clock and Bridgenorth and High Lifes come together between 9 and 10. The Norwood teams are expected to make a strong bid for the trophy this year and the first game to-morrow night will be fast and exciting. The Night Hawks will have on their line up four men who have played O.H.A. hockey in former years. Alex Kempt and Russell Pearce were on the Midland team when Whitecroft was there. Foster and Nichol have also played O.H.A., so that the Straths will have to extend themselves if they want to win. Fred Doharty is another fast man on the line up. He is a prominent Association football forward and is said to be as fast as the others in hockey. The Norwood team will arrive on the 4.45 and expect to bring up a big bunch of rooters.

For the second game Bridgenorth will be here to run up against the High Lifes. Since last week the Chemong Lake boys have brushed up and made a few changes on their line. They anticipate keeping the High Lifes in motion if the latter want to win. Mr. George Lynch will referee and two good games are looked forward to.

THE BARBERS WERE OUTCLASSED

Examiner Printers Made Them Look Like a 10 to 1 Shot

The Examiner printers wiped out old scores last night with the barbers, by taking the razor wielders into camp in an easy manner by 10 goals to 1. The half-time score was 6-0 in favour of the typos, who had all the best of the play, making the barbers look like a nicked razor before the game was over. Campbell, the star player of the barbers, was checked so closely that he was unable to score, while the printers showed good combination on the forward line and piled up the tally rapidly. It was sweet, sweet revenge for the printers, who remembered the 7-0 beating they received last year, and were determined to return it with interest. Chambers, Henry and Burridge were the stars of the printers, while Hayes, Mitchell and Campbell were the best of the barbers. Manager Metheral of the Strathconas refereed satisfactorily, and the line-up was as follows:

PRINTERS		BARBERS

Craig		Lewis

Burridge		Wright

Martin		Hayes

THE WALKING WONDER WANTED IN MISSOURI

His Fame Has Been Sown Broadcast in The South—He May Go

The fame of "Davey" Hartley, the Peterborough Walking Wonder, has been spread broadcast throughout the United States and Canada. One of the greatest athletic Clubs in the United States, The Missouri Athletic Club of Kansas City, has sent Davey a letter asking him to compete in a six day walking race. The club house has dimensions of 198x314 feet; arena 110 by 135 feet; seating capacity 15,000. Some of the best walkers in America have been asked to walk among whom are Weston of Chicago, and Henderson, of New York. Davey has the honour of being the only Canadian to enter and the favourable terms are offered in the following letter:

Missouri Athletic Club,
Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 9.

Hartely:

Dear Sir,—Commencing Feb. 24th, this club will start a six-day, 12 hour a day heel and toe walking match. Fifty per cent. of the gross gate receipts will be divided among the first seven men: 35 per cent. to first; 20 per cent. to second; 15 per cent. to third; 10 per cent. to fourth and fifth, and 5 per cent. to sixth and seventh. Would like to see you enter. Reply;

W. D. SCOVILLE,
No. 5, west 12th street.

Davey says that if he can get the necessary cash he will walk. He wants to bring more glory to Peterborough and believes if he goes to Kansas he can win the race. He has been training quite a bit lately and is in excellent form. This is an excellent opportunity for the citizens to show their appreciation of Davey's past record and send him to Kansas City. This would be a good thing for Peterborough and we ought to appreciate the honour of being the only Canadian City sending a representative to this great walk.

A Common Cold,
but it becomes a serious matter if neglected. Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh or Consumption is the result. Get rid of it at once by taking Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.
Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful soothing action, and in the racking, persistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep and often effecting a permanent cure.
Mrs. C. Townsend, Lockport, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of my experience with Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I was troubled with a cold and severe cough all the time, and very severe spells of Asthma. The doctors did all they could for me, but could only give me relief for a short time. I happened to see your medicine advertised and purchased three bottles, and it gave me great relief, and I do not cough at all. I do not know how to express my gratitude for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for me."
Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup 25 cts. per bottle at all dealers. Put up in yellow wrapper, and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes. There is only one Norway Pine Syrup and that one is Dr. Wood's.

LINDSAY MIDGETS ARE ADDING TO THEIR LAURELS

Trimmed Whitby Last Night by Score of 9 to 3 on Latter's Ice

Whitby, January 13th. — The first home game of O. H. A. Intermediate Series, Group 2, was played here to-night on ice which was in fine condition. Lindsay and Whitby were the opponents and the Midgets were returned victorious by a score of 9 to 3. The game was exceedingly fast.

The half time score was 2 to 1. In the second half the Midgets set a whirlwind pace and ran up the score. Arthur Blanchard was the bright star of the game. Huntley, in goal for Whitby, gave an exhibition of hockey, which has seldom been equalled here. Every man on the Lindsay line is fast, and the stars were Coate, Koyle and Sullivan. The following is the line up:

HAVELOCK TRIMMED BY MARMORA

Opening of Trent Valley League Last Night—Score Was 3-0

Examiner Special:

Havelock, January 13. — The opening game of the Trent Valley League was played here to-night, Marmora and Havelock being the contestants. The game resulted in a score of 3 to 0 in favour of Marmora.

Marmora has a fast team, who work well together. They also show the effects of diligent practice. The Havelock players, although good individual players, have not the needful combination. They have moreover had little practice on account of the lack of ice. They were in addition handicapped by the absence of Ferguson and Rathwell, who could not play, and who would have greatly strengthened the forward line.

The game, which was billed to begin at eight o'clock, on account of a disagreement among the players, did not start until nine. Mr. Butler of Marmora, umpired the game satisfactorily.

The Marmora team was supported by a large crowd of rooters who almost shouted themselves hoarse at everything presented, no matter if it were right or wrong. At the commencement the teams appeared to be about equal, but before the half was over Marmora made a brilliant rush and got a goal. Havelock followed with several strong rushes but all in vain, as the Marmora defence was very strong, but Havelock managed to score on an off-side just before half time.

The second half opened with some fierce playing, and the umpire of the game had to give several men on both sides a rest. Marmora scored twice again rather by mishaps than good playing, and then both teams got down to hard work. Foster showed up well for the home team.

The bell then rang for time before any more goals could be scored.

Havelock plays its next game at Tweed on January 22nd, and expect to make a better showing there. Havelock is seriously handicapped by the fact that some of the players are generally away when a game is to take place.

Warkworth has dropped out of No. 2 District, while a Third District has been formed.

District No. 1.
Havelock Marmora, Tweed and Madoc.

District No. 2.
Keene, Hastings, Norwood.

District No. 3.
Trenton, Deseronto.

Colborne is expected to join District No. 3.

The next game in No. 1 District is Tweed at Madoc on Jan. 17.

EXCELLENT JANUARY ROD AND GUN

A Promising Number For The Opening Of The Year

It is often said that a good beginning is half the battle, and the Canadian Sportsman's magazine, "Rod and Gun, and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., makes a splendid beginning for the New Year. It is crowded with stories of interest to sportsmen including notes on the last season's sport in several provinces which must cause hunters to go over their own experiences once more, and see if they agree with those given. The most important subject of the International Control of the Great Lakes Fisheries, is dealt with in an address given by Mr. A. Kelly Evans at a conference of the American Fisheries Society. Stories of deer hunting in Quebec and Ontario, duck hunting in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, exploring trips in the northern country, with fishermen's yarns, and mountain climbing reminiscences, are but samples of the good things awaiting the readers of this excellent magazine. Every lover of outdoor life must find something to appeal to his particular and favourite recreation, and to the whole of them must come home the spirit of the well-written and effective story, — "Nature's Elixir, and it is not work." This is the spirit pervading the whole —the spirit of freedom and strenuous exertion which brings with it health and happiness, though in the conventions of modern civilization it is not classed as "work." Often indeed, as every sportsman knows it is work of the hardest possible kind, but when it is a change from ordinary occupations, let the labour be what it may, so long as it is performed in the open air, and without restraint, it is not, in the ordinary acceptance of the word, "work." With such a promising beginning the New Year holds the strongest possibilities for the success of this favourite Canadian magazine, whose special work it has been to make the advantages of the Dominion in the region of sport, known to our people and through them to the whole world.

ANOTHER CASE FROM LAKEFIELD

Liquor Case Heard To-day By Magistrate Edmison

At the County Police Court to-day Magistrate Edmison listened to a liquor case in which Mr. T. Darcy of Lakefield, who is proprietor of a temperance house in the northern village, was the defendant. The case arose through Mr. Gingras, a resident of Lakefield, coming home drunk on Sunday, January 5. Mrs. Gingras, very vexed with this circumstance, said she would lay a complaint with the inspector, as she believed her husband had obtained his liquor at Darcy's. When he came home he was minus $10, which had been stolen from him.

In the witness box this morning her evidence was of little use as she knew nothing directly bearing on the charge. It transpired that Gingras had the whisky at home, where he first had five drinks. He was drunk when he reached Darcy's with a friend, and did not know what he drank. One of the witnesses swore that it was only some of Kop's stout that Gingras had.

The case was still in hearing at the time of going to press. Mr. Jas. Haverson, Mr. Peck, Mr. McWilliams, Mr. Moore and Inspector Stewart were all present.

Mr. Hambidge moved, seconded by Mr. Stewart, a vote of thanks to the speakers of the day.

The Toronto Globe of to-day, says that a Toronto girl is taking legal action against Mr. A. J. Small, on whose circuit the Peterborough theatre is, for printing, without permission, her photo on a programme. The Globe says:

Miss Annie Webb of this city, issued a writ yesterday against Ambrose J. Small, of the Grand Opera House, claiming $2,000 for libel in publishing a copy of a photograph of the plaintiff in a programme issued by the defendant and known as Circular No. 16. The young lady in this photograph was represented as Florence Rossland, playing the part of leading lady in 'The Fatal Flower.' Miss Webb denies any connection with the opera company.

STODDART STOCK COMPANY

The curtain-raiser of the Stoddart Stock Company, the "Belle of Richmond," was highly appreciated by the audience which witnessed the production last night. The story of the play deals with a New York banker, "Bill Osmand," who steals money from the bank, and with the help of a confederate, "Greene," a book expert, fastens the crime on a young banker named "Smart," who is sent to prison for two years. Osmand skips out to Richmond and there falls in love with Nellie Mason, the belle. Green comes on the scene and another bank robbery takes place and the blame is fastened on Col. Lee's son. Smart appears on the scene, and destroys the game between Osmand and Green. Gerald Gordon, a rising barrister, at last wins Nellie's hand, and by his cleverness the plot is discovered. "Bill" and "Jerry" have been good friends, but when the lawyer offers "Bill" the money to get out and begin life anew, the latter objects.

Miss Stoddart as "Nellie Mason" showed great cleverness as an actress and won the hearts of the audience by her kind manner and jovial laugh. Mr. Stewart as "Jerry" had a good conception of his part, but his acting last night was rather hindered by a cold. Mr. Tucker as "Bill Oswald" was all that could be desired, and showed his true character in the last act when he parted with "Jerry." The company all round was of exceptional merit, and every actor was an artist.

CHARLES BURKE, THE MAN WITH THE BASEBALL HAND IN PRISON HERE WITH TWO CHARGES AGAINST HIM

P. C. Newhall Identifies Him—May be The Personage Who Robbed the Buckhorn Store On November 5th

THE GIRLS WILL MEET HIM

Constable Cochrane Brought Him From Toronto Last Night—His Trial Come off Next Week

That Charles Burke is the man who held the revolver in the face of the Buckhorn girls on the night of November 5th and robbed the till of its contents, is practically certain. On his arrival last night in the city from Toronto, he was taken to the police station, where he spent the night. This morning he came face to face with P. C. Newhall, who identified him with one of the trio who attempted to hold him up at the C. P. R. station, when James Murray was arrested, and afterwards sent to the Central Prison for a twelve-month.

Burke was one of Murray's pals on that occasion, according to the police officer, and it is more than probable that he will be identified by the young ladies from Buckhorn, when they meet him this evening at 4 o'clock. On the charge of holding up P. C. Newhall, he was remanded until next Monday, and on the charge of robbing the Buckhorn store, he will be tried by Magistrate Edmison next Wednesday. Miss Purser is said to be able to identify the man both by his general appearance and also by the curious shape of the ends of his fingers, which have been broken by much baseball playing.

The local C. P. R. train last night, brought as one of its passengers, Charles Burke, bound hand and foot, in charge of High County Constable Cochrane.

Burke was arrested some days ago in Toronto, on a charge of vagrancy, and was remanded for a week. He again came up, and was again remanded, as the court was not ready to proceed. A farmer was taken to see him yesterday morning as he sat in the cells in Toronto's big city hall. The gentleman looked him over very carefully but did not seem to have seen him before. He was taken to the Court street station about 2.30, and lodged in a cell there, and was told that he had a charge to answer in Peterborough. About 4.30 o'clock the police came in and had him handcuffed, and he was then handed over to Mr. Cochrane, who accompanied him to the train in a cab. Coming through the union station a large crowd of curious people gathered to see him, many thinking that he was on his way to Kingston. When he entered the car his feet were bound.

Burke was seen by the Examiner last night as he was eating his supper in the cells. He did not seem at all depressed and was quite willing to talk to the reporter, and told him the story of his career.

His Career

The prisoner said that he was educated in the public schools of Toronto, and after leaving school he began to work. His father was a Toronto merchant, and runs a large store. After working hours he said he used to hang around pool rooms, and this is where he committed his first offence.

"I went into a pool room, one night," he said, "and after a few games a chap came over to me, and asked me to mind his coat till he came back; he also gave me a revolver, which I placed in my pocket. I went out for a walk, and had not been away for two hours, when I was nabbed and brought up for the theft of the coat. I told my story in court, but it didn't go. The idea of carrying a gun was a hard one for Magistrate Denison to get over, as I got six months in the Central. There I met the famous Quakenbush, who has been causing the Toronto authorities so much trouble. We became well acquainted and upon the expiration of our terms we became bosom friends. Quakenbush was a hair-brained fellow, not a bad sort, but he always does things on the spur of the moment without any thought of the consequences. Quakenbush was arrested again for house-breaking, and was sentenced to the Central Prison. While he was on his way there I tried to rescue him from the guard, but failed, and was arrested. I promised my friend I would try and help him, and I kept my word. There was no defense in this case for me, so I took my medicine, which was a three year term in the Kingston penitentiary, or the 'K.P.' as we all call it. When my 'dad' heard the news of my sentence I was disowned, and since that time the family and I have lived apart. I was allowed out of the 'Pen.' one year ago, only spending two years of my time, and since that time I have tried to live a new life.

Wants to Start Over

"You can't start over again. Every time something happens or some other unfortunate with a bad character gets pulled in as a vagrant; but they really suspect us of something worse. We are held in prison, viewed by every Tom, Dick and Harry, and then sent around the country to see if you don't resemble some assassin who committed an outrage in that part.

"I don't know what charge I am down here for, but if it was committed during the past year I can prove my innocence. But my past life is against me; my word is not valued,"— and here the poor fellow broke down; "I only wish somebody would trust me."

Burke is a fine looking man. He is about five foot ten in height, well built and has an honest-looking face. His hair is fair and neatly parted and he presents a very gentlemanly appearance. He has had a good education, and is a brilliant conversationalist. Burke looks far from being a criminal, and says after this matter has been cleared up he will go back to Toronto. He owns a 25-acre plot north of Toronto, and expects to sell this and go West.

The charge upon which Burke was brought here is the robbery of Purser's store in Buckhorn some months ago. It is also believed that he was one of the three men who were selling rings at the C. P. R. station some months ago ago, and whose accomplice, Murray, tried to shoot P. C. Newhall.

The case will be tried before County Magistrate Edmison, as the only charge against him at present is the Buckhorn hold-up.

KEPT BOY OF 16 ALL NIGHT AND GAVE HIM BOTTLED ALE WHILE THE PARENTS SEARCHED

Serious Charge of Giving Liquor To a Minor Brought Against Joseph Curtin Of Lakefield—Court Adjourned Late at Night

ADJOURNMENT FOR A WEEK

And still another liquor case from local option Lakefield! From morning until night yesterday Magistrate Edmison dealt with three charges of illegal whiskey selling, two alleged illicit sales and the third case was of giving liquor to a minor. The first two are dealt with in another column, and particulars given.

Yesterday evening at the conclusion of the Wilson case, Joseph Curtin of Lakefield was charged with having given ale to Samuel Trude a boy of 16 years, and consequently a minor. The affair took place on the 15th of December in Curtin's bedroom where the boy said he induced him to stay during the night.

Gave the boy ale

Young Trude was in Curtin's room when the latter said they would have a drink. A bottle of ale had been opened and nearly half was gone. Curtin said this had a flat taste and opened another bottle. He gave it to the boy who drank about one-quarter of it. He induced the boy to remain with him and the lad did so. Meanwhile Trude's parents were greatly alarmed about his not coming home but the search was futile.

In the morning they heard he was at McBride's house where Curtin roomed, and Mr. Trude called for the boy, but Mr. Curtin told Mr. McBride to say the boy was not there. McBride, however, did not acquiesce, McBride, however, did not acquiesce, and at 8.30 the boy returned home. Two other lads from Lakefield gave evidence against Curtin, but it did not refer to the 15th of December, but to two days later.

Boy Used to Beer

It was also received in evidence that in his own home the boy was used to ale or beer several times a day. His father said he was rather sickly, and he considered that a little of the spirits would do him good.

This evidence, as stated, was taken during the evening, and at 10.30 an adjournment was called for a week.

BURLINGTON DOCTOR IS MISSING

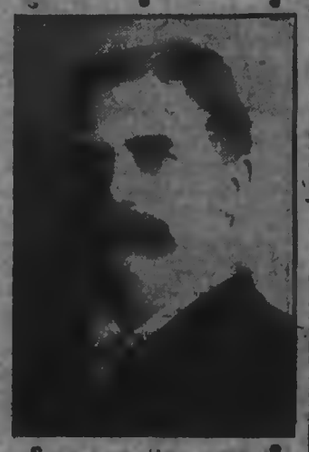
Been Away Since Christmas—Afraid of Imaginary Enemies

The local G. T. R. station agent, received a letter this morning from the Chief of Police of Burlington, Ia., asking for information regarding Dr George W. Jones, of that city, who has been missing since Christmas Day. The doctor is a specialist, and comes from a good family. He is afraid of imaginary enemies, but looks perfectly sane. He is 31 years of age, 6 feet tall, weighs 185 lbs., has dark eyes and bald head. He wore when last seen a brown suit and a dark overcoat. All the police departments are requested to arrest and hold this man until an officer arrives from Burlington.

THE PRESIDENT RESIGNS FROM Y.M.C.A.

Mr. R. E. Harding Will Not Accept The Position Another Year

Mr. R. E. Harding, president of the Y. M. C. A., has decided that he will not accept that position again this year. At the directors' meeting last night it is understood he resigned the office. His resignation however was not accepted by the board, so that no definite action will be taken until the annual meeting on Friday night.



MR. R. E. HARDING
Who Has Resigned the Presidency of The Y.M.C.A. After Serving Two Years

The Board is unanimous in its opinion that he should remain in office, but it is stated that Mr. Harding will not accept it again this year on account of so many duties, and of the distance he resides from the building.

Mr. Harding has been president of the institution for the past two years, and his work in that capacity, as all know who are connected with it, has been most diligent and successful.

The resignation will be finally dealt with on Friday evening.

THE ALDERMANIC TERM

A proposal comes from Peterborough to have aldermen elected for two years instead of one, and Kingston has already adopted a three-year term. The Toronto Star, in discussing the lengthening of the aldermanic term, says:

"As a rule, faithful servants of the people are not injured by being compelled to come before the people every year for examination and judgment. On the other hand, the annual inspection and judgment by the people operate as a wholesome check against breach of trust, dishonesty, or incapacity. A city government under the system of annual elections cannot do wrong with impunity, entrenching itself in power with the profits of its wrongdoing, and trusting that the people will forget. Suppose, for the purpose of argument, that the present City Council should take a course that would defeat the will of the people as expressed by the vote on the power bylaw. Such a thing is inconceivable, because the Council is composed of upright and honourable men, but if it should happen, the judgment that would fall upon the transgressors would happen in case of dishonesty or gross incapacity. We have had in Toronto for many years honest city government; partly because honesty is more common than dishonesty, and an effective means of breaking up rings. Under this system it is possible to have stability in doing well, and difficult to have perseverance in doing ill."

At different times, attempts have been made in the Legislative Assembly to secure the same arrangement with regard to the term of office for aldermen as exists with regard to school trustees, but always with poor success. There seems to be a general desire on the part of the electors to have an annual "round-up" of their representatives at the council board, and they are apparently not disposed to forego it.—Brantford Expositor.

MAD REASONING.

The Mail and Empire is anxious to take the farmers of South Huron, in which a bye-election is in progress, under its protection, if not protecting wing. It seeks to assure them that they owe all their prosperity to Providence, and none to good government. Did the organ ever hear of the proverb—"The Lord sends meats, and the devil sends cooks." Divine Providence sends the conditions that make for prosperity and abundance, but they must be wisely used. Heaven sends the sunshine, the rains and all the necessary conditions of growth and maturing of crops. But if the farmer did not prepare his soil, sow his seed and protect his growing crop, there would be no harvest, no prosperity. So Providence never so prodigal of its favours. Providence may have smiled upon the Dominion the past eleven years, but under Liberal administration, its favour has been turned to good account, with the result that prosperous conditions have resulted. The organ has a short memory. It should recollect how, in the "N. P." days, it fairly scouted the idea of Providence, and ascribed all the glory to the "N. P." They put all the blame of the period of depression in the early seventies upon the Mackenzie Government, and instanced the soup kitchens as an evidence of Liberal incapacity for government. When the good times returned they ascribed them to the "N. P." giving none of that credit to Providence, upon which they now insist. The people of Huron may remember that it was a Huron M.P. who avowed that the National Policy had put fire and energy even into the hens, causing them to lay larger eggs. At every succeeding general election it was declared that the return of the Liberals to power would bring about ruin and desolation, and it was never hinted that Providence would avert the catastrophe.

To show how the farmers are oppressed under the Liberal Government, the Mail and Empire points to a revenue of eighty million dollars as "taxes sweated out of the farmers of the country." Rubbish. This may not be elegant language, but it fits the style of argument. Does the Mail and Empire think the farmers are such fools as to believe that they are "sweated" with tariff taxes without their own consent? If there is any "sweating," the farmers do it themselves. They buy goods upon which tariff taxes are levied, and if they are "sweated" they have only themselves to blame. They have the money to buy, and they buy. In so doing they help roll up the Customs revenue. If the people would quit buying goods, importing would cease, and the people would cease paying Customs taxes. The people have it in their power to make the Customs revenue large or small. The revenue of eighty millions is collected upon a much lower tariff than in the good old "N. P." days, when times were so hard and money so scarce that the people could only buy goods to bring up the Customs revenue — under a higher tariff—to thirty-eight millions of dollars. The Mail and Empire does a mort of bad reasoning.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Those pessimists who assert that free trade is sweeping Great Britain downward to the doom of decay, will be good enough to explain the meaning of the fact that Great Britain increased her trade in 1907 by four hundred and fifty millions.

The suffering from drought in India is nothing to the suffering from drought in local option districts.

Indeed, says the Toronto News, for sheer intellectual capacity it is doubtful if Mr. MacKay, (Liberal Opposition leader) has a peer in the Legislature. If he so chooses he can made ag reat career for himself in this Province, and again make the Liberal party as powerful as it was in the days of Mowat. He need not look for an immediate call to power, but there is as good work to be done in Opposition as can be done in office. Upon the whole the Whitney Government has been progressive and public-spirited, but there are loose joints in its armour, and it will be all the better for the vigilant criticism of a strong and energetic Opposition.

MILK AND ALFALFA THE SUBJECT

Excellent Meetings Of Farmers' Institute in Smith—Attendance Large

DISCOURSES OF INTEREST

The Farmers' Institute meetings held in the Orange Hall on the 4th Line of Smith yesterday afternoon and evening were well attended. The farmers turned out well at both sessions to hear the instructive addresses given by the delegates, Mr. Paget and Mr. Cornell. As a result of the meeting, much valuable information was disseminated and those present were well pleased with the way the speakers dealt with the various subjects.

Mr. Telford, president of the Institute, was chairman and opened the afternoon meeting by expressing his pleasure at seeing such a large number in attendance. The first speaker was Mr. Paget who dealt with two subjects, "The Production of Milk" and "Alfalfa."

Mr. Paget is a most successful dairyman and has of late visited many parts of the country, talking on dairying subjects. The dairying industry, he said, is one of the best in the province of Ontario, and much money is realized from it yearly. Farmers are dairying at a loss in this province. One loss is from the kind of cows which are kept at present. At one time the average production of milk per cow was 3,000 lbs. It is not through unintelligence of farmers but they are taking too much for granted. Farmers might reasonably have cows which should produce 10,000 lbs. of milk per year. A little foresight would result in money in pocket for many of our farmers. What are the state of cows in this district? He advises that farmers should keep account of the production of each cow's milk. Look at the example set by Denmark. They were at one time, as our stage of development, and by intelligent work, the production of milk was raised several thousand pounds per cow. The western provinces cannot compete with us in milk production, and we should foster the milk industry. It pays to look after the cows, and by means of Cow Testing Associations to improve the herd. It is good business for a farmer who is milking a cow that is not paying to get rid of her and replace her by one that will pay. The only way in which you can increase the production of your herd, is to breed to a pure-bred sire of a milking strain. They should also take an interest in testing and weighing the milk. It might cost a little more to keep a cow in the right and intelligent way, but the returns will be larger, and more encouraging. The speaker explained from his chart that a herd which is fed ensilage, grain and green peas and oats in early seasons and dry periods would yield good results, but it is also important that they should be milked regularly. He referred to the county of Oxford and Victoria which had Cow-Testing Associations. He attributed the condition in Victoria, where the output is about one-half the output of Oxford, to the use of their breeding sires. He advises that if a farmer has an object before him, to follow it up, and if he has a fancy for any particular type of cattle, to breed to that type—and to no other. The results will be better.

Alfalfa

Mr. Paget claimed that Alfalfa is the most valuable of any clover, which the farmers grow, and that one can grow it more abundantly than other hay or clover. It will grow on almost any land, on heavy clay where no other crop will grow, and will thrive for years. It will produce from 4 to 6 tons per acre. Mr. Paget explained the best way to get a good crop of alfalfa established on the land. It is best sown in a nurse crop with peas. It is necessary that the soil should be well-worked up, and then sow about 25 pounds to the acre. You can also thicken it each spring by sowing. Cut it just as soon as the first blossoms appear; let it lie thorugh the day then rake it up at night, and draw it in next day. It is far ahead of any other grain except ensilage, and is very valuable as a food for the stock.

Mr. Cornell followed with a talk on Ensilage as a food for the production of milk. To make a profit in dairying we should dairy the year around. During the past year, on account of the scarcity of feed, the silo has been brought into attention. Mr. Cornell said that the drop in the export trade of Ontario was due to scarcity of feed. The following method does well when it follows an oat crop. A shallow ploughing will prepare the ground for corn crop. Mr. Cornell's method of preparing the ground is as follows:—He draws out fertilizer in winter and leaves it in heaps. He leaves the manure in heaps and spreads in the spring. He advised putting the corn in with seed drill and cultivating with corn cultivator. The seed corn selection is also important, and the speaker advised choosing a good firm corn. Harrow once or twice before it comes up. This will kill the weeds. When the corn is up, cultivate once a week until it endangers the corn growth. The later cultivations should not be as deep as the first. He claimed that there is no food which can be handled to greater profit than ensilage. It is important to cut it at the right stage. Let it mature well rather than harvest it in the green state. As a result you get more grain on the cobs. It is also very important to knit the tops and leaves together well, and tramp down around the edges of the silo. This will prevent any loss. When feeding ensilage will less the cost of feeding cows. Mr. Cornell cuts straw and then mixes this and ensilage and pulped roots, enough to last for a couple of days. It is also profitable to feed grain with this twice a day. It is dangerous to give prepared feeds which are on sale in any large quantities. Much waste product of the mills is also sent out as shorts, thus cheating the farmer. Mr. Cornell said that odors in the stable will taint the milk. Thus it is important that ensilage or moving manure should be avoided. In buying cows for dairy purposes, look for a broad forehead, gentle eye, good lungs and heart, a good pounch and feeding capacity, good udder, and large milk veins, with large milk wells, a long, slim tail, and lots of space between the ribs are also good signs.

Evening Session

The evening session was largely attended, many ladies and young people being present. In addition to the regular addresses there was a good programme. Mr. Telford again presided.

Mr. Cornel spoke on the Improvement of Rural Conditions. The people of Ontario, he said, are of a high class of intelligence, as has been shown by our successful competition in many lines of agriculture. We produce the best stock, the best dairy products and grain. We must depend on the boys of the country for our success in the future. The conditions of the farmer boys are superior to those of those brought up in the city. It is up to the country folk to keep up the moral standard of our country. It has been a serious drawback to Ontario farmers in supplying the west and cities with our young men.

Mr. Cornel spoke of the advisability of forming farmers' clubs and organizations. They will give the farmer to withstand other organizations. He read a letter from the Education Department, which explained more fully the purpose of the organization of farmers. A club of such a nature would become of general interest to the community, and such could correspond with others in different parts of the province. This is an improvement which is taking place and will become more general in the near future. Such clubs have a chance to bring their claims to the notice of the public. Such was the case with the farmers of York county who secured better prices in Toronto for their milk. The homes on the farm should be made such that the young men would want to stay in the country. The rural telephone is another element of social intercourse on the farm. At the present time it is also possible to introduce a plumbing system in country homes. Instructions as to how it can be done are being sent out by the Education Department. Another matter which is being looked into is our roads which are improving in many districts. Another drawback to farming life is the long hours. It is common now on some farms not to work any later than do the city dwellers. There is a growing tendency in this direction among the farmers of to-day.

Song, Mrs. J. Young.
Reading, Mr. H. Peters.
Quartette, Mr. A. McGregor, W. H. Graham, Mrs. Young, Miss Graham.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from female trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for just such operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Mrs. Robert Glenn of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation, but I am pleased to add it to the many which you have in its favor. I have suffered untold agonies from a serious female trouble for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation, but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound, and I am only too pleased that I did so, for it restored me to perfect health, saving me the pain of an operation and the immense bills attending the same. Pray accept my hearty thanks and best wishes."

Miss Margaret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing-down pains, and an irritable disposition compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had a serious female trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Serious feminine troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all functional troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement, weakness, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A communication was read from the Ontario Municipal Association, requesting the council to endorse a petition to the Legislature to repeal section 606 of the Municipal Act. This was received, and the reeve and clerk were directed to sign and forward the petition.

Council then adjourned until February 10 to meet in May's schoolhouse at 7.30 p.m.

Pale, Anaemic, Sickly Girls
REGAIN COLOR, HEALTH, AND VIGOR WHEN THE BLOOD IS ENRICHED BY
Your mirror will tell you if you are anaemic, for the unnatural pallor of your gums, lips and eyelids will indicate the thinness and weakness of the blood.
Anaemia is most common among young women and is marked by pallor weakness, indigestion, irritability, spells of dizziness and fainting, heart palpitation, severe headaches and feelings of extreme exhaustion.
The blood is lacking in the elements which go to form energy, vigour and strength and demands such assistance as is best supplied by Dr Chase's Nerve Food.
This great food cure sharpens the appetite, invigorates the nerves which control the digestive fluids, strengthens the heart's action and naturally and gradually restores the sufferer from weak blood to health, strength and vigour.
The headaches and eyeaches of pale nervous school girls, of office girls, and of factory employees, are largely the result of thin, watery blood, and will disappear when the blood is enriched and the system built up by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
Mrs. D. Hobbins, 420 Charlotte street, Peterborough, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with a weak fluttering, heart. The least excitement seemed to aggravate her trouble, and at times she had severe racking headaches. She became so bad that it affected her nervous system and she felt miserable most of the time. Through the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food her condition is entirely changed. Her nerves are steady, the headaches are gone and the action of the heart is strong and regular. We have every reason to give the credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."
Put this great restorative to the test by noting your increase in weight while using it.

PASSED RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Y.M.C.A. Directors Met Last Night—Preparing for Annual Meeting

The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association met last night to arrange details for the annual meeting on Friday evening. The chair was occupied by the president, Mr. R H Harding. During the meeting a resolution of condolence was drafted to be forwarded to Mr. R J Kidd in view of the recent bereavement in his family. BIG PORT ARTHUR REAL ESTATE DEAL

Mr. Geo. H. Rapsey Well Known Here Interested—Other News From There

Mr. Geo. H. Rapsey, of Port Arthur, who has often visited his sister, Mrs. Wm. Pringle here, is one of the principals in a big real estate deal in the northern town. A despatch from there states:—

A large deal in real estate was made Saturday, when George H. Rapsey purchased the Neelin Block from J M Neelin, paying $130,000.

Major Hailey, mining engineer, of London, England, is here to examine iron properties in the Townships of McTavish and McGregor for a syndicate of Englishmen.

Fort William has offered Port Arthur $75,000 for that portion of the street railway lying within its limits, together with half the rolling stock and all the privileges and franchises enjoyed in Fort William. It is not likely that Port Arthur will consider the amount large enough.

JUDICAL HEAD OF THE COUNTY POLICE COURT

Mr. Edmison at Three Score and Thirteen Still Doing Good Work

For some time past there has been a mild epidemic of County Police Court cases. Communion with nature in its unspoiled moods and conditions does not always make men well-behaved. The inborn natural depravity comes out and has to be dealt with. It was a wise law that provided county police courts to be presided over by legally qualified and experienced jurists. The average justice of the peace, it is no disparagement to say, has not the advantage of legal knowledge, training or experience to satisfactorily deal with the ordinary run of charges which come under the adjudication of a county police magistrate. Police Magistrate Edmison has a good legal training, considerable experience; brings to the discharge of his duty a judicial mind and deals with the numerous cases which engage his attention at various points in a very satisfactory manner and although he has entered the third year of the seventh decade of life he is still physically and mentally alert, still a match for cavilling counsel and a terror to evil doers. Mr. Edmison's many friends hope he will be spared many years to discharge as efficiently as he has done in the past and in now doing, the duties of his responsible position.

A HARD YEAR FOR SUFFERERS

An Authority Gives Advice to Prevent Catarrh of all Kinds

A SIMPLE HOME RECEIPE

The coming months will be a harvest for the doctors and patent medicine manufacturers, unless great care is taken to keep the feet, dry, also

This is the advice of a well-known authority and should be heeded by all who are subject to rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, and especially catarrh. While the latter is considered by most sufferers an incurable disease, there are few men or women who will fail to experience great relief from the following simple home prescription, and if taken in time it will prevent an attack of catarrh during the entire season.

Here is the prescription which any one can mix: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and use in teaspoondoses after each meal and again at bedtime.

These are mostly vegetable ingredients and can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost.

The Compound Kargon in this prescription acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to make them filter and strain from the the blood the poisons that produce all forms of catarrhal affections. Relief is often felt even after the first few doses, and it is seldom that the sufferer ever experiences a return attack within the year.

This prescription makes a splendid remedy for all forms of blood disorders and such symptoms as lame back, bladder weaknesses, and rheumatism pains are entirely dispelled.

As this valuable, though simple, recipe comes from a thoroughly reliable source, it should be heeded by every afflicted reader.—

THIS HEN MUST HAVE TEETH

Ohio Bird Chews All Kinds of Tobacco And Gum

Youngstown, O., Jan. 15th. — (Special.) — Ex-Mayor Miller claims that he has a hen which chews tobacco. He says she enjoys it and will accept any brand, although she is particularly fond of fine cut. She will not set unless she is provided with a little of the weed.

She will also chew gum. The hen takes it in her mouth and allows it to lie on her tongue until it is soft, and then works her jaws like the typical Bowery girl. Mr. Miller denies that he wants to be classed with Long or Thompson-Seton, or any other of the alleged nature-fakers. He says the hen is on exhibition, and that this story is not a marjorie.

A DOCTOR WANTED TO AMPUTATE TOE

Woman's Toe Saved by Zam-Buk

But for the timely arrival of a box of Zam-Buk, Mrs. E. F. Fonger, 34 Myrtle street, St Thomas, Ont., would have lost her toe. She says "I am most thankful that I discovered the existence of Zam-Buk. For about nine months I suffered cruelly from the effects of having a corn removed from my little toe, for with its removal a hole remained, and my toe was in a terrible state. For months I was unable to wear a shoe, and as the toe showed no sign of healing and was in such a shocking condition the doctor thought that it was necessary to amputate it. About this time I received a sample box of Zam-Buk, and began using it on my toe. The first application gave me the greatest ease from pain and encouraged me to give Zam-Buk a thorough trial. Two months after commencing with Zam-Buk there was no sign of a hole for the flesh had grown in very firmly, and all soreness and pain were entirely banished. Zam-Buk brought about this healing, when all other remedies had failed. We find Zam-Buk so valuable that we would not be without a box in the house."

Zam-Buk heals, cuts, bruises, old wounds, running sores, eczema, ulcers, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, itch, piles, chapped hands, burns, scalds and all skin diseases; 50c. box; all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Company, Toronto. Three boxes for $1.25

SNOW PLOUGHER RESISTS, THE STATEMENTS MADE

His Horse Broke Through Sidewalk—He Knows the Complainant

Editor of Examiner,—

Sir, — In connection with an item that appeared in your Monday's issue regarding the snow ploughing in East City, I would like to say something. I operate the snow plough which your informant says did not serve its purpose, and I want to inform this gentleman of a few facts which he is apparently ignorant of.

I was out on Sunday between 11 and 3 o'clock—possibly earlier than he was out of bed. Going along Concession street, between James and Sophia streets, my horse broke through the sidewalk and cut his leg severely. That was about 2.30 in the afternoon. At 3 o'clock, I put the horse in the stable and bled steadily from that time until 5 o'clock. Next morning his leg was again bleeding when I went out to clear the sidewalks.

I noticed that the person who has been making the complaint went to the city engineer's office. I have his name and I desire to thank him for his many compliments and I may add that if he had been up a little earlier on Sunday morning he might have seen me out in front of his house.

Farmers Leave Dakota For The Canadian West

HE RESIDED IN OTONABEE

That the Canadian West is an attractive spot for the Yankee farmer of the western plains is a fact well known. Mr. Jas. McLaren, a visitor in this district, from Hoople, N.D., substantiates this. He tells of how the tillers of the soil of the prairies in the vicinity in which he lives are leaving their farms after a few years sojourn and treking northward across the line to Canada, and purchasing land by the quarter section and by the section.

Many who were making a fair living in North Dakota a few years ago are now Canadian citizens and piling up wealth in western Canada. Land can be obtained at a low price and the plains of Alberta and Saskatchewan are so fertile that in a couple of years the farmers begin to be prosperous. The form and condition of government appeal to them.

Mr. McLaren is well known in Peterborough and vicinity. He resided for many years in Otonabee a short distance below the Locks bridge. Nine years ago he went to Northern Dakota. He is proprietor of a temperance hotel there, and he has had marked prosperity since he left.

Hoople is a flourishing village in Dakota, not many miles south of the boundary line. It is often visited by a cyclone and some frosty weather, but otherwise its peace is seldom disturbed.

The people have prohibition in that district, corresponding to Local Option, which is so much before the minds of the Ontario public at present.

Suggestion To Make The Market Free To Farmers

Remove The Toll and Offer Every Inducement to Come To The City and Thus Promote a Large Market

MANY FAVOUR THE IDEA

There is some talk of making the market free to farmers by doing away with the present system of taking toll. At present the city sells the market at auction for something over $1,000, but the general opinion is that when this year's lease is terminated at the end of March it will not have brought that amount. The market is not as large and busy and not as well patronized as it should be for the centre of such a rich farming country as is Peterborough.

Those who know, say that if the toll was removed the market would at once become strong and would be an additional incentive to the farmers of this and the surrounding counties to bring their produce to the city. In this way the business done with the merchants would be increased and a greater profit ultimately obtained by the city than by selling the market for the toll. The matter is beginning to receive the attention of those in authority, and the Property Committee is said to be considering it.

Assuredly Peterborough has not the market it should have. The farmers do not like the idea of paying toll and many peddle about the streets or take their goods to other places. With every inducement to the farmers to come to the city the market would flourish and the money obtained by the weigh scales would pay the clerk, as they would be used more often.

Generous Contributions To Funds of Charity Board

The Mayor Donates $100—Needs Greater Than Ever Before—Other Members Assist

OTHERS ASKED TO ASSIST

At the meeting of the Central Charity Board last evening, Mayor Rush, who is chairman of the board, said he, himself, would give $100 to the board, to be used for charitable purposes. The board receives a grant each year from the city council which it disburses to those in need, but the mayor, who has held the poston of charman for several years, and is familiar with the work and its needs, has found that this winter there are not only larger demands than usual, but along with the greater demands there are calls of a special nature, that in addition to the regular system of orders for groceries and wood, some require to be given special aid. In view of these facts he made the generous contribution referred to, which was accepted by the board, and will be disbursed by the Relief Officer.

But the matter did not end there. Mr. Rush's explanation of the exigency of the situation, which had caused him to make this donation, appealed to others, and the suggestion was made, before all the members had left the room, that others would follow his excellent example in placing further funds at the disposal of the board to aid in relieving the distress. This suggestion was acted upon at once, with the result that two other subscriptions were made, and it was deemed advisable to open the way for further contributions, in order that everyone who approved of the action taken, and wished to join in the good work, might do so. The subscriptions made, including that of the chairman, were as follows:

H Rush..... $100
Robert Neill..... 25
R C Braund..... 10

Any person who is willing to aid in this way is invited to send his contribution to the Mayor, or to Mr. W. Yelland, treasurer of the board; or to Mr. S. R. Armstrong, secretary, at the city clerk's office.

IRON TRACKS FOR THE FIRE HALL

Committee Had a Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

The Fire, Water and Light Committee held its first meeting of the year yesterday afternoon at the fire-hall, when the question of some improvements in connection with the building was discussed. The most important matter was that of placing iron tracks under the fire engine, ladder truck and chemical and hose truck, for the purpose of protecting the floor, and at the same time making it easy to get the apparatus in and out of the building. They will be provided with rollers and the matter will be attended to at once.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE A REALITY

Splendid Address Last Night by Rev. A. Allan—Large Congregation Present

AN INTERESTING DISCOURSE

The first week night meeting in connection with the Allan mission in St. Andrew's church was held last night and was most interesting. The large congregation that assembled was held with intense interest to the reading and exposition of the Scripture. Mr. G W Mulligan's solo "I Stand all Amazed," was most effectively rendered, and the spirit and tone of the whole meeting was uplifting and inspiring. Mr. Allan is in no sense a sensationalist, but is a strong believer in and an exponent of the reality of the Christian life.

In the reading lesson 1 John, Chap. I, Mr. Allan referred to the fact that the five chapters of the Epistle presented five distinct features of Christian Experience—our fellowship; our Christian walk; our Christian hope, our Christian victory, our Christian confidence.

He then chose as the key note of the whole Epistle the 7th verse of the first chapter, "But if all walk in the light, as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin."

He was glad that the Christian religion meant fellowship —companionship. The word in the Greek was Koinonio, meaning joint interest, a partnership. That is what made Christian life worth possessing. What's observance of dogma, creed, ritual, if there is no personal friendship and companionship? What is religion to anybody if it does not enter into all the relationship of life and teach us that between us and God there was a continuous fellowship through Jesus Christ.

When visiting the great Cathedral of Milan he had been so overwhelmed with its grandeur that he walked round and round it, but when a friend escorted him within, the magnificence of the interior was simply unspeakable. "Come away in with me" said the speaker, "and behold the winsomeness of Christ and His love." So many stay outside and offer their opinions. We spend too much time on the duties of Christ but realize with that great truth that His ministry was that of a human leader as well as a Divine Saviour. Henry Drummond had urged students who had allowed their opinions and doubts to keep them mentally and spiritually in misery just to set aside everything and to look to Christ as a human friend, and with all the intimacy possible to look to Christ as Master of their lives, but for one month. Mr. Allan asserted that in many cases these young men were led to know that Christ had become more and more manifest to them in all His Divine power. But the Christian life was more than this. Then was the note of victory, 1 John, iv., 4—"Greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world."

The great secret of victory was found in the text "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin." Mr. Allan gave a most instructive description of the seventold use of the "blood" in the Bible referring to the blood of redemption; of cleansing; atonement; consecration; of acceptance; of condemnation; and the blood of victory. How true Scripture, "much more being justified by His blood—all shall be saved by His life."

The meetings will be continued all this week except Saturday. Miss Reesor and Mr. Scriver will sing at to-night's meeting. The services of Prof. Reynor in presiding at the organ last night were greatly appreciated by the audience.

THE BELLELILLE TRAIN WAS LATE

Delayed by an Accident to Madoc Train No. 17

The Belleville passenger train that is due at the T.T.R. station at 8.40 p.m. was over three hours late last night. It was delayed by an accident to the Madoc train No. 17, of which the journal on the engine broke. The train arrived in the city after midnight, and several people in the waiting-rooms remained through these tedious hours until the train came in.

ILL IN BED WHEN FIRE STARTED

Mrs. P. Murphy Had to be Carried to a Neighbour's Early This Morning

REASONS FOR THE DELAY

At 7 o'clock this morning fire started in the kitchen of the residence of Mrs. Patrick Murphy, 172 Lake street. An alarm was sent in from box 15 at the corner of George and Perry streets, but the party did not remain until the brigade arrived, so it started back again, only to get another quick call.

The house was not badly burned, except the rear part, where the fire started from the pipes.

Mrs. Murphy is an elderly woman and has been very ill of late. She has been confined to her bed, and while the house was burning had to be carried to Mrs. O'Brien's home next door, where she remained some time. Fortunately Mrs. Murphy's son, John, of Detroit, with his wife, came to the city yesterday to visit her when he heard of her serious condition. Later in the day Mrs. Murphy was taken back to her own home.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, and the glow of health disappears and beauty curves give place to leanness and angles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative, is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks' use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, thin, weak and nervous.

Young's Point Beverage Might Have Been "Wet"

Drinks Were Served From Beneath the Bar and Ingredients Were Unknown To Those Who Drank Them

TWO LIQUOR CHARGES

At the County Police Court yesterday the charges against Thos. Darcy of Lakefield and Andrew Wilson of Young's Point of illegally selling liquor on January 5 and December 26 respectively were dismissed. Both were rather weak, although Inspector Stewart received information regarding both from reliable parties, but the evidence was not sufficient to call for convictions. The first case occupied the morning and part of the afternoon, when the second was begun. Mr. Wilson is proprietor of the Midland House at Young's Point.

William J. Hurl, the first witness, said that he was in the old Darcy hotel at Young's Point on December 26. Someone invited him into the bar to have a drink. He did not know just who it was that invited him. There were about six other men in the bar at the time who also accepted the invitation. Mr. Hurl asked for "anything at all." Magistrate Edmison wanted to know where that kind of liquid was manufactured, but witness did not know.

Mr. Moore asked him if there was any liquor in the drink he had, but Mr. Hurl would not swear there was. "It left a fairly good feeling," Mr. Hurl said, 'but not as good as a horn of whisky." He would not say whether there was liquor in his drink or not, as he did not know.

Only Ginger-ale

David Reed was sworn and stated that he was in the bar of the hotel in question when Mr. Hurl was There. He asked for gingerale and felt sure that that was what he got.

Wilbert McNaughton said he was the man who paid for the treat. He asked for another kind of liquid, namely "something good." Mr Moore asked witness what he meant by that, but Mr. Haverson said the question was out of order, and Magistrate Edmison supported him.

McNaughton said he did not know whether there was whisky in the drink.

Mr. Moore finally let McNaughton go as he still hedged, and would merely say there was gingerale in the drink and there might be intoxicating liquor in it, but he was not sure.

Ed. Young, another witness, said he was at the bar and asked for nothing, but got something which, "for the life of him," he did not know what it was. All the drinks were served from under the bar. Mr. Young said it tasted a little like whisky.

"I believe there was a little whisky in it," he concluded.

To Mr. Haverson, witness said he had two drinks of good whisky with a friend just previous, and he did not enter the hotel for a drink. Witness had heard Mr. Anglesey ask for whisky, but Mr. Wilson said there was none in the house.

In beginning his remarks, Mr. Richard Anglesey said he did not know the day of the month on which he was in the hotel, but "it was the day after Christmas." He asked for whisky, but did not get what he wanted. He told Mr. Moore that he did not know what he got, and answered that question three or four times. Finally he blustered out, 'I've told you three or four times: do you take me for a d—fool?'

Mr. Anglesey said he had had some good whisky at Mr. Young's house.

Summing up the case for the prosecution, Mr. Moore went over the evidence, saying that the most of the men went into the bar for whisky. One wanted "anything at all," another the 'best in the house,'" a third, whisky, and so on.

One man believed he had whisky. Mr. Haverson presented his plea in behalf of the defendant in a forcible manner, and asked His Worship to find on the evidence presented, no conviction.

After weighing the testimony of the various witnesses, and considering the seriousness of the charge, Magistrate Dumble dismissed the case, deciding that it was not strong enough for a conviction.

Disastrous Theatre Fires Causing Loss of Lives

Recalled by the Recent Disaster in Pennsylvania — Heroes of Bygone Troubles

SOME TERRIBLE SCENES

The terrible disaster which occurred in the theatre at Boyertown, Pa., recalls many similar occurrences caused by fire in public play houses.

On December 30th, 1903, fire broke out in the Iroquois Theatre, on Randolph street, Chicago. Within ten minutes five hundred and fifty people were killed and ninety-two injured, many of whom succombed later. Thirteen hundred people were in the theatre, and a terrible fight for life took place. When the firemen arrived a mass of dead bodies chiefly women and children, was found, stretching back many feet from the head of the stairway. A few isolated cases of individual heroism came to light, but in the majority of cases men fought blindly for their own safety, thus adding to the loss of life. This disaster was the means of bringing about an inspection of Canadian theatres, and the adoption of stricter regulations respecting exits.

At the Charity Bazaar fire in Paris on May 4, 1897, 124 lives were lost; in February, 1897, in Quanton, China, 230 lives; on January 20, 1896, Koipysof Circus, Ekaterinoslov, 49; on December 27, 1895, at Foutat Theatre, Baltimore, 22; on April 9, 1894, the Theatre Milwaukee, 76; September 19, 1892, Opera House, Canton, N.A., 10; April, 1893, the Theatre, Kamli, 2,000; April 27, 1892, Grand Theatre, Philadelphia, 14; December 23, 1891, Royal Theatre, Gateshead, 13; July 10, 1891, the Theatre, Lignes, 46; June 5, 1890, Fryer's Opera House, Seattle, [illegible]

Another Explosion

The State constabulary, on arrival, immediately took charge, and roped off the scene of horror. Early this morning a gasoline tank exploded and blew down the standing walls, and but for the precaution of the guards many others would have been killed.

The building which was destroyed was a brick structure three storeys high with a frontage of 125 feet on Philadelphia avenue. The first floor was occupied by the Farmers' National Bank, and a hardware store. The second and third floors were occupied by the opera house and a lodge.

The building also extended 250 feet on Washington street. In the rear were four large dwelling houses which were a part of the building. These were burned.

Terrible Scenes

The scenes attending the disaster were horrible. People threw themselves from the balcony into the body of the theatre, hoping to find some means of escape. Others jumped from the windows, and were either maimed or killed.

[illegible] which had broken out on the stage were spreading rapidly throughout the building. Those who had fallen in the wild rush, and who were so badly maimed that they were beyond all power to struggle and fight, were waiting in anguish, their cries adding to the horror of the situation. They could do nothing but wait hopelessly for death.

There Were Many Heroes

There were many heroes in the awful catastrophe. Fathers and mothers who might have saved themselves lingered to get their children, and perished in the flames. Brothers hesitated to make sure that their sisters were safe, sweethearts, with little thought for themselves, bent all their energy in an effort to rescue their companions, and their lives were added to the great harvest of death. Many who had reached the outside in safety dashed back into the burning building in a mad endeavour to save. They never returned.

PUNY CHILDREN NEED VINOL

It Builds Them up and Makes Them Strong and Robust

Rapid growth, overstudy, insufficient nourishment, convalescence after children's diseases, and run-down conditions make children thin and delicate and stops development.

Because Vinol contains all the medicinal, bone, tissue and body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods livers, the useless oil eliminated and peptonate of iron added, it quickly restores robust health and children love it.

Mrs. C W Stump, of Canton, Ohio, writes: "I wish I could induce every mother who has a weak, sickly child to try that delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, as it restored health and strength to our daughter after all else had failed."

We have never sold a medicine in our store equal to Vinol for delicate, ailing children, weak old people, or sickly women and children, and we return money if it fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough, Ont., also The Market Drug Store.

RICE LAKE RESIDENT AUTHOR OF HYMN FOR NEW HYMNAL

Anglicans to be Provided With New Book of Hymns—Draft Copies Being Inspected

WHAT CHURCHMAN THINKS

Throughout its labours, extending now over, all told, about three years, the Hymnal Committee of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, has followed the plan of taking the church public into its confidence and reporting from time to time as to the state of the work on the new hymnal. Three skeleton draft hymnals have been issued, following the meetings of the committee, and there is now just to hand the fourth draft in the form of a book containing all the words of the hymns, and also all the indexes of hymns of tunes, of authors, of composers, and of metres, which it is intended to insert in the completed book. With a final review at the meeting of the committee in this city in February next the hymnal will be ready for presentation to the General Synod at its meeting in Ottawa in September for final ratification and authorization.

A Notable Preface

Following up this plan of explaining to those who will use the Book of Common Praise, why certain hymns were selected and others rejected, the committee has printed in front of this fourth draft hymnal a draft of its report to the General Synod. This contains so much information, not only for the Synod, but also for all who will in after years use the hymnal, that, if possible, it would seem advisable that this report should be retained as the preface to the book. This report explains the method of of giving all interested an opportunity of voting upon hymns in the hymnals in general use, or of suggesting new hymns, and the method followed by the committee in examining each hymn. Following this is a series of 29 details to be noted in the book. Some might be facetious enough to say that these Twenty-nine Details might become as famous in the musical field as the Thirty-nine Articles are in the field of Theology. However, leaving that aside, this series certainly draws attention to many important points. The following may be noted:

Salient Points

1. The setting of tunes in many cases on lower keys as more suitable for unison congregational singing.

6. The numbering of stanzas.

9. The adoption of the order of the Church year.

11. Twelve standard carols are included, and "The Story of the Cross;" also "The Story of the Advent of Jesus."

13. The ample selection of hymns for special occasions, men's meetings, mothers' meetings, temperance, etc.

15. The printing at the foot of the hymns the names of authors and translators.

17. The full provision made for hymns for Lent, for children, and for missionary services.

18. The provision made for hymns for older boys and girls.

22. Where more than one tune is provided, tunes of different character are set so as to provide for different musical tastes.

It is stated that as soon as authorized the hymnal will be issued in more than one hundred different styles of printing and binding, both separately and along with the Book of Common Prayer so that every taste and every need may be provided for.

The musical accuracy of the Book of Common Praise is insured by the fact that Sir George Martin, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, was consulted in regard to every detail.

In the same way the accuracy of the text is secured by the fact that each hymn was submitted to Rev. James Mearns, sub-editor of Julian's Dictionary of Hymnology. All organists who feel so disposed have been and still are invited to make suggestions.

Some Favorite Hymns

A glance through the book itself bears out all the predictions of the preface, and fulfils all the expectations raised by the three previous drafts. For the most part it will be said by those who look through the book that they find all the hymns they loved in the old books, and also many hymns which have hitherto been included in perhaps only one of the seven hymnals which have been in use in the Church of England in Canada. Among these may be mentioned: "Awake, Awake, Glad Soul, Awake," "For My Sake and the Gospel's, Go," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," "There Is a Happy Land," "Ancient of Days," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," "Crossing the Bar," Kipling's Recessional, etc.

There are also two hymns by Rev. Frederick George Scott of Quebec, "Lord, by Whose Might the Heavens Stand," and "Cast Thy Care on Jesus." Rev. Canon Roberts, of Adolphustown, also contributes several tunes. One interesting and pathetic fact is brought out in the inclusion of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," written by Joseph Scriven, a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, who lived for a number of years at Rice Lake in very humble circumstances, and died recently at Port Hope.

A Catholic Hymnal

The total number of hymns, 788, may cause some to think the book has been unduly enlarged, seeing that "Hymns Ancient and Modern" has 638, and the "Hymnal Companion" 600, but to this the committee, with their usual forehandedness, have supplied an answer. They point out in their report that the aim is "unity by inclusion," and that a number of hymns are included at the request of the general committee, for parochial missions, which will be found useful in railway construction camps and in similar circumstances where mission work is being carried on. The same may be said of some other classes of hymns, but where the circumstances do not call for them they need not be used. Besides, the book is not as large as many other hymnals, and its cost will not be greater, and will probably be less than those in use in the Church. A table is appended, showing the numbers of hymns in nineteen modern hymnals, which shows among others the following: Canadian Presbyterian, 743; English Hymnal (1906), 744; Canadian Methodist, 938; English and Canadian Baptist, 811; Lauda Domini (American Baptist), 1,216.

While the hymnal is very catholic in that it draws its hymns from all Christendom, it is still mainly Anglican, seeing that of the 638 authors represented, 420 are members of the various branches of the Anglican Church.

The committee, judging from this volume, has done its work thoroughly, sympathetically and well, and so far as may be seen from a purely outside examination, the hymnal will not likely require much revision before being presented to the General Synod next September.

PASTOR'S SALARY INCREASED

Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville Presbyterian Church is Appreciated by His People

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

The annual meeting of the Springville Presbyterian church was held on Tuesday evening. There was a very large gathering, the edifice being crowded to the doors. Most encouraging reports were presented, showing activity and progress in every department of the work.

After devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Dr. Marsh, Mr. Thos. M. Hunter took the chair. Mr. Robt. Robertson acted as secretary. The report of the session presented by Rev. Dr. Marsh showed that during the past year the membership had more than doubled, and that the future prospects were exceedingly bright. The report also referred to the work in the Sunday School and by the choir, a tribute being paid to both these organizations on the excellent progress made.

The financial statement also revealed a flourishing condition of affairs, and the annual meeting was announced the best ever held.

In appreciation of Rev. Dr. Marsh's energetic and faithful services the congregation unanimously voted him an advance of $100 in salary.

Another feature of the evening was a presentation to Miss Jeanne Cathcart the popular organist. Mr. Jos Sanderson read a felicitous address from the congregation and Miss Nellie Laing made the presentation which consisted of an ebony hairbrush and silver mounted comb enclosed in plush case, along with a purse of gold. Mr. F E Wilson suitably replied on behalf of Miss Cathcart. This makes the second purse of gold presented during the past few weeks, Mrs. (Dr.) Marsh being similarly honoured a short time ago.

A number of young men have been appointed on the Board of Managers, among them being Ira Robson, Bruce Elliott and Charles Johnson, and they have taken hold of the work with energy.

After the business meeting a social time was spent, Rev. Dr. Marsh in the chair. Master Robt. Whitfield gave three very clever recitations. A dialogue was contributed by the Bidgood boys and Master Whitfield. Mr. Thos Ruth and Rev. Dr. Marsh favoured the audience with a duet and a trio was pleasingly rendered by Mr. F E Wilson, Mr. Harry Bothwell and Mr. Jas. Marsh. Another excellent number was a vocal duet by Miss Cathcart and Dr. Marsh. Mrs (Dr.) Marsh and Mrs. Albert Sanderson gave impromptu and highly humourous speeches on "What I Would Do it I Were a Man," while Rev. Dr. Marsh replied on "What I Would do it I Were a Woman."

Refreshments were served and an unusually enjoyable evening brought to a close.

No Evidence That Assault Had Been Committed

At the police court this morning Jas. Williamson was acquitted by Magistrate Dumble of the charge of assault upon his wife. The complaint had been made by Mrs. Williamson, apparently because her husband had been drinking, and there was no evidence that an assault had been committed. The case was, therefore, dismissed. TRADE WITH FRANCE DISCUSSED

Minister of Finance Explains New Treaty to the House.

GREAT BENEFIT TO CANADA

Minister Had Co-Operation of Imperial Authorities — Skilful Piece of Negotiation — Many Concessions Obtained—Right Reserved to Extend Privileges to Other Nations — Loss Is $400,000.

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—The Finance Minister yesterday gave his promised explanation of the French treaty. He spoke for two hours and illuminated some features of the arrangement that have not been generally understood.

The resolutions were adopted proforma after David Henderson (Halton) stipulated that it was not to be accounted to the Opposition as a tacit acquiescence in the details of the arrangement that they had allowed the first reading of the formal resolution to pass unchallenged.

The Finance Minister acquiesced. The object of the resolution was to give formal approval to the treaty. The second principle was to extend the benefits of the treaty to such portions of the British Empire as may not already be in the enjoyment of equal or greater privileges, thus, Australia and other dominions not having as yet preferential tariffs with Great Britain would have the benefit of Canada's concessions to France. The third purpose was to extend the benefits of the treaty to such foreign nations as may be entitled to receive the benefits of Canada's French treaty by reason of their having most-favored-nation arrangements with Great Britain.

Mr. Fielding went on to say that while the home market was of the utmost importance Canada's productiveness demanded, and her prosperity was dependent in a considerable degree, upon the prosecution of an over-seas trade. Our greatest over-seas market was unquestionably that of the Mother Country, in the development of which much had been done by way of enhanced transportation facilities, and especially by the preferential tariff.

Trade With Great Britain.

The result of the latter was shown in the fact that our total trade with Britain had grown from $98,935,000 in 1897 to $208,745,000 last year. Last session Parliament adopted the triple tariff arrangement with a view to making the intermediate tariff an instrument of negotiation. But in the case of France it was more desirable to effect a trade arrangement by way of a treaty. In the conclusion of this treaty the Canadian Ministers had the co-operation of the Imperial authorities.

There were many reasons why Canada should desire to extend the friendly relations with France. The first suggestion of the Canadian Ministers was to offer France our intermediate tariff in return for her minimum tariff, and to make a treaty for ten years. France was unable to entertain that proposition, because, under French law, they were only at liberty to grant their full minimum tariff to a country which was prepared to give them the very lowest rate of duty which was accorded to anybody. The lowest rate under our tariff was the British preference, and as we were not prepared to grant the rates of the British preference the French authorities felt that the proposition did not fall within their law. They could not agree to fix the rates for ten years. France had the right to change her minimum tariff, and this right was reserved to Canada, but under the arrangement Canada must receive the best rates that France gives to any foreign country.

In approaching their negotiations they kept in view several purposes: First, to remove the inequalities of the old treaty, and make conditions fairly reciprocal; second, to guard against granting concessions which would injure any large Canadian interest; third, to keep as far as possible for British trade the degree of preference established by the tariff policy of last session; fourth, to grant to France, by a reasonable extent of favored nation treatment, the best treatment accorded to any foreign country, and to reserve to Canada the right to make any tariff arrangement which we may see fit with Britain or any other British colony; fifth, in granting special rates they decided to confine them as far as possible to French specialties, which would not be likely to come into competition to any large degree with our industries or British industries, and to secure favored nation treatment as far as possible in the chief articles of export which we might hope to send abroad; sixth, to seek favored nation treatment on some things which, though we might not now export them, we might reasonably hope to export in the future. Our first duty should be to give consideration to lines of goods in which Canada is now engaged in export trade, but should have regard to articles in which Canada might obtain an export trade.

"We did not ask the best terms accorded by France to her colonies and we do not propose to give France the best terms we give to Britain," said Mr. Fielding. He explained that they had obtained a concession on a considerable number of agricultural products.

There had been a misunderstanding in matter of spirits. There was an impression that we were reducing duties on French brandies, gins and spirits of all sorts. At present there was no change in these, but a guarantee was given that if either country made a reduction it would be reciprocal. There was, however, a reduction on liquors going into France, amounting to one-eighth of the duty as between general and minimum tariff. Next to not having spirits produced in the country it would surely be well, instead of drinking them ourselves, to send them abroad and have some one else drink them.

Coming to the articles known as French specialties, such as laces and wines, the French Ministers desired a reduction on champagne, but as this was an article of luxury, the Canadian Ministers had to refuse to make any further reductions. They were, however, willing to make a reduction on light wines, the conclusion being to graduate the reduction in proportion to the strength of the wine. He did not believe the increase in the duty on wines in 1893 had developed the Canadian wine industry. It was a small industry, but he would not say for that reason it was not entitled to consideration.

Continuing, Mr. Fielding said no nation would give another nation a monopoly of trade, and Canada would from time to time reserve the right to extend the same privileges to other nations. That she had granted to France under treaties made with Great Britain, Canada would be obliged to give the following countries the same benefits she has given to France, Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Bolivia, Columbia, Denmark, Japan, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Venezuela, Norway, Persia and Switzerland.

Mr. Foster asked for an estimate of the loss of revenue from the reduction of duties and Mr. Fielding said an approximate estimate was about $400,000.

Hon. George E. Foster at the evening session began by saying that any treaty looking to an extension of trade ought to have the sympathy of all classes and ought not to be made a party measure. But it was the duty of the House to give serious consideration to a treaty of this kind, and as to the way it worked out and with regard to this he believed the Government had succeeded in making this treaty as blind and as obscure as it was possible to make it.

Mr. Foster claimed that the intermediate tariff had rather militated against negotiations. As to actual result of negotiations, he showed there were 152 items in schedule A which were allowed into France under certain conditions, and of these twenty-three were not minimum items at all. The schedule had been padded with articles of which there was no likelihood of being exported to France, and for this they had allowed in a large number of articles for almost all of which there was a market in Canada.

Competing With Minimum.

When Canadian goods got into France they would have to compete with thirty-four countries which already got their goods in there under full minimum tariff, while thirty other nations had a partial minimum tariff. Many of these thirty-four countries were continguous to France. He quoted from Ministerial speeches to show that the intention was to exchange our intermediate tariff for the minimum tariff of France, so as not to impair the British preference. We were giving entry to this country to increase the balance of trade against us.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur moved the adjournment of the debate.

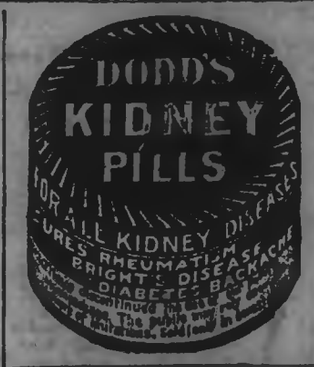

MAP MINISTERS RESIGN.

Differences Over Budget Cause Split in the Cabinet.

Tokio, Jan. 15.—Toshiro Sakatani, minister of finance, and Isaburo Yamagata, minister of communications, have resigned from the Cabinet. Their resignations have been accepted.

The resignation of Marquis Saionji, the prime minister, has been refused.

It is understood that differences exist over the budget, which are irreconcilable.

Cable despatches received here from Tokio during the past month have indicated that the Saionji ministry was meeting with growing opposition throughout the country, particularly because of the reductions made by it in the appropriations for military and development purposes. The elections in Japan are approaching, and the opposition has been endeavoring to create a strong sentiment against the Cabnet by means of the newspaper campaign, attacking principally the Government's policy of increasing taxation and limiting emigration.

WHEN LEGISLATURE OPENS.

On Feb. 5th Business Will Again Commence.

Toronto, Jan. 15.—The Provincial Legislature will meet for the concluding session of the present Parliament on the 5th of February. The official announcement of the intention of the Government to call the members of the Legislature together on that date was made at the close of the Cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon. Although there is no rule in regard to the matter, the Government have departed somewhat from the usual custom in naming a Wednesday as the opening day of any session, except that for the first meeting of a newly-elected Parliament. It is probable, however, that after the Legislature has been formally opened the House will adjourn for the rest of the week, and that serious business will not be commenced until the following Monday.

INSANITY OF THAW THE PLEA

Jerome Fights Hard With Technical Objections to Bar Evidence.

FAMILY PHYSICIAN ON STAND

Tells How Thaw's Relatives Were Tainted With Madness—Placed In Asylums—Prisoner Was Irrational In School Days, Says His Old Teacher—Was Held Up as a Warning Even Then.

New Yory, Jan. 15.—The attorneys of Harry K. Thaw, at his trial yesterday began relentlessly to build up the case of legal insanity which they have interposed in his behalf as a defence for the killing of Stanford White. The two principal witnesses of the day were Prof. Charles H. Koehler of Winona, Minn., who acted as instructor to Thaw in the Wooster, Ohio, University, in 1896, and Mrs. Amy Gosette, of San Mateo, California, who attended Thaw as a trained nurse at Monte Carlo in 1897. They both told of the young man's eccentricities and declared that his manner always was irrational.

Dr. John T. Deemar of Kittaning, Pa., one of the Thaw family physicians, also was heard, as were the attending physicians of three institutions for the insane where members of Thaw's family on both paternal and maternal sides were confined.

District Attorney Jerome, by unexpectedly invoking the sacred privileges of physician and patient, blocked much of the testimony as to unsoundness of mind of the Thaw family, but the calling of the witnesses and the questions they were allowed by the court to answer, left the desired impression upon the jury.

Mr. Jerome explained that the law compelled him to object to such testimony without an express waiver from the patients. Even the nurse who attended Thaw was not allowed to testify until Thaw personally had made a waiver of the confidential privilege in open court.

Thaw's Eccentricities.

Charles Koehler of Winona, Minn., who was a teacher at Wooster University, Wooster, Ohio, in 1896, when Harry Thaw was a student there, took the stand and was asked to tell his impressions of Thaw as a boy of 16 or 17 years of age.

"Harry Thaw always had a nervous gait and walked jerkily," he said "His eyes were striking, his complexion aenemic. His manner in the class room was abstracted and indifferent. His eyes usually had a fixed staring gaze. There was never any warmth in his eyes—no illumination." Mr. Koehler said he set down many of Thaw's eccentricities in a diary, which was destroyed ten years ago. Thaw's mind always worked slowly, and he had great difficulty in following any demonstration—his manner was irrational.

Cross-examined by District Attorney Jerome, Mr. Koehler said 206 boys came under his care at Wooster, and since that time as a teacher he had been thrown in contact with 1,500 boys or more. The witness insisted, however, that the memory of Thaw—a pale-faced twitching lad—stood out among the others.

Thaw looked annoyed when the witness said he still used the defendant as the example of the son of a rich man.

Mrs. Amy Gosette, the trained nurse who attended Harry Thaw at Monte Carlo in 1897, said that while under her care and with a temperature of 100 degrees Thaw dressed himself one day and stole out. He was gone two hours and came back in a highly nervous condition.

Mrs. Gozette said that while Thaw was under her care he impressed her as being distinctly irrational.

SEIZED PROMINENT MEN.

More Asiatics Arrested by Order of the Transvaal Government.

Johannesburg, Jan. 15.—Pursuant to the determination of the Government to make the Transvaal so hot for Asiatics that those now in the country will be driven out and further immigration come to an end, fifty prominent Asiatics were arrested here yesterday.

Among the prisoners are the chairman of both of the British Indian and the Chinese associations and a number of officers and committeemen of those organizations.

May Help "All-Red."

London, Jan. 15.—Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, in an interview last night on the shipping situation, said that he regarded the agreement recently entered into by the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American steamship lines as likely to precipitate a repetition of the situation of a few years ago, when the American attack upon British shipping resulted in the granting of a subsidy to the Cunard Company by the British Government and the building of the Lusitania and the Mauretania. He considers that the German agreement is further justification for the subsidizing of an all-red transportation line to encircle the globe, which had been strongly advocated last summer.

Had $4,000,000 In Pictures.

Paris, Jan. 15.—M. Groulé, the owner of one of the finest art collections in the world, died Monday night. The pictures in his gallery are valued at $4,000,000. It is stated that the bulk of it has been bequeathed to the Louvre.

Fourteen Skaters Drown.

Paris, Jan. 15.—Thirty young people were skating on the lake in the Boi de Boulogne yesterday afternoon when the ice broke and fourteen were drowned.

Saved Life In Snowbank.

Brockville, Jan. 15.—While cleaning a lamp over a stove it broke and the escaping oil igniting, set fire to the clothing of Mrs. Frederick Box of Prospect. She ran into the street ablaze and threw herself into a snowbank, thereby saving her life. She was badly burned about the hands and face.

TO IMPEACH GOVERNOR.

Dunsmuir May Be Called to Account For Hiring Japs.

Vancouver, B.C., Jan. 15.—Plans are being made by a faction of the Legislature, headed by the Socialist members, for the impeachment of Gov. James Dunsmuir. The Legislature will meet in Victoria to-morrow, and the proposal is that immediately after the speech from the throne has been delivered by Mr. Dunsmuir, the attack will begin. Dunsmuir's action in the Japanese question is the cause of the move. When the Legislature met last year the Natal Act was passed, designed to keep out Japanese immigration. Though all the members, both on the Government and Opposition, voted for the measure, the governor vetoed it, and the act never became law. A few months afterwards, according to the evidence recently given in the King enquiry, his honor signed a contract with Goto, the Japanese minister, to hire hundreds of Japanese miners. The position taken by Dunsmuir's opponents is that he turned down the unanimous action of the Legislature for private gain.

The proposed action is probably unprecedented in the history of British colonial affairs.

FOUND BODY IN SHACK.

Boys Found Man Dead With Bullet Wounds In Head.

Chatham, Jan. 15.—Wm. Bellaire, Alex. Grant and Ernie Gagnier, three Chatham boys, while hunting rabbits in the bush near Bloomfield at noon yesterday found the body of an unknown man frozen stiff in a shanty in the woods. The young lads were so terrified with their gruesome discovery that they did not wait to make any further investigation, but hurried to this city to inform the authorities. Coroner Bray hastily left for the scene of the tragedy on being informed by the police. The coroner returned late in the afternoon, and says that the man had a bullet-hole in his temple, and that there were two empty whisky flasks lying near the body, indicating that he had committed suicide. The man is as yet unidentified. He is middle-aged and was well dressed, and it is thought that he was an American. It is not expected that an inquest will be held, although there appears to be considerable mystery surrounding the man's suicide in such a lonely spot. In the hatband are the words: "Henry, the hatter."

Steel Company Wins Again.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 15.—By the unanimous decision of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, given yesterday, the Dominion Steel Co. has scored another complete victory over the Dominion Coal Co., the court entirely upholding Judge Longley's decision in the trial at Sydney. Damages for past injuries are awarded the Steel company, and a decree of specific performance will be granted, compelling the Coal company to live up to the contract in 1903 in future.

The decision of the court is based not upon the ground that there was an implied warrant in this contract that the coal should be suitable, but that there was an express contract that the coal should be suitable for the Steel company's purposes.

James Ross, president of the Dominion Coal Co., stated that the company will appeal to the Privy Council.

Died at Age of 106.

Kingston, Jan. 15.—The death occurred yesterday at Wolfe Island of Patrick Conway at the ripe old age of 106 years. The deceased was born in Ireland, and came to Canada when a young man, and soon after his arrival started a general store. Being sober and industrious he acquired considerable property and retired from active life, leaving the business to a son, who predeceased him about a year ago at the age of 75. Last spring he removed to the island, where he died.

The city records furnish only one older death, namely, the late Timothy Ronan, aged 106.

Hand Caught In Knives.

Brockville, Jan. 15.—A mill owner of Kemptville named A. Brinston, while operating a planer, got his right hand in the knives, severing the four fingers close to the hand. He was alone, but took time to lock up before getting aid.

Boy's Awful Death.

New York, Jan. 15.—Harry DeFreys, a 15-year-old boy, suffered a horrible death in an elevator shaft of the Commercial Cable Building on Broad street. The boy fell down the elevator shaft from one of the top storeys. Difficulty in starting an elevator led to the discovery of the body between the top of a big counter-balance weight and the side of the elevator shaft at the sixth floor.

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. PARKER.

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. See his letter below:

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $2000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $2000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so [illegible] excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the [illegible] Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerably [illegible] than doubles the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of [illegible]

Yours very truly,

Strathconas Were Defeated By Cobourg Intermediates

Team Practically a City League One And Was Defeated by 5 to 1—Slow, Listless Exhibition of Hockey With few Features

DEROCHER'S GOOD WORK

Special Staff Correspondence.

In a listless game of hockey, not as fast as the average City League standard, the Strathconas were defeated in their second O.H.A. game at Cobourg last night, the score at the finish being 5-1, and at the turn 2-1 in favour of the lakeshore seven. It was a slow, ragged exhibition, in which Cobourg did not play any better hockey than did the Strathconas, but managed to score more goals. Just how is hard to imagine. Neither team had any combination, and both followed the puck around in a bunch, all of which, combined with an almost continuous duel between Crossen's wrist shots and Barber's lifting, made the game an unsatisfactory one from the spectators' standpoint. The ice was sticky, and several bad holes did not help matters any.

The Strathconas had a very different line-up from that which played Lindsay on Friday night last. Meagher, Glover and Parnell were unable to take in the trip and their places were taken by Moore, Barber and McWilliams. Charlie Ray was also on the forward line in place of Weatherston, so that with the exception of Moore the team was a City League one. The new players all did good work, but there was no system and no combination on the forward lines with the result that goals were few and far between. Cobourg had little better to offer in the way of combination, but their shots from outside were luckier and they got away with the game, although on the play they did not earn the victory.

Jakie Moore played a great game at cover-point for the Straths both on the defence and attack. He checked splendidly and made many effective rushes as well. Derocher was all to the good in goal, picking off all kinds of shots, sometimes making two or three stops in succession, and putting up a great exhibition. He took care of Crossen's wrist shot in good shape, the only one that beat him carroming off Barber. The other shots were after the defence had been beaten. Barber did good work at point considering it was his first game. There was little to choose between the forwards. All worked hard, but there was no team play. Charlie Ray played his first O.H.A. game, and although the lightest man on the ice, he was always in the thick of the fray. Dobson showed up well at centre, following back and shooting well. Dusty and McWilliams on the wings looked after their checks in good style and both played hard, effective games.

Moffatt was the pick of the Cobourg forward line, getting away with three of the goals. He was fast and shot accurately. Crossen, the big cover-point, furnished about half the play, uncorking a long, swift wrist shot every time the puck came his way. His defence tactics were not any too gentle, tripping being his forte. Payne was effective on the forward line, and Bond did well at point.

Referee W. A. McCord of Toronto was a very strict and impartial official. Nothing escaped him, and he had Ray off twice for loafing.

A fair-sized crowd saw the game, nearly all, of course, being Cobourg supporters.

The teams were as follows:

PETERBOROUGH		COBOURG
	Goal.
Derocher		Paton
	Point.
Barber		Bond
	Cover.
Moore		Crossen
	Rover.
Ray		White
	Centre.
Dobson		Payne
	Right wing.
McWilliams		McCallum
	Left wing.
Dusty		Moffatt

The Play

Play was very even throughout the first half. Both citadels were assaulted in turn, but the half was nearly over before a goal was scored. Ray was ruled off three times during the first period, once for tripping Crossen and twice for loafing. Crossen was off twice for heavy body checks, and Barber was penalized for the same offence. Over 20 minutes had elapsed before the nets were punctured, Ray carrying the puck up from centre and passing to Dusty, who had not trouble in scoring. 1-0.

Cobourg was not long in tieing the score. Moffatt and Payne came down together, and Moore and Barber both got. Payne, Moffatt carrying the puck right in for a goal. 1-1.

Just before half-time Moffatt

MELVILLE MOORE
Who Played Fine Game at Cobourg Last Night

scored again, putting his team in the lead. 2-1.

The second half was slower than the first, with both teams apparently tiring. Crossen was ruled off for tripping. On his return he collided with Dobson, and the latter was hurt and had to go off. White was dropped to even up. From a face-off near the Peterborough goal Moffatt slammed in another, the puck going in off Barber's skates. Dobson reappeared on the ice at this stage, and a moment after shot and scored. The Strathcona goal umpire, H. McMillan, did not see the goal scored, and refused to allow it. Payne and White combined for another goal, the only good piece of combination of the night, and Crossen made it 5-1 on a long wrist shot which scored off Barber.

With a minute and one-half to play, Crossen and Moffatt were both penalized, but the remainder managed to hold out until the finish.

Summary

1—Peterborough, Dusty.
2—Cobourg, Moffatt.
3—Cobourg, Moffatt, Half-time.
4—Cobourg, Moffatt.
5—Cobourg, Payne.
6—Cobourg, Crossen.

NORWOOD'S STRONG SEVEN

Will be Here With a Band of Rooters to Try to Beat Strathconas

The best City League game of the season will be played to-night when the Strathconas and Norwood will clash. Norwood are coming here with a great reputation and will have four O.H.A. men on their line-up. Pearce and Kempt, who played for Midland Seniors with Fred Whiteroft, and Foster and Nichols, both of whom have been members of the Bracebridge intermediate O.H.A. team. On paper they have a most formidable line up and will certainly put up a hard fight for the honours. A big bunch of rooters will accompany them to help them bring home the bacon.

The Strathconas are in pretty bad shape from last night's game at Cobourg, but will have a strong line-up to-night and will be out to win from the drop of the hat. The seven that will play will not be decided until this evening and all of the players are expected to be on hand at the rink. From all indications the game will be the premier hockey attraction of the season and no doubt there will be an enormous crowd on hand. It will start at 8 o'clock sharp.

Bridgenorth promises to surprise the High Lites in the second contest. They have strengthened up since their last game and can be depended upon to put up a good game. The High Lites had a fine practice last night and are out for a victory. The puck will be faced at 9 o'clock.

George Lynch, the popular referee will officiate in both games.

SPORTING NEWS AND VIEWS.....

Whatever may be said of the Strathconas, there is this to be stated, that they have not been guilty of showing favouritism in the matter of selecting teams. Of the seven who played last night at Cobourg, not one was a member of the champion Strathcona City League team, although five figured in the City League last year, Dobson, Barber and Ray with the Orphans, Dusty with Charlotte street, and Derocher with the Auburns.

The Strathconas were given the best of treatment in Cobourg last night, and voted the Cobourg team and management a bunch of good fellows. The visitors were entertained at an oyster supper at the Princess restaurant after the game.

BODIES ARE JAMMED IN TIGHTLY

Crowbars Had to Be Used In Work of Recovery.

BOYERTOWN FIRE HORROR

Dead In Holocaust Now Number 167 —Awful Scenes When Oil and Gas Explosions Fanned Fury of Flames—Men Fought Like Demons With Women and Children—Seventy-Five Injured.

Boyertown, Jan. 15.—When nightfall put a stop to the work of recovering the dead from the ruins of the Rhoades Opera House, where Monday night's holocaust occurred, the official roll of victims numbered 167.

Whether more bodies are buried beneath the ruins cannot be positively stated, but it is the belief of those who had charge of the gruesome work, that all the dead have been removed, and that the total list of victims will not go above 170. The ratio of women and girls to men and boys is about nine to one. The work of identification will not be begun until to-day, as most of the bodies are still lying in a confused state at the four improvised morgues.

Recovering the Bodies.

It was almost daylight yesterday morning before the flames were extinguished and rescuers were able to enter the ruins to remove the dead. The morning was bitter cold, and by the time the benumbed and exhausted firemen began the task of disentangling the mass of burned debris, the entire ruins were coated with ice and there was danger of the walls falling. The work went slow at first and it was 7 o'clock before the first body was removed. Coroner Strasser of Reading, who reached the scene shortly after midnight had a detail of men ready to recover the bodies and keep a record of the description of every corpse removed. The bodies were so badly burned, however, that there was little to describe them by, and it is safe to say that not half the victims will ever be identified. The second victim was taken from the ruins about a half hour after the first and then the work of recovery moved more rapidly.

By noon the rescuers became thoroughly exhausted from the cold and labor, and for a time the work came almost to a standstill.

Soon after the work of recovering the bodies moved so rapidly that victims were being taken from the ruins at the rate of two every five minutes.

There were many different stories as to the exact cause of the panic and fire, and there were several rumors of arrests, but the borough officials and Coroner Strasser last night denied that any action whatever had been taken. The coroner said that his one thought was to get out all the bodies before a sleet or snow storm should set in and hamper the work.

Audience Mainly Adults.

So far as can be learned, there were about 486 persons packed in the room, most of whom were adults. The number of children present was comparatively small. There was about sixty-five persons, all local talent, on the stage, who were giving a performance of the Scottish Reformation. The entertainment was nearly over, the audience waiting for the curtain to go up on the last part, when something went wrong with the calcium light apparatus that was perched on a small platform near the front entrance of the building and at the back of the audience. The light was in charge of H. W. Fisher of Carlisle, Pa., and he says a rubber tube slipped from one of the tanks. At any rate there was a loud hissing sound, which caused many in the audience to turn their heads in curiosity to see what it was.

There was absolutely no panic up to this time, and nothing probably would have happened if one or more of the performers behind the curtain had not been curious to learn what was causing the noise. Who he—or they — was will probably never be known. Hearing the hissing sound and the flight commotion in the audience, one of the performers raised the curtain from the floor. In front of the curtain, and serving as footlights, was a tin tank, perhaps 8 feet long, 3 inches wide and 3 inches high. It contained coal oil and about ten lights. In raising the curtain the performer accidentally turned this tank over, and it fell to the floor within a few inches of those persons in the front row.

Deadly Cry of Fire.

Then came the inevitable cry of fire, and what followed would be impossible to accurately tell. Every eye witness says the audience rose en masse, the one impulse being to reach the front door. All attempted it but few got out. The seats in the centre of the hall were of the usual folding variety, screwed to the floor, while along the sides of the hall were loose chairs. In the scramble to get out, many persons fell over the chairs and were never able to regain their feet. Those who did reach the front entrance found it jammed with people who were fighting and shrieking to get out. One of the double doors had been bolted shut, so as to better enable the ticket-taker to take up tickets. Not more than two persons could pass this door at one time, and after the first half-dozen got through the narrow passage it became clogged with the struggling mass of humanity. Men, women, boys, girls and chairs were tangled up in a solid mass that no one from the outside was able to disentangle.

Fire Escapes Discovered.

In the meantime someone discovered that there were fire escapes on each side of the building, and dozens made their exit by those avenues and gave the alarm. The fire bell was rung and the whole town was aroused and went to the rescue. All this time the flames from the oil tank were creeping toward the terrified mass of people, who were frantically shrieking and fighting to get out. The noise was terrific, and few heard the cries of those who found the fire escapes.

When the flames were extinguished and rescuers entered the building a horrible sight met their gaze. Bodies were piled in one solid mass six feet high on the second floor. So solidly were they wedged that picks and crowbars had to be used gently to separate the victims. As each victim was taken from the pile, a number tag was attached and the body placed on boards, after which it was taken to one of the morgues.

Some of the bravest who had gained the fire escapes pulled dozens from the struggling mass and directed them to the sides of the building.

While the frenzied people were fighting to get down the front steps, the calcium light tank exploded and fire was spread over the entire mass of people. This added horror was more than the rescuers could stand, and in order to save their own lives they were forced to flee down the fire escapes. On the front steps outside the door men pulled frantically to open a way for the wedged in people, but not more than half a dozen were rescued in this manner.

Whole Place In Flames.

The explosion of the calcium tank and the flames from the front of the stage, which had by this time reached the struggling people, made further rescue impossible. The entire interior of the building was one seething furnace, firemen threw a feeble stream of water into the burning building, but it had no effect on the flames. The cries of the unfortunate victims, many with their clothing already ablaze, and the moans of the dying were heartrending. Fathers and brothers, frenzied by the thought that loved ones were in the fiery place, were compelled to retreat. Nothing could be done to get their people out, and they were forced to stand by and watch the awful sacrifice of life.

GOOD SHOWING LAST YEAR

Enthusiasm and confidence, were the features of the annual meeting of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, held this afternoon, in the City Council Chamber. There was a large and representative attendance, and the greatest satisfaction was expressed at the success of the exhibition last year, when, in spite of the fact that it rained during the last day, and there were no gate receipts, debts amounting to $134 left from the preceding year, were wiped out, and there are assets on hand of $96, a most creditable record. It was decided to hold the fair this year on September 17, 18 and 19.

President R. H. Leary, in addressing the meeting, thanked the directors for the hearty support they had given him during the year, and for the energetic manner in which they had worked. He trusted that the work this year would be carried on in the same way, and said that the citizens of Peterborough were to be thanked for their attendance. It was the first time in seven years that there had been a surplus, and and that debts of $134 had been paid in spite of the bad weather, was most satisfactory.

Mr. William Collins said that he was very much pleased that the Fair was taking a turn for the better. The directors had worked harmoniously and well, and he hoped that they would stick to their guns this year. If so, he had no doubt of the result, although a mushroom growth was not to be expected. He moved a vote of thanks be passed to the city and county councils, for their liberal grants, and to the citizens and merchants generally who contributed by donations, or in any other way to the success of the exhibition. The motion was seconded by Mr. J. J. Turner, and carried.

The following officers were elected:

Pres.—Ex-Ald. R. H. Leary.
Vice-Pres.—J. H. Garbutt.
2nd Vice-Pres.—S. Redmond.
Sec.-Treas. — F. J. A. Hall.

Conway, Wm. Switzer, Peterborough; H. C. Garbutt, Lakefield, Jas. O'Shea, Dr. Johnston, Peterborough.

Auditors — A. A. Hollingshead and Robert Fair.

A vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. Hollingshead and Fair, for their services as auditors dueing the past year.

It was decided to hold the exhibition on September 17, 18 and 19, and to issue membership tickets at once.

The directors will hold a meeting in a couple of weeks to arrange the committees.

WERE GIVEN VETERANS' JEWELS

Two Toronto Men Formerly of Peterboro' Honoured by I.O.O.F. No. 111

On Monday evening last two members of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, I. O. O. F., Messrs. S. J. Cobean and John Skitch, formerly of Peterborough, but now residing in Toronto, were presented with Veteran's Jewels, the gift of Peterborough Lodge, in recognition of their twenty-five years' faithful and continuous membership. As these brothers could not be present at Peterborough in November, when some of the other members were honoured in a similar manner, the jewels were forwarded to Bro. M. W. Matchett, D. D. G. M., in Toronto, who made all arrangements for their presentation.

The occasion was the installation of the officers of Queen City of Ontario Lodge, No. 88, corner College and Yonge. Two candidates were also initiated during the same evening. The Noble Grand, Bro. Wm. Hudson, called upon Bro. Matchett, who, in a short address, explained the circumstances of the case, and referred to the nature of the presentation and the honour which the Peterborough brethren wished to confer on their two members, and concluded by asking Major Oliver to make the presentation.

Major Oliver then, after thirty-five years a member of Queen City Lodge, and has been honoured with the highest positions in the gift of the order, being a Past Grand Master and a Past Grand Patriarch, Bro. Oliver, in a neat speech, referred to the pleasure it gave him to be present and assist, and to his life-long interest in the noble work of the order. Hearty applause greeted Bros. Skitch and Cobean as the gifts were pinned on their breast by the Major, who hoped they might be long spared to wear them.

D. D. G. M. Hawdon and his staff, which included Bro. Parks, well known to the Peterborough brethren, as he formerly lived here, installed the officers in excellent form, ritualic being conspicuous by their absence.

PETERBORO' BOY IN THE WEST UNHEARD OF FOR A YEAR BY HIS ANXIOUS PARENTS HERE

Austin Duggan Bitten by Rattlesnake at Tacoma Last April—Further History Is Blotted Out

NEWS PATIENTLY AWAITED

A Dutiful Son Who Was Always Accustomed to Write—An Effort Being Made to Locate Him

Two years ago Austin Duggan, a youth of nineteen years of age, left Peterborough for the Canadian West. Last April his father received a letter from him but since that time he has mysteriously disappeared and so suddenly that the earth might have opened beneath his feet and enveloped him. His parents have looked and looked in vain for his return and have waited patiently for the letter that would bring them good tidings from their son.

No word has ever reached them since the letter that came in April of 1907, when he was at Tacoma, in the State of Washington. Since that time they have written to him on several occasions but the letters were apparently never called for as some of them were returned to Peterborough.

Austin Duggan, the lost youth is the son of Mr. Thomas Duggan, of 119 Smith street. It was more than two years ago that he left this district and like many more ambitious young men went to Western Canada to live. In the City of Calgary he spent about one year and during that time his father, Mr. Thos. Duggan visited him there. On December 8th, 1906, he decided to seek a more southern field and travelled southward across the border, settling in the town of Tacoma not far from Seattle.

Here, his father states, he followed the occupation of a carpenter, so far as he could learn, on the Great Northern Railway but after spending three months there he seems to have completely disappeared beyond the range of all who are near and dear to him.

A Rattlesnake Bite

The last missive that bore anything of the lost youth as mentioned above, came in April last. He told his parents of how he had been bitten by a rattle snake on the hand and of how the deadly poison had almost cost him his life. He had been given up for dead then, but his strong constitution seemed to have carried him past the danger point. According to his letter home he had outlived the poison and, beyond a peculiar sensation in his hand, had recovered.

Then comes the missing link of his life. What happened to him afterwards or where he went is something that lies beyond the power of his friends to explain. Letter after letter has travelled across the continent to Tacoma but the coveted answer has always been wanting.

His Description

Austin Duggan was 21 years of age last October. He was rather tall, possibly 5 feet 10 inches in height, of fair complexion and when his father visited him in Calgary he had no moustache.

He was always thoughtful of the folks at home and wrote regularly. Whenever his parents neglected writing he always reminded them of their negligence. They believe that if he was ill or had left the town of Tacoma, he would have written them an explanation. Or had some fatality befallen him it would seem only natural that some means would have been taken to convey word to his friends.

Therefore his family here have still hope that Austin Duggan is alive and that for some unaccountable reason he has not written home. They anxiously await tidings of his whereabouts and will be most grateful to any who will give them information of him since the time that last and cherished letter was written in the month of April of the year 1907.

CANAL CONSTRUCTION GOES FORWARD

Tenders are being invited for the construction of section 3 on Trent Valley Canal and will be accepted until March 12th. This section includes about 7 miles of river from a point 10 miles above Trenton to Bradley's Bay. The work will consist chiefly of dredging along the Trent River. At Chisholm's Rapids, which is five miles from Stirling, however, some extra work will be done in the removal of the ruins of an old dam and lock supposed to have been built about 1837 by the British government. At this point the rock channel will have to be enlarged about half a mile and a new lock and new dam constructed. At this point the old Central Ontario Railway crosses the Trent. This section ends at Bradley's Bay, three miles above the rapids

THOUGHT HIS STOVE WAS ON FIRE

Local Merchant Did Tom Coley Act in The Snow

A good story is being told of a local merchant in connection with this morning's fire in the Cavanagh Hotel stables. Just after the fire had been discovered, some one telephoned to Mr. Merchant, aroused him out of a sound sleep and informed him that the sheds at the rear of his store were on fire. Quickly donning his clothes the startled business man gave an imitation of Tom Coley winning the St. Catharines road race in the snow and covered the mile between his residence and the scene of the fire in record time, only to find that the blaze was half a block away and on the other side of the street.

Life Crushed Out Between Two Masses of Blasted Rock

Albert McQuilton of Trenton Killed In an Accident at the New Power Plant at Campbellford—Death Was Instantaneous

NO INQUEST TO BE HELD

A fatal accident occurred yesterday morning at the excavation for the new power house in connection with the Government dam on the Trent River at Campbellford. Albert McQuilton, a man whose home is at Trenton, was crushed between two rocks, death being almost instantaneous. This is the first serious accident in connection with the work, and has cast a gloom over the rest of the employees.

A Peterborough gentleman was in Campbellford yesterday on business and was at the scene of the fatality shortly after it happened. The excavations are being made about two miles up the river and to the west of the town. A gang of river men are engaged in the work, which consists mostly of blasting, owing to the great mass of rock which has formed in that part of Northumberland county.

Entirely Unexpected

McQuilton was working in the bottom of the cut with most of the men. A derrick about fifty feet distant was being used to lift the rock as it is blasted, and place it up out of the way. McQuillan had hold of the hook, which he was attaching to a piece of rock weighing about 700 pounds, which was to be carried away. While thus engaged, a large mass of rock weighing about four tons slid from its position just behind him, and with a sickening sound of rock meeting rock, crushed him against the smaller piece. It pinioned him in the middle of the back and held him as in a vise. While his fellow workmen, powerless to assist him, were dazed by the awful suddenness and the nature of the affair.

Death Instantaneous

Quickly the men endeavoured to pry the stones apart, and after untold efforts McQuilton was released. He was unconscious and was taken to the office and a doctor called, but before he arrived life was extinct.

Considered Safe

The large rock that slid, causing McQuillan's death, was but seven or eight feet away from him and above him. It had become loosened by one of the explosions, but it was not suspected of being dangerous. In fact, during one of the blastings on the opposite side of the cut a number of the men took shelter behind it.

The coroner was sent for, and according to the local gentleman's statements, said an inquest was unnecessary.

It is further understood that McQuilton had been but lately engaged, and merely to take the place of one of the men who had had his leg broken.

Hon. A. G. McKay Was In The City on a Brief Visit

Leader of the Opposition in Ontario House Was on His Way to Warkworth—Liberals Of The City Called Upon Him at His Hotel

PLEASED WITH PROSPECTS

Hon. A G MacKay, leader of the Liberal Opposition in the Ontario Legislature was in the city last night and left this morning for Warkworth where he will attend the convention of the East Northumberland Liberal Association which is being held this afternoon.

This is Hon. A G MacKay's first visit to Peterborough since his appointment as leader of the Liberal party of the Province of Ontario. Last night although it was not previously known that he was to be in the city a number of local Liberals having heard of the fact that he was here, called upon him at the Oriental Hotel, where he was staying.

To a representative of the Examiner Mr. MacKay expressed himself as pleased with the outlook throughout the Province and stated that he had found much enthusiasm amongst the various Riding Associations. He has been kept very busy of late addressing conventions in the various counties, but he will of course be obliged to return to Toronto shortly to get in readiness for the session's programme. It is probable that Mr. MacKay may return to Peterborough to-night and remain over until morning as he is billed to address the North Ontario Liberal Association at its annual convention in Beaverton to-morrow.

Mr. MacKay inquired for his old friend, Mr. Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., of East Peterborough, and regretted exceedingly to learn of his continued ill health.

STABLES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Valuable Horse and Dog Also Lost Their Lives in Blaze at Cavanagh House

THE ORIGIN IS A MYSTERY

A disastrous fire which broke out at 3 o'clock this morning in the Cavanagh House stables at the rear of the hotel, did a great deal of damage before being extinguished. The stable itself was gutted and part of the driving shed to the west burned, while a valuable horse and a thoroughbred bull dog lost their lives in the flames, it being impossible to rescue them. Six tons of hay were consumed and the total loss will be heavy.

How the fire originated is a mystery as none of the owners of the property are aware of any cause. The blaze, however, started in the northwest corner of the stable and made rapid progress. Night Watchman Finnie and P. C. Mahaffy were the first to notice the fire and turned in an alarm to which the brigade responded quickly. The buildings and its contents were so inflammable in nature, however, and the flames spread so quickly that the efforts of the firemen to save the buildings were almost futile. Efforts were made to rescue the horse which was in a stall at the north-east corner of the stable and the valuable dog which was known to be inside, but so intense was the heat and so dense was the smoke that it was impossible to get inside and the poor animals had to be left to perish.

The fire blazed fiercely, lighting up the surrounding buildings and the conflagration could be seen for miles.

For a while there looked to be a danger that the driving sheds to the west would be destroyed, but the firemen turned their attention to them and extinguished the blaze there before much damage was done. The stable, however, with all its contents which included six tons of hay kept in the loft and some valuable harness was completely destroyed.

The damage cannot be accurately estimated yet but it will be quite heavy. The horse which was destroyed was the property of Mr. Roy Cavanah, and was a handsome animal. There was an insurance of $400 on the contents of the building, but it is not expected to cover the loss. The stables were the property of Mr. Frank Montgomery.

Young Ladies Meet Mr. Burke

Misses Purser and Higgins came down from Buckhorn yesterday, and at 4 o'clock met Charles Burke at the county gaol—the man who is supposed to have robbed the Purser store on November 8th.

The moment Miss Higgins entered the room where Burke was she saw, it is said, a resemblance between him and the character who stole the money from the till.

Burke will be charged with the theft, and it is understood some strong evidence is against him. He will probably come up before Magistrate Edmison some time next week.

Miss Higgins was the young lady who got the best look at the intruder, and a great deal of weight will be placed on her evidence. Burke's name is connected with the Portsous' assault, and it may yet be found that he is implicated in it.

THE BRITISH PREFERENCE

The Globe, in a well-reasoned article, points out that it has sometimes been said that the British preference has had no appreciable effect on the volume of British goods coming here. It is hard to understand what such critics expected of it. Our importations from Great Britain had declined from $51,679,782 in 1883 to $29,401,188 in 1897 (the last year affected by Conservative rule), the year it was introduced. As soon as the act went into force the balance was turned the other way, and for the twelve months ending March, 1907, our imports from Great Britain were $83,229,256. For the month of March, 1907, they amounted to $8,837,224, or $2,448,775 more than for the corresponding month of 1906. If the ratio is kept up the importations will be over $106,000,000. Surely an increase in ten years from $29,000,000 to $106,000,000 is not slow progress. The preference from the British viewpoint has amply justified itself.

It has more than justified itself so far as Canada is concerned. It has helped to reduce the consumers' taxation almost $3 per hundred, or on the total importations of 1906 by a sum equal to some $8,000,000. But this is not its only service. It is a well-known rule in economics that every remission of taxation has a perceptible influence on the domestic prices of commodities. It would be quite within the mark, therefore, to increase the above figure by a large percentage.

A third service the British preference has performed is to make it more easy to do business with Great Britain. The very fact of increasing return cargoes must make it easier to send our goods into their markets. The effect of this is seen in the figures of our export trade. In 1896 they were $109,915,337; in 1906, $235,483,956.

SCANDALMONGERS ANSWERED

Mention was made in these columns a few days since of the evil effects which reproduction of blue-ruin speeches of Mr. Cockshutt and other Conservative members had had upon public opinion in Great Britain, which, not knowing the length to which partisanship can go, naturally thought that when a member of the Canadian House of Commons spoke of thousands of unemployed in our streets and of the imminent opening of soup kitchens, he was telling the truth instead of indulging in political pyrotechnics.

Another illustration of the baneful results which the talk of the "slanderburst" may have in affecting British opinion is given by the Canadian Gazette, which says: "It was the recent boast of a Canadian M.P. visiting England that he and his associates were on the scent of scandals affecting every one of the departments of the Federal administration."

To this the Canadian Gazette rightly rejoins that "assertion is not proof," and it is quite justified in adding:—

"No country, not even England, is exempt from occasional outbursts of political scandal and administrative misdeeds, and it is quite certain that Sir A. F. Acland-Hood, the Unionist chief Whip, and the administrative persons in the Liberal camp, such as Mr. Herbert Gladstone and Mr. Whitefoy, could unfold strange tales of the methods by which certain honours have been secured and the means used to fill British party coffers. Political methods differ and political rottenness varies in character and in degree, but the fight for 'pure politics' knows no restriction of countries; and we may claim for Canada, as for England, that at least the public conscience is in the main sound, and the efforts of the best sections of the community are continually directed towards reform."

But the difficulty in these days of halfpenny newspapers is that the man on the street who is told by a Toronto M.P. that political affairs in Canada are in a rotten condition, rarely goes the pricelinder and returns editorially comes to the opinion that things politically are in a very bad way over here. If the Canadian Gazette has been able to in any way overtake the slander of this "Canadian M.P." it will have done a public service to this country.—Ottawa Free Press.

The Conservatives condemn the Government for permitting the United States to sell up one hundred million dollars worth of goods. Of course, it we cease buying we should have to do without raw cotton, hard coal and a few other items of raw material, essential to the profitable operation of our industries to please a few balances of trade theorists.

EDITORIAL NOTES

So much Thaw should account for an open winter in New York. It accounts for a lot of slush anyway.

If an occasional railway director or two could be substituted for the ordinary victims of level crossing manslaughters, a remedy would sooner be found.

Canada is indeed becoming great. Japan is forging Canadian whiskey labels to give sale to an inferior brand of dram. Japan is rapidly adopting methods of modern civilization.

The French treaty stands to not only increase trade with France, but to be a potent element in strengthening the entente cordiale between France and Great Britain brought about by Edward the Peace maker.

Next to the home market Canada's greatest market is Great Britain. Ten years ago our exports to Great Britain were sixty-nine and a half millions. Last year they were one hundred and nineteen and three-quarter millions.

ity-making government permit the recent stringency in the money market?" Evidently the people took its cue in the matter of enterprise and expansion from the government and did more business than the money supply available would warrant.

Hon. Geo. E Foster is showing courageous qualities of statesmanship. He will vote for the ratification of the French Treaty if he approves of it; and if it does not, he will vote against it. He may or may not measure up to this high standard. There's no knowing what George may do "in a moment of weakness."

The Toronto News rather impertinently inquires "Why did not a prosperMr. Byron E Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce, in his annual budget speech, places last year's crop in the Canadian West—of wheat at seventy million bushels and the total yield of cereals at one hundred sixty millions, as compared with one hundred and ninety million bushels in 1906. The money value of the year's crop is eighty-five millions of dollars—five millions more than the total revenue for the Dominion last year. Thus one year's crop is worth almost enough to pay for the building of a Transcontinental Railway. What will it be when another railway vastly increases the crop area?

The new trade treaty with France, favours Canadian manufacturers of agricultural implements. Last year Canada exported agricultural implements to the value of $3,248,000 of which $500,000 went to France, in the face of a fifteen francs tariff. Under the treaty this tariff will be reduced to nine francs, a reduction which will tend to largely increase this trade. United States implements have to pay the highest duty and are placed at such a disadvantage that the Yankees are negotiating a treaty of their own. This will be some time in coming to a head and meantime Canada will get a decided advantage. It is a good deal to the credit of Canada's Finance Minister that in this matter we have got a "head-start" of the aggressive Yankees.

WOULD NOT WORK ON STONE PILE

Wife Would Sooner Take in Washing Than Let Husband Work There

Mr. Finch Miller, the city relief officer, is besieged day after day with requests from different men and women for aid, and one case occurred yesterday which places all other instances of nerve in the shade.

A woman, with a face like a cemetery chapel, burst through the doorway of his store yesterday and told him she had a large family at home who were perishing with the intense cold. She was destitute and without money and wanted Mr. Miller to give her a requisition on some wood yard for a load of the precious fuel.

"Where is your husband?" asked the officer.

"Oh, he stayed home to mind the children while I went out," was the answer.

"Well, isn't your husband able to work?"

"Yes; but he can't get anything to do. He has tried every place in the city, but there is no work for him."

"I can give him work on the stone pile."

"I would sooner take in washing than see my husband breaking stones," and with this last remark she made her exit.

A PLEASANT TRIP TO ENNISMORE

St. Peter's T.A.S. Enjoyed the Hospitality of St. Martin's

Twenty-six members of St. Peter's T.A.S. braved the weather last night and drove to Ennismore, where they were the guests of St. Martin's T.A.S. They had a very enjoyable time, and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick united with the men in doing all in their power to provide an enjoyable evening. Twenty-four of the members played the same number of St. Martin's T.A.S. at "forty-fives," resulting in a victory for St. Martin's by 126 points to 107.

Afterwards the ladies supplied refreshments and the evening was brought to a close by an impromptu concert, including complimentary speeches.

Rev. Fr. O'Brien accompanied St. Peter's on the trip.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT TO THE EXPRESS

Delayed by Draw Bar of Baggage Car Being Damaged

The C.P.R. train for Toronto last night was an hour late owing to a slight accident at Smith's Falls. The draw bar of the baggage car came out and another car had to be used. The one which met with the mishap was put at the rear of the express and taken through to Toronto. The delay was not a serious one.

It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, or both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will proclaim its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

Murray Street Baptist Church Officers Elected—Annual Reports Read

PASTOR'S SALARY RAISED

The annual meeting of the Murray street Baptist congregation was held last night in the basement of the church. There was a large representation of the congregation present, and the gathering was a most enthusiastic one. Rev. J. R. Webb, the pastor of the church, presided, and after the reports of the different committees and societies were read, the election of officers took place.

The minutes of the last quarterly meeting were read and confirmed.

Rev. Mr. Webb then addressed the congregation. He dwelt on the splendid manner in which the church had progressed during the past year, and believed that even greater progress would be made in the next. During the year he had made 612 pastoral visits to the homes of his congregation, 31 to the hospitals, and one to the House of Refuge. He had preached 80 sermons and had admitted 26 to the church, and baptized 14. He had buried nine members of the congregation, and married nine couples.

Clerk's Report

The report was read by Mr. Shiner, clerk of the church:

The past year has been marked by a steady growth in our membership, 51 new members having been added, against 26 members demitted, a net gain of 25 for the year. The figures are as follows:

Members on roll	369
Received by baptism	14
Received by experience	5
Received by letter	32
	51
Demitted by letter	22
Dropped	4
	26
Total members Jan. 1, 1908	394

Finance Committee

Mr. Vincent Eastwood presented the report of the Finance Committee. During the past year the contributions have all been well sustained and show a satisfactory increase of over $300. A complete canvass of the congregation for pledges for church support is being made, and a satisfactory advancement is looked for. The committee recommend an increase in the pastor's salary, and asked the congregation to make out a card indicating the amount that they are willing to give towards the financial responsibilities of the church, thus greatly relieving the work of the officers.

Finance Statement

The financial statement read by Mr. T. F. Matthews, the treasurer, showed that the total receipts including the balance on hand of $22.92 at the beginning of 1907, were $3,412.98, and that the disbursements were $3,431.95, showing a balance of $5.95 to begin the new year.

Fellowship Fund

This was presented by Mr. T. F. Matthews, on behalf of Dr. Scott: Bal. on hand, Dec. 31, 1907 ...$ 39 96

Paid out	$ 86 50
Balance on hand	$ 23 44

Sunday School Report

Miss Mary Garbutt presented the report of the Sunday school, and the financial statement was read by Miss M. Barnett.

The membership of the Sunday school is now 240, with an average attendance of 187. The number of teachers on the roll is 26 with an average attendance of 20. Special mention is due Charles Hardwick, who has attended every Sunday for six years. At the annual Sunday school entertainment the scholars gave $62.06 to the Widows and Orphans' Fund of the Baptist ministers of our convention. Total receipts and disbursements of the Sunday school were $369.96.

The report of the special fund of the Sunday school showed a balance on hand of $303.75.

Ladies' Aid

Miss Ella Cochrane presented the financial statement of the Ladies' Aid. The receipts for the year were $125.67, and the expenditure $114.07, leaving a balance of $11.60.

Woman's Mission Circle

The 29th annual report of the Woman's Mission Circle, was presented by Miss M. Nicholls.

The total membership is 74, one more than last year. Of these 51 contribute to Home Missions and 41 to Foreign Missions. Eleven meetings have been held, with an average attendance of 31. During the year the Mission took a study of mission work on India and China, and of Rex Christus. Much good work has been done along missionary lines. The Circle raised $94.72 for Home Missions, $118.47 for Foreign Missions, 7$5 for the Northwest Indians. The monthly collections amounted to $7.57.

B.Y.P.U. Report

This report was read by Mr. R. J. Lang. It showed that much good work had been done in giving biblical knowledge to the young men. The total membership is 92, an increase of 9 over last year. During the year a very successful young people's rally was held in which the different young peoples' societies of the city took part. This society hope to continue the good work in the future, which they have achieved in the past.

Willing Worker's Report

Miss Hazel Kidd in presenting this report stated that the year closed with a membership of 36. During the year the society lost six of its members through removal from the city and ten new names have been added. The society clothes a little girl on St. Peter's reserve. The receipts for the year were $67.86, and expenditures $58.90, leaving a balance of $8.46.

Church Debt Fund

This report was read by Mr. Geo. Cochrane. He said that he had now twenty contributors on his list giving sums varying from $1 to $50, and making a total of $296. At the end of last year the church debt was $1,200, but it had been reduced to $800.

Mission Band

The report of the Mission Band was read by Miss Ethel Hardwick.

The number on the roll is 106, 21 having been added since the last annual meeting. The Band has met on the second Sunday in each month, but in the future will meet on the first Wednesday. During the year 11 meetings have been held, and liberal offerings have been made for the missionary cause. The Band is still supporting a Bible woman in India. The financial statement showed a slight balance; $42.54 had been raised for missionary purposes. The Baby Band was also in a very flourishing condition.

On the motion of Mr. T. F. Matthews, seconded by Mr. Cochrane, it was decided to increase Rev. Mr. Webb's salary from $1200 a year to $1500.

The following officers were elected:

Deacons — Dr. Scott, V. Eastwood, (re-elected); Dr. Browett and T. F. Matthews, (new ones). P. Downham, C. B. Routley, R. Harding, W. Aldridge and John Quinn.

Pains and Aches Of The Aged

LARGELY DUE TO DERANGEMENTS OF THE LIVER, KIDNEYS AND BOWELS, WHICH ARE OVERCOME BY

You do not feel so young as you used to. The joints are a bit stiff. And you have dull, heavy pains in the back and limbs, with attacks of rheumatism, it may be.

It is possible you have found out that the cause of trouble rests with the sluggish action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, but if you have not used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you have not tested the effective treatment for these conditions.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are a comfort to the aged largely because of their unique combined action on the whole excretory system.

Constipation and biliousness can no longer exist when the liver is enlivened to action by the use of this great medicine.

Kidney derangements and backache likewise disappear when the kidneys are invigourated, and an occasional dose of these pills ensures the elimination of uric acid from the system.

Almost daily we hear of aged people whose pains and aches have been overcome and whose lives have been made more comfortable and more happy by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. James Simpson, Newcomb Mills, Northumberland County, Ont., writes: "This is to certify that I was sick in bed the most of the time for three years with kidney disease. I took several boxes of pills—different kinds—and a great many other kinds of patent medicines; besides that, I was under treatment by four different doctors during the time, and not able to work. I began to take Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and since that time have been working every day, although a man nearly 70 years of age. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

In every family there is need of just such a medicine as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to cure constipation, backache, biliousness, indigestion, and prevent dangerous and fatal diseases of the kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ANOTHER INSTITUTE MEETING

Farmers' Institute Had Good Meeting in The Council Chambers Yesterday

INTELLIGENT DISCUSSIONS

A fair attendance turned out yesterday afternoon in the Council Chambers to listen to the addresses given at the meeting of the Farmers' Institute of West Peterborough. Mr. J N Telford the President, acted as chairman, and Mr. Wm. Collins, the secretary, was also present. Mr. Cornell the first speaker, dealt with the subject of the Production of Milk for City Trade, an account of which has been already given in these pages.

Mr. A J Reynolds, of Scarboro, spoke for the first time before the Institute. He was pleased to see the farmers taking an active interest in their work as shown by the discussion of the former subject. With reference to ensilage and cut straw for feed, Mr. Reynolds said this was necessary as the cattle must have bulky food. This year straw is of good quality and besides better prices are being received. However, the farmers should not look on mere dollars and cents but should devote their attention to their cattle.

For Best Growth

Some of the proper essentials for plant growth are moisture and heat, and the ideal conditions of the soil around the roots. The moisture is the most important consideration of all these. The ordinary rain fall is not sufficient for a season's growth, and therefore the moisture that is in the soil has to be greatly drawn on. If this moisture is excessive the soil becomes cold.

In this case a good drainage system is required. Mr. Reynolds told of experiments of the power of the soil for holding, retaining and draining of moisture. They proved that the loose soil will absorb more water, after drainage will retain more moisture, and will drain more rapidly, than that which is packed.

Mr. Reynolds then dealt with the rotation of crops, saying that it is not advisable to grow the same grain in a field year after year. The scientific theory for the reason of this, is that the excretion from certain roots becomes detrimental to the plant and threatens its very existence. However, other seeds thrive well when planted where the first seeds have sprouted and matured. Mr Reynolds said that he liked a good, dark soil, as it is full of humus, which is good for growth, and the dark soil is the warmer.

To a question he said, harrowing the ground in the spring dries it. Instead of rolling Mr. Reynolds said he preferred to have the ground with a rough surface. He also preferred to sow his seed with a drill.

A good discussion took place on the value of flax seed for feed, and one of the farmers said the best way was to grow your own flax and grind it yourself, not give it to the mills, where you buy it back with the oil extracted.

Mr. Reynolds then dealt with the growth of Alfalfa clover. He sowed it at the same time as the other grains in the spring of the year. He advised the farmers to try a lot of Alfalfa and he was confident that they would not want to plough it up.

Mr. Graham Weir moved a vote of thanks to the two speakers, and to the officers present.

THE SUNDAY MEETINGS AT Y.M.C.A.

A Bible class for men, will be held on Sunday morning at 10.15 o'clock, at the Y.M.C.A. Mr. W. B. Warne is the leader. Already a large number of men have signified their intention to join. The first class will be held this coming Sunday. Any man may join.

The afternoon meeting will be addressed by Rev. Andrew Allen. His subject will be "Gold Mining."

Miss Reesor, soloist of the George street Methodist church will sing. A large attendance and a good meeting is expected.

THE FOOT PATHS ARE MUCH LIKE GLASS THERE

So Thinks Mr. Wm. Bailey—Why The Englishmen are Unpopular

Editor of the Examiner.—

Sir, — No wonder Englishmen are unpopular. The standard of living, intelligence and honesty is so much higher in England, that some of us cannot "fall in." For instance, there is plenty of sand, and yet the foot-paths are like glass—it is criminal.

PETERBORO'S DELEGATE AT OTTAWA FAVOURS MEMORIAL

Mr. Kerr Thinks it Should be a National One—About Forty Were Delegates in the Capital At The Convention

OFFERS OF ASSISTANCE

Special Staff Correspondence.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—As representing the executive of the Canadian Club, of Peterborough, President F. D. Kerr, declared in favour of Earl Grey's proposal to establish at the Plains of Abraham, the scene of Wolfe's memorable victory, a national park, when interviewed on the question shortly after his arrival in Ottawa to attend the convention of Canadian Club delegates, which opened in this city yesterday. Mr. Kerr stated that the executive of the Club of which he was president was unanimously of the opinion that the proposal was an excellent one and that the Dominion Government should bear the expense of its purchase and maintenance, and make the scheme thoroughly national in its character, as it would be were the proposal adopted.

Without learning the details it occurred to him the the smaller of the Canadian Clubs might be handicapped in their work if the burden of contributing to this fund were placed upon them. The General proposal however, would receive his earnest support.

He stated that while the Peterborough Canadian Club was one of the youngest it included in its membership the best of the citizens, and the work of the Club is being enthusiastically entered upon.

About forty delegates are in the city for the purpose of attending the conference, and the majority of them have given expression to their approval of the Governor General's proposal, which has already received the practical endorsation of the King to the extent of a donation of 100 guineas. The Prince of Wales has contributed half that amount, while the Daily Telegraph of London, England, gives $500, and Hugh Graham, of the Montreal Star, $1,000.

The sum proposed to be spent, $1,000,000, is considered by many as excessive, and the opinion is largely expressed that half that amount would be ample for the purpose.

Mr. F. D. Kerr arrived home this morning on the early train from Ottawa, pleased with the trip. He expressed himself in sympathy with the scheme the Governor-General suggested, and stated that the representatives of all the clubs were a unit in favour of it. Mr. Kerr did not know how it would be carried out or which plan would be followed to secure the property mentioned.

NEW OFFICE WILL SOON BE READY

Large Office Staff to be Employed—Operators to Have Recreation Rooms

The new Bell Telephone building on Hunter street, is gradually being brought to completion, and will be ready for occupition in a few months. The structure is a credit to Peterborough, and will greatly improve the appearance of Hunter street.

The building is a solid brick structure with freestone dressings, and has a basement and two stories. The spacious basement will be used as a store and work room. The ground floor is very conveniently laid out. The front part will contain the agent's and general offices, and it is said that a large office staff will be employed. In the rear the operators will have a reception room, beautifully furnished, and supplied with an abundance of reading material. Access to the second story is gained by a winding iron stair way at the rear of the building. This floor will be the operating room, and provision has been made to seat sixteen operators, who will look after the instruments of the Bell subscribers. Each girl will have one hundred and twenty 'phones to attend to, and everything possible has been done to make the system rapid. There is also a large space behind the switchboard, where several other switchboards can be installed.

The building throughout is beautifully decorated and is heated by steam.

Mr. Cote, of the general office, of the Bell Telephone Company, is in charge of the arrangements.

OBITUARY.

JOHN GAINEY

At 10.30 o'clock this morning, at his home 466 Driscoll Terrace, East City, there passed away in the person of Mr. John Gainey, one of Peterborough's most widely known and highly esteemed citizens. The intelligence of his sad demise will be learned with deep sorrow and regret by all who knew him. The deceased gentleman had been ailing for some time from general debility, but his illness only assumed an acute form about two weeks ago.

Mr. Gainey was 71 years of age. He was born in Newcastle, Limerick, Ireland, and came to this country at the age of thirteen. He first went to Toronto, but after a few years' sojourn there, he removed to Peterborough, and settled in East City, remaining there all his life. He was predeceased by his wife, who passed away in 1874. He leaves behind him five sons, Harry and Cornelius, at home; Timothy, of Portland, Ore., and John and Maurice, of Duluth, Minn. He also leaves one daughter, Mary, who is living at home.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, from the residence, 466 Driscoll Terrace, to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

THE TEMPERANCE UNION HEAR LECTURE

Mrs. Britton Gave Excellent Address—More Members for W.C.T.U.

The ladies who attended the W.C.T.U. meeting in the drawing-room of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon received both inspiration and information from the able address of Mrs. Britton. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, as the name indicates, she explained, was a Christian society, for the purpose of advancing the temperance cause. It began in a prayer meeting and has grown to such proportions that the "white ribbon" encircles the world.

Mrs. Britton then referred to a number of the departments which may be carried on by any union. The work among the lumbermen of the northern districts by the missionaries has been much appreciated by the men employed.

After the lecture ten new members were enrolled on the list, and after prayer by Mrs. Beale the social cup of tea was enjoyed. The next meeting of the W.C.T.U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Kendry, George street, on Friday, January 31.

ASTRONOMERS AT HOME IN TORONTO

Local Members of the Society Were Pleasantly Entertained

On Tuesday night the Astronomical Society of Toronto held an "at home" at which a deputation from the Peterborough branch of the Society, headed by Mr. Herb. Collier, was present. A most enjoyable and profitable time was spent, the Toronto astronomers proving ideal hosts. One of the features of the occasion was a lecture by Professor Chant, who gave a concise, and complete review of the astronomical events of the past year. Much profitable information was given in the course of his remarks, which were listened to with close attention.

The visitors were taken through the Toronto observatory and shown the many instruments there, including the seismograph which records earthquakes. The visit to the observatory was much appreciated.

Mr. Collier, in speaking of the trip to the Examiner, said the photographs of astronomical events made by Rev. Dr. Marsh and sent by him to Toronto compared most favourably with the many others in the collection.

SECRET OF VICTORY OF MANHOOD

Another Inspiring Address By Scotch Missionary—Interest Deepening

SERVICES FOR TO-NIGHT

That the interest is deepening in the Allan evangelistic mission, in St. Andrew's, is evident from the profoundly impressive service in the church last night. A large number took part in the opening devotions, and Miss Reesor's solo, "Saved from the Wreck," was very beautifully and effectively rendered. The majesty of the power and reverence of the whole service was felt throughout, while the intensity and force of the speaker found a response in every one present.

Mr. Allan took his text from John xvi, 8, "When He comes He will reprove the world of sin, of righteousness and judgment to come."

The story is told of an English lady—Miss Marsh—sent by the Government to the Crimea, who taught the soldiers to pray this prayer: "O God, give to me the Holy Spirit, for Jesus' sake." That prayer was the beginning of a mighty revival amongst the soldiers.

The Holy Spirit convinceth of sin—the sin of unbelief, the sin of shutting Christ out of our life, cutting off His companionship—that sin that relegates the Saviour to some other realm, than your life. The Holy Spirit comes to give a Masculine Christianity.

There is a four-fold ministry of the Spirit of God. In the Old Testament we have a beautiful setting in the parable of the pillar of fire and pillar of cloud, and shown by four prepositions: 'Behind,' 'upon,' 'before,' 'within,' corresponding to, and illustrating, the New Testament doctrine of the Holy Spirit. The 63rd chapter of Isaiah refers to this very thing. Isaiah, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, says: "But they rebelled and vexed His Holy Spirit, therefore He turned to be their enemy."

Many a time God's people had been panic-stricken, but Moses lifted his rod and pointed to the pillar of cloud, and behold! it began to move forward, but again they are in panic because the pillar goes right over the Red Sea. A path is prepared for them, and they pass over in safety. What happens? The pillar that went before them, now gets behind to protect them.

What is meant by the Spirit 'upon' you? In travelling in the East one realizes what is meant by being under the shadow of a great rock, and so saved from the biting, burning rays of a Syrian sun; so the Spirit of God comes between us and the fiery darts of the wicked. Again, God's Spirit goes "before" us. Men get into entanglements, business and domestic, because they will not wait for the leading of the Holy Spirit. They are determined to take thier own way, and they fall into trouble. "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

Mr. Allan here urged his hearers to yield their lives to the leadership of the Spirit of God.

In Exodus 40th chap. we see how the pillar of cloud came "within" the temple—past altar and laver, and settled within the holy place; so the Spirit of God passes conscience, intellect and settles within the soul. This is "full" Salvation, to be possessed by that Spirit of Power, Love, and a Sound Mind.

The Spirit of Power in the will; the Spirit of Love, in the heart; and the Spirit of a Sound Mind, in the intellect.

This is what Jesus Christ meant when He said: "It is expedient that I go away from you, for if I go not away the Comforter will not come; When He the Spirit of Truth is come He will guide you into all truth. He will convince the world of sin, of righteousness and of judgment to come."

The meeting to-night will be of an especially interesting character, and Messrs. G. W. Mulligan and Duncan Cameron will again assist in sacred song.

STRUCK AND INJURED BY FIRE TEAM

Mr. Fred Whaley Injured This Morning On Charlotte Street

Mr. Fred Whaley, 83 Cedar street, was struck by one of the horses of the fire team between three and four o'clock this morning and rather seriously hurt. He had just come in from Ennismore with the T. A. S. party and drove along Charlotte street to see the fire at Cavanagh's. The sleigh stopped on the bridge in front of the English Canoe Company's shops and the men got out and walked towards the Snowden House lane where they were going to walk through to Simcoe street.

Mr. Whaley was in the lead and just as he arrived at the entrance to the lane he was struck by one of the horses of the fire team which were galloping through. According to the statements of another member of the party the horses made no noise, the gong was not sounded and there was nothing to give warning to anyone who might be passing along the street.

Mr. Whaley was thrown to the sidewalk and picked up in an unconscious condition. He was carried into the Snowden House where it was found that he was injured in the side.

It was learned later to-day that Mr. Whaley was not as seriously injured as was at first considered.

WORTH TAKING

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended a remedy.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, [illegible] in cutlery, hardware, almost in fact every thing including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

ICE HARVEST WILL BE GARNERED

Mr. T. Rehill Began Preliminary Work To-day

To-day Mr. T. Rehill started a number of men to work on the Little Lake to scrape the snow from the ice in preparation for cutting the season's harvest, which will be begun on Monday or Tuesday of next week. With the open winter that has continued until the present, the ice has been rather slow in forming and at present the layer covering the lake is only a foot or 15 inches thick. The ice that is most desired measures 16 inches and over and Mr. Rehill expects with the continuation of this cold snap that it will soon reach the desired thickness.

Mr. Rehill has still a good supply from last year when an excellent crop was gathered. He does not intend to enlarge his space but will gather in about the same quantity as last year.

Mr. Allan began the preliminary work of cutting his season's ice today.

MARRIED IN THE TOMBS.

Girl Secures Pardon For Lover and Becomes Prison Bride.

New York, Jan. 16.—Through the intercession of a girl whom he had wilfully disfigured for life, Agostineo Mallena, a former lieutenant of the Italian army, was freed yesterday of a sentence of nine years in the penitentiary, and married to the young woman who liberated him.

While on his way to America four years ago, Mallena met Marietta Mariconda, a 14-year-old child, on the steamer. He fell in love with her, proposed, and was refused, on the ground that he already had a wife. The young man denied this, and frequently renewed his offer after their arrival in New York. Last September on receiving a final refusal, he attacked the girl with a wooden shoe, greatly disfiguring her. Miss Mariconda prosecuted him for assault; he was convicted and sentenced on Monday to nine years and six months' imprisonment.

Yesterday, the girl found Mallena was really unmarried, went to the judge, secured his pardon, and the pair were wedded in the Tombs by a prison missionary.

Ross Rifle Enquiry.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—The Ross rifle business occupied the attention of the public accounts committee yesterday. Lieut.-Col. Wartele, a chartered accountant, was examined on an item of $384,729, paid to the Ross Rifle Co.

In reply to Wallace Nesbitt, who appeared for the Rifle Company, the witness said that $1,186,000 was paid by the Government in advance. Against this there were $825,000 for completed rifles accepted by the Government, 3,000 in the inspection department, 2,500 or thereabouts assembled in parts. The material in the shops was worth about $300,000. The witness added that in no case did he certify to the payment of more than 75 per cent. on any contract.

Bank Officials Arrested.

Buffalo, Jan. 16.—A special to The News from Franklinville, N.Y., says: Cashier E. D. Scott and Bookkeeper R. W. Vanhoesen of the People's Bank of this place (Franklinville) were arrested yesterday on four charges in connection with the bank's failure. They were held in $4,000 bail each.

Irishmen Still Struggle.

Dublin, Jan. 16.—The recently discussed reunion of the Redmondites and the O'Brienites is still far from consummation, judging from an incident that took place yesterday at the meeting of the directors of the United Irish League. Two Nationalists from Cork, supporters of Mr O'Brien and duly accredited delegates to the meeting, entered the hall, but as soon as their presence was discovered, the league officials ordered that they be expelled. The delegates from Cork declined to obey, and after an exciting struggle they were finally ejected by force.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

Mystery Still Enshrouds Death of the Man Found at Chatham.

Chatham, Jan. 16.—Up till 6 o'clock last evening no one had identified the remains of the young man whose body was found in a deserted shanty on the Bloomfield road Tuesday afternoon. The body was brought to the city and it was viewed by thousands. Many said that they had seen the man on the Chatham streets previously, but no one could identify the man.

Coroner Bray's report recommends no inquest, for the reason that there is no evidence on which to base one. A bullet hole in the left breast, round which there was a smudge of powder, would indicate that the deceased either committed suicide or was shot at close quarters by someone else. The unknown appears to be quite a young man, about 25 or 28 years of age. His face is clean shaven, and he has dark hair and brown eyes. His hands are white and soft, while the muscles of his arms and chest are abnormally developed. This would indicate that he was not a laboring man and that he must have indulged in considerable athletic exercise.

A curious circumstance in connection with the finding of the body was that there was no money in the dead man's clothes, which were good, and his general appearance would indicate that he was well-to-do. He had either divested himself of all papers, jewelry, etc., which might identify him, before he killed himself, or, in the event of his being murdered, as some are much inclined to think, he has been stripped of all valuables by his slayer or slayers. The unknown was seen on the city streets some days before the tragedy, in company with another stranger. He wore a new hat with the trade mark of a Detroit firm, which would indicate that he came here from that city.

WOMAN FEARED DISASTER.

Remarkable Premonition of Preformer In Boyertown Theatre.

Boyertown, Pa., Jan. 16.—Bearing up bravely under the awful blow which it received in the destruction of the Rhodes Opera House by fire on Monday, this thriving little borough yesterday came to a full realization of the fact that one-fifteenth of its population was wiped out of existence by the holocaust. The figures compiled by Coroner Strasser at nightfall show that there are 170 dead as a result of the fire. The list of dead includes one fireman, who lost his life fighting the fire, and one man, Jacob Johnson, who died yesterday. Three charred bodies were recovered from the ruins of the building yesterday, and of the 167 bodies, or remains that lie in the improvised morgues, 115 have been officially, or partially identified by sorrowing relatives or friends.

But two members of the cast, so far as can be learned, were killed. This was due to the precaution taken by Mrs. Della Meyer. She had a premonition that something would happen. At a luncheon given to the members of the cast in the hall several days ago, she said she feared something. There ought to be a means of escape, she said. The rear entrance was spoken of and at her suggestion the doors were taken off the hinges.

That the victims were not confined to residents of Boyertown, was shown by the number of unclaimed teams at the hotels. Fully 40 teams remained uncalled for yesterday.

WILL STOESSEL ESCAPE?

Trial of Russian General Expected to End In Conviction.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 16.—The trial by court-martial of Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel for having surrendered the Port Arthur fortress to the Japanese is nearing its end and a verdict is expected early next week.

The belief prevails that the general will not be found guiltless, and yesterday Deputy Syrtlanoff, Gen. Stoessel's attorney, intimated to the representative of the Associated Press that he had little hope of acquittal on the main charge of surrendering the fortress.

M. Syrtlanoff hopes, however, that his client will be freed from blame for the evacuation of several of the minor Russian positions, as well as for superseding Gen. Smirnoff.

Fined $100 For Bigamy.

Tara, Ont., Jan. 16.—Solomon Wood was fined $100 or two months in jail for bigamy. He told his second wife that he was a married man. He was married to his first wife when only 16 years of age. They only lived together a couple of months and had not seen each other for six years and his first wife had given her consent to his second marriage.

PECULIAR PRANKS OF HARRY THAW

Acted Very Strangely Previous to Shooting Stanford White.

MORE EVIDENCE OF INSANITY

Steward of Whist Club Tells of Many Strange Acts—Wanted Three Cigarettes Deposited In Safe — Forgot Telephone Messages — Played Bridge Just Before Tragedy—Coroner's Jury Says Crazy.

New York, Jan. 16.—Adhering to their promise to interpose no other defence than that of insanity in behalf of their client, the attorneys representing Harry K. Thaw at his trial yesterday continued the examination of witnesses who swore that young Thaw at various times in his life appeared to them as irrational and mentally unsound. Practically all of the testimony was entirely new to the case and had to do with acts down to the day of the tragedy itself.

Then came the declaration of ten men who sat on the coroner's jury during the enquiry into Stanford White's death, all of whom declared that the defendant the day following the shooting acted irrationally. His manner and appearance were such as to cause the inquest jury to discuss his state of mind after their formal verdict had been rendered.

Some of Thaw's alleged eccentricities, revealed for the first time, were related by Christopher Bagan, steward of the New York Whist Club, by Miss Matilda Stein, a telephone operator, and by August Weber, a former butler in Thaw's household. Thaw spent a portion of the afternoon of June 25, 1906, at the whist club, and at that time — a few hours before the tragedy—was pictured by the steward as being highly nervous and as frequently exclaiming: "This is awful." He asked the steward to have a valuable package put into the safe. After the shooting the package was opened and found to contain three cigarettes wrapped in tinfoil.

District Attorney Jerome, in the cross-examination of the club steward, brought out the fact that Thaw played bridge there with many prominent men. The witness declared he was not supposed to know that Mr. Thaw, Mr. Gates, Mr. Schwab and the others played for, but he was sure nothing but mineral water ever was served at the tables.

The telephone operator told of Mr. Thaw putting in seventy-five calls one morning at the Grand Hotel and then forgetting all about them. The butler told many details of Thaw's life at home in 1903, and was still under examination when adjournment was taken. The separate incidents of alleged irrational conduct on the part of the defendant was being put in evidence by Mr. Littleton as the foundation for the expert testimony that is to come. He also hopes to accumulate such a mass of testimony as to Thaw's erratic conduct as to make it impossible for the district attorney to fulfill the task the law places upon him of proving Thaw sane "beyond every reasonable doubt."

Criminal lawyers of prominence who are following the case outlined by the defence, and who are taking into consideration the fact that a specific plea of insanity has been entered this year, declare that acquittal under the circumstances can come only with the added clause, "on account of the insanity of the defendant at the time the act was committed." This, it is declared, would compel the presiding judge to commit Thaw to Matteawan Asylum, from whence a fight to prove his present sanity and thus gain freedom would have to be conducted through habeas corpus proceedings.

SERIOUS FIRE AT KENORA.

New Maple Leaf [illegible] Mills Entirely Destroyed.

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—The Maple Leaf Flour Milling Co. of Kenora, headquarters in Toronto, lost its great plant, consisting of mill, elevator and 300,000 bushels of wheat, by fire Tuesday night. Loss $1,000,000, fully covered by insurance.

The plant was completed only two months ago. Defective electric light wiring was the cause of the fire.

The wiping out of the industry, the loss in taxation and the loss to the municipality of the revenue which would have been derived from the electrical power which the town was under contract to supply to the Maple Leaf Milling Co. will hit Kenora hard.

A strong wind prevailed during the conflagration and there was no hope of saving anything. The north and south mills have fallen, and a fierce fire is still raging in the grain storages and the east wall of the mill, which is liable to fall at any moment.

At present it is impossible to get any information as to the insurance or as to the amount of wheat now in the bins.

This disaster to the town will make non-effective a revenue producer, almost the whole of the water power development work for a long time to come, as the Maple Leaf Milling Co. were under contract to take from the town 2,000 horse-power. This would have given the town an immediate revenue of $20,000 per year, which by this fire is now cut off.

D. S. Cameron of Winnipeg is president of the Maple Leaf Milling Co. The mill had a capacity of 4,500 barrels a day, and was [illegible] set in operation Dec. 12 of last year.

The mill proper was 165 feet by 55 feet and six storays high.

Mr. Cameron left last evening for the west. It is expected he will return immediately on being apprised of the loss.

ABOUT THE PANIC IN THE THEATRE

Boyertown Disaster Came Near Repetition at St. Catharines.

COMBUSTIBLE FILM IGNITED

Women and Children Made Wild Stampede to the Doors—Only One Person Seriously Injured—Audience Left In Darkness Till the Flames Burst Out—Only About Fifty Were Present.

St. Catharines, Jan. 16.—Fire of a serious nature destroyed the Hippodrome, a moving picture theatre owned by Mrs. Hastings of Buffalo, yesterday afternoon, but fortunately no lives were lost and only one person was seriously injured, though the case may yet prove fatal

About 50 women and children and a few men were witnessing the pictures of Ben Hur. The performance was about concluded when a spark from the electric light fell upon the combustible film and an explosion followed.

So soon as the report was heard the audience was left in darkness, but in an instant the whole rear of the theatre was in flames. Women and children were stricken with fear and in the excitement made a rush for the exits, both of which were located in the mouth of the flames.

Panic followed and several were trampled under foot, but owing to the few persons, all gained the street, no one being badly injured, though several received painful bruises.

The machine was being operated by Lorne McDermott, a boy under 15 years of age. The lad was severely and seriously burned about the hands and all over the face. Dr. Mulock was quickly summoned and the boy was taken to the General and Marine Hospital. Reports last night state that he is doing nicely and may recover in time. Dr. Mulock stated that the burns were very bad, the skin being completely off the hands and face and the boy is also suffering from shock.

Firemen promptly responded to the alarm and fought for two hours, confining the flames to the Hippodrome building, though smoke and water greatly damaged Chas. McDermott's store and also effected some loss to A. J. Gilmore's store, and The Star Journal office. It required the continuous use of chemicals and three streams of water to quench the flames. As yet the loss cannot be accurately estimated, though it is considered to be about $3,000, partly covered by insurance.

W. G. MORROW, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. [illegible] STRATTON.

Strathconas Trimmed Much Heralded Norwood Seven

Put Their Championship Aspirations on the Blink in Lightning Fast City League Game on Good Ice—The Highlifes Toyed With Bridgenorth Defeating Them by 11 To 2

A BIG CROWD ON HAND

The Strathconas took another jump nearer the City League championship last night when they defeated the much-touted Norwood seven in about the fastest and prettiest exhibition of hockey in the history of the league by a score of 9-5, leading at the half-way house by 4-1. Norwood talked first in nine minutes, but after that the Straths were all over the team from the East Peterborough capital, out-lasting and out-playing them all the way in a manner that left no doubt as to the respective merits of the two teams. It was a fast, clean contest, the penalty list being light, while no one was hurt. Both teams played hockey from the clang of the gong, the two defences adopting rushing tactics which kept the game going at an awful clip. There were no dull moments, and the 350 fans present stood up and rooted until the timer's whistle announced that one of the best games on record in the City League was over. The crowd was delighted with the clever exhibition put up by both teams, and excitement was at fever heat throughout, especially in the middle of the second half when the scores were coming fast.

The Strathconas trotted out another new combination of players last night and the seven did about the best work the red and white team has done this year. There wasn't a weak man on the line-up, both defence and forwards working splendidly. The forward line showed finished combination play that astonished the crowd, while it checked back splendidly, coming back so fast at the heels of the speedy Norwood line that the latter's efforts were rendered almost useless. They worked the rubber well in before shooting, and showed a vast improvement over their previous work.

Derocher was in the nets, and played the same cool, clever game that he did in Cobourg the preceding night. He stopped dozens of shots at close range, often picking off the puck after the defence had been beaten. Bill Meagher was a stone wall point, turning away many dangerous rushes, while his rambles down the ice always cleared the atmosphere. Dusty, who has played four games and practised twice in the last week, was as fresh as a daisy and put up a great game at cover, his checking and rushing being a feature. Ray showed no signs of the gruelling game he played at Cobourg the night before and his work was a revelation to the crowd. He stick-handled beautifully, and his rushes, with the assistance of the other forwards, kept the Norwood defence busy. McMillan made good at right wing, a new position for him, in emphatic fashion. He was always in the thick of the fray, scoring three goals on pretty shots, while his check was kept out of the way. Long played the best game of his career, taking passes in front of the nets and shooting splendidly, while his great checking back was of material assistance. At left wing Weatherston's work left little to be desired. He was always there for a pass, and his shooting showed great improvement.

Norwood had a speedy team that took a lot of beating, but the fast pace set by the Straths at the start coupled with the fact that some of the former were not in condition was too much for them. They never let up, but their rushes as a rule were smothered up by the fast checking back of the Strathcona line. Kempt in spots showed his old-time form, skating and stick-handling splendidly, but Doherty was the real star. He was at it when the other members of his team were backing up, and played hockey all the time. Russell Pearce did not get going until the second half, but when he did he made things interesting. Nicholl and C. Pearce played well on the defence.

Referee Geo. Lynch gave every satisfaction and handled the game splendidly. The teams:

The Play

The pace was fast from the beginning with both teams working like beavers for a score and playing beautiful hockey. It was 2 minutes before a goal was scored. R. Pearce and Kempt got away together and a pass to the latter resulted in Derocher being drawn out for an easy goal. 1-0.

It only took the Straths 30 seconds to even up, McMillan doing the trick on a nice shot. 1-1.

Scott got two minutes for tripping Meagher and Ray got the same sentence for holding R. Pearce. When he came back again he and McMillan combined beautifully for a goal, Ray turning the trick in 8 minutes. 2-1.

Weatherston was boarded for bodying Scott. Meagher made a pretty rink-length rush and centred to Ray, who did the needful in 3 minutes. 3-1.

Long and McMillan got away together from the face-off and the latter scored in ten seconds. 4-1. Long served a penalty fo rbodying Pearce, and Meagher was on the fence for hacking Doherty when half-time came.

The second half was even faster than the first. Weatherston and Dusty were both off for tripping, but at that Peterborough was the first to score, Long doing it in 10 1-2 minutes on a rush by Dusty. Score, 5-1.

Long was benched for tripping, but on his return hammered one in after Meagher's shot was blocked. 6-1.

Scott tripped Dusty and went off. R. Pearce scored on a shot from the side. 6-2.

Meagher broke away, passed to Ray, who fooled Nicholl and transferred to Long for another counter. 7-2.

Kempt and R. Pearce got away together and the former scored in 10 seconds. 7-3.

Weatherston got it back in 50 seconds on a pass from Ray. Score, 8-3.

Norwood was handed a goal by the goal umpire, who was removed at the locals' protest. The puck hit the outside of the net, but counted just the same. 8-4.

McMillan slammed another past Huycke in one minute, 9-4, and was then benched for slashing. While he was off, Doherty scored in half a minute on a neat rush. 9-5. Just before time was up Dusty and Weatherston were both off for tripping, and four Straths held the fort for the minute that remained.

High Lifes won Easily

There was nothing to the second game but the High Lifes. The boys in the natty blue and white suits had it over the Chemong Lake aggregation in every way, and the only question was how big the score would be. Bridgenorth put up a surprisingly strong resistance at first, but the superiority of the winners quickly asserted itself, and in the second half they ran up the score quickly. Bridgenorth had little science, but they waded into the High Lifes with stiff body checks and hard slashing, and for a while they held the local team out. It seemed almost impossible to work their way in close, and when they did Belleghem picked off the shots. The speed and team work of the Lifes, however, was in the end too much for the Mud Lakers, and toward the end of the first half and during the second it was easy street for Manager Ross's aggregation, who played fine hockey all the way through. The game was not a good one from the spectators' standpoint, contrasting poorly with the first exhibition.

High Lifes showed an improvement over last week's form, and the match between them and Norwood promises to be a corker. The Lifes were discouraged for a few minutes by Bridgenorth's slashing, but were not long in getting going properly, and when they did there was nothing to the contest. The homesters' defence was strong and their life fast and clever. Manager Ross set a good example to the team by playing clean, fast, brilliant hockey all the way. He took all the bumps handed out without a murmur, and played the game all the time. Pentland and Folley did fine work on the wings, and Ferguson's rushing from coverpoint always helped. Rose was the star of the game, however, his work throughout being splendid.

For Bridgenorth, Belleghem in goal played a fine game, especially in the first half, when he smothered shot after shot at close range. On the forward line J. Cullen and Mann were the pick of the bunch. The latter was at it all the time, being the only Bridgenorth man who showed any tendency to check back. The Lakers made a far better showing than in their first game, however, working up a little combination now and then that with fast skating would have been dangerous.

Referee Lynch handled the game satisfactorily. Following were the teamsp—

FIRST LOSS FOR THE "PILLS"

Pill Pounders Lost to Knockers by Score of 5 to 1

After an unbroken string of victories year after year, Mr. John Nugent's pet hockey team, known in the halls of fame as the Pill Pounders, compounders of deadly lotions, poisonous potions and general cure alls, suffered their first defeat last night when they met the Knockers. The game was played after the City League games, and in consequence the ice was heavy, making the game rather slow in spots. The teams were:

PILL POUNDERS	KNOCKERS

Huston	Allan

Fitzgerald	Deacon
Cover
Porter	Henderson

Fredericks	Doris
Centre
Tovey	Bartley
Right Wing
Brady	Holland
Left Wing
Dunnigan	Hillier

"Nugent" Sullivan, spare.

Referee—"Strathcona" Metheral.

The game was kept fairly clean by Referee Metheral, the offences being merely slashing. Fitzgerald used his weight against the Knockers with telling effect. Tovey and Dunnigan played well for the "Pills," but were watched closely.

The Knockers played a good game all through, with Hillier perhaps doing the most effective work. The half-time score was 1-0 for the Knockers, and the final 5-1 in their favour.

Trainer Dick Baker has evidently got his Strathcona bunch in the best of condition. During the past week teams wearing the club's colours have had five games, some of the players figuring in four of them. None of them are any the worse for the strenuous week and could go out again to-night and play a game if necessary. Since last Wednesday there have been O.H.A. games with Lindsay and Cobourg, City League contests with High Lifes and Norwood and an exhibition game with Lakefield, a pretty good record for one team for seven days. It speaks well for the trainer who has worked faithfully with the boys.

The standing of the City League to date is as follows:

	W.	L.	To Play
Strathconas	2	0	2
Lakefield	1	0	3
High Lifes	1	1	2
Norwood	0	1	3
Bridgenorth	0	2	2

LOTTERY CHARGES ARE DISMISSED

Judgment Given This Afternoon by His Honour Judge Weller

This afternoon at his chambers in the Court House, His Honour Judge Weller gave judgment in the case of Chief Bossel against the Edwards Amusement Company and the Review and Examiner Printing Companies and dismissed the charges. The Edwards Amusement Company it will be remembered were accused of carrying on a lottery and the printing companies with publishing the advertisements. The case first came up in the Police Court when all three parties were committed for trial. The pleas for both prosecution and defence were heard recently and on the strength of these His Honour dismissed the charges this afternoon.

His Honour stated that his judgment was founded on the circumstance that no mode whatever was held out by the accused as the manner in which the right of this property was to be dealt with, and that he could not assume that the accused was going to adopt a mode that would be unlawful, and therefore it was impossible for him to to see that he would dispose of the watch by any means of chance. The manner in which it was disposed that is by a team estimating contest has been decided to be within the law, and as this is the manner in which the watch was disposed of no breach of the law had been made. The case against the two papers was disposed of in a similar manner.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 16.—The market opened active, and quotations reflected the lower prices in London, while traders generally took the bear side on the theory that a reaction was due. The bull party did not offer the same support as recently, and many of the recently-converted bulls turned to the bear side. They were helped by mercantile failures in Pittsburg, continued unfavourable developments in the steel and iron trade, and especially by the United States Court decision compelling Mr. Harriman to answer the questions put to him by Attorney Kellogg during the Interstate Commerce investigation of the Harriman merger. They were also aided during the last hour by a Stock Exchange failure, and by heavy profit-taking on the part of comparatively recent buyers who had over-stayed their market.

Most of the active issues showed great irregularity most of the day. As far as money conditions are concerned, there has been pronounced ease in call rates to-day, which sank below four per cent. At the same time the banks having over $6,000,000 in their sub-treasury operations during the week, and the sub-treasury was debtor at the clearing house to the extent of nearly $3,000,000. Considering Amal. Copper is out of the way, we consider the market a fair purchase on all drives, securing profits on bulges. The Amal. Copper dividend was cut from one per cent. to one-half per cent, quarterly.

SUGGESTION TO HOLD AN EARLY FAIR

"Onlooker" Thinks Our Exhibition Should Come Before Toronto Fair

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of last night a report of the Peterborough Fair, showing the balance of $96.71. This is small but encouraging. Now, would it not be a better time to hold this exhibition earlier in the year? I would suggest the week before Toronto Exhibition. This would give Peterborough the pretenuence over many of the big fairs. Being the first to come on many persons would attend and then not go to Toronto fair and others. Being earlier in the season and warm evenings large crowds could be entertained at the grounds at night and so double the receipts and I believe make the whole thing doubly attractive.

I have no doubt that a good exhibition could be run in this city and that would be a credit to this place. But to delay the thing on till so late in the autumn, when cold nights are the rule and bad weather general, I think the principal wanting. Some little country fairs are run successfully at this time of the year. It is not to say a city fair cannot also. Our crowds are not so much for the sights of the fair, but as pleasure bent, and a good evening performance with a nice band and fireworks would attract thousands which now our fair never gets—Jackson Park for example. Surely this should be an eye-opener for the management.

I am only one, but although not directly interested, still I think if this was well followed up and done creditably it would give me more satisfaction and the citizens in general than to see it as a three legged horse forever on the rough.

Yours truly,

"An Onlooker."

THE INITIAL ANNUAL BANQUET OF MURRAY STREET BAPTIST LAYMEN; MINISTRY OF THE MAN IN THE PEW

A Grand Success From the Beginning to the End and in All Respects—Eloquent Address by Rev. Prof. Kierstead of McMaster

OTHER APPROPRIATE ONES

Any person who was present at the First Annual Men's Banquet of the Murray street Baptist Church, could not fail to be struck with the strength and promise of the laymen's movement. Apart from the addresses delivered, bearing upon the reciprocal relations of the pulpit and the pew, the spirit of the gathering indicated that in respect of the movement of layman the hour of the man has struck; that, so far as the men of the Murray street Baptist church and its associated local congregations, a new era of activity has dawned and that a one-sided church service wherein the pastor is all and the flock merely a number, has passed away.

Last night the basement of the church was converted into a banqueting hall which was tastefully decorated for the occasion. The tables were elegantly laid. The table of honour occupied by the guests of honour, the members of the Ministerial Association and visiting ministers, was lighted with wax candles in elegant candelabra. At each plate was placed a card bearing the name of the occupant guest, and also a handsome menu card of the intellectual feast, as was also to be found before each of the one hundred and seventy-five odd men, young and old, who occupied the tables. These were drawn from the congregations of the Murray street, Park street and Gilmour Memorial Baptist churches; and it is unnecessary to say represented the most intelligent, devoted and aggressive lay element of the various congregations. The ministers present were, in addition to the "guest" designate of the occasion, Rev. E. M. Keirstead, D.D., Professor of Moral Philosophy in McMaster University,—Rev. Cowan Davidson, St. John's, city; Rev. E. A. Pearson, George street Methodist; Rev. Robt. Pogue, St. Paul's; Rev. J. H. Keith, Knox church; Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of the church; Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park street; Rev. A. B. Bonner, Gilmour Memorial, and Rev. Geo. Welsh, Lindsay. Mr. J. A. Stevenstone, Toronto, President of the Laymen's Missionary Movement Association of Ontario and Quebec, was also present. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt of St. Luke's sent regrets at his inability to be present owing to illness.

REV. J. R. WEBB
Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church Which Has Begun the Great Layman Movement

The banquet was prepared and served by the Ladies' Aid Society, and in both respects they acquitted themselves with the highest credit, and the committee of men is also deserving of the greatest praise for the completeness of all the arrangements made with much forethought, and carried out with much success. One feature of the occasion was the fact that with some half-dozen ministers present, not one of them except the set speakers was permitted to say a word—they were for once relegated to the pew, and occupied the role of listeners. The speeches made in proposing and responding to what may be called the mind toasts,

Mr. L. F. Clarry Accepts Local House Nomination

Hastings Barrister Will Contest The East Northumberland Riding For the Liberal Cause

WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY

The East Northumberland Liberal Association, met in convention yesterday at Warkworth to select candidates for the Dominion and Provincial Houses. The meeting, which was large and enthusiastic, was addressed by Hon. A. G. McKay, leader of the Ontario Liberal Opposition, and Mr. Sam Clark, M. P. P., West Northumberland.

Mr. Frank L. Webb, of Colbourne, was given the nomination for the Dominion House, and Mr. L. F. Clarry, barrister, of Hastings, was unanimously offered the nomination for the Local Legislature, which he accepted.

Mr. Clarry is well known to many Peterborough people, who will watch with interest his campaign against Hon. Dr. Willoughby. He is a young man who has built up a large and lucrative practice, and is associated with several industrial enterprises. He is aggressive, keenly interested, and well informed on public matters, and will undoubtedly carry on an active campaign from now on.

The Legislation Will Be Discussed By The Council

Some of The Clauses That Are Included in the City's Private Bill—Meeting on Monday Night

WILL CONSIDER MATTER

The City Council will hold a special meeting on Monday night for the purpose of considering the legislation that is to be asked for in connection with the city's private bill that will be before the Legislature at the next session. The provisions of the bill provides for authority to elect aldermen for two years, one half to retire each year, to give the council authority to issue debentures for the amount of water works contingent fund, to amend the acts respecting the City Trust Commissioners and to provide for a change in the method of their appointment and tenure of office.

The bill also applies for power to confirm bylaws, fixing the assessments of the Auburn Woollen Company and the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, and also bylaws providing for the borrowing of $25,000 to pay for the addition to the Queen Alexandra School, for a fixed charge for connections with trunk sewers and granolithic sidewalks built in 1905, 1906 and 1907 as local improvements and for confirmation of the by-law to aid the Colonial Weaving Company. The bill also asks for authority to authorize the sale of land by the Board of Education to the corporation for a park opposite the King Edward School.

Copper in Dummer Township And a Lead Lode in Burleigh

Samples Assayed From Dummer Encouraging—Good Prospects in Belmont

THERE IS MICA IN METHUEN

Toronto, Jan. 17.—(Special.)—Eastern Ontario is attracting considerable attention among mining prospectors, and from various accounts there are several promising sections there. Among the properties which are noteworthy is the copper one on lot 30 con. 10, Dummer township, Peterborough county. On it a vein has been found carrying the fine looking chalcopyrite and bornite. A block of chalcopyrite weighing 100 pounds was found here, and samples assayed from 23 1-2 to 30 per cent. of copper. In Burleigh township, also in Peterborough county, is a lead property having a lode from four to eight feet wide, carrying a high percentage of lead with silver values. In Methuen township a lode of mica has been discovered. Sheets measuring from two to twelve inches have been taken out, and there is a large body of ore here carrying iron pyrites with traces of gold and silver. This body is 80 to 100 feet wide, and it has been traced through lots 5, 6, 7 and 8 in the 9th concession of Methuen township. There is navigation within one to three miles of these properties.

Belmont Mines

In Belmont township some assays have been taken from veins, giving good values.

A promising mine is the Seabrook property on which a shaft has been sunk 55 feet in vein formation in the centre of a large mineralized zone 1,500 to 2,000 feet wide, and traversing the property. On it are outcroppings of vein matter showing copper pyrites. A quantity of good looking ore has been taken from a vein about four feet wide. Mr. L. W. Spear, Toronto, who is the owner, purposes running a cross-cut tunnel under a hill on the property, having an elevation of about 200 feet. The property is 282 acres in area.

Mr. Spear's Moffat property, in Marmora township, Hastings county, has three well-defined veins, two of which consist of gold-bearing quartz, and they are from two to four feet wide. Some work has been done about 80 feet from Lilly Creek, in opening a vein of mispickel ore. It is massive and well defined, and consists of reddish-brown quartz, mineralized with arsenical pyrites.

G.T.R. ENGINE JUMPS THE TRACK

The Train Was Delayed For Over An Hour

The Port Hope G.T.R. train which is due here shortly after 6 o'clock, was delayed for a considerable length of time, causing much inconvenience to the passengers and those waiting for the local station.

The trouble occurred in the Port Hope yards as the train was passing through, the engine jumped the track. The crew tried to replace the engine but their labours were in vain and had to wait until an engine from Cobourg arrived to bring the train to Peterborough. It arrived here about 10 o'clock.

FARMERS AND GOVERNMENT

The constituency of South Huron is a typically agricultural one, and the issue in the bye-election will be largely settled by farmers. It will, therefore, be interesting to note how one of the best agricultural districts of the Dominion will deal with the claim of the Liberal Government for support through its representative candidate. How will the electors regard the effect of the legislation and administration of the present Government in promoting the interests of the farming community? The farmers of South Huron will not, certainly, regard the Government with any disfavour on the head of the fact that the value of the exports of Canadian agricultural products during the nine months ending March last was well on to double the value of like exports for the twelve months ending with June, 1906. Nor will there be any disinclination to attribute such a result, in large part, to the intelligence of the farmers, aided by the energy and brains of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, operating for several years. One of the first official acts of Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, on assuming office, was to carry through an arrangement by which the quarantine regulations that rendered the export of Canadian cattle to the United States impossible were abolished. The immediate effect of that Act was to create an outlet for a lot of rough Ontario stockers, and the whole cattle trade of the Dominion has been better ever since as a result of the wholesale cleaning out of ordinary stock which then took place. The beneficial effects of what was done ten years ago were felt again last autumn. Owing to the scarcity of feed in many parts of this Province, it was found necessary to sell off a lot of dry cows. These could not possibly have been shipped to England, and had they all been forced upon the local market, prices of all kinds of cattle would have been utterly demoralized. Fortunately, the abolition of the quarantine at the border rendered possible the marketing of much of this stuff in Buffalo, Rochester, and other neighbouring American cities, and this possibility prevented all cattle values from suffering what would otherwise have been the greatest depression experienced in years. The Montreal Herald points out that the appointment of commercial agents in England by the Government of which Mr. Fisher is a member has also had a most beneficial effect in promoting agricultural prosperity. These agents have kept Canadian products of all kinds, and more particularly agricultural products, constantly before the attention of consumers in the old land. It is as a result of their work, and of the confidence created by the operation of the Fruit Mark Act, that Canadian apples have for some years past been selling in the English market at an average of one dollar a barrel above the price obtained for apples from the United States. In cheese we hold a still more commanding position than we do in apples. Seventy per cent. of all the cheese imported into England is from Canada, and the fact that this is so is largely owing to the work of these same commercial agents and to the efforts of the Department of Agriculture in bringing about improvements in transportation facilities, more particularly in the more general adoption of a refrigerator service.

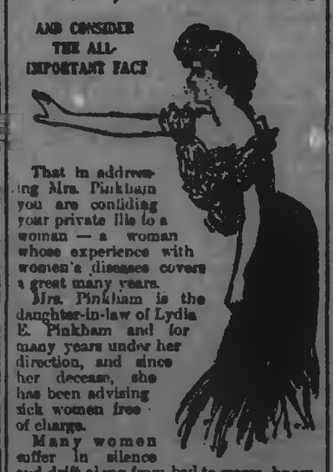
Perhaps the greatest service the present Government has rendered farmers is in the appointment of a Railway Commission, and in the fairer adjustment of freight rates that has been secured through that Commission. One of the first acts of the new tribunal was to scale down the rates on grain to such an extent as to add on the average a cent a bushel to the value of all the grain shipped by rail in this province. Through the same body also, freight rates on cattle were reduced to an extent sufficient to add nearly 50 cents to the value of each beef bullock marketed. Nor has the general policy of improving general transporation facilities by rail and water been hostile to the improvement of the means provided for marketting the produce of the farmer.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A bye-election is in progress in South Huron. Nominations held yesterday introduced into the field, as candidates, Mr. M. Y. McLean, editor of the Seaforth Expositor, in the Liberal interest, and in the Conservative interest Mr. Henry Horton, farmer. Between representatives of two of the noblest classes of the community, the electors may have some difficulty in making a choice, but between the candidates, as representatives of the respective parties, and their policy, there will be little hesitation.

"No amount of hair-splitting, or challenges to all and sundry to put their fingers upon any illegal step on the whole business, says the Montreal Star, Conservative, will make those listening to him (Mr. Foster) believe that a man should act in the dual capacity of leading director of a Trust Company, which is lending its money and a member of a speculative land syndicate which is borrowing that money—there being a startling similarity, between the syndicate and the directorate. For a man to consent to occupy such a position—even if every transaction to which he lends himself in that capacity is as white as snow—is to show that he holds a low standard of what is required of a public man, and for a man in a position of trust."

STOP, WOMAN!



That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman — a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it "I do not believe it will help me."

LONG ENGLISH TOUR IS COMPLETED

Bosses O' Th' Barn Arrive in England After a Tour of 50000 Miles

A VERY SUCCESSFUL TRIP

The Bosses' o' th' Barn Band, which toured Canada on its long trip has returned to England after a successful tour extending over 50,000 miles. In the following article from Lloyds' Weekly, a London paper, a reference is made to the Canadian portion of the trip:

After an absence of eighteen months, the famous Bosses' o' th' Barn Band returned to England on Friday. They arrived at Plymouth on the P. and O. steamer China in the morning, and soon afterwards left by special train for Manchester.

Before entraining they were entertained at breakfast by the mayor of Plymouth. Mr. Tom Bowling, the chairman of the band, gave some interesting particulars of the tour. They had travelled over 50,000 miles, and had given over 1,000 concerts. Theirs had been a triumphal progress, but they were glad to get back to old England and to Lancashire.

The band left Liverpool in July, 1906, and opened at Newhaven, Conn., afterwards touring in the United States and Canada for five months, visiting every large centre.

Asked what sort of music was most in demand, Mr. Bowen, the travelling manager, said:

"Oh, just the old favourites. The Lancashire folk insisted upon them, and the Irish element was wild for the melodies of the "ould couphtry." In Canada, we felt quite at home. In Toronto and Montreal we had some very severe critics, but we came through with flying colours.

"On December 5 last year we sailed for New Zealand, and visited the Fiji Islands. For a month we performed at the International Exhibition at Christchurch, and for this engagement we received the record sum of £2,500. Then we went to Australia, and met with another warm welcome. At Melbourne alone we gave forty-two concerts before audiences averaging between 30,000 and 40,000 people."

PRISONERS HAVE TO REMAIN IN GAOL

Central Prison Filled Says an Ottawa Despatch

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—(Special.) — There are now about twelve prisoners in the county jail who are under sentence of over six months, and therefore should be transferred to the Central Prison, and eight more who are under sufficiently long sentences to be transferred if the authorities desired. However, they all doubtless will remain in the county jail for some time. It is understood the Central Prison is all filled up, and that is the reason the prisoners have not been removed from the local jail.

FARMERS FAVOUR COW TESTING

Decide to Continue the Work Another Year—Mr. McKenzie, the Speaker

Successful meetings in connection with the cow testing associations have been held this week at Warsaw, Pine Grove, Central Smith and Kerne. On each occasion Mr. D. E. McKenzie of Beaverton represented the Government in the absence of Mr. N. G. Sotherville, who was unable to be present.

In every case the associations decided to continue the work another year, indicating that the cow testing scheme has met with much favour from the farmers of Peterborough county.

THERE IS NO SECRET

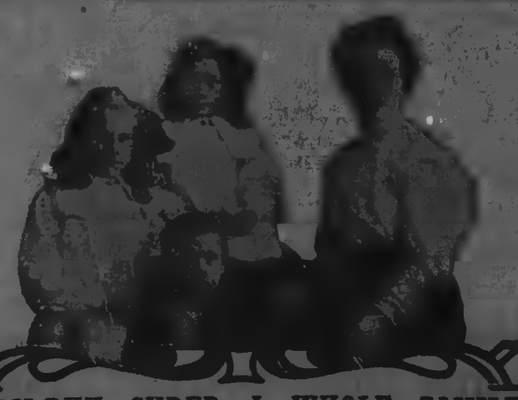
About our Cod Liver Preparation—Vinol

So many patent medicines and advertised cures are now offered to the public that we want to call the special attention of the people of Fall River to the fact that Vinol is not in any sense a secret or patent medicine.

For centuries medical men the world over have recognized the great tonic and curative elements contained in the cod's liver, but how to extract these medicinal elements from the useless and repulsive oil which enveloped them has been the problem hitherto unsolved.

This was finally accomplished by two eminent French chemists, and the result is Vinol, a delicious modern cod liver preparation without oil, made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, thus combining with peptonate of iron all the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children weak, run-down persons, after sickness and for Chronic Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unequalled. Try it on our offer to return money if it fails to give satisfaction. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough, and The Market Drug Store.



ZAM-BUK CURED A WHOLE FAMILY

Over and over again it has been demonstrated that Zam-Buk balm can cure scalp sores, eczema, scaley sores, ulcers, abscesses, etc., even when other remedies have signally failed. Mrs. G. M. Villiers, of 305 Stadacona Street, Hochelaga, Montreal, says: "My three young children contracted a kind of scalp disease and nothing I tried seemed able to heal the sores and cure the little ones of their trouble."

"I had used Zam-Buk myself for a bad finger which it healed very finely, so I thought I would give it a trial on the children's sores, and before long there was a marked improvement. I persevered with the treatment, until they were completely cured and their heads bore no trace whatever of the scalp disease which had defied so many preparations. As a family we have proved Zam-Buk a wonderful healer and would not be without it in the house."

ZAM-BUK CURES Eczema, Pimples, Running Sores, Spreading Scabs, Scalp Diseases, Poisoned Wounds, Festering Sores, Piles (Blind or Bleeding), Bad Legs, Diseased Ankles, Swollen Knees, Abscesses, Boils, Ulcers, Ringworm, Scurvy, Dandruff, Erysipelas, Sore Backs, Proud Flesh, Chapped Hands and all skin troubles.

Of all stores and druggists, 50c. a box, or post-paid on receipt of price from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 6 boxes $2.50.

INITIAL ANNUAL BANQUET BAPTIST CHURCH LAYMEN

were all felicitous, and paved the way for the more ambitious addresses of Rev. Mr. Pogue, who dealt, in his usual style of lucidity and eloquence, with the subject of "The Minister in the Pulpit," and the address of Rev. Dr. Kierstead which was a masterpiece of intellectuality and logical reasoning, happily illustrated by piquant relations and apt quotations. Mr. Shenstone made exhaustive reference to the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Regarded from every point of view, religious, intellectual, social, and administrative, the gathering was a splendid success, and not only all connected with it, but all persons interested in the proper adaptation and adjustment of the relations and responsibilities of the working forces of the church at large, are to be congratulated. This great gathering of earnest laymen, coming after others held in Peterborough, indicates that the laymen's movement is as a stone hewn out of the mountain, which is destined to fill a large place in the world of Christian work and endeavour.

After the customary honour to the King Dr. Scott the chairman welcomed those present and referred to the large attendance from the various Baptist churches of the city and district. In looking over the gathering it reminded him of the advance made by the Laymen's missionary movement throughout the continent. Many lectures have recently been held with a view to the spreading of this movement among the Baptists of the Dominion of Canada. Behind this movement every man must be engaged—the laymen as well as the ministers—and he was glad to see that so many were present. He again welcomed those in attendance at the first annual Men's Banquet of the Murray street Baptist church.

In proposing the toast to "The Ministers in the Pulpit" Mr. R E Harding said they were men who who all respect and love. The fact of so many being present was a realization of that fact. Many ministers have recently been coming and going like ships passing in the night. The work of the ministers in the pulpit was certainly a hard one to fill. Often the preacher in the pulpit is criticized but he believed that few of these criticisms were actually meant.

The time when the priest could say "Don't do as I do, but do as I tell you," is dying away with the past. The hero of to-day is the man with the message, that he believes and which he acts upon.

After the hearty drinking of this toast Rev. Robert Pogue was called upon to respond. Every great occasion he said is a great occasion to a minister. The preacher should, as the toast indicates, be in the pulpit. The true spirit of the man in the pulpit is the man who is in great distress of mind—a man who feels the responsibility of his position, and who deserves the prayers and consideration of the congregation. The greatest ministry that the minister in the pulpit can render was to enlist the services of the man in the pew, and this problem was being rapidly solved. The time is coming when we are beginning to recognize the manliness of the man who is willing to stand up for the faith of Jesus Christ. Mr. Pogue hoped that the result of the meeting at Murray street would be reflected in other churches of the city as the movement was a most commendable one.

After an excellent rendition by the male quartette of Murray street, Mr. Vincent Eastwood proposed the toast to the Press, which was responded to by Messrs. G R Van Blaricom and F R Ygkome.

Our Guest

Mr. T F Matthews in proposing the toast to "Our Guest" said on behalf of the Murray street Baptist church that he was glad to see so many representatives from other Baptist churches in the city and vicinity. The purpose of the meeting was to listen to the remarks of the Rev. Dr. Kierstead, on his conception of "The Ministry of the Man in the Pew." The speaker concluded by paying a compliment to the land of Nova Scotia, the land from which Dr. Kierstead came three years ago to the McMaster University of Toronto.

Dr. Kierstead, on rising to speak, was greeted with enthusiasm. His opening remarks were deliberate, showing that he had power of thought behind them. He expressed his thanks to the church and to McMaster University that he was present, and his gratitude for being one of those at the banquet. He was very much pleased with his drive through Peterborough in the afternoon, and congratulated those present on the prominence due our city, which will be better recognized in the near future by all Canada.

In touching on his subject of the occasion, he said that there was a ministry for the man in the pew. From the derivation of the word we learn that the minister is in a subordinate place, but that he is there for a purpose. All those in the pew have the ministry, and it is a glory to the men in that position to have this ministry. The minister passes on the glory, and herein lies the explanation that the word is the greatest thing which God has given to His disciples.

In the higher part of our nature we receive the word and pass it along for the ministry of the man in the pew involves a self-surrender. We all, therefore, have burdens to bear, but as Tennyson poetically puts it:—

O, well for him whose will is strong;
He suffers, but he will not suffer long.

The strong man should, however, be careful not to over-exert his strength. If the man or minister is in the habit of neglecting to say "no" when he should, he loses his self-surrender. If was through the discipline of obedience, of a readiness to respond to duty; of self-surrender, that has made Britain the greatest power in the world. When war stares Britain in the face, her servants stiffen up the muscles and stand like giants, waiting for the moment to charge.

This is the spirit men need in their daily grind of duty if they are to succeed in the trials of life. Tennyson aptly says with reference to this:—

Self-knowledge, self-reverance, self-control;
These three alone lead life to sovereign power.

Self-sacrifice Also

It is the ministry of the man in the pew to sacrifice as well as to surrender. Sacrifice, says Emmerson, is the "real source of all miracles," and is indispensable.

There is no earthly influence greater than the power produced by the pure in heart, and there will be no ministry in the pew without the self-sacrifice.

The forces that really dominate the invisible, and one of the greatest of these is self-sacrifice, rested on the man in the pew. Sacrifice must be a factor to the advancement of the progressive movement among the laymen, for, at last, it is really discovered the laymen have been innoculated with the idea that they have something to do for the advancement of the morality of mankind. The time will never come when the power of the man in the pulpit will be superseded even by that of the press. The preacher, too, implies a hearer—if there is a minister in the pulpit, they should be hearers, and to obtain hearers is a difficult thing. Too many, when they go to church, hear only the words of the minister's and they miss the Christ that lies behind them.

Act of Worshipping

The minister leads the worship. We want to worship and adore or we may lose the power of adoration. Ceasing to adore we cease to grow. We should follow the minister's way of worship and respond to his superintendence.

It is our duty to esteem and honour those above us. There are some men who have appreciation for other ministers and little for their own, so that it is the business of the men in the pew to esteem the man they have in the pulpit. Every word has an act. The word is the thing expressed, and when the word gets within then the men in the pew have the strength to impart something useful. Morality is all right, but it only appears on the surface—man must go to church to get the word to be able to use the power for the edification of the world.

The church is the medium of the revolution of Christianity, and it is "up to" the man in the pew to add to the substantiality of the power given to the world.

Brotherhood of Man

The church brings together the man of various levels; they sit at the same table; they rejoice with them that do rejoice and weep with them that weep. Nothing has a higher moral standard than the Gospel, and there is no place where the edification of man can be developed better than in the pew of the church.

In closing he congratulated the members of the Murray street Baptist church for the opening which had been made along the line of the laymen's movement, and he bespoke a brilliant future in store for the laymen of the church, or "the man in the pew."

Other Speakers

Mr. J. N. Shenstone of Toronto, president of the laymen's movement in Ontario, and Quebec, was next called upon by the chairman. He referred to the recent address in Peterborough by Mr. J. A. MacDonald, the editor of the Globe, who was possibly the only Canadian present at the big convention in Indianapolis, when the new convention was thoroughly entered upon.

The men of the church ought to take charge of the missionary work of the church — this was the genesis of the idea formed by the first band of laymen, who assembled in New York, not long ago, and upon whom it first dawned that such a movement was necessary.

Mr. Shenstone gave a concise review of the conditions of mankind in heathen lands, which have called forth the beginning of the laymen's movement. He explained that millions of people in all parts of the world are in need of the hearing of the gospel, and illustrated his remarks by the fact that the 60,000 Baptists in Ontario and Quebec have one and a half million heathen in the Telegu land delegated to their care and pointed out that if the inhabitants of that land do not hear the gospel it will be the fault of some person or persons in Ontario and Quebec. It is only the purpose of the missionaries to evangelize the heathen of that land and not to convert them all.

The Speaker Thanked

Mr. P. Downham in a brief address moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Kierstead for his eloquent and instructive address. Mr. B. A. Lillie seconded the vote of thanks, which was heartily endorsed, and acknowledged by the speaker.

Mr. E. M. Best, in a humorous address, championed the cause of the ladies, his words being also enthusiastically endorsed.

The splendid meeting closed with brief devotional exercises.

Stops Itching, Heals the Skin
AND FOR THIS REASON THERE IS NO CURE FOR ECZEMA SO SATISFACTORY AS

There is always a certain amount of mystery about all medicines that are taken internally, but not so when Dr. Chase's Ointment is applied to raw or inflamed skin, for the benefits are self-evident.

It is because Dr. Chase's Ointment possesses in a remarkable degree the ability to stop itching and heal raw skin that it has become known the world over as the most successful treatment for such disease of the skin as eczema, salt rheum and psoriasis.

By all means tone up the system by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but also cure the eczema by the local application of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The wretched stinging, itching sensations will soon disappear under this treatment and gradually and naturally the raw sores will become smaller and smaller until they entirely disappear.

But there are scores of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home, and especially so where there are children who suffer from teething eczema, chafing, insect bites, hives, poisoned skin or any form of skin irritation or eruption.

Mr. O Wiley, who is employed as cooper by the Kennedy & Davis Milling Company, Landsay, Ont., states: "I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema on my little girl some few years ago, and soon brought about a thorough and permanent cure. She had suffered for considerable time, and though we tried a great many remedies, Dr. Chase's Ointment was the only preparation to prove effective. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as it certainly effected a prompt and permanent cure in the case."

Test Dr. Chase's Ointment in any case of itching skin or on a sore that refuses to heal, and you will be surprised at the results.

RESENTS THE LIBRARY IDEA

Carnegie's Assistance Should Not Be Asked Thinks Parish Magazine

St. Luke's Parish Magazine says the following re the proposal to have a Carnegie Library in Peterborough:

Patriotic citizens, especially those who are loyally attached to the memory of England's greatest Queen, the late Queen Victoria, will resent the effort inaugurated by the late City Council to ask Andrew Carnegie to build a Library in Peterborough. It is unfortunate that the name of the man who fathered this scheme was not sufficiently known or he would, no doubt, have met with defeat at the poll at the recent municipal elections. It seems strange that any one should beg of a man who in such violent manner slandered our beloved Queen, or that any one would dare to ask loyal subjects to have the name of such a man immortalized in a British community by having to name the building after him. Surely the new council will do better things.

OMEMEE LOCAL OPTION INCIDENT

Referred to in St. Luke's Parish Magazine of This Week

To show to what an extent a certain class of so-called temperance people will go, in order to force upon the public their views, a lamentable incident is reported from Omemee where local-option has recently been introduced. The Hotel keeper in Omemee is a quiet, inoffensive man, who to the best of his ability has upheld and kept the license law. He does not allow any loafing or excessive drinking on his premises, and has put on the "black-list" certain individuals who imbibe too freely and make asses of themselves. The result of his efforts in this direction has been seen in the fact that Omemee is almost free from drunkenness. To injure the hotelkeeper and to take vengeance on him these habitual drunkards have joined the local option forces and voted for them to "get even" with the hotel keeper. They were successful; they unfeelingly succeeded in driving a good and honest man out of his business; they took from him and his children their daily bread. Whether this record is one for the temperance people to be proud of, we leave to our readers to decide.—St. Luke's Parish Magazine.

Popular Cure for Croup
Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine promptly on hand for use in case of emergency.

INTERESTS OF WORKMAN.

Questions to Be Dealt With in Alberta Legislature.

Edmonton, Jan. 17.—In the speech from the throne at the opening of the Alberta Legislature the Lieutenant-Governor said, in part:

"A bill will be submitted for your consideration providing for the regulation of the conditions of labor as regards compensation to workmen in case of accidents. I believe that by thus providing on an assured basis for the future the relations between capital and labor in this province will be rendered more cordial. From the outset it has admitted in several of the most industrially-advanced of the countries of Europe that the conditions under which the mining industry is carried on render it peculiarly necessary in the interests of all concerned to impose some limit on the hours of labor in this occupation.

"A bill has therefore been prepared by my Minister, imposing regulations in this respect, which, I believe, will have a happy effect on this, the most promising of our infant industries. An act will be submitted for your consideration dealing with the establishment of a Government drainage system in the province, and providing for the expense incident to important and necessary work of this description being assessed against the property benefited.

MAY PROVE FATAL.

Several Persons Wounded In Shooting Affray at St. John's.

St. John's, Nfld., Jan. 17.—Just before midnight Richard Joseph and Dominic Richard entered a house where Malliem Noah and Basil Noah and others were playing cards. An altercation ensued between Basil and Dominic, and while they were struggling Richard Joseph drew a revolver. All were on their feet at the time and the room was crowded with women and men, Dominic and Basil using fists.

The first shot lodged in the ceiling, the second struck Malliem, and the third Bazil, the fourth went wide, and Dominic fell with a bullet in the forehead. Richard Joseph fled, but was arrested.

The victims are in a precarious state and fatal results are expected. All the parties are Syrian peddlars, who are numerous in the island, making St. John's their headquarters.

Basil Noah declares the attack was premeditated, and the result of an altercation last October. Intense excitement prevailed among the Syrian colony, and the prisoner barely escaped lynching. Basil and Dominic are in the hospital with small hope of recovery.

Sacred Railway Commission.

Ingersoll, Jan. 17.—In their verdict on the death of A. S. Schram, the Ingersoll man killed at the Thames street crossing of the Grand Trunk Railway on Monday night, the coroner's jury "condemned the criminal indifference manifested by the management of the Grand Trunk Railway in not providing some more suitable safeguard at this dangerous centre."

They also placed on record their entire disapproval of the course pursued by the Railway Commission, to whom the matter has been repeatedly referred by the Town Council. The recommendation was made that the crossing be protected by some effective barrier.

Fight Fire With Snowballs.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 17.—Probably the most remarkable manner of extinguishing fire occurred yesterday at Fenwell, a mining town near here, when hundreds of men, women, boys and girls saved the town from destruction by throwing snowballs. The town has no fire department and water is scarce. The flames had gained much headway and in a big engine was stored sufficient powder to blow up the village. As a last resource practically the entire population began throwing snowballs by thousands made from soft wet snow, and after a time prevented the fire from destroying the village.

Various Canadian Clubs Are Recommended to Act

The Resolutions At Ottawa — A Central Committee Formed To Co-operate

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S HELP

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—(Special.) — The first step has been taken towards a plan by which the Canadian Clubs throughout the Dominion will co-operate in helping forward the proposal outlined by Earl Grey for a celebration in August next of the tercentenary of Quebec and the preservation in connection therewith of the historic battlefields of the Plains of Abraham and of St. Foye in that city. The nucleus of a central committee drawn from the various Canadian clubs was appointed to co-operate with another larger body in charge of the general details of the Quebec memorial project. William Whyte, second vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is also president of the Canadian Club of Winnipeg, has been appointed chairman of this central committee; Hamnet P. Hill, president of the Canadian Club of Ottawa, was chosen vice-chairman; and Gerald H Brown, of Ottawa, honourary secretary. The conference, which was made up of representatives of almost all the Canadian Clubs, from Halifax to Victoria, was presided over by Mr. William Whyte, and was entirely unanimous in its approval of the project set on foot Governor-General before the Ladies Canadian Club of Montreal one month ago.

The Resolution

The following resolutions were unanimously carried:

"Moved by C. R. McCullough (the father of the Canadian Club of Hamilton), seconded by E. F. Surveyer, of the Canadian Club of Montreal, and resolved: That this conference of representatives of the Canadian clubs of Canada heartily approves of the principles of acquiring the Quebec battlefields as a national park for a memorial of the heroes of France and Great Britain who rendered the locality forever illustrious by their valour, and whose races, anciently descended from allied stocks, have founded and formed the united Canadian people."

"Moved by John Turnbull of the Canadian Club of Toronto, seconded by Dr. D. G. Storms of the Canadian Club of Hamilton, and resolved: That the various Canadian clubs throughout Canada are recommended to show their approval of the plan to acquire the Quebec battlefields as a national park by stimulating public interest and support of the project, and that the individual clubs be left to decide upon the details of action as they may deem best in their own localities."

"Resolved, That a central committee be formed of representatives of the various Canadian clubs throughout Canada, to co-operate with any larger body having charge of the general details of the project, and that the following gentlemen compose the committee, with power to add to their numbers: Chairman, William Whyte, Canadian Club, Winnipeg; vice-chairman, Hamnet P. Hill, Canadian Club, Ottawa; honourary secretary, Gerald H. Brown, Canadian Club, Ottawa."

"Moved by J. F. Mackay of Toronto, seconded by J. A. Stewart of Perth, and resolved: That this gathering place on record its hearty appreciation of the services rendered to Canada by His Excellency the Governor-General, Earl Grey, in inaugurating the movement looking to the acquisition of the Quebec battlefields as a national park, and further, that we express our gratitude to His Excellency for his very generous hospitality extended to the delegates present on this occasion."

During his address to the Canadian Club representatives, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, in connection with the scheme:

"Whenever I, or anyone else of Canadian origin, and a British subject, and a Canadian citizen, visit the city of Quebec, and there see that noble pillar erected to the memory of Wolfe and to the memory of Montcalm by the British Government, he cannot but feel proud that he lives under institutions which can promote such a breadth of thought and action by the authorities of the land."

CASE ENLARGED FOR SIX DAYS

Forgery Case That Has Been Detailed Before in County Police Court

Charles Healey, Frank Healey and Frank Hamilton, appeared before Magistrate Edmison, in the County Police Court this morning, on a charge of forgery, but were remanded for six days on bail of $500 each. Mr. B. F. McWilliams appeared for Hamilton and Mr. G. N. Gordon for the Healey brothers. Mr. McWilliams said that his client acknowledged his guilt and told him that one of the Healey boys should not be held responsible, as he had not entered into the scheme of forgery. The counsel for the accused expressed their desire for a summary trial.

Owing to the absence of some material witnesses the case was enlarged until Thursday, the 23rd.

WEDDING BELLS

MORRISON-GRAY

Rev. Canon Davidson officiated at a pretty wedding on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, when Mame, the youngest daughter of Mrs. John Gray, 209 Murray street, was united in marriage to Mr. Peter Morrison, of Arcola, Saskatchewan. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Austin Gray, and was very becomingly attired in a gown of white silk, over pale blue taffeta, with trimming of duchess satin ribbon and Irish baby lace. She carried a fine bouquet of white roses. Miss Luella Ridgath, of Lakefield, acted as bridesmaid, and wore white silk trimmed with lace and tucks. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Andrew Young, of Lakefield.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests retired to the dining room, where they partook of a sumptuous wedding supper. The groom's present to the bride was a pretty gold bracelet, and to the bridesmaid a crescent pin.

Mr. Morrison was at one time a resident of Smith township, where his parents reside at present. Mr. Morrison is going to Arcola next week, and Mrs. Morrison intends going out next spring.

THE WEATHER.

LAST night was quite sharp and crisp the thermometer going down to 8 degrees below zero. By daylight it had risen to 12 above, and at noon was still higher.

DID NOT RETURN THE PLATE

And Was Fined $5 and Costs or Ten Days in Jail

There is a young man, who was taken into custody some time ago, on a charge of vagrancy, and a church society has been endeavouring to secure the unfortunate man's passage back to England. When he first appeared he was sentenced to 30 days in jail, at the end of which time it was expected that arrangements for his deporation would have been made. Such was not the case, and he was remanded again for 8 days. He appeared again this morning in the police court, and was sent down for a month.

A local merchant, who does a little darting on the side, was the next on the stand on the following charge. That in November, having an express license, and having been furnished with a number plate, and the said license having expired on November 1st, 1907, the said merchant failed to renew his license within 15 days after it had expired, and did not return the said number plate in good order to the clerk at his office within two days thereafter as required by Bylaw No 3, of the Board of Police Commissioners, of the City of Peterborough.

The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $8.35; if not paid in 5 days 10 days in gaol. His Worship told the defendant that if he secured a license he would not have to pay the fine.

TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT IN OMAHA

25,000 Railway Men Sign the Pledge—An Economic Movement

Omaha, January 17th. — Thousands of the Northwestern Railroad employees have taken their last drink, and soon that railroad will have more temperance people among its workmen than any other large employer of labour in the world. A crusade is under way to have every man working for the system sign a pledge. Three months ago when the Northwestern began laying off men for the winter preference for work in every instance was given to men who were total abstainers, whether they were competent or not. The drinkers were the men who were discharged. That started a temperance movement amongst the remainder, and the movement spread till within the last week pledges have been circulated and thousands of signatures have been secured. It is said that more than 25,000 men have agreed to never more use intoxicating drink. The movement is not the result of prohibition, as much as an economic movement.

SPECIAL LECTURES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

To Boys and Girls Over 12 Years of Age By Men and Women Doctors

A TORONTO PROPOSITION

The Toronto Board of Education is about to take up the matter of having men and women doctors lecture in the schools to the children on questions pertaining to their health and morals. At the next meeting it will be proposed, and will no doubt receive careful attention.

The question is one of moment, and has often been discussed on paper, and some effort has been made to carry it out in various schools.

Domestic science and manual training do not seem to meet with the approval of at least one of the trustees, who will make a motion to have them abolished from the public schools.

The following extract from an article in the Toronto Star, dealing with the Board of Education's meeting explains both matters:

"Many important matters will be brought before the Board of Education to-night in the numerous notices of motion which will be put in by the trustees.

"Dr. Hunter proposes that the Board have a lecture given the boys, and another to the girls, in each school once a year on the subject of their physical and moral well-being.

"He would have well qualified male and female doctors give the lectures, the male doctors to talk to the boys, and the female doctors to the girls. The lectures would be confined to those classes composed of children over 12 years of age.

"There would be no sensationalism in it," said Dr. Hunter, speaking to the Star to-day regarding the idea. 'But it would open the eyes of boys and girls to the facts of life, to the dangers from certain conditions, and to the necessity of living clean, physical and moral lives. It is a delicate subject to touch, and it would have to be done with care by men and women of real scientific knowledge.'

"Dr. Hunter says that he once addressed a class of young men in a hospital on the subject, and was afterwards told by some of them that they would never have been in the hospital had they known the facts he told them.

"Dr. Hawke will probably introduce the subject of vaccination in the schools.

"Trustee Lavee will move for the abolition of manual training and domestic science in the schools. He thinks these subjects cost more than they are worth."

BIG CARNIVAL AT THE PARK

Radial Railway Company are Arranging for One

The Peterborough Radial Railway Company are making arrangements for a big carnival to be held at the Jackson Park Rink on Friday of next week. It is the intention of the management to offer valuable prizes for the best costumes and the result should be a very large turnout of quaintly garbed skaters for the event. A big bon fire will be constructed for the occasion, and there will be a brilliant electrical display with the band in attendance.

AT HOME TO THE CHOIR LAST NIGHT

Miss M. Doherty Proves a Delightful Hostess to Her Friends

The members of St. Peter's choir were entertained by Miss Maggie Doherty, organist, at her home on Rubidge street, last night. A very enjoyable time was spent, social pastimes, cards, dancing and refreshments providing a pleasant evening.

CURLERS WILL GO TO ORILLIA

Bonspiel There Next Week—Will Practice On Open Air Rink

A meeting of the Curling Club was held in the Council Chambers last night to discuss important matters that have been presented. The open air rink on Charlotte street received due consideration and it was decided to continue with the idea. The ice for three rinks is in good condition and the curlers expected to use it this afternoon. A little building will probably be erected to hold the stones.

Four rinks have expressed their intentions of going to Orillia next week to participate in the bonspiel which has been arranged for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Electric arc lights have been hung over the ice at the rink and if the weather only remains cold the curlers will yet have a little of the sport which they expected before the season was opened.

AN ADDRESS ON BIRDS WITH SKETCHES

To Be Given By Mr. E. Elcome — The Champions Banquet

Those who attend the Boys' Meeting to-night at 7.30, at the Y.M.C.A. will hear the best talk on birds they have ever listened to. Mr. E. Elcome, the speaker, besides knowing his subject thoroughly tells some very funny stories and will also draw blackboard sketches to illustrate various peculiarities he wishes to point out in connection with different birds.

After the address a full explanation will be given of the "Champions" Banquet to be held two weeks from to-night. One hundred and fifty boys will be there.

IRONING BY ELECTRICITY

In winter time most houses have a coal range in operation constantly, as well as a furnace. And many housewives think that on ironing day this fire should be used.

To use it, however, every draft must be on, and the fire rushed at full speed. The result is that fully 15 cents worth of fuel is consumed. Is this economy? Is it wise? Not when a good electric iron is available.

A good electric iron can be operated for 2 1-2 to 3 cents per hour, at full current. When the iron possesses an automatic cut-off like the Collier-Cunningham automatic iron, the cost is reduced to half this amount. It therefore does not appear economical to pay 15 cents for coal when an electric from does the work for half this amount.

Music and Drama

THE GIRL FROM THE GOLDEN WEST

The Stoddart Stock Company presented the famous New York success, in which Blanche Bates had a long run, "The Girl from the Golden West," to a fair house last night. The production was the best that the company has put on since beginning their engagement, and Miss Stoddart in the title role played the part in a favourable manner. The public should not miss seeing the company while they are in the city.

To-night Hall Cain's celebrated work, "The Christian," in its dramatized form, will be presented. The company wish to please the public in their interpretations of the parts, hence the usual specialties will be eliminated.

FREE SEED FOR THE FARMERS

Mr. Sifton Urges Government to Extend Some Aid.

LOANS TO AGRICULTURISTS

Question Thoroughly Discussed In the House—Mr. Osler Calls It Spoon Feeding—Hon. Frank Oliver Replies—French Treaty Brought Up Again—Hon. Mr. Brodeur Defends Its Provisions.

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—The question of meeting the needs of the farmers of the Northwest for seed grain in view of the damage to the crop last season, was discussed in the House yesterday afternoon, nearly every western member and some Ontario men being heard. It was brought up by Clifford Sifton, this being the first time he has spoken this session.

R. L. Borden introduced a bill to amend the revised statutes of Canada, 1906. He explained its object is to make provision for the automatic issue of a writ for a bye-election within a reasonable time after the vacancy occurs.

In reply to Mr. Foster, the Finance Minister said the total Dominion revenue of the Yukon from March 31 to June 30, 1907, was $152,906; the expenditures were, on consolidated account, $19,481; on capital account, $104,357.

Sir Frederick Borden, replying to Mr. Reid (Grenville) said nineteen acres of the Plains of Abraham were leased to the Ross Rifle Co. on May 27, 1902, for ninety-nine years at $1 a year, without power to assign or sublet. He had no knowledge that the scheme to beautify the plains would involve the expropriation of these leased lands.

Necessity for Seed Wheat.

Mr. Sifton, on the orders of the day being called, arose to direct attention of the Government to the necessity of meeting the demand for seed grain in the Northwest, and he did not wish to be understood as saying the position of the people of Saskatchewan was a serious one. All things considered, they were in excellent shape, hich was a tribute to the agricultural possibilities of the country. In considerable sections of the province wheat had suffered from frost. A large portion of the province was ready for seeding operations, but unless some steps were taken by the Government a large area would not be seeded at all, and perhaps the balance would be seeded with inferior seed. Mr. Sifton thought the situation called for some action, and he understood a member of the Provincial Parliament would be in Ottawa in a few days to arrange for meeting the difficulty. It might be advisable for the authorities to make arrangements for temporary advances, which could be distributed by the Provincial Governments.

Mr. Lake (Conservative, Qu'Appelle) thought the situation was quite as serious with regard to oats. It had been Mr. Lake's intention to move that the Government make advances of money for the distribution of seed grain. This course had many advantages over the distribution of grain itself.

Dr. Cash (Liberal, MacKenzie, Man.) said wheat in his district was so badly frozen that none was shipped out last season.

Mr. Greenway (Liberal, Lisgar) said there was plenty of seed in Manitoba to supply the wants of the western provinces. The grain crops of last year yielded farmers $40,000,000. He heartily supported the suggestion.

Mr. Staples (Conservative, Manitoba) asked the Government to provide for the needs of the northern part of his province. Deal with all provinces alike, he said.

Mr. McIntyre (Liberal, Strathcona, Alta.) and Mr. Herron (Conservative, Alberta) supported the suggestion of Mr. Sifton, and then some of the Ontario members took a hand in the suggestion. Col. Sam Hughes, Dr. Sproule and E. B. Osler spoke. Dr. Sproule suggested that wheat distributed should be properly tested. Mr. Osler objected to the Government spoon feeding any class of people. If the Government advanced money directly it would be difficult matter to collect; and he thought farmers could be financed through a trust company, the matter being treated as a purely business proposition.

Mr. McCraney (Liberal, Southern Saskatchewan) said all his district farmers did not need any seed grain.

Mr. Jackson (Selkirk, Man.) would not advise a direct loan to farmers. Some years ago the Government had made a loan to farmers of Manitoba, and $30,000 of this money had not been repaid.

George Taylor (Conservative, Leeds) said the Government should confine its attention to the inspection of the seed supplied farmers.

Dr. Schaffner (Conservative, Souris, Man.) said there has been no demand for seed grain as far as he had heard. Mr. Sifton might have furnished some data.

Who Brought the Frost?

Mr. Knowles (Liberal, Saskatchewan) attributed the early frost in the west to the tour of the Opposition leader, but Mr. Borden said the frost occurred two weeks before his visit, about the time the Minister of the Interior made his tour.

Dr. Roche (Conservative, Marquette, Man.) and M. S. McCarthy (Conservative, Calgary, Alta.) also took part in the discussion.

Hon. Frank Oliver demonstrated the importance of seeding as large an area as possible. On the whole there had been a fairly good crop, but in patches frost had done considerable damage. The matter of affording relief to farmers of Saskatchewan had been discussed with the Provincial Governments, but the question of responsibility that should be assessed by each Government had not been decided. As to the suggestion that there might be political advantage in dealing with the question. Mr. Oliver feared the advantage would be with the Opposition, owing to the difficulty of pleasing everybody.

R. L. Borden closed the discussion He approved the suggestion and was sure no attempt would be made to secure political advantage out of the question. He was prepared to support the Government in any reasonable solution of the difficulty. The matter then dropped, and Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) brought up the question of custody of original papers produced before public accounts committee Wednesday. He asked that certain papers from the Public Works Department be produced, but was given no opportunity to examine them, as instructions had been given officers, in whose charge they were, to return them to the Department as soon as the committee adjourned. In order to inspect the papers, Mr. Bennett, who was examining the witnesses, would have to ask the committee to wait, and he wanted to know if this was to be the rule in future.

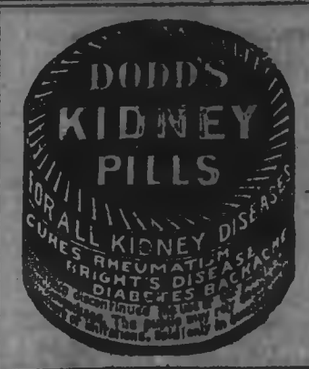
Sir Wilfrid said he would consult with the Minister of Public Works and give an answer to-day.

To a somewhat thin House Mr. Brodeur, who, with the Finance Minister, negotiated the French treaty, last night, proceeded to explain further the importance of the treaty, not only from the point of view of commercial advantage, but from that also of sentimentality. Mr. Brodeur spent some time in disputing the assertion that the Franco-Canadian treaty of 1893 had been negotiated by Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Brodeur thought that there was still a chance of reductions in the present duty, he hoped that there would be an increased trade in apples, but in reply to a question by E. D. Smith of Wentworth he admitted the duty had not been changed, and last year's export was only 850,000. He said a member of the Opposition from Montreal had been trying to stir up opposition to the treaty.

Mr. Ames, who was referred to, replied that he had simply asked his constituents for their opinion, as he was entitled to do.

In conclusion Mr. Brodeur urged the sentimental consideration for adoption of the treaty, as well as the effect its means would have in building up the trade of Canadian ports.



BURIED WITHOUT SERVICE.

Many Victims of Boyertown Horror Remain Unidentified.

Boyertown, Pa., Jan. 17.—This little borough, which lost one-fifteenth of its population in the opera house horror Monday night, turned to the task of burying its dead. Because of the condition of most of the bodies, the borough authorities have asked the bereaved relatives to bury the dead within three days. There was a slight hitch in the work of removing bodies from the morgues by order of Coroner Strasser. This was due to a mix-up in the identification of the body of a boy. There were three claimants for the body and all appeared before the coroner for permission to remove it. Each one was positive that the body was the one they were looking for.

There is not a clergyman in town able to conduct funeral services.

The borough has decided to buy eight lots for the burial of the unidentified dead.

Postoffice Robbed.

Highland Creek, Ont. 17.—Late Wednesday night thieves obtained an entrance to the postoffice here and secured $30 in cash and a registered letter. High Constable Ramsden was notified at once, and Provincial Constable Burns is working on the case. There have been a number of attempts made at robbery in different parts of the county recently, though for the most part unsuccessfully.

On Tuesday night two men were caught by Postmaster Kennedy of Agincourt in an attempt to obtain entrance to his store at that place. They had removed a large pane of glass when detected. They were pursued by Mr. Kennedy for some distance, but escaped.

Thaw's Crazy Action One Morning When She Was Ill.

STANFORD WHITE'S THREAT

Mrs. Thaw, Prisoner's Mother, Will Take the Stand To-day — Former Schoolmaster Thought Him Irrational as a Boy—More Evidence of Insanity — Defence Will Hurry Trial—Short Session.

New York, Jan. 17.—The non-arrival of important witnesses, who are hurrying to New York by steamer and train, caused an abandonment of the afternoon session yesterday and cut the morning sitting down to two hours. Mr. Littleton, counsel for the defence, announced that he would hurry the case along as rapidly as possible. It was explained that all evidence has to do with Thaw's of the past several years should be before the medical expert arrived to the stand to express a scientific opinion as to the defendant's mental condition at the time he killed Stanford White.

Mrs. William Thaw, mother of the accused, arrived from Pittsburg yesterday, and if strong enough may take the stand to-day. She had been ill for more than a month and at one time it was feared she would not be able to attend the trial at all. Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will not be offered as a witness until some time next week. All of the indications so far have been that District Attorney Jerome will make a desperate fight to have her testimony ruled out this year. Counsel for the defence are confident, however, that it will be allowed to go in, now that they have entered a formal specification of insanity in connection with the plea of not guilty.

The elder Mrs. Thaw figured indirectly in the evidence taken yesterday. In 1881 the master of the little Pennsylvania school where her son was a pupil was identified by the master and read to the jury. It told of the mother's great anxiety over the conduct of her son and the fear she entertained that his mind even then was unbalanced. The schoolmaster, 79 years old, was an impressive witness. He is Abraham R. Beck, an uncle of former Assistant Attorney-General James W. Beck, and he related many incidents which led him to the conclusion that young Thaw undoubtedly was irrational. The former assistant attorney-general was a spectator at the trial.

Benjamin Boman, formerly doorkeeper of the Madison Square Theatre, where Evelyn Nesbitt played in "A Girl from Dixie" in 1903, repeated the story he told at the first trial, of a threat made by Stanford White to find and kill Thaw before daylight.

One of Thaw's eccentricities, which it is said soon will be testified to, was the sending of 84 pounds of beef to Evelyn Nesbitt one morning when she was ill. The attorneys have the receipts for it.

Would Die For Thaw.

New York, Jan. 17.—One of the 2,000 strange letters which have been received by Mrs. Evelyn Thaw since Harry K. Thaw's trial began, which was made public yesterday, contained an offer from an Ohio man to substitute himself for Thaw, and, if necessary, be executed. The writer imposed the consideration that his family be paid $2,000,000 as soon as the proposed substitution is complete. His letter covered 600 pages. He declared that he was a double of the prisoner in appearance and could take Thaw's place in his cell by visiting him in prison in disguise.

The writer, whose name was not made public, said he had no special desire in regard to life, was not afraid to die, but made the offer in order to provide for his family. The letter was coherently written.

Four Children Dead.

Wingham, Jan. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James, who reside in Turnberry Township, one mile from Wingham, have been called for the fourth time in three weeks to mourn the death of one of their children. About Christmas time three of the little ones fell victims to diphtheria, and now the fourth, a boy of 14 years of age, has succumbed.

Adam Faust, who resided on the 2nd concession of Howick, committed suicide by jumping into a well. He was about 65 years of age and had been in a despondent state for some weeks.

Threw Eggs and Stones.

Agram, Croatia, Slavonia, Jan. 17.—The arrival here of Baron Ruuch, who recently was appointed Baron of Croatia, Slavonia, was made the occasion yesterday of hostile demonstrations against Hungary. When the baron appeared, accompanied by officials, he was greeted with jeers and fusillades of stones and eggs. They believe the use of their native language is threatened.

Black-Hand Outrage.

New York, Jan. 17.—An explosion, which the police attribute to the "Black Hand," occurred early yesterday in a tenement house in East 29th street, shattering the front of the building.

Pietro Onarato on Dec. 15 received a letter signed "Black Hand," in which he was directed to place $1,000 on the grave of a certain Italian in a Brooklyn cemetery within a month.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 17.—At a convention of delegates from labor unions, it was decided that a monster demonstration be made Monday to enforce the demands of the unemployed, for work or food and shelter.

Ten thousand men will assemble and march to the City Hall, where they propose to camp until the City Council takes favorable action.

ELECTRIC CAR TOPPLED OVER

Fell Twenty Feet Over Trestle Bridge Near Paris.

ON GRAND VALLEY RADIAL

Conductor Beacom of Brantford and Motorman Longhurst Badly Injured—Half Dozen Passengers Hurt—Pinned Beneath Wreckage—Slippery Rail Was Cause of Accident—Blocked by Snow.

Brantford, Jan. 17.—A Grand Valley Railway electric car dropped about twenty feet over a trestle bridge a mile and a half outside of Paris Wednesday evening, and Conductor Beacom of Brantford may die from the injuries he received, and seven or eight passengers sustained some painful bruises. The car should have left Paris at 7 o'clock, but was twenty minutes late. While the motorman was eating his lunch Conductor Beacom took charge of the car. As the motor approached a grade leading to the trestle bridge a slippery rail made moving difficult, and three different attempts had to be made. The third time, in backing up, one of the wheels left the rails, and the car was thrown over the side to the ground, about 20 feet. The passengers were taken out through the roof, and the motorman and conductor, who were the most serious hurt, were assisted to the home of Mr. Foulds, near by, where they were attended by doctors.

Conductor Beacom's injuries consist of crushed chest, fractured thigh and head bruises. Motorman Longhurst sustained a dislocated shoulder. Beacom was brought to the city yesterday, after being kept at a farmhouse near the scene of the accident over night.

The passengers injured are:

J. S. Buckwell, Boston, three ribs broken.

C. L. Morris, Toronto, back injured.

George James, Brantford, shoulder dislocated.

John Jefferson, Paris, injured about hip.

E. T. Rowland, Brantford, slightly hurt.

The following were on the car, but escaped injury: James Demming, Brantford; Mrs. James Miller and two children, Brantford; Isaac Newsome, Paris.

In backing up, in order to get up speed to make the run over the bridge, the rear truck left the tracks. This was not noticed owing to the protection afforded by the guard rail. When the bridge was reached the car topple over, and, leaving the truck, both front and rear, plunged over the bridge, landing on its side. The vestibule was badly smashed, the conductor being pinned beneath the motorman in the wreckage. Two passengers managed to get out and break the roof, thus releasing the others.

The Grand Valley officials state that the passengers were warned at Paris that the line was in bad condition owing to the snow, and that the trip was at their own risk.

London Woman Disappears.

New York, Jan. 17.—New York's police force is looking for Mrs. Frederick A. Warner, wife of a wealthy London (Eng.) shoe merchant, who disappeared yesterday after sending a letter to her relatives in Boston, Mass., saying she intended to take her life. Mrs. Warner came to America several months ago to visit her mother at Ashemont. She also spent some time with relatives at Montrose, N. Y. Warner sailed recently from London for Boston.

The letter to Boston was received by her brother, S. C. Briel, who came to New York immediately and appealed to the police to search for Mrs. Warner.

Cleverly Planned Escape.

London, Jan. 17.—A detective of the Pittsburg police department took John Scott, the self-confessed murderer of his stepfather, away on the midnight train to Pittsburg.

In reply to the officer as to how he got away so far without being caught he said: "I thought the matter over and concluded all the trains would be watched, so I made up my mind to travel by street car. I came direct on the radial roads from Pittsburg to Conneaut, where I boarded the Sheenango and came over to Port Stanley on Saturday morning. No one asked me a question until the detectives arrested me on Richmond street."

Huber Asks New Election.

Berlin, Jan. 17.—On the strength of Judge Chisholm's refusal to go on with recount proceedings owing to many irregularities of the returning officers brought to light in this investigation, Allan Huber, who was defeated by W. W. Uttley by four votes in the mayoralty contest, has decided to appeal for a new election.

There is much indignation extended by citizens generally at the disgraceful state of affairs thus brought to light.

Stage Went Through Ice.

Little Current, Jan. 17.—With the temperature below zero and in a blinding snowstorm, the mail stage with mail for 34 Manitoulin offices, Wednesday night went through the ice. A Toronto traveler was on board. Driver McEachern saved the mail. The stage and horses were lost.

Less Poaching.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,
J. H. STRATTON.

GREAT PRESS GAME IS NOW ON

Review Will Accept The Examiner Challenge For a Game

It is with pleasure that the Examiner is able to announce that the great press game with the Review is on once more. It is understood that the Tory organ will accept the Examiner's challenge in last night's issue, and skate-makers, druggists, doctors, ambulance keepers, undertakers, florists and the general public are asked to take this warning and govern themselves accordingly. The date of the disaster has not been settled, but both teams will go in settled, but both teams will go into active training at once and from now on the Review basement will resound with the bang of the puck against the furnace door, or the dull thud when it strikes the soft portion of Manager McRae's head. The Review, being smart scouring the east for players, while the Examiner has sent a hurry call to Edmonton to bring back Fred Whitcroft, associate sporting editor. No man who has ever played City League hockey will be considered fast enough to participate. The Review team is now attending the "First aid to the injured" classes at the Y.W.C.A., while Manager McRae is perusing that instructive pamphlet, "Easy lessons for the novice skater."

The Edmonton seniors arrived home from Battleford this morning feeling a little sore physically, but much elated over the results of the two games. All the team played exceptionally well in Battleford and the fact is their hockey was away above the class they played here. Crowley played a very strong game both nights and is deserving of much praise. The forward line worked systematically and the combination work was a feature. Wilson in goal played very well and stopped many hot shots. Whitcroft as usual was there all the time supported all the time by Campbell, Deeton and Millar. For Battleford, Tobin and Haddock on the forward line were stars, while Bissette in goal did phenomenal work. Haddock, who played the first of the season with Winnipeg, said he had no idea Edmonton was so strong. It could make a creditable showing against any of the Winnipeg teams, in his opinion.—Edmonton Bulletin.

By the way, that's a funny mixture, that bunch known as the Canadian Rugby Football Union. According to the delegates in attendance at the meeting, the Intercollegiate and Ontario unions are still members. In fact, the president of the Ontario union is one of its officers. And yet the O.R.F.U. suspended its senior champions for playing for the Canadian championship, and would not let its intermediate champions go in the same lot with the bunch who hold the Canadian intermediate championship.

Where does this leave us all at? Well, you can't see from here, and it looks to be up to somebody to explain. Why did President Sise of the O.R.F.U. accept, and why does he still hold office in a body that accepts an amateur definition which the O. R.F.U., as a member of the C.A.A. U., cannot accept? Why was Dr. Wright of the Intercollegiate union present, and also silent, at the annual meeting of a body which does not live up to the amateur rule of the Intercollegiate union?

The two football bodies which belong to the C. A. A. U. should be either fish, flesh, or good red herring. If they're going to abide by the C.A.A.U., they should not by their attendance at meetings give silent support to its opponents. Much less should they accept office with the latter. Nobody can serve two masters.—Toronto Telegram.

As an antidote to their defeat on Wednesday the Pill Pounders cut loose from the narrow paths of prevarication, after being rudely bereft of the dignity and glory which years of glory had enhaloed them. For shame! The darlings of the gentle lambs that would not stoop to slashing or tripping, the pets of their respective employers! What a decadence from those palmy days, when they were touted broadcast as invincible!

Worse than defeat, however, worse fate than the sad countenances of their ladies, worse than the reprimands of their backers, was the unsportsmanlike manner in which they report the game in a contemporary sheet. After asking the referee to keep the fence clear by not putting the men off, super-confident of victory based on their former prestige the "Pills" were trimmed by 5 to 1.

No disgrace there, even if it were the first in years. But to report to a paper that they had won, that their lady friends might not hear of the dread catastrophe! But they did learn it, and then the pedigree of the other team was quickly formed. But even so; the "Pounders" live up to their reputation every time they play and when it comes to pure genuine "soil" they are as scienced as the next seven.

YOUNG HORSES ARE SHIPPED

Bought Here and Sold at Auction in Toronto

The farmers of this district have a good opportunity of disposing of their horses to a Toronto buyer named Bellingram. He has just shipped three cars of horses, mostly one-year and two-year-olds. There were also four or five horses among them. Mr. Maurice O'Brien has taken him around through the country to farmers where he can secure the animals he wants, and he ships them from the nearest railway point to Toronto.

As soon as he has several loads to ship he advertises an auction to be held at his stables, which are located about 20 miles out Yonge street. They are taken from the train direct to the stables, where they are immediately sold by auction.

PLEA FOR A SHIFT IN THE LIGHTS

"More Light" Believes They Should Be in the Middle of the Street

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Now that the council of the city are fully organized for the transaction of business, permit me through the medium of the Examiner to call their attention to the poor service for effective street lighting. It is only needful to go almost any place in the city, when the lamps are lit, to notice that they are so placed that very many east shadows where light should be. Whoever has been responsible for their setting, they apparently wanted them as far skyway as possible. It is a fact that is capable of demonstration that the lower they are—not to be an obstruction—there will be more light. Again they are almost all in line with poles of all kinds on the street, and also on the tree line in residential parts. Permit me to suggest that if lights were placed in the middle of the streets much better results would be obtained.

Yours truly,
"More Light."

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 17. — Lower prices in London were reflected throughout the list here at the opening and in the early trading most stocks were quite weak. There was some better support on the decline than was the case yesterday and the bullish manipulation made its appearance in Nor Pac and Reading, and these stocks were used as leaders in advance. During the last hour there was some more realising and though the market had a strong undertone general sentiment looked for somewhat lower prices.

London is disposed to consider as of more importance on the future trend of prices here the statements of our road earnings than we do in this market. Yesterday's November Missouri Kansas and Texas statement showed a falling off in net earnings of 50 per cent., and the Gt Western statement to-day is about as poor. Consequently when the December and January net statements are made public we fear that a great deal of bearish sentiment will develop.

London also received with a good deal of dissatisfaction the statement of the reduction in Amal Copper dividend and this helped to influence selling in this market for foreign account. We look for a trading market and would buy good stocks on the dips and secure profits when obtainable.

France Wants a Share.

Paris, Jan. 17.—The Temps yesterday published a pointed editorial article complaining that Japan is not treating France fairly in the matter of the distribution of her foreign orders for industrial and war material.

The sportsmen, sinking down upon a mound of dead leaves, looked drearily about the bare autumnal woods and said that they were lost.

But the guide pointed to a spider's web. "It is easy to get your bearings if you are anything of a woodsman," he said. "A web like that, for instance, is nearly an infallible guide. Spiders nearly always choose a southern exposure for their houses. This web points due south.

"Tree bark is another guide, for it is harder, lighter, drier on the tree's north side. Gum, too, helps. Gum that oozes from the southern part of a tree is firm and amber colored, but north pointing gum is soft and gray.

"The hardwood trees, the oak and chestnut and ash, have all their moss and mold confined to the north side. The cedars and other evergreens bend their tips toward the south.

"Even stones are compasses in the wilds. Fronting the sunny south they are bare and dry. It is on their shady, damp, southern side only that they bear moss."

HAD THIRTY-TWO BOILS ON HIS BACK AT ONE TIME.

TWO BOTTLES OF BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS CURED HIM.

Boils are simply evidence of the bad blood within coming to the surface.

Just when you think you are cured of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your misery.

The only way to rid yourself of boils, pimples, and all skin blotches and blemishes, so that they will never return to bother you again, is to have the blood thoroughly cleansed of all of its impurities.

For this purpose there is no other blood medicine to equal Burdock Blood Bitters.

It has been on the market for over thirty years, and in that time we have received thousands of testimonials stating positively that it will cure the worst known cases of boils.

Mr. James Combs, Eden, Ont., writes: "I think Burdock Blood Bitters a great medicine for boils. I had them so bad I could not work. I had thirty-two on my back at one time. I used only two bottles of B.B.B. and they completely cured me. I cannot recommend it too highly.

SPOKE ON PRAYER AND SIN

Another Excellent Address at St. Andrew's Church at Last Night's Meeting

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

It is quite manifest that the meetings in connection with St. Andrew's special services are growing in interest. Last night there was an excellent congregation and the singing was hearty. The sacred solos rendered by Mr. Duncan Campbell and Mr. G. W. Mulligan were particularly inspiring.

Mr. Allan's address was most lucid, eloquent and convincing. He took as his subject, "What, therefore, God hath joined together, let not man put asunder."

Prof. Rabbi Duncan, a worthy servant of God, used to say that he found it hard sometimes to get hold of Christ, but in his pessimism he said he got hold of Christ by one handle, and, he, as a sinner, knew Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; he knew that from Christ he could not be cut asunder. Mr. Allan applied the text to the great department of Christian life—prayer.

The Old Testament definition of prayer is found in Numbers 7: 89—"Moses went into the sanctuary to speak to God. . . and God spoke to him." Is prayer to every Christian as real as that?

The New Testament definition of prayer is found in the words of Christ,—"Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

The law of prayer is as infallible as the law of electricity. The law of prayer is asking, taking and saying thank you. Take Christ at His word in I. John, 2; 12,—"Your sins are forgiven."

What is the secret of the Marconi system? Both transmitter and receiver are turned to the same keynote; so in prayer, the keynote is, "I come to do Thy will." In the ninefold poem of the spirit we find that love is the first, and the last is temperance. The Greek word is enchrakcia,—power within to fight against all evil and sin. If we are obedient to the law of God we shall have power to live, the life He wants us to live.

The Realm of Sin

Mr. Allan then applied the text to the realm of sin by quoting from Proverbs 28—"He that covereth his sin shall not prosper, but he that confesseth and forsaketh his sins shall have mercy." Henry Drummond tells the story of a doctor who had attended the meetings and his conscience became troubled. He had been dishonest in his examination, and until he confessed he could not enjoy peace. Dr. Drummond communicated privately with the secretary of the Senatus, and found that the student had made excellent papers in all other branches, and forgiveness was freely bestowed.

The text was also applied to the fact of salvation. Forgiveness is conditioned on confession and forsaking—conditioned on confessing and forsaking our sins. God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. This is the new heredity. A poor fellow claimed he could not live right because of tainted blood. His grandfather had been an awful slave to drink. But he was led to see that, whereas, "In Adam all die; in Christ all are made alive."

Mr. Allan closed by reference to the realm of faith. By an interesting illustration, he showed the difference between belief and trust, and urged upon his hearers the wisdom of not only believing about Christ and accepting truth, but to accept Him as a personal Saviour, and confess to Him. "If thous shalt believe in thine heart, and confess with thy mouth."

Mr. Scriver and Mr. F C Freeland will sing at to-night's meeting.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS STOTHART

After living in Smith township for three score and ten years, Mr. Thomas Stothart passed away last night at the farm on which he was born. His death occurred about midnight, the cause being a general breaking up of his ordinary good health.

Mr. Stothart has lived in the Township of Smith on the west half of lot 16, concession 2, all his life, and was well known throughout the county, and particularly in this city. For twenty years he carried on a successful milk business in Peterborough, and for a long time had perhaps the largest trade of any in his business. He had two wagons to carry his stock, and had a reputation for honesty and business ability that was always a credit to him.

Excepting for six years when he was working for the Shaw Lumber Company, he lived on his farm in Smith. The deceased was unmarried. The rest of the family are James and John of Smith, and two sisters, Mary and Ellen, also of Smith.

Mr. Stothart was a member of the Presbyterian church, and in politics he was known as a Reformer.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

EXAMINATION RESULTS TO APPEAR TO-MORROW

Mr. R. J. Devey, Organist of St. John's, Goes to London, Eng.

Yesterday Mr. R. J. Devey, organist and choirmaster of St. John's church, and family, left the city for London, England. Mr. Devey received intelligence of the serious illness of his father, and circumstances made it necessary, as it was natural that the former should be in London. Mr. Devey apprised the rector of the circumstances, leave of absence till Easter was given, and arrangements made for conducting the musical services, an interim organist and choir master having been appointed.

LIFE STORY OF THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG; THE SCAFFOLD THREE TIMES MYSTERIOUSLY FAILS

One of Most Baffling Murders of The Age in Which it Was Committed—"Babbacombe" Lee Got Alternative and Was Sentenced For Life

FREEDOM AFTER 23 YEARS

Tells His Story Below and Declares Himself Innocent—Was It An Intervention of Providence?—Back to His Mother and Home

Christmas Day found John Lee, the Englishman condemned 23 years ago to life imprisonment in Portland Prison, at his home with his aged mother for the first occasion in that lengthy lapse of time. Lee was the man they could not hang. Three times he was on the scaffold, and three times did an unforeseen accident occur which prevented the law from carrying out its course. The ordeal on the scaffold, when three abortive attempts were made by the executioner to hang him, sent a thrill of horror throughout the country, and the calm, firm demeanour of the unfortunate victim of this terrible incident confirmed the opinion that many held, and still hold, that a fearful mistake had been made, and that Lee was not the murderer a jury of his fellow countrymen had declared him to be.

He was sentenced for the murder of Miss Keyse at Babbacombe in the year 1884, of which he has always declared he was innocent, and still maintains it after a lapse of 23 years.

John Lee relates the story of his home-coming, and recalls the incidents leading up to the murder of Miss Keyse in the following words:

Little did I think when twenty-three years ago, I heard the judge pronounce the awful words of doom that make the guilty tremble, but never the innocent, that I should ever sit in my mother's kitchen, and once more hold her hand in mine.

There is the old kettle bubbling on the hob just as it used to do, when I was a boy. There are the old candlesticks I remember so well. And here are two prizes that I won when I was a boy.

The old china dogs on the mantlepiece, the candlesticks, bright as ever they were, the teapot on the dresser—how I remember all these things.

Only those who have spent half a lifetime in prison can realize what it is to come home again and find the old, old, things, even in a kitchen, just as they were when one left them.

But all is not as it was..... There are faces I look for but cannot see. I only know that over there in the little village church yard—I can see it from the window—is a grave where my portrait lies buried in my father's coffin. Mine was the last name that he uttered when he breathed his last five years ago.

I suppose I have changed after all these years. I feel old. When I went to prison after my terrible experience at Exeter, I was a young man, and had I been free, the world would have been before me. And, now after all these years I have to face the world just as if I were a boy again, with no more than a boy's knowledge and experience.

But God is good. From first to last He has not deserted me. I know that in all I undertake I shall have His helping hand. I am not afraid.

I shall need His help more now than ever I did. I have been made to think since I was released that freedom for a man such as I am is a more terrible thing than prison. It is no light task to have to face the world again with a story such as mine to carry about all the year's in one's heart.

I want to be alone with mother, away from the world.

From my window I can see the happy Devonshire village in which I was born. I can see the children playing about the cottage doors. But I cannot echo their gleeful laughter.

To all but my dear old mother, I am "Babbacombe" Lee.

Still, things had been made easier for me than I had imagined. I feared that there would be no Christian charity anywhere.

I was mistaken. From everywhere I have had kindly greetings. Old playmates have come and taken me by the hand.

The tears are in my eyes now as I think of it. Oh! if I could tell you all that is in my heartheart. I have stood by my father's grave and wept.

I have been to the church to thank God for all His mercies, to thank him for watching over my dear mother.

As I watch her now busying herself about the tea table, as she did years ago, there comes back to my imagination a picture of the fine woman she was when trial and misfortune first entered into our home.

And now she too has grown old. But to me she is the same mother, dearer and more precious than ever. She, too, has suffered much. She too, has been pointed at with the finger of scorn. Only her trust in God and her belief in my innocence have pulled her through. She knew that I was no murderer. She knew that the life they tried to take at Exeter was the life of an innocent man.

The God who protected me on that terrible day has protected her ever since. He has sent her good friends, kind-hearted men and women, who when the rest of the world was shrinking from her, never once hesitated to draw near to her with consolation and sympathy.

And to think that I should have been the helpless cause of so much sorrow and suffering! I was twenty years old when I was taken away.

I suppose I was nothing but a wild harum-scarum country boy. Dozens of such boys pass the gate of our cottage every day. I was not a model of virtue. Perhaps had it not been for one false step I might now have been a happy man with a wife and a family about my knees. Instead of that——

But let me tell the story from the beginning.

As I sit here by the fire I hear my mother say that I was born in this very village of Abbotskerswell, a little over forty-three years ago. My father used to work in the clay mines about here, but he also farmed a bit of land, so that as villagers go we were in fair circumstances. I can say but little about my childhood. I lived the life of all village children. I played about the fields and lanes, and when I was old enough I went to the village school.

So the years went by. On my fifteenth birthday my father called me to him in the evening and told me that I was now a man, and that all men went to work.

That was a proud day for me. I was going to help my mother.

In a few days I heard of a place at Babbacombe, not many miles from here. An old lady wanted a boy to look after a pony.

It went to Babbacombe. Just by the sea-shore was an old house called "The Glen," and in that house lived the lady who was to be my mistress—Miss Keyse.

I saw her with my mother. She seemed to be pleased with me, so pleased that she engaged me at once. I was to receive three shillings a week!

What a happy day that was for me, if I had only known what was to happen afterwards!

* * * *

So there I was in my first situation. I had nothing much to do. The pony was about thirty years old, I believe. They told me that it once belonged to my mistress' mother, and that it had been more or less pensioned off for its old age. I had to look after it just as one would nurse some infirm creature. I put it in its stable at night or took it out for exercise. When I was not looking after the pony I was generally going about with Miss Keyse. When she went visiting I used to bring her home at night. I was the boy.

I suppose there are people who would say that I ought to have stuck to my situation. But I wanted to see the world—how was I to do it?

Invalided From the Navy

I ought to explain to you that Babbacombe was a prosperous fishing village. The place was full of old sailors, who used to tell me queer yarns. All kinds of strange craft used to come and anchor in the bay. They were mostly small trading vessels, but every now and then a big man-of-war—one of the old-fashioned kind—would come in, and then I used to spend whole afternoons on the beach, watching the ships and the jack tars.

Time went on and every day I became more and more fascinated with a naval life that had taken possession of me.

I would be a sailor.

When I had been with Miss Keyse for eighteen months I went home and told my father that I wanted to join the navy.

I can remember now how angry he was. I could not even win over my mother. But I was not to be prevented from pursuing the course I had marked out for myself. I got all the necessary papers and asked my father to sign them. His reply was to tear them up in a fit of anger.

Nothing daunted, I went to Newton Abbott and got fresh papers. This time I was more cautious. I begged and entreated my mother to give her consent. With tears I told her how I had set my heart on the navy. At last, taking pen and ink, I went to my father in the fields, and there and then the papers were signed.

My delight knew no bounds. Off I went to the magistrate, Admiral Cornish Bowden, to get his signature.

"Going to join the navy, my lad?" he said.

"Yes, sir," I replied, saluting as I had seen the sailors doing at Babbacombe.

"A very good thing," he said.

Away I went with all my papers in order. After saying good-bye to father and mother, I left for Newton Abbott, and thence went to the depot at Exeter.

At Exeter I met a lot of other boys who had been drafted down down from London. In a few days we found ourselves on board the Circe at Plymouth—and I was on the way to being a sailor in Her Majesty's navy.

From the Circe I went to H.M.S. Implacable, where I remained till I was a first-class boy.

When I left the Implacable I carried away with me a prize which is on the table before me now.

It is called "The Bear-Hunters of the Rocky Mountains," by Anne Bowman.

I had found a profession. I was doing well.

Next I joined the training brig Liberty, and was afterwards sent to the Foudroyant for gunnery training.

I was now 18. In a few months I would have been rated as an ordinary seaman, when a misfortune befell me that was to be the first of a long series of troubles.

I was stricken down with pneumonia and sent to the Royal Naval Hospital. For some days I lay between life and death till they pulled me through — but at what a price!

The doctors told me I was no more use to the navy. I was invalided out. My career was closed.

I ought to have told you that all this time Miss Keyse had been keeping an eye on me. She used to write to me and give me good advice.

You can understand, therefore, how one morning my heart positively leaped for joy when I received a letter from her in which she told me she had arranged for me to go as footman to Col. Brownlow at Torquay. I gratefully accepted the offer, entered the colonel's service — and happened on my second great misfortune.

He was led Astray

I had not been there many weeks before the family went abroad. There was some talk of taking me, but the arrangement fell through, and I was left at home with the other servants.

At this time one of my friends was a young fellow, who was going to Australia. He wanted a few pounds and—well, I was led astray.

In my desire to help him I pawned some of the family plate. By means of the receipt the theft was traced to me. I was apprehended, and sent to Exeter for trial.

God help me! I had done wrong. I don't complain of my punishment. But I can't help thinking that in those days they were less merciful than they are now. In the eyes of the world I was a thief. The world had no mercy upon me.

I will remember the trial. I remember someone asking me if I was guilty.

"Guilty!" I said at once. I wanted to tell the truth.

My characters were handed up to the Bench, and, I suppose, they looked at them. Perhaps they didn't, for the magistrate said "Six months' hard!" and I was hurried away to prison.

It was my first offence. But no one took that into consideration. My mother and sister were waiting outside in the hall to speak for me. They were not even told my sentence was on. They didn't even know I had been sentenced till my solicitor went and told them!

Clutch of Circumstance

I now come to the saddest chapter of my story.

Fate, I suppose, had ordained that one more scene should complete the first act of my life-long tragedy. The Babbacombe murder was that scene.

The newspapers have called me "Babbacombe" Lee. I do not complain. The world has fastened upon my shoulders a load that I shall never be able to shake off. That terrible name will, I suppose, haunt me and mine for many a long day.

But let me say this, let me write it in letters of blood if so it can be written no other way: "I did not murder Miss Keyse!"

Outcast as I am, doomed perhaps to wander about the earth like a leper, that cry shall be heard wherever I go. I swear again: "I did not kill Miss Keyse."

I also remember being told by my step-sister that whilst I was in the navy the present King, who was then Prince of Wales, paid Miss Keyse a visit at Babbacombe.

Miss Keyse was, I believe, a maid of honour to Queen Victoria.

Besides the Queen's bedroom there was one occupied by the servants, who could get to her room either by the front door or by the back. Miss Keyse's bedroom was a small room near Harris'. I slept in the pantry.

JOHN LEE, A STRANGER TO LIGHT OF DAYS FOR 23 YEARS GOES FREE

At eight o'clock on the morning of the eighteenth of last month the iron gates of a prison opened, and out into the light of day stepped two middle-aged men.

One of them was an official in civilian clothes. He bore the hall marks of drill and discipline. The other man.

The other man! There was something strange about him. He looked hunted and cowed, like a creature crushed and broken. He seemed to hang back as if he were afraid of the light of day. He appeared to draw no happy inspiration from God's sunshine. He fumbled at his overcoat pockets as if the very possession of a pocket was a new sensation. He trod gingerly, as if the earth concealed a pitfall.

Away they went by cab and rail to Newton Abbot. There the two men walked to the police station, where the official announced that he was a warder from Portland Convict Prison in charge of John Lee, convict, on ticket-of-leave.

John Lee handed his ticket to the police officer, who read it.

What was it that made that policeman start as he read it? What was it that made him look so curiously at the tall, thin, clean-shaven elderly man before him?

It was this: Certain particulars on the ticket showed that on Feb. 4, 1885, the bearer was sentenced to death at Exeter Assizes for murder at Babbacombe. The man was "Babbacombe" Lee!

"Babbacombe" Lee was on his way to spend Christmas with his aged mother—John Lee, the man they could not hang, the man under whose feet the grim mechanism of the scaffold three times mysteriously failed in its appointed work.

The story of his life's ordeal John Lee himself will tell below. It is the story of one who, rightly or wrongly, was doomed in the first flush of manhood to a torture more fiendish than the human mind, unaided by the Demon of Circumstance, could have devised. It is the story of a man dangled in the jaws of death, and hurried thence to a living tomb whose terrors make even death seem merciful.

From his terrible ordeal John Lee emerges with the cry "I am innocent" still on his lips. And who that has suffered will not listen?

MINERAL POISONS DO NOT CURE

A great deal of harm results from the use of mineral poisons, particularly the mercurial poisons, such as calomel, or pills containing calomel. Many people do not understand the action of these poisons. The fact is that when a person is bilious or constipated, it is an evidence that the cells of the body are enervated or weakened. The taking of calomel stimulates the cells to temporary activity, in the attempt to throw off the poison, just as, even a weak person in great danger, is capable of surprising strength and activity. This is always followed, however by complete exhaustion when the danger is past. So it is with these poisons. The cells while temporarily stimulated, are eventually weakened and the trouble is aggravated. The proper method is to feed the cells, to supply them with nourishment, and this is best accomplished by the vegetable remedies Nature has provided. The most perfect combination of these is found in King Palmetto Compound, composed of Saw Palmetto, Corn Silk, Cascara Sagrada, Couch Grass, Golden Seal and Senna. No secret, just plain common sense, but scientifically prepared from absolutely pure ingredients. For Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache and a generally run down condition, King Palmetto Compound is better for you than pills or the virulent poisons. It purifies the blood and strengthens while it cures. If taken in time, King Palmetto Compound will prevent the development of the incurable diseases arising from impure blood, such as Bright's Disease and Chronic Rheumatism. Price $1.00 per bottle. SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;
Compound Salatone, one ounce;
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"It is of no consequence whether she be a servant or a duchess—has a mother or not. The point is whether these people have the countersign. If they have it they can pass, whoever they are."

"They have not," the captain answered at once. "I think you would do well, sir, to demand the lady's name."

Mademoiselle started forward for a bold stroke just as the superior officer demanded of her, "The countersign?" As he said the word she pronounced distinctly her name:

"Lorance"——

"Enough!" the colonel said instantly. "Pass them through, Guilbert."

The young captain stood in a mull, but no more bewildered than we.

"Mighty queer!" he muttered. "Why didn't she give it to me?"

"Stir yourself, sir!" his superior gave sharp command. "They have the countersign; pass them through."

As the gates clanged into place behind us Gilles stopped short in his tracks to say, as if addressing the darkness before him: "Am I, Gilles, awake or asleep? Are we in Paris or are we on the St. Denis road?"

"Oh, come, come!" Mademoiselle hastened us on, murmuring half to herself as we went: "O you kind saints! I saw he could not make us out for friends or foes; I thought my name might turn the scale. Mayenne always gives a name for a countersign; to-night, by a marvel, it was mine!"

I like not to think often of that five-mile tramp to St. Denis. The road was dark, rutty and in places still miry from Monday night's rain. Strange shadows dogged us all the way. Sometimes they were only bushes or wayside shrines, but sometimes they moved. This was not now a wolf country, but two-footed wolves were plenty and as dangerous. The hangers-on of the army—beggars, feagues and footpads—hovered, like the cowardly beasts of prey they were, about the outskirts of the city. Did a leaf rustle we started; did a shambling shape in the gloom whine for alms we made ready for onset. Gilles produced from some place of concealment—his jerkin or his leggings or somewhere—a brace of pistols, and we walked with finger on trigger, taking care, whenever a rustle in the grass, a shadow in the bushes seemed to follow us, to talk loud and cheerfully of common things, the little interests of a humble station. Thanks to this diplomacy or the pistol barrels shining in the faint starlight none molested us, though we encountered more than one mysterious company. We never passed into the gloom under an arch of trees without the resolution to fight for our lives. We never came out again into the faint light of the open road without wondering thanks to the saints—silent thanks, for we never spoke a word of any fear, Gilles and I. I trow mademoiselle knew well enough, yet never showed by so much as the turn of her head that she suspected any danger, but, eyes on the distant lights of St. Denis, walked straight along, half a step ahead of us all the way. Stride as we might, we two strong fellows could never quite keep up with her.

The journey could not at such pace stretch out forever. Presently the distant lights were no longer distant, but near, nearer, close at hand—the lights of the outposts of the camp. A sentinel started out from the coign of a wall to stop us, but when we had told our errand he became as friendly as a brother. He went across the road into a neighboring tournebride to report to the officer of the guard, and came back presently with a torch and the order to take us to the Duke of St. Quentin's lodgings.

It was near an hour after midnight and St. Denis was in bed. Save for a drowsy patrol here and there we met no one. Fewer than the patrols were the lanterns hung on ropes across the streets—these were the only lights, for the houses were one and all as dark as tombs. Not till we had reached the middle of the town did we see, in the second story of a house in the square, a beam of light shining through the shutter chink.

"Some one in mischief," Gilles pointed.

"Aye," laughed the sentry, "your duke. This is where he lodges, over the saddler's."

He knocked with the butt of his musket on the door. The shutter above creaked open, and a voice—monsieur's voice—asked, "Who's there?"

Mademoiselle was concealed in the embrasure of the doorway; Gilles and I stepped back into the street where monsieur could see us.

"Gilles Forestier and Felix Broux, monsieur, just from Paris, with news."

"Wait."

"Is it all right, M. le Duc?" the sentry asked, saluting.

"Yes," monsieur answered, closing the shutter.

The soldier, with another salute to the blank window and a nod of "goodby, then," to us, went back to his post. Left in darkness, we presently heard monsieur's quick step on the flags of the hall and the clatter of the bolts. He opened to us, standing there fully dressed, with a guttering candle.

"My son?" he said instantly.

Mademoiselle, crouching in the shadow of the door-post, pushed me forward. I saw I was to tell him.

"Monsieur, he was arrested and driven to the Bastille to-night between 7 and 8. Lucas—Paul de Lorraine—went to the governor and swore that M. Etienne killed the lackey Pontou in the house in the Rue Coupejarrets. It was Lucas killed him—Lucas told Mayenne so. Mlle. de Montluc heard him, too. And here is mademoiselle."

At the word she came out of the shadow and slowly over the threshold.

Her alarm and passion had swept her to the door of the Hotel St. Quentin as a whirlwind sweeps a leaf. She had come without thought of herself, without pause, without fear. But now the first heat of her impulse was gone. Her long tramp had left her faint and weary, and here she had to face not an equerry and a page, here to command, but a great duke, the enemy of her house. She came blushfully in her peasant dress, shoes dirty from the common road, hair ruffled by the night winds, to show herself for the first time to her lover's father, opposer of her hopes, thwarter of her marriage. Proud and shy, she drifted over the doorsill and stood a moment, neither lifting her eyes nor speaking, like a bird whom the least movement would startle into flight.

But monsieur made none. He kept as still, as tongue-tied as she, looking at her as if he could hardly believe her presence real. Then as the silence prolonged itself it seemed to frighten her more than the harsh speech she may have feared; with a desperate courage she raised her eyes to his face.

The spell was broken. Monsieur stepped forward at once to her.

"Mademoiselle, you have come a journey. You are tired. Let me give you some refreshment; then will you tell me the story."

It was an unlucky speech, for she had been on the very point of unburdening herself; but now, without a word, she accepted his escort down the passage. But as she went she flung me an imploring glance; I was to come too. Gilles bolted the door again and sat down to wait on the staircase; but I, though my lord had not bidden me, followed him and mademoiselle. It troubled me that she should so dread him—him, the warmest hearted of all men. But if she needed me to give her confidence here I was.

Monsieur led her into a little square parlor at the end of the passage. It was just behind the shop, I knew, it smelt so of leather. It was doubtless the sitting and eating room of the saddler's family. Monsieur set his candle down on the big table in the middle; then, on second thought, took it up again and lighted two iron sconces on the wall.

"Pray sit, mademoiselle, and rest," he bade, for she was starting up in nervousness from the chair where he had put her. "I will return in a moment."

When he had gone from the room I said to her, half hesitating, yet eagerly:

"Mademoiselle, you were never afraid on the way, where there was good cause for fear. But now there is nothing to dread."

She rose and fluttered round the walls of the room, looking for something. I thought it was for a way of escape, but it was not, for she passed the three doors and came back to her place with an air of disappointment, smoothing the loose strands of her hair.

"I never before went anywhere unmasked," she murmured.

Monsieur entered with a salver containing a silver cup of wine and some Rheims biscuit. He offered it to her formally; she accepted with scarcely audible thanks, and sat, barely touching the wine to her lips, crumbling the biscuit into bits with restless fingers, making the pretense of a meal serve as excuse for her silence. Monsieur glanced at her, puzzled-wise, waiting for her to speak. Had the Infanta Isabella come to visit him he could not have been more surprised. It seemed to him discourteous to press her; he waited for her to explain her presence.

I wanted to shake mademoiselle. With a dozen swift words, with a glance of her blue eyes, she could sweep monsieur off his feet as she had swept Vigo. And instead she sat there, not daring to look at him, like a child caught stealing sweets. She had found words to defend herself from the teasing tongues at the Hotel de Lorraine, to plead for me, to lash Lucas, to move Mayenne himself; but she could not find one syllable for the Duke of St. Quentin. She had been to admiration the laughing coquette, the stout champion, the haughty great lady, the frank lover, but now she was the shy girl, blushing, stammering, constrained.

Had monsieur attacked her with blunt questions, had he demanded of her up and down what had brought her this strange road at such amazing hour and in such unfitting company, she must needs have answered, and, once started, she would quickly have kindled her fire again. Had he, on other part, with a smile, an encouraging word, given her ever so little a push, she had gone on easily enough. But he did neither. He was courteous and cold. Partly was his coldness real; he could not look on her as other than the daughter of his enemy's house, ward of the man who had schemed to kill him, will-o'-the-wisp who had lured his son to disaster. Partly was it mere absence; M. Etienne's plight was more to him than mademoiselle's. When she spoke not he turned impatiently to me.

"Tell me, Felix, all about it."

Before I could answer him the door behind us opened to admit two gentlemen, shoulder to shoulder. They were dressed much alike, plainly, in black. One was about thirty years of age, tall, thin-faced and dark, and of a gravity and dignity beyond his years. Living was serious business to him; his eyes were thoughtful, steady and a little cold. His companion was some ten years older; his beard and curling hair, worn away from his forehead by the helmet's chafing, were already sprinkled with gray. He had a great beak of a nose and dark-grey eyes as keen as a hawk's, and a look of amazing life and vim. The air about him seemed to tingle with it. We had all done something, we others; we were no shirks or sluggards; but the force in him put us out, penny candles before the sun. I deem not Jeanne the Maid did any marvel when she recognized King Charles at Chinon. Here was I, a common lout, never heard a heavenly voice in all my days, yet I knew in the flick of an eye that this was Henri Quatre.

I was hot and cold and trembling, my heart pounding till it was like to choke me. I had never dreamed of finding myself in his presence. I had never thought to face any man greater than my duke. For the moment I was utterly discomfited. Then I bethought me that not for God alone were knees given to man, and I slid down quietly to the floor, hoping I did right, but reflecting for my comfort that in any case I was too small to give great offense.

Mademoiselle started out of her chair and swept a curtsey almost to the ground, holding the lowly pose like a lady of marble. Only monsieur remained standing as he was, as if a king was an every-day affair with him. I always thought monsieur a great man, but now I knew it.

The king, leaving his companion to close the door, was across the room in three strides.

"I am come to look after you, St. Quentin," he cried, laughing. "I cannot have my council broken up by pretty grisettes. The precedent is dangerous."

With the liveliest curiosity and amusement he surveyed the top of mademoiselle's bent head and monsieur's puzzled, troubled countenance.

"This is no grisette, sire," monsieur answered, his manner changed in an instant to one of utmost deference.

"Rise, mademoiselle," he begged, as if her appearance were the most natural and desirable thing in the world. "I could wish it were my good adversary Mayenne himself who was come to treat with us; but be assured his cousin shall lack no courtesy."

She swayed lightly to her feet, raising her face to the king's. Into his countenance, which mirrored his emotions like a glass, came a quick delight at the sight of her. The color waxed and waned in her cheeks; her breath fluttered uncertainly; her eyes, anxious, eager, searched his face.

"I cry Your Majesty's good pardon," she faltered. "I had urgent business with M. de St. Quentin—I did not guess he was with Your Majesty"——

"The king's business is glad to step aside for yours, mademoiselle."

She curtseyed, blushing, hiding her eyes under their sooty lashes; thinking as I did I made no doubt here was a king indeed. His Majesty went on:

"I can well believe, mademoiselle, 'tis no trifling matter brings you at midnight to our rough camp. We will not delay you further, but be at pains to remember that if in anything Henry of France can aid you he stands at your command."

He made a noble bow and took her hand to kiss, when she, like a child that sees itself losing a protector, clutched his hand in her little trembling fingers, her wet eyes fixed imploringly on his face. He beamed upon her; he felt no desire whatever to be gone.

"Am I to stay?" he asked radiantly; then with grave gentleness he added: "Mademoiselle is in trouble. Will she bring her trouble to the king? That is what a king is for—to ease his subjects' burdens."

She could not speak; she made him her obeisance with a look out of the depths of her soul.

"Then are you my subject, mademoiselle?" he demanded slyly.

She shook the tears from her lashes and found her voice and her smile to answer:

"Sire, I was a true Iguense this morning. But I came here half Navarraise, and now I swear I am wholly one."

"Now, that is good hearing!" the king cried. "Such a recruit from Mayenne is it heartening to discover that my conversion is not the only sudden one in the world. It has taken me five months to turn my coat, but here is mademoiselle turns hers in a day."

He had glanced over his shoulder to point this out to his gentleman, but now he faced about in time to catch his recruit looking triste again.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "you are beautiful grave; but as you had the graciousness to show me just now, still more beautiful smiling. Now we are going to arrange matters so that you will smile always. Will you tell me what is the trouble, my child?"

"Gladly, sire," she answered, and dropped down a moment on her knees before him to kiss his hand.

I marvelled that Mayenne and all his armies had been able to keep this man off his throne and in his saddle four long years. It was plain why his power grew stronger every day, why every hour brought him new allies from the ranks of the League. You had only to see him to adore him. Once get him into Paris, the struggle would be over. They would put up with no other for king.

"Sire," mademoiselle said with hesitancy, "I shall tire you with my story."

"I am greatly in dread of it," the king answered, ceremoniously placing her in a chair before seating himself to listen. Then, to give her a moment, I think, to collect herself, he turned to his companion:

"Here, Rosny, if you ache to be grubbing over your papers do not let us delay you."

"I am in no haste, sire," his gentleman answered, unmoving.

"Which is to say, you dare not leave me alone," the king laughed out. "I tell you, St. Quentin, if I am not dragooned into a staid, discreet, steady-paced monarch 'twill be no lapse of Whip-King Rosny's. I am listening, mademoiselle."

She began at once, eager and unfaltering. All her confusion was gone. It had been well-nigh impossible to tell the story to M. de St. Quentin, impossible to tell it to this impassive M. de Rosny. But to the King of France and Navarre it was as easy to talk as to one's playfellow.

"Sire, I am Lorance de Montluc. My grandfather was the Marshal Montluc."

"Were to-day next Monday, I could pray, 'God rest his soul,'" the king rejoined. "But even a heretic may say that he was a gallant general, an honor to France. He married a sister of Francois de Balafre? And mademoiselle is orphaned now, and my friend Mayenne's ward?"

"Yes, sire. I came here, sire, to tell M. de St. Quentin concerning his son. And though I am talking of myself, it is all the same story. Three years ago, after the king died, M. de Mayenne was endeavoring with all his might to bring the Duke of St. Quentin into the League. He offered me to him for his son, M. de Mar."

"And you are still Mlle. de Montluc?"

She turned to monsieur with the prettiest smile in the world.

"M. de St. Quentin, though he has not fought for you, sire, has ever been whole-heartedly loyal."

"Ventre-saint-gris!" the king exclaimed. "He is either an incredible loyalist or an incredible ass!"

Even the grave Rosny smiled, and the victim laughed as he defended himself.

"That my loyalty may be credible, sire, I make haste to say that I had never seen mademoiselle till this hour."

"I know not whether to think better of you for that, or worse," the king retorted. "Had I been in your place, beshrew me but I should have seen her."

Monsieur smiled and was silent, with anxious eyes on mademoiselle.

"M. de St. Quentin withdrew to Picardie, sire, but M. de Mar stayed in Paris. And my cousin Mayenne never gave up entirely the notion of the marriage. He is very tenacious of his plans."

"Aye," said the king, with a grimace, "Well I know."

"He blew hot and cold with M. de Mar. He favored the marriage on Sunday and scouted it on Wednesday and discussed it again on Friday."

"And what were M. de Mar's opinions?"

She met his probing gaze blushing but candid.

"M. de Mar, sire, favored it every day in the week."

"I'll swear he did!" the king cried.

"When M. le Duc came back to Paris," mademoiselle went on, "and it was known he had espoused your cause, sire, Mayenne was so loath to lose the whole house of St. Quentin to you that he offered to marry me out of hand to M. de Mar. And he refused."

"Ventre-saint-gris!" Henry cried. "We will marry you to a king's son. On my honor, mademoiselle"——

"Sire," she pleaded, "you promised to hear me."

"That I will, then. But I warn you I am out of patience with these St. Quentins."

"Then you are out of patience with devotion to your cause, sire."

"What! you speak for the recreants?"

"I assure you, sire, you have no more loyal servant than M. de Mar."

"Strange I cannot recollect the face of my so loyal servant," the king said dryly.

But she, with a fine scorn of argument, made the audacious answer:

"When you see it you will like it, sire."

"Not half so well as I like yours, mademoiselle, I promise you! But he comes to me well commended, since you vouch for him. Or, rather, he does not come. What is this ardent follower doing so long away from me? Where the devil does this eager partisan keep himself? St. Quentin, where is your son?"

"He had been with you long ago, sire, but for the bright eyes of a lady of the League. And now she comes to tell me—my page tells me—he is in the Bastille."

"Ventre-saint-gris! And how has that calamity befallen?"

A WONDERFUL CURE OF RHEUMATISM

THE CAUSE An excess of uric acid and ureates are deposited in the tissues of the body and joints, causing aches and pains which are called rheumatic.

All the various causes of rheumatism, such as the acute, articular, muscular and gout, have the same common cause—Uric Acid.

To effect a satisfactory cure the uric acid must be removed. This can only be done by introducing into the circulation a remedy which will dissolve the uric acid and stimulate the action of the excretory organs.

No Case That Ferrozone Can't Cure

The remarkable success of Ferrozone is due to the fact that it attacks the disease in the blood. It goes right to the root and cause of the trouble.

Ferrozone is a perfect solvent for uric acid and quickly destroys its evil effect. It stimulates and quickens the sluggish circulation and drives every trace of rheumatic poison out of the system.

Rheumatism Can't Last If FERROZONE is Used.

We have conclusive proof of this. The strongest possible endorsements from people who have been cured after all else failed. If you suffer from rheumatism yourself, or in case you have a friend or relative subject to this disease, read the following—they tell their own tale.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE CURED

Mr. Louis Noll, 15 Fulton street, New York, N. Y., writes: "Ever since boyhood I have been a sufferer from rheumatism. My joints were twisted and swollen, and the pain at times was really intense. I used gallons of liniments, vapor baths, and other treatments, but was first noticeably relieved by Ferrozone. It cured me perfectly after taking twelve boxes."

Mr. Henry Heer, Pharmacist, 23 Eldridge Ave., New York, vouches for Mr. Noll's absolute cure. He says: "Mr. Noll has been freed from chronic rheumatism by Ferrozone. For years he has not been so well, and today shows no signs of rheumatic trouble. It is a pleasure to recommend Ferrozone."

The BEST remedy for rheumatism that science has produced is Ferrozone—it is unquestionably the only sure and lasting cure. Sold everywhere by druggists. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50—by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

Not a Miracle But Medical Science

Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:—

"Some time ago I began to lose flesh and failed every day until I had to quit work. My physicians and all my friends said I had contracted consumption. I failed from 165 pounds down to 119. I was advised to go to the Rockies or to the coast. I went to both places under heavy expense. I continued to fail, and was advised by the doctors to come home as nothing more could be done for me. Hope seemed to have left me.

"I tried Psychine and since starting its use I have gained from 119 to 141 pounds. I have used $10.00 worth of the medicine. I am a well man and I cannot say too much in praise of Psychine. The strongest recommendation would be weak in view of the fact that I believe it has saved my life. It is without doubt the best remedy for run-down conditions and weak lungs.

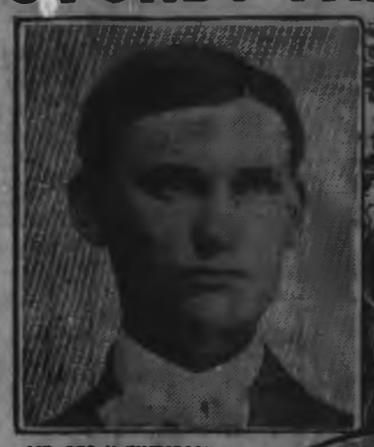
"I sincerely hope and trust that you will continue your good work of saving run down people and consumptive from the grave. Wishing you and Psychine continued success, I remain, one of Psychine's best friends."

ALEX. MaRAE,
Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Almost every mail brings us letters like the above. Psychine will repeat this record in every case. It is the greatest medicine known. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Toronto.

STURDY FARMERS KEEP OFF ALL CATARRHAL ILLS BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na, a Most Reliable Remedy For All Climatic Ailments.



MR. GEO. H. THOMPSON.

At Work On the Farm and Feeling Well All the Time.

Geo. H. Thompson, Craft, Miss., writes:

"I have been cured of catarrh by your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I had been affected with catarrh of the stomach about all my life, and was taken bad every Spring and Summer.

"I used several kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good. I then took a treatment under an M. D., which did me but little good. By this time I had come to where I could eat nothing but a little soup. I had severe pains, had lost in weight and could not do anything. I began taking your medicines, Peruna and Manalin. I then weighed 125 pounds, but after taking several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin, I weighed 168 pounds.

"I am now at work on the farm and feel well all of the time. I eat all I want to and my friends say that I look better than ever before. I will ever praise Peruna for its healing power."

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Remedy.

If Peruna proves efficient for catarrh in one place, it will be equally potent in any other place, because it is a systemic remedy.

The people generally are very much misinformed as to the nature of catarrh.

Catarrh is usually believed to be confined to the head, nose and throat. Lately we sometimes hear of catarrh of the stomach and catarrh of the bowels. Seldom, if ever, do we hear of catarrh of any other organs.

It is not because these organs are not subject to catarrh, nor that catarrh of these organs is not a very common disease, but simply because it is not generally known that affections of these organs may be due to catarrh.

MR. W. J. TEMPLE.

Climatic Ailments Overcome By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. W. J. Temple, R. F. D. 8, Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"I am a farmer and so necessarily must be exposed to all kinds of weather. About three years ago last winter, I was taken sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

"One doctor called it ulceration of the bowels, another called it colitis. Another doctor helped me temporarily.

"Then a druggist recommended Peruna and I followed his advice. I took altogether five bottles and I consider myself a well man.

"Before using Peruna, it was utterly impossible for me to do a day's work, but now I can do farm work without the least trouble or fatigue. I consider Peruna the best medicine and tonic on the market.

"I had not eaten a meal for five years without distress until I took Peruna. I have recommended it to several friends with good results."

MR. GUSTAV SCHMIDT.

Chronic Catarrh of Head and Throat Lasted Thirty Years.

A Letter Praising Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Gustav Schmidt, Spring Valley, Ill., writes:

"I had catarrh of the head and throat for over thirty years. It became worse every year. About three months ago I commenced to take Peruna and Manalin, and now I am entirely cured of that troublesome sickness. Your medicine is surely a blessing to mankind. You can truly say that you have not lived in vain, Doctor, and I thank you for the good you have done me. May you [illegible] a long life to help suffering humanity."

DR. HARTMAN, THE FARMER.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, the inventor and original manufacturer of Peruna, is one of the best farmers in the Middle West.

His farm comprises several thousand acres of the best land in the State of Ohio, located near the City of Columbus.

As an importer of French Percheron and German Coach horses, the Doctor has not an equal in this country.

The fowl-raising department is a marvel of ingenuity and perfection; but, perhaps the dairy department is where the Doctor shows his greatest sense of order and sanitary science.

His milk cows, of the purest Jersey stock, have all been subjected to the tuberculin tests, and he gives to the City of Columbus a pure milk, certified by the Board of Health.

The milk stables, the milk men and the whole process of milking are absolutely faultless and clean.

The Doctor himself, past 70 years of age, is the managing head of the farm.

He himself supervises the working details of every department.

He is a model of strength and vitality, and since Peruna is the only remedy he ever makes personal use of, his physical condition is a testimonial to the efficacy of Peruna of greater value than could be framed in words.

Dr. Hartman is one of the few doctors who take their own medicine and his splendid physique and strength in his old age are an eloquent argument for Peruna very difficult to gainsay.

Dr. Hartman, being a farmer himself, knows what the farmer needs and in speaking of Peruna to the farmer he speaks to his own kind of people.

Pe-ru-na For Bowel Trouble.

Mr. Stanly Bell, Ashley, Ohio, writes:

"I was afflicted with rheumatism so badly that it was painful for me to move. I took two or three bottles of Peruna when I began to feel better. It also gave me relief from bowel trouble."

MR. J. B. ALEXANDER.

A Necessity in the Home.

J. B. Alexander, publisher of the "Fruit and Floral Guide, a Magazine of Horticulture," published in Hartford City, Ind., says of Peruna:

"I was afflicted with catarrh of the throat and head for over ten years. I was treated by many physicians, but grew worse until I was seldom able to go out in cold weather.

"About one year ago I was advised to try Peruna, which I did, and I am now entirely well of the catarrh.

"Peruna is a necessity in our home. With the first symptoms of a cold we use it, and are never afflicted with catarrh.

"I advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to try Peruna. There is certainly nothing equal to [illegible] catarrh medicine."

71 Years Old and Able to Work.

Mr. John G. Hirdler, Garfield, Kas., writes:

"I was injured by a fall on the railroad and my entire nervous system was impaired by the same. The help of a physician was useless.

"I then tried Peruna and after using it for three months was entirely well. I am 71 years old and my work on the the railroad is hard and tedious, but I can work like a young man in all kinds of weather, heat, cold, rain, snow or storm alike."

MR. HENRY SCHROEDER

Pe-ru-na, a Household Remedy.

Mr. Henry Schroeder, Estey, Mich., writes:

"I suffered for almost ten years with catarrh of the stomach and all doctoring was of no avail. I took nine bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin and am now entirely cured.

"I recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this disease. It is my household friend."

One of Dr. Hartman's Grateful Correspondents.

Mr. W. R. Callahan, proprietor of Big Hill Farm, and prominent fruit-grower and stock raiser, Glenville, Va., writes:

"I write to express my kindness toward you and your good medicine, Peruna.

"I had a very bad spell of sickness and could not eat anything at all. My head, stomach, in fact, my whole body ached, and it looked as though nothing would do me any good. I had almost given up.

"I decided to try a bottle of your Peruna and before I had taken half the bottle my appetite came to me and my head became all right. In fact, I was all right all over. Peruna cured me."

While Peruna is not confined to any one class of people, yet it is probably true that the farming class more than any other, rely upon Peruna for the prevention and cure of all climatic diseases.

Health and Vitality for old People

A old age creeps on vitality is lowered, the heart beats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery, and the power is resistance is lessened. It is thee old people above all others who require the new life and energy, which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Thousands of old people depend on this treatment, because it calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood, builds up the system and instills new life and vigour into their shrivelled arteries.

Omemee Farmers Are Prosperous

Are Experimenting With Seed Grain—New Council Meets

Examiner Special:

Omemee, January 15. — The new council met to-day, shook hands and said good-bye to the old members, some of whom appeared more sad than joyful.

There have been three valuable imported horses sold here lately by the horseman from Scotland, staying at the Commercial House. The buyers were H. Beatty, J. Spence and Sam. Fee.

The Omemee tannery is securing large quantities of tan bark at $7.50 per cord, delivered here.

An effort is being made here by the business men to persuade Mr. Beatty to remain as proprietor of a temperance hotel by offering exemption from taxes.

Our high school has more pupils this season than it was ever known to have before.

The recent snow storm was quite a surprise, and the farmers are now hauling out all their spare wood and grain.

There are an unusual number of farmers experimenting in different varieties of grains, roots and vegetables from different sources.

There will be a hockey match at Bethany this week, and with Lindsay at the Omemee rink on Saturday night.

Farmers' Institute meetings and meetings of agricultural societies are now the order of the day.

Deputation to Assist Power Company to Secure a Lease

Large One Will Visit Ottawa Representing Belmont And Methuen and Towns in Neighborhood—Meeting Was Held

A RESOLUTION WAS PASSED

Examiner Special:

Havelock, Jan. 15.—A deputation from Havelock drove out to the township hall on Monday to secure the assistance of the council of Methuen Belmont for the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, and after listening to addresses from Mr Wm Matheson, J. P., Councillor-elect G. Phillips and Thos Wood, of Havelock, and Managing Director J A Culverwell, of Port Hope, and also further addresses from the following township ratepayers, who were present, namely—Trans. Jas Wilde, Alex. Lemson and J B Peppiss, the council passed unanimously the following memorial to the Dominion Government:—

Resolved, that this whole council and the clerk of the townships of Belmont and Methuen, at the request of a large deputation of ratepayers of Havelock and of the townships, be a deputation to go to Ottawa along with Havelock and Norwood councils, and with a deputation of leading business men and manufacturers of teh lake front towns and cities to request as we do now re-quest the Dominion Government to grant a lease of their intervening portions of Hast-[illegible]. Besides to the Northumberland-Durham Power Company, Limited,—the company holding a lease of the Healey Falls and lower adjoining rapids and owning portions of the upper rapids, and a patent of the land, 56 acres, required for developing the works.

These townships situated as they are in the heart of an iron-making district are greatly dependent on the electric power for their growth in that direction, as well as for their development of flour mills and factories and electric railways, which will benefit the farming districts adjoining, and we strongly urge the Dominion Government for an immediate settlement as the Ontario Government has already done at the request of 17 other municipal councils.—Carried.

Dated at township hall, this 13th day of Jan. 1908.

JAS. W RUSSELL,
Reeve,
W. H. JOHNSTON,
Clerk.
(Seal.)

The question being asked at the council meeting if it were a proper thing for the council to spend money for a deputation to the Ottawa Government, for a private company, it was stated in reply that the Healey Falls Power Company's rates were regulated by the Ontario Government, this being the true system of public ownership. It was also explained that this council would only be following the example of 17 other councils. It was also explained that the company which would benefit the town, farming and mining community was not asking for any bonus which any electric railway always receives. This reply quite satisfied all

ARE STORING ICE AT HAVELOCK

Operations Have Again Begun By The C.P.R.—The Number of Bicelks Increase Each Year

ICE COMES FROM NORWOOD

Examiner Special:

Havelock, Jan. 14th — Operations have begun at storing ice at Switt & Co's ice house here, of which Mr. J. W. Bryans, of town, manager. The ice this year is got from Norwood. Several years ago it was brought from Peterborough, but the company found Peterborough too distant.

The ice is loaded by contract, Mr. Hugh Robb, of Norwood, being the contractor for this year's supply of ice. He already has a large number of men employed and is loading the average number of cars per day. The best ice is that which is perfectly clear, but sometimes snow is mixed with the water in freezing, making an inferior ice which melts and breaks easier than the clear ice. When the ice is taken off a certain part it is allowed to freeze again and then a second crop is taken off which often proves to be better ice than the first.

It requires between twenty and thirty men to load the ice at Norwood.

At Havelock during the storing of ice it generally takes 30 or 35 men, according to whether the ice runs easy or not on the skids, and also according to the number of cars loaded, as it is necessary to unload the ice as quickly as possible or it will freeze to the bottom of the car.

The engine has to spot cars which has to be done about every 15 or 20 minutes, which is the length of time it takes to unload a car of ice.

It generally takes about 325 cars of ice to fill the ice house, but the number is increasing each year, according as the amount of ice used increases and as the company are shipping more dressed beef and not so much live stock the amount of ice used is increasing each year. The company is shipping more over this line in the past few years than before.

The ice is taken to Havelock, sometimes in whole train loads, but mostly by two or three cars being added to each train passing through. The way freight from the west carries the most of it as it has to stop at Norwood and generally has only about 6 or 7 cars on it.

PINK PILLS WILL CURE RHEUMATISM

Every Form of the Disease Yields to This Blood Building Remedy

It is easy to make the statement that a medicine will cure rheumatism, but the rheumatic sufferer must have more than mere statements—he must have both reasons and proof. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all forms of rheumatism. Here is the reason: Rheumatism is a disease of the blood. Every dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, rich, red blood —This new blood drives out the poisonous acid, loosens the aching joints, and rheumatism is banished. Thousands have testified to the truth of these statements, and here is further fresh proof. Mr. Raoel Montigny, of St. Jerome, Que., says: "For many years I was a victim of rheumatism and was almost a cripple. My work made it necessary for me to be on my feet a good bit of the day, but my limbs became so swollen and the pain so agonizing that I was forced to stop work. I tried remedy after remedy but nothing gave me relief and I began to think I would never get better. At last I was persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In less than a month I noted a slight change in my condition. I continued the Pills for three months and at the end of this time the swelling had disappeared; every pain and ache had left me and I felt better in every way. I was completely cured and once more able to go about my work with ease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are certainly worthy of all the praise I can give them."

Thousands write giving just as strong proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—not only as a cure for rheumatism, but as a cure for all the ailments finding their root in bad blood such as anaemia, heart palpitation, indigestion, kidney trouble, headache and backache, disordered nerves, etc. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PASSING OF THE FUR TRADE

Many of the Fur Bearing Animals Are Becoming Rare—Fur Markets Of The World

COLOURING OF SHEEP SKINS

Some interesting facts regarding the world's fur trade are given by Vice-Consul Burrell, of Magdeburg, Germany: "Occasionally one hears the fear expressed that the fur-bearing animals are becoming extinct. The fur trade of America is larger to-day than ever before. It is true that the buffalo no longer comes into consideration as a fur-bearing animal, and the beaver is also nearly extinct in most countries. The sea otter, which formerly furnished 100,000 furs annually, yields not 400 at the highest, and the seal also seems to be rarer, as the number of sealskins has decreased from 100,000 to 10,000 yearly, but other fur-bearing animals have taken the place of these, and the dimensions of the American fur trade are at present greater than they have ever been. More money is now earned on skunk, muskrat and fox furs than ever before, on beavers, sea otters, seals and other rare furs. The depots in the United States and Canada send the largest part of the furs they receive to the three famous fur markets of the world —London, Leipsic and Nishni Novgorod. The buying itself is done by expert fur brokers.

"In London the furs are sold by auction, and an average of $5,000,000 worth of raw furs is disposed of there annually. The principal sale in Nishni Novgorod, Russia, takes place in August. There are the Asiatic furs, such as Persian lambs and Astrachans, Mongolian goatskins and Siberian sables, ermine, rare squirel furs, and, although in very small quantities, otters and seals are sold. The Leipsic market is held at the great fur 'messe' at Easter time. To it come buyers and sellers from North and South America, Persia, China, Siberia, Japan, Tibet and England. The 'messe' lasts two weeks and is an interesting relic of mediaeval times, which still retains its importance.

"Germany takes the foremost place in the colouring of all skeepskins which is attributed to the composition of the German river water and to the properties of the German clay. There are sent annually to the sales at Leipsic and Nissi Novogorod 200,000 English fox skins, 500,000 German fox skins, 300,000 Russian fox skins, 90,000 American red fox skins and over 50,000 Alaskan fox skins of all sorts."

DRINK PLENTY OF GOOD WATER

Also Valuable Recipe to Relieve Kidney Trouble Anyone Can Prepare

TRY THIS AT YOUR HOME

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of stomach trouble, kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

"Stop loading your system with patent medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water wagon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines — plain, common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

When requested for such a prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney trouble, the answer was: "You must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so that it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions I would suggest the following prescription, which is composed of only vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy. Any one can mix them by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. To be taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often." This valuable information and simple prescription should be pasted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

SHOWS ARE ANXIOUS TO COME HERE

Mr. Small Says This is One of The Best Cities in Canada—All Good Productions Want to Come

According to the statements made by the managers of the different theatrical organizations who have visited this city, there is a unanimous opinion in dramatic circles that this is one of the best cities for the showman in the country. It is in very few places that the actors and actresses play before such appreciative audiences as those to be found in this city. The people of this city refuse to patronize anything third class, and the theatrical companies have come to realize that anything not up to the standard will meet with poor success here.

The manager of the Partello Stock Company, which played here a short time ago, said it was a pleasure to play in Peterborough, and he hoped that he would be able to secure a booking for his company some time again. If it had not been for the hard times in the United States this company would not have had to come to Peterborough.

Mr. Barnstead, the business manager of the Stoddard Stock Company, is also pleased with this city. He told the Examiner that every manager he had come in contact with advised him to secure a booking for Peterborough if he could. He never heard any city so highly spoken of as this. The last time he saw Mr. A. J. Small, the head who controls this circuit, he was told to get an engagement with Peterborough if he could.

"There is no use of any poor or third class aggregation going down there," said Mr. Small. "They won't stand for it at all, and if you have a good show you would do better than book some of the best shows that have visited Canada this year, play a one night stand in Peterborough before they leave for the United States, and their managers go away well pleased."

The theatrical-loving public of Peterborough have yet to learn to appreciate the best productions. We have had the greatest actor, Louis James, here and he went away so disgusted that he never wanted to see this town again. John Griffith and Thos. E. Shea also invaded Peterborough and the latter said that if he got such a poor reception in every town as he got here he would quit the stage. Ludlowe, one of the greatest actors that ever played on the local stage and who tried to give the people of Peterborough a real dramatic treat, was shown little appreciation for his pains.

Speaking at Boston, Lincs, the Postmaster-General said the revenue of the postoffice was in a very flourishing condition, showing signs of elasticity and expansion. He did not know how far this had been due to the latest craze represented by Lamcrick competitions, in regard to which the figures as to the sale of sixpenny postal orders were remarkable. In the three months of August, September and October of 1906 the total number of sixpenny postal orders sold was 311,000. In the corresponding three months of 1907 the number was no less than 5,772,006, or 18 times as many. The 2s. and 2s. 6d. orders also showed a considerable increase. It was not his business, as Postmaster-General, to commend or condemn these competitions.

Viscount Tredegar, Lord Lieutenant of Monmouthshire, has just been presented at a large meeting at Newport with a number of gifts embodying the tribute of all sections of the country to his personal worth and public services. The gifts included a portrait in oils, a gold cup, an illuminated album, and a sum of £2,000, which Lord Tredegar handed back to be invested for the benefit of the six hospitals in Monmouthshire. Lord Tredegar, who, as Lieut. Godfrey Morgan, rode with the 17th Lancers in the charge of the Light Brigade, sat in the House of Commons as Conservative member for Brecknock for 17 years. He owns 40,000 acres in Monmouthshire, of which county he has been Lord Lieutenant since 1889.

While making preparations to celebrate his golden wedding, John Cole Aldis Gardner, aged 78, of Eccles, Lancs., died the other night. He went to work in the morning, but afterwards up to 8 o'clock he was busy carrying seats from Winton Chapel to his house for his tea party. He then sat down, tired, and said to his wife, "Sarah, I have not much strength," and she put her arm behind his head and gave him a little brandy as he seemed faint, and there he peacefully passed away with his wife's arm around him.

As a funeral party was returning from the churchyard at Lowestoft, Suffolk, a tree was blown down by a recent gale and fell across one of the carriages. The front of the vehicle was smashed in, and the forepart separated from the body, but the three occupants escaped with nothing worse than slight cuts from the broken glass. The driver, however, was badly injured, being struck by the falling tree. Five minutes later another tree was uprooted near and fell on a baker's cart, severely injuring the driver and a boy within.

IRELAND

Notices were issued by all spinning firms in Belfast, giving notification to the workers that owing to the present slump in the linen trade it will be necessary to reduce the daily hours of work. Short time will be worked in all the spinning mills in Belfast and district, and the wages earned will, as a result be reduced by about one-fifth weekly, while no less than 30,000 workers will be affected. The firms recognise that this step will involve severe hardships at this season of the year, but there was no alternative between the course and that of turning out a large number of workers altogether, in order that the rest might have full-time occupation. In the country mills a reduction by one-tenth of the output will take place, and the total sum lost to the workers in wages in Belfast will be, in round figures, £3,000 weekly.

No concerted action has as yet been taken by Donegal fishermen regarding the project contemplated by a Norwegian firm of erecting one or two whaling stations on the west coast of Donegal. The unanimous decision of the Burtonport fishermen expressed at their meeting held some days ago to oppose the scheme has, however, met with the general approval of the fishermen on the west coast. It is thought that the matter should be dealt with by an arbitration commission. Steps are accordingly now being taken. It is stated, to request the Department of Agriculture to hold an inquiry with a view of discovering whether it is advisable to permit the establishment of the proposed whaling stations.

An interesting ceremony took place in Dublin the other day, when the deputation from the Irish Eight," who had won the Echo shield at last Bisley meeting, attended a meeting of the Dublin Corporation, presided over by the Lord Mayor of Dublin. Ald. Milner handed over the shield to the Lord Mayor, with a few appropriate words, and regretted that there was such a very small company now from which to select an "Irish Eight." In eighteen years Ireland has won the shield eleven times.

SCOTLAND

The Spanish prisoner swindle has made one of its periodic appearances in Glasgow. A well known builder in the northern part of the city recently received a letter of appeal from the Spaniard who languishes in prison for debt, while his wealth lies at an English station. The prisoner requested pecuniary aid to pay the tribunal expenses and instructed the local gentleman to take charge of a valise in a secret drawer in which was hidden a cheque for 2,500 pounds. In return for his practical sympathy the builder was promised a third of 50,000 pounds contained in a trunk which lies at the English station waiting to be claimed by the prisoner. The communication, to which of course no reply has been made, was handed over to the police.

The Scottish Ski Club instituted at a meeting in Edinburgh, have issued a circular explanatory of the aims of the club and of the arrangements that have been made regarding weather reports and other details. The promoters of the club, it is said, have had many opportunities of noting how useful ski would be to the inhabitants of hilly districts of Scotland during two or three months of the year. While the aim of the club is to promote ski-running primarily as a sport, they hope to encourage the use of use by game-keepers, shepherds, rural postmen and others. It is is intended to organize meets when snow can be obtained at places accessible from the various centres.

It was resolved some time ago to move the high chimney stack 134 feet in heigh, erected at Eskbank in connection with the mining operations of the Melville Colliery Company, and preparations for the removal have been pushed on lately. It was decided in view of the proximity of the colliery buildings to the main line of the Waverley railway route, that the work of demolition should be carried out on a Sunday, and on that day the stalk was felled. It fell to the northeast, exactly in the direction intended. Great interest was taken in the operations by a large crowd of spectators many of whom had neglected the forenoon service at the church to witness the fall.

LANG & MAHER,

Clothiers and Furnishers to Men Who Know

LIFE STORY OF THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG

About the pantry I must say this. It was not built for a bedroom, but there was a folding-bed in it.

At this time I was walking out with a girl named Katie Farmer, whom I had known for about six months. For the sake of Katie I was very ambitious. Miss Keyse, of course, had been very kind to me, but I was anxious to get something better to do, and I felt very unsettled. My mistress had told me I could go into the army, and if I did she would get her friends to promote me.

I want to make it plain that I had no quarrel with anyone. Several people said I made use of threats. That is absurd. I may have said foolish things when I was in the dumps, but God knows I never wished harm of any kind to Miss Keyse. Indeed, I had every reason to pray that she would be spared to me for many a long year. She was a dear old lady.

It is so easy to take a wrong view of a man's words or actions. They are, perhaps, half noticed at the time. Afterwards, when it becomes important to remember them, they are dug up out of the past. And then imagination is called in to supply the details that have vanished in the meantime. This is the explanation of many of my so-called "threats."

The Fatal Night

And so I come to Nov. 14, 1884. The first thing I distinctly remember is seeing my step-sister, Elizabeth Harris, going to her bedroom. It was teatime.

As she looked queer I asked her what was the matter. She said she didn't feel well.

"Shall I fetch Dr. Chilcote?" I said.

She replied, rather shortly I thought, "Oh, no, no!"

I was afterwards told that she was in bed. At all events, I did not see her for the rest of that day.

At seven o'clock I went to the post. It was my duty every day. Then I went around to see Miss Farmer, and at ten o'clock I returned to "The Glen." After supper I went into prayers with Eliza and Jane Neck. Miss Keyse said the prayers.

Jane was in the pantry putting away some things. She used to go about her work, although I was asleep, or, perhaps, getting into bed. She never worried about me.

Miss Keyse never used to go to bed till one or two o'clock in the morning.

I think Jane Neck, one of the servants stayed up for about half an hour. The last thing she did was to put a cup of nib cocoa on the kitchen hob for our mistress. This was done every night. Miss Keyse used to go into the kitchen herself and carry the cocoa up to her bedroom.

On this particular night I think I was asleep before Jane had finished. But I do know that Miss Keyse had told Jane to tell me that there was a note in the pantry for me to take to Colonel McLean's in the morning, with a brace of pheasants. Miss Keyse often left notes like that, and I attended to them in the morning.

The next thing I remember is being roused up before daybreak by my step-sister shouting "Fire! Fire!"

I jumped out of bed and put on my shirt, socks, and trousers. At the top of the stairs I saw the three women. The house was full of smoke. Eliza Neck was shouting: "Where's Miss Keyse? Where's Miss Keyse?"

We rushed into Miss Keyse's bedroom. The old lady was not there. Terror-stricken, Eliza Neck went running about the rooms upstairs, but there was no sign of Miss Keyse.

I could see flames coming out of my mistress' room, and also out of another room.

Eliza was the first to go into the dining room. Jane and I waited outside. The smoke was so thick that I could hardly see her.

I heard Jane call out, "We shall all be stifled!"

Disregarding the danger I pushed headlong into the dining room in order to open the windows. I tried to open the French window on the right, but I couldn't.

So I pushed my arm through the glass.

I cut my arm and left a bit of flesh on the pane. I could feel the blood pouring down my sleeve and soaking it. But what did that matter?

I little thought that afterwards my mate would practically turn on that trivial circumstance.

The smoke was now pouring out of the room, and we looked about us.

"Oh! Where is Miss Keyse?" I heard one of the women say.

As she spoke I looked round——

Arrested on Suspicion

My mind recoils with horror as I think of it.

There, spread out on the floor before me, was the answer to the cry.

My poor dear mistress was lying on the carpet—a ghastly sight.

I can see her eyes staring out from the hair which had fallen about her face.

I can still see her hands. They were rigid and "claw-like"—drawn up in the convulsions of death.

I just took one glance at the body and went out.

Jane and I at once called a man named Stiggins, who was living rent-free in one of Miss Keyse's cottages on the beach. He was a fisherman.

Then I went back to the house. I remember that we also called Mr. Gaskin, the landlord of the Quay Arms. Several other people came as well.

I went back to the dining room. The smoke had now gone.

Miss Keyse was lying by the sofa. There was blood on her throat. The body looked as if an attempt had been made to burn it, but I did not notice any paper about or oil. With the assistance of Mr. Gaskin I carried the body outside. Nearly all the clothes had been burnt off it. Mr. Gaskin lifted her by the head, and I took her by the feet. The next I remember that I went back into the dining room and helped to put out the fire. The people in the house wanted someone to go and break the news to Colonel McLean. I was sent. I ran all the way to the house in Torquay, and threw some gravel up at the servant's window. After the gravel had been rattling against the panes for several moments the window was thrown up and a servant put out her head. "There's been a fire at Mr. Keyse's," I said. "Tell Mrs. McLean I want her." On my way back to the Glen I met the chimney sweep. I think I also called a policeman. At the trial something was said about an axe, [illegible] quite true that I was asked for one when they were putting out the fire. They wanted to chop down a beam. I went out to the wood house and got the axe I knew would be there. How quickly that terrible morning passed! I never stopped to think of the terrible significance of it all for me. Still less did I pause to recollect that on the night before the tragedy I was the only man in the house. As soon as things got a bit quiet I wanted to go to the doctor to get my arm dressed. By that time my shirt was soaked with blood. At the door of the Glen there was a policeman. I told him where I was going. Holding up a hand he said, "You can't go there alone; I must go there with you!" I protested strongly against such absurd treatment. The real meaning did not dawn on me. However the policeman went to the superintendent and asked him if he was to go with me to the surgery. "No," said the superintendent. "Let him go himself." After my arm had been dressed I went back to the house and sat down with the firemen in the kitchen. Suddenly the superintendent called me to him, and said, "Lee, you will be arrested on suspicion." I said, "On suspicion—Oh!" I was too astonished to say anything else.

As I was going through the kitchen my step sister, Elizabeth Harris, said to me—

"Where are you going to?" I said, "I am taken on suspicion."

She answered "I know you did not do it."

As I left the house for Torquay police station, I hear Mr. Gaskin say that "something foul" had been done.

That is all I know about the murder of Miss Keyse.

WILL THE FORK PASS INTO HISTORY?

Scientists Say That Disease Germs Cling To It By Reason of It's Shape

IT IS DESTINED TO GO

News that certain scientific gentlemen have put a ban upon the fork as a dietary utensil will be hailed with joy by a large contingent of our population. The fork has gained its ascendancy against tremendous odds, and even yet in many localities is regarded as interloper and an implement of affectation fit only for those pampered persons to whom the knack of manipulating the ancient and honest blade is not vouchsafed. The scientists say that the fork by reason of its bifurcated arrangement is hard to wash clean and often harbours dangerous germs. It is therefore posted as an enemy to the human race.

If the fork is destined to come under the ill favour of our paternal governments and is eliminated from our homes it will bring inconvenience only to the idle rich, or at least persons of culture and refinement. The rank and file must consider it a vindication of their disposition to makke the knife the instrument for conveying food from the plate to the mouth. It is well known that an ardent devotee of the knife for all eating manipulations is so accomplished in its handling that he can eat anything except soup with a good blade. The fork reaks its highest claim to superiority to usefulness in the ultimate disposition of pie, yet in the pie belt one seldom encounters a fork when pastry is in evidence, and then only when the minister is expected and a tablecloth is spread. If a stranger would avoid the stigma of suspicion in the pie regions he should perfect himself in the fine art of swinging a knife with neatness and dispatch in all the functions of putting away food.

The fork has come to be an embarrassing feature of many tables. In the old ddays when one knife and one fork, with a spoon or two, served for disposing of a meal it was simplicity itself. To-day there is a bewildering multiplicity of tools laid in an imposing row beside the plate, and a majority of them are forks. There are salad forks, meat forks, pie forks, fruit forks—we haven't got them in order—and other queer instruments, the purposes of which we never learn until the end of the meal, when we find ourselves in possession of silverware that should have been carried away early. We are left to face an ice with a fork and to stir our coffee with a silver pothook tha should have gone out with the clam cocktail. Surely the fork has become an imposition and should be done away with. Let us back to nature and the trusty Barlow.—Kansas City Journal.

The Following Letter Speaks For Itself

Peterborough, Nov. 1st, 1907.

W. G. Morrow, Esq.,
Agent Imperial Life Assurance Co.,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir:—I have received notification of the option available in respect to my ten-year Endowment Policy of $5000 which matured to-day and it affords me pleasure to say that I view with much satisfaction the results of my investment with your Company.

The substantial surplus which the Policy has earned in the comparatively short period of ten years makes the returns which would be made to me, under any of the options now open to my selection, most liberal and attractive.

It is greatly to the credit of the Company that after having granted me an Insurance of $5000 from the issue of the Policy in 1897 to the present time, it can now offer me under the cash-value option a sum so greatly in excess of the total premium that I have paid into it, or under the paid up Insurance option, a paid up life Policy considerable more than double the amount of my original Policy.

Permit me to wish the Company a long continuance of its prosperity

Yours very truly,

J. R. STRATTON.

Any person contemplating taking out Life Insurance will find it to his advantage to secure our rates before placing the risk.

Y.M.C.A. HAS A DEFICIT OF $1800 BUT THE DIRECTORS ARE NOT DISCOURAGED

Annual Meeting of The Institution Was Has Held Last Night—The Financial Report Caused Considerable Discussion Among Those Present

MR. J. C. SHOOK, PRESIDENT

Many Reports Received—Religious Committe Had a Successful Year And Other Reports on Whole Were Encouraging

Although the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association begins this year with a deficit of $1,800, the members have taken hold of the work with an enthusiasm and energy that promise ultimate success. The annual meeting of the association was held last night in the Y. M. C. A. building, and while it was felt that, from the reprots presented, last year had not been very prosperous, the members present seemed confident that with a united effort the conditions could be greatly improved. The large deficit, in view of the fact that it was expected that the campaign in October had left the association free of debt, was disappointing, but the directors and members are not discouraged, and the outlook for the future is hopeful.

There was a fairly large and representative attendance present at last night's meeting, with the retiring president, Mr. R. E. Harding, in the chair. Reports were read from the different committees, and while on the whole they were not as encouraging as might have been expected, they indicated that good work had been done, and intimated that renewed efforts would be put forth in the future. Special efforts will be made to increase the membership, and the new $2 ticket decided upon last night which will give a member all the privileges save the baths and gymnasium, should assist in the work.

President Harding thanked those present for the interest they had taken and the assistance they had given in connection with the work. He thought there was great work for the institution in this city. The purpose was all right, but there was something wrong in the interior working. He was sure there were a thousand young men in the city who remained away from the Y. M. C. A. because it was a hard matter to convince them that the institutrion would be of benefit to them.

Report of Religious Work

Mr. J. F. Thornton, chairman, presented the report of the religious work as follows:

We are glad to report a continued interest in the Sunday afternoon meetings since the first of June. They were continued all through the summer with a good attendance and lots of interest. Thirty-one meetings have been conducted, mostly addressed by the pastors of our city. There has been an attendance of at least 1,300 at these meetings, and 12 conversions are known to have resulted from them. The interest is still being well maintained, and every effort will be put forth to make them the strongest department of the work.

The Evangelistic Band meetings have been conducted frequently and attended by at least 100.

A successful song service has been conducted recently in the parlour on Sunday evenings from 8.30 to 10 o'clock. Three have been attended by about 75 since started.

Bible Study Class

Mr. W. G. Stinor presented the report of the Bible Study Classes, the work of which, he said, has not been altogether encouraging, some of the classes having dropped off. The Saturday night Bible Class, led usually by Mr. J. C. Shook, had held held meetings every week, and had been very successful. The newly-formed Social Bible Class was also flourishing.

Membership Committee

Mr. W. McLaren read the report of the Membership Committee, which showed that the chief thing in connection with that department had been the membership campaign in October, which was very successful. A large number of new members was received, but a large number of pledges received at that time has not been paid. The membership at present is as follows: Full, 175; limited, ed, 135; intermediate, 36, school boys, 69, making a total of 415 fully paid on January 1, with 42 partly

HERE'S A MAN WHO WANTS NO SECOND WIFE; EXPERIENCES OF A GROOM AT KIRKFIELD

No Waterworks System at Hotel —He Made For The Pump in Night Apparel and The Night Was Cold

DOOR HAD A SPRING LOCK

Because it Closed Behind Him He Had to Spend the Night in The Back Yard

Lindsay, January 18. — (Special.) — Newly married couples usually have some funny experiences but that of a couple who were married here in town and went to spend their honeymoon in Kirkfield, certainly eclipses most people's.

The couple went to spend the night at one of the Kirkfield hotels, and retired about the usual hour. About one o'clock the husband became very thirsty and got up to get a drink of water.

Hotels back north are not like the Waldorfs we are accustomed to here in Lindsay and conveniences are not as near at hand. The pump, the man discovered, was out in the back yard, but thinking that he could make a dash and be back before he got chilled (for he was only in his night attire) he rushed out and had his drink in half a jiffy, then ran back to the door. What was his disgust and alarm to find that it was equipped with a modern spring lock, and in his haste he had omitted to set it so that he could get in.

Relief at Last

He pounded and kicked on the door in the hope of arousing someone to let him in, but the proprietor and guests hearing the racket, thought that it was a drunken farmer or a lumberjack, and were afraid to go down. At four o'clock in the morning everyone got sick of the row, and arose to see what was the matter. There wasn't a colder man in the country, and if he has to go through the same thing every time he gets married he'll have no second wife.

MANY HEARD TALK ON THE BIRDS

Champions Banquet to be Held on Last Friday of January

A large number of boys was present last night to hear Mr. Elcome's talk on "How to Classify Birds," which was entertaining as well as instructive. After the address a boys' membership canvass was opened. Twenty-five new paid members are to be secured and the proceeds devoted to their rooms, which will be renovated, and new games and papers put in. On the last Friday in January a "champions'" banquet is to be held, at which only new members and those who brought them in will be present. Several boys have already stated that they have a ticket secured in this way, and everything points to success.

THE PROBABILITIES

PROBS—Westerly winds and fair, Sunday, westerly winds, fine and comparatively mild

Readers of the Examiner will be pleased to know that this issue contains another chapter of that fascinating story, "In the Fog," from the pen of Richard Harding Davis. The issue of Friday of last week contained a section of the story, and many inquiries have since been made by our readers as to the appearance of the next. Every chapter is full of intense interest and no part of the novel should be missed. Richard Harding Davis is one of the standard novelists, so that the story is of a high class character.

WILL THE SCIENCE OF TELEPATHY EXPLAIN THE STRANGE PHENOMENON?

A correspondent from Keene writes the following, telling of a peculiar phenomenon that came under his experience a few days ago: —

"I was at Keene G. T. R. Station yesterday and witnessed something that seemed to me remarkable and I believe unheard of.

Sitting in the operator's office I suddenly heard voices as over the telephone. The operator told me he often heard it and that some times the sound was plainer than at other times. He called my attention to the fact that it was distinctly heard by sitting close to one of his telegraph instruments, and he claims to recognize the voice of chief dispatcher Kingsley of Lindsay frequently. He does't know whether he is talking in his office in Lindsay or over the telephone to Belleville, the wires which are strung on the same poles as the telegraph wires.

But at any rate he heard Kingsley's voice from the telegraph instrument as well as other vioces. I also heard it as have several other parties".

FAMILIES IN SOUTH END NEED RELIEF FROM COLD AND HUNGER

Fortunately, this winter, there have been but few cases of destitution among the poorer classes in the city, at least if there were more, the people struggled on, unassisted, and public attention was not requested. To-day, however, a gentleman stated that he had been called to a home on Romaine street, where he found very distressing circumstances.

There were three families in the house, and no one was working. Seven little children were running about only half dressed, and the house was as cold as a barn, as there was no fire. The gentleman said that such a state of affairs as existed could scarcely be imagined. The appearance of the people and the little children was plain evidence of an empty pantry, and continued straitened circumstances. When he went to the house he found another man there, who was telling them to be strong in their trials, and giving them sound spiritual consolation.

The gentleman said that such talk as that was of no use in alleviating the pinchings of an empty stomach. Looking at the fireless stove, he asked the people why they didn't put up the woodshed rather than go without warmth; but they would not hear of that, as the house was rented. The gentleman went out and bought twenty pounds of beef, some bread and tea and sent it to the house that day, and since has been doing a little to relieve the wants of the families.

When he told the story of it today to a friend, he soon enlisted the other's practical sympathy to send the family wood and food.

There should be no starving or want in a city like Peterborough which has always enjoyed prosperity.

A MIDNIGHT RAID ON EAST CITY HOUSE RESULTS IN ARREST

On a charge of being disorderly and trying to break into an East City resident a door, Charles Burke Stevenson and a man named Cassan appeared in the police court this morning. Mr. F. D Kerr appeared for the accused.

Mr. David Flynn, the plaintiff, said that about 12 o'clock last night his daughter cam running into his room and said that two men were trying to break in the house. He picked up a gun and went to the back door and there found it smashed in and two men standing outside carrying clubs. They told him they wanted to get in and said they were not afraid of his gun, as they had shooters also. He told them to depart but they replied that they would when it suited them best. Miss Flynn then telephoned for the police and about twenty-five minutes later the men were arrested.

Daughter's Evidence

Miss Susie Flynn daughter of the plaintiff, said she was waiting for her brother. She heard a rap on the door and thinking it was him opened it and saw the men carrying clubs. They asked for Charlie McDonald and she told them he wasn't there and closed the door. They rapped several times and then pushed the door in. She called her father and then telephoned for the police. The men were not drunk and did not use bad language.

A real estate agent who was in Flynn's dining room at the time, was the next witness and his evidence corresponded with that of Mr. Flynn's. He also stated that the men were not drunk and after they left the house he watched them moving around outside. The sticks the men carried, he was sure were taken from Mrs. Deacon's fence a block away.

Old as the Chief

His Worship asked these in court if any of them knew McDonald. Wm. Fitzgerald volunteered evidence and said the man in question lived east of Downer's Corners and was as old as the Chief of Police.

One of the prisoners, Charles Burke Stevenson, was the next on the stand. He and his friend Cassan had been out spending the evening and coming over to East City they saw in front of them Charlie McDonald with a couple of girls. They followed him through the streets and saw him turn a corner and there lost sight of the trio. They supposed he went into Mr. Flynn's house and going around to the back door, applied for admission but were refused. When he found that McDonald was not there he went to the next house and there found his friend and was invited in. He told the girls that he had a friend, Cassan, outside, and they invited him also. He went out to meet his friend and was arrested. He denied ever breaking in the door or carrying a club.

P. C. Adams told of the telephone message and the arrest. Cassan told him that they were following a couple of women and struck the wrong house.

After hearing the evidence, His Worship thought that men who prowl around at 12 o'clock at night should know where they were going and he deemed this breaking in of the door an insult to the occupants of the house. "I fine you both $5.00 and cost to be paid forthwith and in default of payment, ten days in jail." The fine and costs amounted to $9.55 and were paid.

WHEN CREDIT WAS GIVEN FOR YEAR'S PROVISIONS AND HOW THE CASH SYSTEM WAS BEGUN

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE Y.M.C.A. SHOWED PROGRESS IN STORE

MR. HORACE C. WRIGHT
The Secretary of the Local Y.M.C.A.

An Interesting Article Told by a Farmer of How Bills Were Given For Everything and Payments Made Only After Harvest

MERCHANTS WERE TRUSTED

The Examiner has at times printed articles dealing with conditions that existed half a century ago, articles which should have been of interest to the people of to-day who have no idea of how their fathers and grandfathers carried on business. There are many persons living in the city who can remember the times referred to, and it is they who witnessed the gradual changes that have taken place, and can vividly recall the hardships of ordinary work as compared with to-day's methods for doing the same.

One of these old-timers, a farmer, who family is now nearly all married, giving each son a fine patrimony and providing the daughters with substantial means to be used when necessary, this half old man, a life-long resident of Otonabee, grew reminiscent a few nights ago and began to tell of the methods of doing business that were generally practised when he was young.

Blacksmith Bills

"The first purchasing that I can remember," he said, "was when Peterborough was an insignificant little wooden town, depending on the farmer's crops for good business. When I would occasionally accompany my father into town, he was acquainted with almost everyone, and the visit was for the secondary purpose of learning what was going on in the outside world. Now I can come in of a Saturday, and the faces I see are almost entirely those of strangers.

"Well, we would go to our store (you know there was no skirmishing around for bargains in those days, the system of trade preventing that) and buy a large stock of provisions. We have dealt with the same man since we were married," the farmer said, referring to a George street grocer who is still in business, "and I guess we'll stay with him.

"As I was going to tell you, there was no cash in my young days. My father would buy everything he needed and never think of paying a cent for them then. He always waited until after the harvest, when some day he would ask for his bill, and did you know, I have seen him pay nearly a thousand dollars to several stores where we bought the necessities of the house. Of course, that was for a whole year, and there used to be some sour faces when the bills would be read over. Mother would say, 'Why, John, I can't remember that,' and 'I'm sure we did not buy all that tea,' and so on, but father would say that it was all right, as he was sure the merchants were honest.

Blacksmith Bills

"There was the grocer, clothier, dry goods merchant, and the boot store proprietor; yes, and several others, all of whom had to be paid. Why, a bill was ever run with the blacksmith. Funny times were those, and good times, too, I tell you, for the merchants, although it must have been risky carrying us farmers through year after year.

"But finally there came a change. 'Lest one good custom should corrupt the world,' and the cash system was begun. You've heard of the Grange, I guess. Well, that was what started it. I don't know just how it began, but I think agents from the big stores in the larger cities went around through the country. They had lists of the prices of their goods, which they guaranteed to ship to the farmers and that we would be suited. Well, the prices were all lower than what we'd been paying, and all over the country the farmers clubbed together, and ordered their goods just as I tell you.

Cash System Begun

"It worked all right, and everyone was satisfied, except the merchants in the towns, and Peterborough was along with the rest. They woke up and prepared lists, and came after the farmers, offering as good or better inducements. The result was that the Grange died out, but the cash system had been commenced, and it never quit."

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

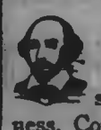
At the recent annual meeting of the Architects' Association of Ontario, held in Toronto, the problem of beautifying the city received a prominent share of attention. This is a matter of no mean importance. There are many conditions that unitedly contribute to making a city or town a desirable place of residence. Among these are good highways, good lighting, water and sewage systems. Other considerations — churches, schools, libraries, and other utilities and necessities are additional contributing elements. Cleanliness of public and private premises and resultant good sanitary conditions are further matters of indispensable importance. With all these it is possible to conjoin beauty that will please the eye. Taking Peterborough, our architecture may be, in some cases, commonplace, and in vicious hostility to good taste; characterized too largely by a monotony of commonplaces; but if residential and general structural edifices are graced with beautiful surroundings, immense amends would be made. The private environment of dwellings or residences may be beautified to a high point of taste, attractiveness and satisfactory effect, but if the adjacent streets are neglected, rough, unkempt and untidy, the artistic unities are outraged, and of this condition we have only too much painful example.

The evolution of street adornment to the point of relative beautification is natural in sequence, and has been slow. When the pioneers carved highways through forests, their first care was to remove the tree stumps from the driving way. The stumps on the roadside were permitted to remain and disappear by the slow process of decay. The warfare against tree enemies, which had been waged in the early stages of clearing, left the lines of highways bare and forbidding. By degrees, aesthetic remorse smote the farmers, and the first stage of highway beautification was represented by lines of shade trees, and in time the country landscape took on a greatly improved appearance. The same general process of evolution affected village, town or city streets. As far as Peterborough is concerned, the process of street improvement ceased for a long time at this point, but so generally was tree-planting practised in all parts of the town that we can now boast of having the best timbered streets in the province, conditions that favour further improvements in the direction of making our streets attractive. Following the trees were the boulevards, not universally, not in any systematic and orderly way, but affected by the caprice of varying tastes and means of making; or interrupted in the way of continuity here or there by indifference and neglect. The result is a lack of uniformity and artistic effect which sadly mars the beauty of our streets, and, as a whole, the beauty of the city.

A great deal of this is due to the city or town authorities having failed to take any interest in the discharge of this, one of the most important of their duties. It is their duty to make a speedy beginning at taking some systematic interest in promoting the beauty of our streets. This can be done cheaply for two reasons. In the process of street making, and repair, can be taken to preserve the beauty of our street borders; and if the city shows that it cares, and sets the example of making this action universal they will arouse the interest, and enlist the co-operation of the citizens as a whole. In the past, in doing the street work, there has been an utter disregard of creating, or conserving, the conditions, tending to make the street sides more attractive. Not only that, but there has been the practice of overt vandalism. In many, too many, cases, where private citizens have exercised taste and spent money and labour, to improve their street fronts, the city, in the rough and ready process of street "improvement," has destroyed many beautiful places. This is nothing short of an outrage, and the practice should be changed. It is as much the duty of the city authorities to make our streets beautiful, as it is to make the roadways smooth and comfortable for traffic. And then so much can be done, by so little effort and at so little cost, by the city taking a little care, and co-operating with the private citizens, that it seems criminal to fail to do so.

We are all prone to yield to first impressions, and judge at first sight. An outsider seeking a good place to live, if he sees our streets beautiful, tidy, well kept, he will, in nine cases out of ten, be favourably impressed, and he will see other conditions, though they may not be perfect, with partial eyes, and will discover that Peterborough will make a pleasant home.

This bare outline of conditions, necessary to be created, will show the importance of the city—and, consequently the citizens — taking an interest in making the city beautiful, especially, since by systematic and general action, such magnificent results might be secured at a cost insignificant, in view of the results to be obtained. We should have a civic improvement society in Peterborough. We should have the ladies enter upon the crusade for betterment. What encouragement is there for a good housewife to keep her home well-ordered and tidy, if the street a few yards distant is little better than a dumping ground, in condition and appearance? The local Art Association should extend the area of its interest, and lend its outraged aesthetic sense to resolve to improve conditions in respect of the adornment and care of our streets. While their work beautifies the walls of our homes, it might be extended to improving the environments — to making the frame worthy of the picture. The matter wants to be "talked up," and interest to the point of active co-operation, aroused. Then we might expect to make Peterborough, as it is easily capable of being made, one of the most beautiful of cities, and desirable of homes, as it is the most progressive urban community in Canada.



Take it in time.

NOTABLE ADDITIONS TO CANADIAN POETRY

As to quality, apart from quantity, the question of Canada having a literature, can be answered in the way of decided affirmation, and William Briggs, Toronto, publisher, is doing much to strengthen this answer, especially in the matter of poetical literature. Within a short time he has issued four volumes of verse, not only good verse, but poetry of a high merit. Miss Ethelwyn Wetherald's poems have been noticed in these columns.

Later came, "Autumn Leaves," by M. A. Maitland, a beautiful brochure containing a dozen and a half of pretty poems, marked by gleams of genius, and gems of thought, illustrated by beautiful word pictures. The little poem, "Autumn Leaves," answers this description:

Over the earth they drift and lie,
Gold, and crimson and russet brown,
Flecked and spattered, as if in play,
Nature had thrown her colours down.

This little poem of a few stanzas, strikes the key-note of beautiful optimism and hopefulness, which mark the collection as a whole. "To a Wood Thrush," (singing in the early morn,) is a burst of tuneful gladness, and "Cantate Domino," is a joyous hymn, exhaling Christian faith and exultation. The other poems, in delicacy of thought and happy word setting, are quite in keeping. This little volume has a cover and binding of a tasteful daintiness quite charming. Toronto, William Briggs.

"Songs and Sonnets," by Helena Coleman — the second edition published under the auspices of the Tennyson Club, of Toronto, has a setting in a triumph of the bookmaker's art, worthy of the one hundred and fifty odd pages of splendid word-woven imagery it contains. Helena Coleman's poems are no common rhymes, no trivial prettiness of measure and melody, but vibrant with strong spirit or tender feeling, materialized in tuneful words. Common things are glorified, and beautiful metaphors enshrine noble thoughts, and teach, with spiritueile suggestiveness, beautiful moral lessons, or up-drawing aspirations. Her style is for the most part, direct and terse, at times epigrammatic:

The widow's gift of old, was small,
Yet it was counted more than all;
'Tis what he does, not what he can,
That proves the measure of the man.

The second part of the volume contains about fifty beautiful sonnets, that are well worth reading, more than once, as are all the poems in this collection. Among the sonnets, "Monotony," and "Winter Wheat," are strikingly beautiful. The latter, after singing of the frosts that "smite and sting," the "little emerald blades," conclude—

Thou, too, O eager heart, that dost aspire
To bring to harvest thy perfected grain,
And reach the promised heritage of higher
Endowment, must be swept by storms of pain—
Must know the anguish of delayed
desire,
And feel the bitter touch of cold disdain.

In print, paper and binding, the latter simple, but fetching, in its beauty and neatness, one is almost tempted to say that Briggs had said the last word in book-making.

"Songs of a Sourdough," by Robert W. Service, is not only the greatest, perhaps, of all contributions to Canadian poetry, but among the most notable of contributions to the poetical literature of the language anywhere, in its Doric directness of speech and trenchant thrust of phrase. While the poems are Kiplingesque in metrical stride, they have a quality of their own, a virile individuality. One may as fittingly call Service the Canadian Kipling as Kipling the English Service. Few as are the poems, in the intensity of their descriptive realism of things and beings and conditions, they may be called the Epic of the Yukon. They are the "deep anatomy" of the wild and weird life of the sub-arctic land of gold. The rugged beauty of the poems must be treated one by one to get an idea of what they are and of what they hold. To be properly appraised they must be read and re-read; and every reading strengthens their grip. "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" has a tragic and alluring intensity not to be denied; "The Cremation of Sam McGee," has a gruesome quaintness and grim humour. But every poem is good reading. For him who has not read "Songs of a Sourdough," remains a new mental spur, a new and lasting delight. The book-making of the volume is in the publisher's best style; heavy paper, deckel edge, with illuminated front cover and nine applicable and artistic full-page illustrations.—Toronto, Wm. Briggs, publisher.

English publishers have an unfortunate habit of turning down indiscriminately the works of Canadian authors, and thereby hangs this tale.

Recently a well-known English publishing house was asked to publish "Songs of a Sourdough," the remarkable book of verse from the pen of Robert Service, the bank teller-poet of the Yukon. A copy of the Canadian edition was sent along as a sample. Back came the answer:—"No, won't publish. Feeble imitation of Kipling." To be sure. Service parodied Kipling in some of his pieces because he wrote those merely for the amusement of a group of personal friends and without any idea of publishing. They were meant for camp-fire use.

But they were much more than echoes of Kipling. In Canada and United States people took to the book and soon edition after edition had been issued, until 8,000 copies were sold in Canada alone.

Then a Canadian publishing man wrote a post card to the English firm. The card bore the simple message: "Song of a Sourdough" selling well. Eight thousand sold already. Pretty good for a blooming colony and a feeble imitation of Kipling, eh?"

No answer has been received as yet. —Saturday Night.

PETERBORO' PRINTING IN THE EARLY DAYS

Here is something for the few remaining real old-timers of Peterborough to gossip over. There has been handed the Examiner the following bill on time-stained paper:

Received the above in full from Frederic Ferguson, Esq.

J. D'ARCUS.

It will be noted that credit was easy in those days—that more than two years after the debt was incurred the account was paid, and then, instead of interest added, the poor printer was "help up" for a subscription to an old debt to the church wardens.

Mr. John Darcus, the printer, was the pioneer in Peterborough journalism, being publisher of the "Backwoodsman and Peterborough Sentinel," established in 1837.

PLENTY OF BEEF ON THE MARKET

Good Quality Generally and Was Early Sold

Butter and eggs were cheaper today than they have been in months. There did not seem to be any 35c. eggs, although there were plenty that sold below the 30c mark. The hens are beginning to get busy again. Butter was also a few cents cheaper. While this is glad news to the consumer, the feature of the market was the amount of beef and pork that was sold, especially the former. On one side sleighs of beef shut out other sleighs — in fact there was not much of any other produce.

Now is a good time for buying apples of the winter variety, as the farmers are offering large supplies.

"I Want The Proof" You Say

WHEN TOLD THAT NERVOUS EXHAUSTION AND PROSTRATION ARE THOROUGHLY CURED BY

What is more discouraging and disheartening than trying to cure nervous exhaustion and prostration by means of ordinary treatments? Because you do not look sick and are suffering great pain, and because they cannot realize your feelings of weakness, helplessness and discouragement, your friends fail to show much sympathy for you, and most doctors are simply helpless in the face of exhausted nerves.

Of course you need not expect Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to work a miracle and cure you in a day or a week, but you can be absolutely sure that you will be benefitted, to at least some extent, by every dose of this great restorative that is taken into the system.

The dreadful weakness and helplessness which makes life miserable to you and leads to all sorts of dark forebodings, will gradually and certainly give way to strength and vigour under this treatment, headaches will disappear, your appetite will improve, you will sleep and rest better and you will find that day by day your nervous system is being built up to health and strength.

That Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is actually bringing about just such cures is proven in thousands of cases of which records are kept on file in these offices. The invigorating, upbuilding influence of this great medicine will surprise you if you only persist in its use.

Mrs. D. O'Connor, 278 Simcoe street, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "My heart has given me a great deal of trouble lately. The least undue exertion affected it, and brought on weakness and fainting spells. My nerves were also very unsteady, and I became so bad that I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which was highly recommended to me. Now I am happy to be able to say that I am completely restored to health. My nerves are strong and steady, the action of my heart regular and the dizzy spells have ceased to trouble me."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Capital Punishment Has Undergone a Great Change

From the Days of Public Beheadal For Minor Offences, To These Days of Secluded Execution for Murder

EVOLUTION OF CHANGES

The execution of John Boyd in a prison cell in Toronto jail marks a new era in the form of execution. The change is greatly due to the work of Sheriff Mowat, who, at the time of Martin's execution on March 10th, 1905, discovered that hanging in a cell would be much easier for the condemned man than in the jail yard. The walk to the yard unnerved the unfortunate man, and before the yard was reached he generally broke down. The scaffold is now built in a cell on the ground floor and, a few minutes before the appointed time the prisoner is rushed to the cell and is executed before he can realise what he is about.

In the olden days in England, at the time of the death of Charles I., the king was beheaded in full view of the public and other criminals were beheaded in the same manner. A person did not need to commit murder in those days to be beheaded. A petty theft, forgery or treason was sufficient to send a man to his account. In the year 1783 a young Irish emigrant was hanged in Toronto for forgery and during the rebellious times of 1838 two men were hanged in public for high treason. Since then seventeen persons in Toronto have suffered the extreme penalty of the law. The public executions, which were held outside the jail, used to attract large crowds of curious sightseers, among which were many women.

Shortly after the erection of the Toronto jail the form of execution still took place in the jail yard, but only those who had passes could witness the hanging. The private execution proved a great success and it made the last moments of a murderer's life a little more pleasant. At the time of the execution of Martin in Toronto, Sheriff Mowat tried to have a private execution take place in the cell, and not have the prisoner walk to the yard. The result was that John Boyd was the first person to be executed within the walls of the jail.

It is to be hoped that the day is not far hence when capital punishment will be done away with altogether, and instead, have the man sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for life. This would be a far better method, as there is often the chance of hanging an innocent man on circumstantial evidence. One case which is conspicuous in the history of executions, was the murder of John S. Hogan, M.P.P. for Toronto. A man named Brown was hanged for his murder and a few years ago a woman died in the General Hospital of that city who confessed the murder.

A PAIN CRIPPLE.

Tortured and Tormented with Rheumatism and Sciatica—South American Rheumatic Cure Works the Wonder.

Mrs. John Fisher, Woodstock, N.B., writes: "I had been suffering for over three years from muscular rheumatism and on one occasion I had a very acute attack of sciatica. For several weeks I was unable to walk or attend to my household duties. Tried several remedies, and physicians failed to give me relief. I saw South American Rheumatic Cure advertised and bought a bottle. It did me a wonderful lot of good. Four bottles effected a perfect and permanent cure." (13) Sold by the Nugent Drug Co.

STONE BREAKERS WAGES ARE GOOD

Compared With That Payed in England, Says an Englishman

To the Editor of the Examiner: ( )

Dear Sir,—I have become very much interested of late in reading the different letters which have been published in your valuable columns. I am an Englishman. I have been residing in Canada for only two years and I can say that the excellent opportunities that I have seen in Canada exceed my wildest fancies. I am ashamed of my fellow countrymen who are raising such a howl around the streets about hard times. I am disgusted with them for the unmanly way in which they are behaving.

I fail to understand why the stone-breakers are complaining. If they would only look back at the conditions existing in the Mother Land, I am confident that no Englishman would grumble at the kind way in which all are being used in Canada. Now, my father is the owner of a large quarry in the Old Land and finds no difficulty whatever in securin the necessary workers for the small sum of one shilling a yard. The local stone-breakers, if I have been rightly informed, are earning $3.00 a cord, which is 2s. 6d. a yard. This is nearly 150 per cent. more than that paid by my father in England, and he pays the standard wage. Now, why do these men complain? When we review these facts we can see no cause and when we learn that board in the Old Land is the same price as it is here; meat and cheese are dearer than here and in fact living is the same in Canada as it is in the Old Country. The house rent, of course, I must say, is a little dearer here than at home. Now, when we think of this, and see the excellent chances ahead of us in this new land, let us settle down like real true Englishmen, and become worthy citizens of Canada.

Yours truly,
"A Real Englishman."

Editor Post Card Column,—

Dear Sir,—Walking up street the other day with a very dear clerical friend, a certain gentleman prominent in moral movements, belonging to the city, met us and seized my friend by the arm, and, without any notice of me, engrossed his attention. A few weeks ago a gentleman, prominent in educational circles, did a similar thing.

May I ask, Mr. Editor, if conduct like this is becoming a gentleman?

MODERN MEDICINES

No sane mother would wish herself treated under the conditions of medicine or surgery of half a century ago. Why then should she give her little one the old fashioned medicines of half a century ago, which more likely than not contain poisonous opiates that cannot cure the child, but merely drug it into temporary insensibility. Baby's Own Tablets is a modern medicine prepared iwth all the care and skill of modern medical science. And the mother who gives this medicine to her child has the guarantee of a Government analyst that it does not contain one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. This medicine cures all the minor ailments of little ones, and makes baby a healthy, laughing happy child. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company of Brockville, Ont.

SCIENCE OF OSTEOPATHY LUCIDLY EXPLAINED

In Article in Ladies' Home Journal By Dr. Still, It's Founder

The January number of the Ladies' Home Journal contains an interesting account of the discovery of Osteopathy, contributed on invitation by Dr. Andrew T. Still, the originator of the system who is now, the President of the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo. The article is the more interesting in view of the recent coming to Peterborough of Dr. Walmsley, who graduated from the Kirksville College some time ago. Osteopathy is a term understood by a few and the publication of its origin and history in the above mentioned journal affords an excellent opportunity to grasp its meaning.

It is now accepted that vaccination renders the vaccinated person exempt from smallpox, or at worst, he never has anything but the slightest kind of a case. Now, as sure a preventive and cure for dandruff, which causes falling hair and baldness, has been discovered — Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the dandruff germ. C. H. Read of Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair for several years. We tried remedies without effect, until we used Newbro's Herpicide, two bottles of which cured us." Hundreds of similar testimonials. Sold by leading druggists. Annual Meeting of Royal Astronomical Society

Rev. Dr. Marsh Re-elected President—Address on The Planet Jupiter Much Appreciated

AN INTERESTING MEETING

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society, was held in the green parlour of the Y.W.C.A., last evening, with the president, Rev. Dr. Marsh, in the chair. In the absence of the secretary, Dr. Neal, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mr. H. B. Collier, and approved by the members.

After referring to a number of communications and bulletins recently received, the president gave an interesting description of a method of determining the exact meridian of a place, as distinguished from an approximate calculation. This evoked considerable discussion.

Mr. Collier then spoke of a number of observations lately made by him with the society's telescope, and told, in an interesting manner, of his recent visit to Toronto, where he attended the at home of the Queen City Society. He gave a description of the sun-shine recorder, self-registering barometers, sidereal clock, and other delicate instruments at the observatory. He had obtained a promise from Mr. Blake, the astronomer, to deliver a lecture to the local society.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and the recommendations of the council were adopted, with a few minor changes. The officers for 1908 are:

President, Rev. Dr. Marsh.
Vice-presidents, H. B. Collier and Sheriff Hall.
Secretary, S. W. Lowry.
Treas., Dr. Neal.
Councillors, Messrs. G. M. Roger, H. O. Fiske and S. W. Lowry.

A small committee was also appointed.

After the transaction of business, Rev. Dr. Marsh proceeded to give a talk on the planet Jupiter, "the giant of the solar system." After referring to the position of Jupiter, which is the next planet in the solar system above the asteroids, and beyond the vast space intervening between him and the nearest neighbour, Mars. Jupiter, at his farthest position from the sun was 506,563,000 miles away from that body, while at its nearest approach it was 460,913,000 miles. He had a diameter of 88,390 miles at the equator, and owing to his rapid rotation the planet was considerably flattened at the poles. Through a ten inch telescope he appeared at ot the size of the full moon. While the earth revolved at the rate of 17 miles per minute, Jupiter turned at the stupendous rate of 460 miles per minute, and made a complete revolution in 9 hours and 54 minutes. Jupiter performs his annual revolution around the sun in nearly twelve of our years. Jupiter was 1300 times larger than the earth, and shone with borrowed light, that is from the sun. The planet had very great reflective power, and was thought by some to have inherent light. The inclination of the axis was but slight, only 3 degrees. As the inclination of a planet's axis gives the seasons, Jupiter's seasonal changes were but slight.

Dr. Marsh then went on to speak of Jupiter's moons, of which there were at least six, and perhaps more. The larger ones shone as brightly as stars of the 7th magnitude, and were not visible to the ordinary naked eye, although some had claimed to see them without artificial aid. Stars of the 4th and 5th magnitude were the limit of ordinary vision, though particularly acute sight might distinguish thouse of the 6th. The two smaller moons were of the 17th magnitude, and were only discernable on a photographic plate.

Jupiter, when viewed through a telescope, appeared to be surrounded by a number of luminous zones, usually termed belts. These bands were the subject of much speculation. They were thought by some to be the effects of the solidification of the planet's crust, by others they were supposed to be of an atmospheric character. The markings were not changing to any extent, though spots of a reddish hue appeared and disappeared from time to time. The eclipses which Jupiter's moons frequently underwent were of great aid to scientists, as by means of the eclipses they had been able to calculate to a nicety the speed of light. They were also enabled to determine the longitude of places on the earth with great facility and exactness.

The Society extends a cordial welcome to any interested to become members. The fee is small, and the opportunities for acquiring knowledge are great.

paid. The committee will put forth extra efforts this year.

Educational Committee

Mr. H. Lees read the report of the Educational Committee as follows:

So far as this department is concerned, the present is not an opportune time for a report, as we are just in the middle of the year's work. Some branches of the work are being carried on with marked success, and while this cannot be said of all, yet there is on the whole ground for encouragement.

Reading Room

This continued to be one of the most popular features of the institution. At all times of the day, from the hour of opening to that of closing, there are some readers present, and at many times of the day the room is filled to its full capacity. The placing of covers on the magazines, as is proposed, will make the room more tidy and attractive.

Evening Classes

As in former years, this has proved the most discouraging feature of the work. Efforts were made to organize classes in mechanical drawing, architectural drawing, electricity, mechanics, arithmetic and geometrical drawing, and a class in arithmetic, spelling and writing for unemployed boys. Notwithstanding a vigourous canvass the need that would naturally be supposed to exist for such work in the city, and the fact that experienced and thoroughly competent teachers were secured for all the classes, it was impossible to get together enough students to warrant a start in more than the two last mentioned, and in these the classes are small. In drawing, the course is almost finished, 23 out of the full course of 24 lessons having been given. The other has finished half the course.

The Debating Club

This, on the other hand, has proved a most interesting and successful feature of the year's work. The club consists of about 24 active members, every member who attends being an active member and taking part in the discussions. So far seven meetings have been held. A mock parliament has now been organized, and a very interesting programme mapped out for the remainder of the season. The success of the club is largely due to the energy and enthusiasm of the president, Mr. W. G. Shiner, and the able, painstaking direction of the critic, Mrs. J. E. Hodgson.

Boys' Department

Mr. G. L. Galley reporting for the Boys' Department referred to the very successful camp which had been held at Clear Lake last summer, which was well attended. The boys had taken a great interest in the campaign in October and had brought in many new members.

Physical Committee

Mr. W. Richardson read the following report:

Owing to the Physical Director having to devote so much of his time to other work in the beginning of the season, when the gymnasium classes required much attention, this department has suffered. The attention during the fall season till 31 December has been:—

Seniors	236
Intermediate	493
Senior School	159
Junior School	300

The Harriers Club

The report of the secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Harriers' Club, Mr. R. M. Glover, was also read. It referred to the banquet tendered the members of the Club by the directors and to the fact that the latter had granted the Club $50 towards the expenses of the indoor meet, which was held in the rink on December 3, and proved a most successful event. The directors were thanked for their many favours and for their kindly interest in the welfare of the club.

Social Committee

The report of the Social Committee was read by Mr. C. E. Coleman. Not very much has been done in the social work since June 1st as plans were started when Mr. Williamson left. One reception was held in the building by St. John's A.Y.P.A., which proved very successful about 160 attending.

The Social Committee has been increased to 23 members and formed into a reception committee also. One of the committee to be in the building each evening to receive and welcome the strangers and members. Plans for a larger work for the coming year are being made. The different Young People's Societies will be invited to hold receptions during the winter months to bring the members of the Association in closer touch with the church.

Improvements will also be made in regard to the games and other social features.

The average attendance has been about the same or slightly increasing.

Finance Committee

The report of the Finance Committee was read by Mr. J. S. Knapman in the absence of Mr. A. E. Dixon, chairman of the Finance Committee. The report stated that there was a large deficit at the end of last year, when it had been hoped that the association would have been free of debt. Five hundred dollars is out in subscriptions and membership pledges, which is expected in in the near future. The membership fees have not amounted to as much as anticipated and owing to lack of work in the city, the dormitories had not brought as good returns as expected. These with some liabilities not counted on June 1st, bringing the association face to face with the following report:—

Assets.

Bank of Toronto	$ 54 78
Building, land, furniture and equipment	43,700 00
Bank of Toronto, special saving account	1,571 96
	$45,126 74

Liabilities.

Accounts and bills payable	$ 1,801 83
Surplus 31st May	41,810 56
Loss	79 60
Reserved for repairs, etc.	1,593 95
	$45,126 74

Treasurer's Report

Mr. J. J. Howden, treasurer, presented the following report:

Receipts.

Members, subscriptions, dormitories, miscellaneous	$2,733 82
Bills payable, discounted	5,375 00
	$8,108 82

Disbursements.

Salaries, light, water and fuel, bank interest, office supplies, printing, laundry maintenance	$2,551 45
Bills payable	5,250 00
Bank overdraft	252 59
Cash in bank	54 78
	$8,108 82

In commenting on the financial reports, Mr. J. C. Stock remarked that it was very disappointing that when it was thought the campaign in October had cleared off the debt, there should be such a large deficit. There was, however, $500 in subscriptions still due, most of which, he thought, could be collected, and the deficit might be explained by the fact that many persons and firms which had subscribed to the Y.M.C.A. had taken tickets, and their money was therefore, counted twice in making calculations at the time of the campaign.

President Harding, Mr. J. F. Thornton and others spoke along the same lines in discussing the reports, and expressed the opinion that greater work on the part of the directors and members was needed.

Ladies, Auxiliary

The report of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of which Miss N. Davidson is treasurer, showed the receipts for the year to be $116.14, and the expenditures of $68.90, leaving a balance of $47.24.

Secretary's Report

Secretary H. C. Wright presented the 27th annual report, which read in part:

Although we find some parts of the work in a humiliating position, and some things to discourage, yet there is much to encourage us to go forward.

The work of the religious committee has been especially commendable and shows good results, but the Bible classes and foreign work have not been what they should be. We are also sorry to say the physical work has not been the success it should be, partly owing to the change of physical director and secretary at the most important period of the year.

The boys' work must have a secretary to make the department what it should be.

The gratitude of the entire association is due to the Ladies' Auxiliary for its efficient help during the year.

Secretary Wright also presented estimates for the year, showing receipts of $5,600 and expenditures of $4,500.

Mr. W. G. Shiner thought a $2 ticket should be issued for those who wanted to take advantage of the Debating Club or the educational classes. His motion to that effect was seconded by Mr. J. S. Knapman, and carried.

New Officers

The following officers were elected on the report of the nominating committee:

1st Vice-Pres.—R. J. Kidd.

Music and Drama

THE CHRISTIAN

The Stoddart Stock Company was seen at the Grand Opera House last night in the dramatization of Hall Caine's great book, "The Christian," in which the company added new laurels to those already gained this week. Few repertoire companies could put on such a heavy play in such a successful way as did the talented members of the Stoddart company. Mr. Wm. Stewart gave an excellent interpretation of the role of John Storm, and Miss Leah Stoddart was splendid in her presentation of the part of Glory Quayle. The other roles were in excellent hands. To-night the company will finish its week's engagement with "The Counterfeiters," as their last offering.

Student at The Canadian Mission College, India

Rev. James Sharrard, Professor of Philosophy and English at the College at Indore, C. I., Writes His Brother An Interesting Epistle on His Impressions Of Country And Character of People

While the general news of the Indian Missions, which are given to the public through reports printed by the organizations in charge, are at all times interesting, a private letter from those engaged in the work appeals more strongly to the individual reader. Mr. J. E. Sharrard, of Dublin street, has received a letter from his brother, Rev. James A. Sharrard, who went to India as a missionary, prepared for every branch of the work. The latter writes from Indore, Central India, where he is Professor of Philosophy and English in connection with the Allahabad University, an educational institution with which the Canadian Mission College is in affiliation. He is enjoying the work, is pleased with the people and the climate and is always interested in the country, which from its age presents something new to the stranger every day.

Mr. Sharrard says that the students are nearly all married men, "but," he writes "that does not imply that they are of mature years, for in early marriages the natives are ahead of the Canadians. Men marry at about 15 or 16 years of age. A very courteous studious, earnest lot of fellows they are, comprising Hindus, Mohammedans, Parsis and about a dozen Christians.

Native Customs

"Of course there are many new things to be seen by the stranger. Their dress or rather lack of it is interesting. The children never wear anything except a string about their necks until four or five years of age. The method of washing clothes, too, is strange and is very disconcerting when it is your clothes they are washing. They have no washboards or anything of that sort, but they take your clothes to a well and flail them on a large flat stone until they are clean. The washerman is called a dhobie. He is paid by the month, receiving three rupees or ninety-six cents.

The servants are all peculiar. You have to have a servant for about everything. Your 'bay' makes your bed, cleans and cares for your clothes and is responsible for your bungalow at all times. Your 'bhisti' carries your water—chiefly for your bath and flowers, because we nearly always drink soda water. Your 'malter' sweeps and looks after things not to be mentioned. Mr. Wilson and I are baching it together and mess with Mrs. King. Mr. King is principal of the college.

In our own bungalow we have thus to keep four servants and they cost us each a grand total of nine rupees or $3.00. Food, however, is expensive and Mrs. King charges us fifty rupees or about $17.00 a month for board, which you could not get at any hotel below the standard of the Rossin or Iroquois hotels in Toronto.

The climate is fine. Sun is a little dangerous but in the evenings and at night I am wearing heavy tweeds and woollen underwear and sleep under a sheet and two blankets. We have been having holidays and I was out—wheeled ninety miles in a day with King—to Mandu, the ruins of an old Mohammedan city built in the thirteenth century. The immense palaces, etc., are still standing. I was down to Bombay last week on the arrival of the boats with returning and new missionaries. At the end of the week way up to Rutlam, attending Presbytery and was made treasurer of the Canadian Mission in India at $200 per year.

"I set a paper this morning in Algebra and about half the students sent in papers with nothing on them; they thought it so difficult. Unless they can do a thing right off they will not try.

Mr. Sharrard concluded with private correspondence, stating that he would spend Christmas among roses instead of the customary snow.

Wit and Wisdom

A number of readers of the Wit and Wisdom column of the Examiner of last Saturday have responded to the invitation made and have contributed liberally to this week's items. That this column is a popular one has already been proven and more is expected again next week.

Charity suffereth long—and so does the man who tries to live on it.

There are yet a few people who are so foolish as to hate others, but nobody now hates more than eight hours a day.

Nature needs you in her business and and will keep you on earth just as long as you are needful.

Imagination is sympathy illumined by love and ballasted by brains.

A few years ago when the plays without words were popular in London, I was at the Prince of Wales' Theatre to see "L' Enfant Prodigue." FIREMEN TO HOLD A MEETING

To Talk Over Matters With the Fire, Water and Light Committee

A special meeting of the members of the Peterborough fire brigade will be held on Tuesday night next for the purpose of holding a conference with the members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The meeting has been arranged by Ald. Johnston, chairman of the committee, in order that matters pertaining to the interests of the department may be talked over between the firemen and members of the committee so that satisfactory and amicable arrangements can be arrived at between the two bodies. It is hoped every member of the fire brigade will be on hand for the meeting, which will be held in the new fire station.

EXCELLENT DEBATE ON THE ASIATIC QUESTION

At St. Luke's Church Last Night—A Splendid Programme

A most delightful time was spent last night at the Literary Evening of St. Luke's A. Y. P. A. A large number were present. Mr. H. C. M. Potter, the president, occupied the chair. After the singing of a hymn Rev. Dr. Langfeldt conducted the devotional exercises. Business was then proceeded with, after which the following programme was rendered:

Violin solo, Miss Julia Choate.
Recitation, Mrs. Mowry.
Debate, "Resolved that Asiatics be admitted into Canada."

The affirmative side was supported by Mr. Guy Quartermaine and Mr. Arthur Pakenham and the negative side by Miss Mary Pratley and Miss Clara Adams.

Vocal solo, Miss Ruth Dawson.
Recitation, Mr. J. Lee.
Paper, "Heroes of the Church of England," by Mr. H. C. M. Potter.
Recitation, Mrs. Mowry.

The various numbers were enthusiastically applauded and encored. The speakers in the debate acquitted themselves creditably. The judges, Messrs. E. A. Peck and J. W. Kelly, gave their decision in favour of neither side, both being equal. Arguments strongly supported by the affirmative were met by the negative, so that in point of marks the contestants were equal.

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt moved a hearty vote of thanks to those who had given them such a delightful evening, and thanked Miss English for being so fortunate in providing such an excellent programme. He also commented on the debate and spoke in encouraging terms of their first effort in debating. The vote of thanks was seconded by Mr. Merton Adams, and heartily endorsed by the audience. The Rector closed the proceedings with the benediction.

MRS. EVELYN THAW ON THE STAND

District Attorney Appeals to Have Public and Press Excluded.

SCORES EVELYN'S EVIDENCE

Jerome Adopts Hostile Attitude to Thaw's Wife—Is Determined to Rob Her Story of All Sentiment—Aged Mother Gives Evidence—Other Witnesses Tell of Prisoner's Irrational Actions Yesterday.

New York, Jan. 18.—A series of surprises brought the Thaw trial near a crisis yesterday. Both Evelyn Thaw, the wife, and Mrs. William Thaw, the mother of the defendant, were on the witness stand, and just as the former was about to relate anew the story of her life, as she told it to Thaw in Paris in 1903, District Attorney Jerome suggested that in the interest of public morals all persons save those immediately interested in the case should be excluded from the court-room during the recital of what he termed "a horrible tale." The motion included the representatives of newspapers as well as the public generally.

Attorney Martin W. Littleton of the defence, joined in it to shield the young woman from hundreds of curious eyes, and said that so far as the constitutional right to an open hearing was concerned, he was ready to waive that point in any ironclad manner the court might suggest. Proceedings were suspended until next Monday morning, when Justice Dowling, who is presiding, will announce his decision.

The district attorney's suggestion was a distinct surprise, and called forth the remark from Justice Dowling that it would have come with greater force at the first hearing of the case. When Mr. Jerome arose it was generally believed that he was about to contend against the admissability of young Mrs. Thaw's testimony on the ground that it could not have a very serious effect on the mind of the man who subsequently became her husband, inasmuch as the homicide did not occur until three years thereafter. Mr. Jerome had previously objected to Mrs. Thaw detailing conversations she had with Thaw three years prior to the tragedy, but Justice Dowling ruled that the declarations of the defendant were admissible on general principles and without any reference to the Wood case, under which the evidence in dispute was admitted last year, and which Mr. Jerome had been expected to ask a construction of this year.

"I will not except to your honor's ruling," said the district attorney, as he took his seat after his objection, "for the state has no power of appeal."

Jerome's New Plan.

Then Mr. Jerome attacked the witness in another way, and, by standing immediately in front of her and objecting to practically every question which Mr. Littleton asked in his preliminary examination as to her early history, cut the young woman's recital from the effective narrative form it assumed last year into a hundred fragments. Many of the objections, based upon irrelevancy and immateriality, were sustained by the court. When these failed, the prosecutor was ever ready with others, until the testimony fairly was torn into shreds and had lost entirely many little touches of human interest which were a part of the relation last year when no objections were offered. Mr. Jerome said his intentions were to cut out all stories about pet cats "and a lot of other stuff" which had no place in the trial.

Thaw's Mother on the Stand.

Yesterday, however, was one of good progress for the defence. The elder Mrs. Thaw, pale and weak from her recent illness, was assisted to the witness chair and repeated a large part of the testimony she gave a year ago. Her appearance and the sincerity of her evidence, as she told of her son's strange conduct after meeting Evelyn Nesbitt and hearing her story, had a marked effect upon all who listened. On account of her weak condition, her examination was interrupted by consent to be resumed some time next week, when she will tell of Thaw's infancy. District Attorney Jerome's manner while the mother was on the stand was all deference, and it was his suggestion which led to the respite in her ordeal. But when the young wife took the stand the change was marked. Jerome glared at her from the very first, and his objections were fairly shouted in her ears. Well accustomed to court usages from her former experience, the young woman waited patiently for a ruling as to each objection. When they were sustained she was silent; when overruled she was ever ready with her response.

Effective testimony was given at the morning session by Miss Alice C. Fletcher of Washington, D.C., a long-time friend of Thaw's and a frequent visitor at their home. She said she had known Harry Thaw for 26 years and he had always impressed her as irrational. Miss Catherine O'Neill, who nursed Thaw as a boy, from his third to his tenth year, added her evidence to that already adduced as to irrational conduct, and tendencies on the part of the defendant.

Two doormen at the police station where Thaw was confined the night of the tragedy repeated their stories of last year of Thaw's irrational appearance and his complaining of noises that did not exist.

The trial may be concluded in two more weeks.

Evidence of Prisoner's Wife.

After the recess Mrs. Thaw told of going on the stage in the "Florodoro." The cause of her seeking employment, and the difficulty because of her youth were barred from the jury this year, Mr. Jerome being ever ready with an objection to shut out much of the testimony which was allowed at the first trial.

The witness said she first met Harry Thaw just before Christmas in 1901. She saw him several times in 1902—once while she was ill at school in New Jersey.

"How long were you ill?"

"Objected to," said Jerome.

So the examination proceeded, the prosecutor objecting every time the attorney for the defence turned questioning to direct sequence of events in the young woman's career.

Justice Dowling, over an objection by the district attorney, ruled that the acts and discretions of the defendant to his wife were competent testimony on general principles in any murder case. Mrs. Thaw, over the never-ceasing objections of the district attorney, told of going to Europe in the spring of 1903, following a severe illness. Thaw's servants and her mother accompanied her and Thaw himself met her in Paris and asked her to marry him.

"I replied that I could not. He asked if it was because of Stanford White, and I said it was. He then wanted to know all about it."

Would Exclude Public.

District Attorney Jerome asked that the public, including the newspaper reporters, be excluded from the court-room during the recital of Mrs. Thaw's story as related to Thaw in Paris. He said it was shocking in every way and should be excluded.

Justice Dowling said the suggestion would have come with greater force at the first trial. Excluding the newspapers at this time would not prevent the publication of the testimony as first given. He asked, however, that the newspaper men exercise their power for the public good by suppressing as many details as possible.

District Attorney Jerome said the papers would not publish anything like the same reports as last year, or they would lay themselves liable for prosecution.

"I have nothing to do with the newspapers, or what they choose to do," said Justice Dowling. "But I am ready to receive suggestions from counsel."

Attorney Littleton here arose and said that while he had given no thought as to the effect on the public, he asked, for Mrs. Thaw's sake, that the public and newspaper writers be extended.

It was decided that further consideration should be given to the matter, and no decision announced until the next sitting of court.

Suffered From Heart and Nerve Troubles FOR TEN Last Ten Years.

The heart has supplied to it two sets of nerves, one set which quickens the other which slows its action. The proper action of these nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there be nerve derangement of any kind it is bound to produce all the various phenomena of heart derangement.

Knowing the intricate structure of the heart, and being aware how diseases of the nerves affect the heart, we have combined in Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders as well as act on the heart itself, and in this is the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart trouble which have defied all other treatment.

Mrs. John Riley, Doune, Ont., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from heart and nerve troubles for the last ten years. After trying many remedies and doctoring for two years, without the least benefit, I decided to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial. I am thankful to say that, after using nine boxes, I am entirely cured, and would recommend them to all sufferers."

DISCUSSION ON COST OF ROYAL MINT

Severely Criticised by Members of the Opposition.

MR. PUGSLEY UNDER FIRE

Well Informed as to Details — Mr. Fielding Makes Vigorous Reply—Building Was Erected by Unanimous Vote of the House—Complaint Against Railways—Loss of Mail Bags—New Member.

Ottawa, Jan. 18.—Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, was yesterday afternoon called upon to explain the expenditures on the royal mint, which will cost over half a million, including $43,000 for a fence and a house for the guard. Twenty-nine thousand dollars was the cost of the fence alone.

The House went into supply, taking up the estimates of the Public Works Department. Mr. Reid (Grenville) appeared in the role of chief inquisitor.

Mr. Pugsley said there has been expended on the royal mint up to Nov. 30, 1907, $403,000. An additional grant of $30,000 would be required to complete the building, and it was estimated that the total cost, including machinery, would be $509,701.

The admission that the Minister intended to ask the House for an additional $30,000 after the $25,000 placed in the estimates had been voted, was deception, in the view of the opposition. Mr. Fielding said he had "held down" the Ministers, and the final estimates not being prepared, the total vote was laid over for the supplementaries.

Mr. Bristol (Centre Toronto) said it would cost Canada $100,000 a year for the luxury of counting our own money, but Mr. Fielding pointed out that the resolution to establish a mint received the unanimous consent of the House. The mint was the best equipped in the world.

Mr. Bristol observed that the original estimates were only half of the actual cost. Mr. Pugsley replied that the estimate for building and fence was $350,000, and the contract price $263,000 for building and $43,000 for fence and guard house. The site cost $21,000.

The cost of the fence came in for considerable criticism. Bennett of Simcoe ascertained that $25 for each lineal foot of fence was the cost to the people of the country, there being 200 feet of this substantial affair.

Mr. Pugsley added $6,000 to the cost of the fence, making it $50,000. The new item was for the new foundations.

Dr. Reid said he was informed that machinery bought for the mint at a cost of $85,000 could have been bought for $25,000.

Dr. Barr asserted that a large amount of the money paid in excess of the estimates had probably gone into the pockets of middlemen, and some of it would find its way back to the election fund.

Mr. Fielding intimated that the end was not yet. The Imperial authorities had suggested a residence for the deputy minister (cost $20,000), and a metal refinery.

The item then passed, and the House proceeded to discuss an item for an extension of the east wing of the Parliament Buildings. The work, Mr. Pugsley said, would cost over $300,000.

Another new member was presented yesterday, Mr. Turcotte, who was victor in a bye-election in Nicolet. He was introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Brodeur.

Before the orders of the day were called, Mr. Ames corrected his statement of the expenses of Sir Charles Tupper in connection with the French treaty of 1893. He had said Sir Charles' expenses were $190.19, where, as he had since ascertained, the amount was $1,830 40.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier told Mr. Borden the statement of the Postmaster-General of the result of his mission to Japan would be given on Tuesday next.

Mr. Borden called the attention of the Postmaster-General to the manner in which mail bags were thrown off at Packingham, Lanark County. On occasions bags had fallen under the wheels of the train and the mail matter destroyed. Mr. Lemieux promised an investigation.

On going into supply, Mr. Bennett (Simcoe) renewed his request for a statement of the Government's intentions with regard to the production of papers before the committee.

Mr. Pugsley said he had instructed his officials to return papers to the Department, but he was willing to convenience the committee in any reasonable way.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier added a word, for which he received Opposition applause. He pronounced a reversal of the policy adopted by Mr. Pugsley, promising the papers would be left in the custody of the clerk of the committee, where they could be inspected.

Mr. Taylor (Leeds) again complained of the railway connections at Brockville. Although the Railway Commission had issued an order calling for a better service there had been no improvement. It was time to take the Railway Commission by the throat. They had extended the time at the request of the railways, regardless of the interests of the people.

Mr. Sifton, speaking from the Government side of the House, supported Mr. Taylor. The condition of affairs was ridiculous. The Minister of Railways and Postmaster-General should send their representatives to the Railway Commission to compel them to redress the grievance.

Mr. Lemieux agreed that Mr. Taylor had a substantial grievance. He promised to go with Mr. Taylor to the Railway Commission, and to see that the orders of that body were respected.

Jean Baptiste Morin (Conservative, Dorchester) also drew attention to the unsatisfactory connections between the I. C. R., the Quebec Central and the Grand Trunk, and Mr. Lemieux promised to look into it.

A. H. Blake (South Essex), chairman of the public accounts committee, explained that Mr. Northrup, who had charge of the Ross rifle contract, had agreed with counsel for Sir Charles Ross that the rifle investigation should not be taken up again until next week.

Mr. Boyce (Conservative, Algoma) asked if the Government were aware that the Grand Trunk Pacific was buying ties in the United States. Mr. Conmee (Liberal, Rainy River) pointed out that the Ontario Government imposed stumpage dues on railway ties, whereas in Minnesota the settler got everything on the land. The Government dues on ties amounted to 10 to 12 cents a tie in the Rainy River district.

SCRANTON FACTORY FIRE.

Two Girls Killed and Others Badly Hurt in Panic.

Scranton, Pa., Jan 18.—Two girls were killed and seven others seriously injured in a fire yesterday in the building occupied by the Imperial Underwear Co. About two hundred girls were employed in the building, and there was a panic when the alarm of fire was sounded.

The fire is supposed to have been started by the upsetting of a glue pot in the warehouse of the Economy Furniture Co., located in the basement of the building, which was four storeys. Most of the girls on the third and fourth floors fled to the fire escapes. These got as far as the second storey, and from there they jumped to the alleyway. Many of the girls fled down the one narrow stairway of the building. Some fainted, and there was a jam on the stairs which threatened serious consequences, but the firemen were able to get them all out safely before the fire reached that portion of the building. The loss is $75,000.

Delhi, Jan. 18.—Hon. John Charlton is lying at his home in Lyndoch dying from a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Charlton was in Delhi on Wednesday and was taken ill just after he got home.

As this is the second stroke, the physicians hold out slight hope for his recovery.

Violated Scott Act.

Moncton, N. B., Jan. 18.—Andrew Melanson was yesterday arrested for Scott Act violation, and within half an hour of the time of his arrest had been sentenced to one month in Dorchester Penitentiary. He bought liquor in the bar-room and retailed it to another man, who was arrested later.

SITUATION IN MOROCCO.

British and French Premiers Hold Conference in Paris.

Paris, Jan. 18.—Premier Clemenceau, Foreign Minister Pichon and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the British Premier, who passed through the French capital on his way from Biarritz to London, recently had a long conference regarding the situation in Morocco, the result of which, however, has not been made public.

In face of the growing fanaticism of the Moors in favor of Mulai Hafid, who now has been proclaimed Sultan at both Morocco City and Fez, the position of France and Morocco is increasingly difficult. Apprehensions are cropping up that perhaps France may have been backing the wrong horse, and that it would be better to accept Mulai Hafid if he does not repudiate the Algeciras act. At any rate, the Government is now marking time pending developments. Active French support of Abd-el-Aziz, which at present could only injure his cause with the Moors in the interior, will now be withdrawn and a position of nominal neutrality will be assumed.

MADE PROTEST DIRECT.

Gen. Stoessel Appeals to Czar Against Procedure at Trial.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 18.—Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel Thursday night sent a protest direct to Emperor Nicholas against the exclusion of witnesses for the defence and other alleged discriminations by the court-martial which is trying him on the charge of having surrendered Port Arthur to the Japanese before the resources of the fortress were exhausted.

As a result of this action Gen. Stroukoff, Emperor Nicholas' personal aide-de-camp, was present in court for the purpose of furnishing a report direct to His Majesty. It was noticeable that the judges showed the defence greater consideration than heretofore.

In the telegram Gen. Stoessel said he believed that Emperor Nicholas would not refuse an old soldier every opportunity to clear his impeached honor.

Boy's Dangerous Trick.

St. Catharines, Jan. 18.—A peculiar case has been reported from Beamsville. A young lad named Kerr is said to have gone to Dr. Fairfield's drug store and askel for five cents worth of Spanish fly blister. The doctor told him it was poison and asked what he wanted it for. The boy said his father wanted to blister a horse and the sale was completed.

The boy then went to Tufford's livery, where he found some companions, one of whom had a quantity of chocolates. Kerr took some of the candy and placed some of the fly blister inside and gave it to Gordon Russell, who knew nothing of what he had done. Russell was taken ill, and it was with difficulty that he was revived. Russell will not lay any information, but the county police have the matter in hand.

Woman's Leap to Death.

New York, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Herbert M. Sears, 40 years old, a guest at the Hotel St. Regis, committed suicide yesterday by jumping from a thirteenth-storey window.

Mrs. Sears had been a frequent visitor at the St. Regis for several years. She always came to the hotel accompanied only by a maid, and frequently remained there several days.

Her actions were described by the hotel people as erratic, and the maid always maintained a close watch over her mistress.

The body of Mrs. Sears fell on the roof of a four-storey building adjoining the St. Regis.

Mrs. Sears left a note to her husband in her room in the hotel.

Charge Dropped.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 18.—Cecil Simpson, former agent of the Canadian Express Co., who has been in jail almost a month awaiting preliminary trial on a charge of stealing $2,100 of the company's funds, was yesterday discharged from custody.

Simpson will at once go to the company's head office, and it is expected will shortly be in the service again. The money has been raised here to make good the shortage. The Knights of Pythias raised about $500.

Lamp Upset; Woman May Die.

ANOTHER GREAT BANK MERGER

Sovereign Bank Absorbed—Obligations Guaranteed.

DEPOSITORS ARE PROTECTED

Unexpected Announcement Made Last Night—Agreement by Which Financial Institution Is Merged With Eleven Others — Assets Are Sufficient to Meet Liabilities—Open To-day as Usual.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—The Sovereign Bank of Canada is no more. This morning its various offices will be open as usual, and doing business as usual, but under the ownership and control, in fact, as the branch offices of a number of other banks which have taken over its affairs and assumed all its liabilities.

There is no cause for excitement or alarm. The absorption, for such it is, is due to the exceptional strain of the past few months.

The assets are declared by other bankers to be sufficient to meet all the liabilities.

Mr. Jarvis, the manager, discussing the matter last night, said that the liquidation was not liable to cause any difficulty in commercial circles. The bank's business customers were not numerous, and the various accounts, he thought, would readily be taken over by the other institutions, among which the Sovereign's clientele would be distributed.

The Sovereign Bank will liquidate as follows:

$11,000,000 deposits will be taken up by other banks.

$3,750,000 call loans on stock will have to be paid or taken up by other banks.

$11,120,124 commercial loans will have to be paid or taken over by other banks.

$2,000,000 bonds and stocks will have to be sold.

$600,000 real estate and bank premises will have to be sold.

$3,000,000 in capital will share in proportion to the amount realized from assets over liabilities.

Acting in unity with the members of the Canadian Bankers' Association, a scheme was evolved by which the Sovereign Bank will disappear from the list of Canadian banks, the various undertakings of the institution being absorbed in the larger and stronger concerns.

By the method evolved there is not the least necessity for concern to depositors, as the transition from the defunct bank to another will be automatic.

The various branches of the Sovereign have been apportioned to the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Commerce and others which have entered into the arrangement, and to-day the old Sovereign branches will open up in full charge of the banks which have taken them over.

Railways Found Guilty.

Toronto, Jan. 18.—The jury in the sessions yesterday, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty against both the C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk, for maintaining a nuisance and for failure to protect life and property at the foot of Bay street.

The railroads will appeal to a higher court, on the main ground that they were under the jurisdiction of the Railway Board. Judge Winchester held that they were amenable to the charge of criminal negligence laid against them.

Charge Fell Through.

Bowmanville, Jan. 18.—Charles Lehmann, proprietor of the Bennet House, charged with obtaining money under false pretences from John J. Griffiths, appeared before Police Magistrate Horsey Thursday. No false representations or statements were proved, and he was accordingly acquitted. Griffiths, it appeared, loaned $4,490 to Lehmann, who was to repay him $50 a month, and has paid small sums from time to time.

KILLED BY A COW'S TAIL.

Binghampton, N.Y.—Wm. A. Wells, of Neward Valley, was milking, when a cow swished her tail, striking him on the forehead with the fleshy part of the appendage. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Wells returned to the house, complaining of a pain in the head, which rapidly grew worse. Physicians pronounced it apoplexy, brought on by the blow from the cow's tail. Mr. Wells died the same night.

Apoplexy is the result of poisoned blood. Bowels become constipated, kidneys get weakened, skin action becomes poor, and the blood is loaded with impurities, which produces weakness in the blood vessels.

Whenever there is headache, backache, neuralgia, rheumatism—it means blood poisoning. "Fruit-a-tives" are a certain cure for all these troubles.

"Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices and tonics. 50c a box. At all dealers.

MESSAGE COMPANIES WERE TIED

Played a Draw Game at Brock Street Rink Last Night

There were doings of all kinds at the Brock street rink last night, when teams representing the Bell Telephone Company and the C. P. R. Telegraph Company hooked up in what proved to be one of the most sensational hockey games of the season. At the end of the hour the score was a tie, the C.P.R. having scored three, while the line was busy for the hello people thrice. At halftime both had found the nets twice. A sensational somersault by Bowes of the C.P.R. was the feature, but Dave Osborne, late of the Northern League, made many hits. The Bell Company says it would have won had the ladies of the company been on hand to cheer them. C. Waram refereed satisfactorily and the teams lined up as follows:

Midland looks good for the Intermediate O. H. A. championship. They have all their last year's senior team out, and there doesn't seem to be anything in the series that will stop them for a minute. Last night they beat Pengtang by 14 goals to 8, on the latter's ice.

Varsity made a show of Laval, the new Intercollegiate team, last night, defeating them in a ridiculously easy fashion by 19 goals to 1. The Frenchmen were never in the hunt.

23-14. What do you know about that game? It represents the tally of the exhibition game in Hamilton, last night between the St. George's of Toronto, and the Hamilton team, and the Saints had the Skidoo number. If the Saints are no better than last year Hamilton's team must be a winner.

Lindsay, Jan. 17. — The opening game of the intermediate series of the O.H.A. on the local ice was played here to-night between the Lindsay and Whitby intermediates. Lindsay added another victory to their list, making four straight victories and no defeats. The final score was 8 to 1 in favour of the Muggets. The game was clean throughout, only one Whitby man going to the fence in the first half, and two from each team in the second half. Referee Hancock kept the game well in hand, and gave perfect satisfaction, being strictly impartial, and very few offsides escaped notice.

In the last Intermediate game of this series played here on Tuesday evening the home team defeated Peterborough by a score of 5 to 1. Cobourg displayed the best combination that they have shown this year, and most of their goals were the result of pretty combination play. Peterborough scored the first and their only goal on a rush by Dusty and a pass. Cobourg was ahead at half time 2 to 1., Cobourg's second goal being a fast rush by Moffitt. Cobourg kept Peterborough pretty well on the defence in the second half and added three to the score. The last goal of Cobourg was hard luck on Peterborough. Crossen made a long shot from cover, which was a little high and wide. The Peterborough point stuck up his hand and sent it in the net. Cobourg seemed to play better together, and showed a big improvement in team play over the previous game. For Peterborough, Moore was the strong man, though Derocher in goal made a number of good stops. Mr. McCord, of Toronto, was referee, and his work was the best seen here since Roy Thomas officiated several years ago. —Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

A large crowd witnessed the last home game for the Cobourg team in the intermediate series at the rink on Tuesday, when the home team defeated the Peterborough Strathconas in one of the fastest and cleanest games seen here for many a day by a score of 5—1, the play being much closer than the score would indicate. Peterborough making determined efforts to win until the call of time. There were two changes in the line-up of the home team since the Lindsay game, and the team seemed to have better combination on this occasion than at any time this season.—Cobourg World.

SUFFRAGETTES AND POLICE.

Women Chain Themselves Up to Fence to Evade Arrest.

London, Jan. 18.—The arrival of the Ministry in Downing street yesterday to attend the first meeting of the Cabinet before the assembling of Parliament was made the occasion of a public demonstration by the women suffragists.

The police anticipated trouble, and a large force was present, but the women succeeded in making their way inside the residence of Premier Campbell-Bannerman, and five arrests were made before order was restored.

Some of the demonstrants adopted a novel manner to prevent being carried off by the police. They had attached to their belts stout chains, which, when they saw the police about to lay hands on them, they quickly threw around the iron railing in front of the building.

The police had to break these chains by force before they could get the women away.

The suffragists were subsequently arraigned in the Bow street Police Court. They refused to give sureties for their good behavior, and were sent to prison for three weeks.

IN THE FOG

BY
Richard Harding Davis.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY ROBERT HOWARD RUSSELL.

I peered around it. Inside the screen was a divan piled with cushions, and on the end of it nearer me the man was sitting. He was a young Englishman with light yellow hair and a deeply bronzed face. He was seated with his arms stretched out along the back of the divan, and with his head resting against a cushion. His attitude was one of complete ease. But his mouth had fallen open, and his eyes were set with an expression of utter horror. At the first glance I saw that he was quite dead.

"For a flash of time I was too startled to act, but in the same flash I was convinced that the man had met his death from no accident, that he had not died through any ordinary failure of the laws of nature. The expression on his face was much too terrible to be misinterpreted. It spoke as eloquently as words. It told me that before the end had come he had watched his death approach and threaten him.

"I was so sure he had been murdered that I instinctively looked on the floor for the weapon, and, at the same moment, out of concern for my own safety, quickly behind me; but the silence of the house continued unbroken.

"I have seen a great number of dead men; I was on the Asiatic Station during the Japanese-Chinese war. I was in Port Arthur after the massacre. So a dead man, for the single reason that he is dead, does not repel me, and, though I knew that there was no hope that this man was alive, still for decency's sake, I felt his pulse, and while I kept my ears alert for any sound from the floors above me, I pulled open his shirt and placed my hand upon his heart. My fingers instantly touched upon the opening of a wound, and as I withdrew them I found them wet with blood. He was in evening dress, and in the wide bosom of his shirt I found a narrow slit, so narrow that in the dim light it was scarcely discernible. The wound was no wider than the smallest blade of a pocket-knife, but when I stripped the shirt away from the chest and left it bare I found that the weapon, narrow as it was, had been long enough to reach his heart. There is no need to tell you how I felt as I stood by the body of this boy, for he was hardly older than a boy, or of the thoughts that came into my head. I was bitterly sorry for this stranger, bitterly indignant at his murderer, and, at the same time, selfishly concerned for my own safety and for the notoriety which I saw was sure to follow. My instinct was to leave the body where it lay, and to hide myself in the fog, but I also felt that since a succession of accidents had made me the only witness to a crime, my duty was to make myself a good witness and to assist to establish the facts of this murder.

"That it might possibly be a suicide, and not a murder, did not disturb me for a moment. The fact that the weapon had disappeared, and the expression on the boy's face were enough to convince, at least me, that he had had no hand in his own death. I judged it, therefore, of the first importance to discover who was in the house, or, if they had escaped from it, who had been in the house before I entered it. I had seen one man leave it; but all I could tell of him was that he was a young man, that he was in evening dress, and that he had fled in such haste that he had not stopped to close the door behind him.

"The Russian servant I had found apparently asleep, and, unless he acted a part with supreme skill, he was a stupid and ignorant boor, and as innocent of the murder as myself. There was still the Russian princess whom he had expected to find, or had pretended to expect to find, in the same room with the murdered man. I judged that she must now be either upstairs with the servant, or that she had, without his knowledge, already fled from the house. When I recalled his apparently genuine surprise at not finding her in the drawing-room, this latter supposition seemed the more probable. Nevertheless, I decided that it was my duty to make a search, and after a second hurried look for the weapon among the cushions of the divan, and upon the floor, I cautiously crossed the hall and entered the dining-room.

"The single candle was still flickering in the draught and showed only the white cloth. The rest of the room was draped in shadows. I picked up the candle, and, lifting it high above my head, moved around the corner of the table. Either my nerves were on such a stretch that

TWO LOCAL BOYS TRIED IN ROCHESTER

Were Allowed To Go On Suspended Sentence

A telegram was received some time ago by Chief Ransel to the effect that O'Toole and Sullivan, who skipped out of the city after Stanley Gorman's arrest, to avoid giving evidence in that case, were arrested in Rochester on a charge of vagrancy. They were brought up before the magistrate in that city and remanded. They were brought up a short time ago and allowed to go on suspended sentence. The two boys will be here to give evidence when the case comes up at the spring Assizes. Stanley Gorman in the meantime is still in jail.

MUCH INTEREST IN THE MEETINGS

Addresses by Rev. Mr. Allan Are Attracting Great Attention

WILL PREACH TO-MORROW

All who were sufficiently fortunate to take in the service in St. Andrew's Church last night enjoyed a treat in the intensely interesting and instructive address of the Rev. Andrew Allan. It is the judgment of the minister of St. Andrews that of all the addresses at the many Bible conferences he has attended at Northfield and Winona, the discourses of the Rev. Mr. Allan is equal to any, and far superior to many. In a very large degree the preacher possesses the mental acumen of a Campbell Morgan, the spiritual fervour of Andrew Murray, the evangelistic note of a Wilbur Chapman, and the prayer spirit of S. D. Gordon; but above all he is like these men because he has seen the vision of the same master and is seeking to encourage and stimulate others to follow his leadership of the same Christ.

The address was preceded by a bright song service, in which Mr. and Mrs. Greenslade rendered a very appropriate duet, and both Mr. Scriver and Mrs. R. F. W. E. Davidson sang sacred solos.

The text was Mark 4:41, "What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey Him."

Dr. A. J. Gordon, late of Boston, was a truely human man as well as a strong spiritual character. When abroad he never forgot his boys. On one occasion he brought home a puzzle map, and after some time he found that his boys had solved the problem because he had discovered that on the back of the pieces of cardboard were the parts of a man, and putting the man together he had his map. In every life problem there is the man. Get to know and recognize him and all life's puzzles will be solved. In visiting Rome the speaker was amazed when in the palace of Justice the various sections of that magnificent ceiling seemed to be out of focus. The paintings were most elaborate but there seemed to be no harmony or blending; but when the guide took them to a certain point everything fell into line and presented a most beautiful sight. Take your stand and gaze on the Cross of Christ and all the varied experiences and problems of life will be focused to your spiritual sight.

A Swiss Illustration

The story is told of two famous tourists who were being conducted up the Matterhorn in Switzerland, roped together to two guides. Alternately they made good progress—but suddenly the foot of the fourth man slipped and he was dangling over the precipice. In a moment the hold of the third and second man gave way and with a mighty hold on the ice the topmost man held with a death grasp until each man had regained a foothold. What a perfect picture of Christ! How He holds on the eternal throne until all are saved. The preacher appealed to all present to look to Christ as the only one that could give satisfaction to the full.

Mr. Allan's mission will continue till Wednesday night next. To-morrow he will preach at both services in St. Andrews and in the Y. M. C. A. at 4 o'clock. Each afternoon at 2.30, (Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday), he will continue the Bible readings.

While the responsibility of inviting Mr. Allan to Peterborough has been gladly assumed by St. Andrew's a most cordial invitation was publicly extended by the pastor to all the churches to join in these specialy inspiring, instructive and edifying meetings.

FOOT RACE ON ICE EXCITING

Muskrat Beat Howard at The Keene Carnival

A very successful carnival was held at Keene last night under the auspices of the management of the covered rink. There was a large attendance, with the costumes of an unusually clever and attractive nature, and with the ice in excellent condition.

The feature of the evening's programme was a half-mile foot race on the ice between Daniel Muskrat a brother of the Hiawatha Indian who ran in the Examiner's junior road race, and Hanlan Howard, a brother of Ben Howard, late of the Irish-Canadians. The runners wore spiked shoes and made excellent time on the ice, Muskrat winning after an exciting race.

George Chambers, The Daring Robber Gets a Life Sentence

Has Led A Reckless Life And He Must Now Pay the Penalty—Leaves Courtroom With An Oath On His Lips

HIS PAL ALLOWED TO GO

The trial of George Chambers, the miscreant who made so many daring highway robberies in Toronto, at the point of the revolver, and whose sensational arrest took place a few weeks ago, has been watched with keen interest by local citizens as it was alleged that he was the assailant of Charles Porteous, a farmer near Millbrook. He was brought up yesterday along with his friend Morgan and a Toronto despatch says the following about the trial:—

When the Assize Court was resumed yesterday afternoon two prisoners were conducted to the box to be sentenced by Chancellor Boyd. They were George Chambers and Thomas Morgan, the two young criminals who pleaded guilty to several charges of highway robbery, and whose sensational arrest took place about two weeks ago.

"The sentence against you, Morgan," said the Judge, "is five years in prison, and 25 lashes. That sentence against you is suspended, provided you live up to the agreement you have signed, to lead a lawful life."

"As to you, Chambers, the story is a very different one. On five charges you have pleaded guilty to highway robbery, having used a revolver. There is a long list of other convictions against you. That means that you have started on a deliberate life of crime. I cannot impose a light sentence upon you.

"While you are in the Penitentiary you will have time to improve, and if you intend to lead a new life the authorities of the Government will intervene on your behalf.

"My sentence then, is that you be sentenced to Penitentiary for life."

Chambers turned white when he heard the sentence imposed. Immediately a guard opened the gate of the prisoners dock. With a look of hate evident on his face, and uttering an oath plainly audible, Chambers turned towards the Chancellor and left the box. On his way out of the court the prisoner again turned to have a final look at the judge who sentenced him, while his lips could be seen moving.

FORMER PETERBORO' MAN GETS WELL MERITED APPOINTMENT

The many friends and relatives of Mr. J. Arthur Hall, son of the late Frederic Hall, Deputy Sheriff of Peterborough, and nephew of the present sheriff, James A. Hall, will be pleased to learn that he has been appointed assistant electrical inspector to the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association in connection with the Toronto head office of the western division. Mr. Hall was appointed solely on his own merits, having passed through the various stages of electrical construction work during the past eight years. Mr. Arthur Hall left Peterborough about twelve years ago and was brought to Toronto by his brother-in-law, Mr. H F. Strickland, who was at that time in the electrical business in Toronto, and having served three years with the firm, went to the United States, and has worked in most of the principal cities therein. About four years ago Mr. Hall was married and returned to Toronto, where he has always held positions in connection with important electrical construction work with several of the largest electrical firms doing business, and has now been appointed to the position referred to.

The electrical department of the Canadian Fire Underwriters is under the management of Mr. H. F. Strickland, also another Peterborough man.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Jan. 18.—The market today was good, helped by better prices in London and by some buying for foreign account. The manipulation was early evident in Reading and some of the other leading issues and notwithstanding the actual development of some liquidation in spots the general trend continued strongly upward until well toward noon.

The steel stocks were in exceptionally good demand and sentiment on these issues improves daily. We can see no reason why the general market should not continue to work to a considerably higher level and while there may be occasional sharp reactions they should afford excellent opportunities for making purchases. Reading is very scarce, and a sharp upward move may be the result. To-day's bank statement was exceptionally good. The only weak feature was the increase in loans, and there may be some special transactions.

The pressure against smelters was again in evidence and is very puzzling to the traders. Content & Co., were heavy sellers down to 71 1-2, when they turned buyer. It looks very much like a big shake-out in the stock.

Foreign houses had a few buying orders in this market. The banks yesterday gained $1,105,000 in their operations with the sub-treasury, which compares with a loss of $657,000 in the preceeding week. The sub-treasury is debtor at the clearing house this morning in the sum of $1,664,229.

THE SOVEREIGN BANK IS ABSORBED

Associated Banks Take Over Business of The Institution—No Alarm Occasioned

It is gratifying to note that under our Canadian system of banking, such a phrase as a "bank fails" is a misnomer. When a bank suffers a severe strain upon its resources, as has happened with the Sovereign Bank, chiefly due to recent exceptional financial conditions, and finds itself in water a little too deep, the other chartered banks come to the rescue and forestall, or stave off, wreck, and protect the public represented by depositors.

As will be found detailed in another column, the Sovereign Bank found difficulty in carrying on its operations with satisfactory profit, and the other banks took its affairs in hand. It was found that the assets of the Sovereign Bank are sufficient to pay all liabilities, and eleven of the associated banks decided to assume the obligations of the Sovereign Bank and take over its business. This arrangement fully protects the interests of depositors.

The business of the several branches will be taken over by other banks. The nearest branch of the bank to Peterborough is at Havelock, and the business of this branch has been assumed by the Bank of Toronto.

FOWL ROBBERIES IN EAST CITY

Ducks and Hens are Carried Off By a Thief

There is an epidemic of fowl robberies in East City, and the people have a good idea as to the identity of the guilty parties. Thief is given as a warning, as the recent hen-house depredations are becoming too frequent and serious. Not long ago a man living near the canal lost 50 ducks, and one night this week four hens were carried off, supposedly by the same party.

The people who have suffered the losses are very vexed, and while they have a strong suspicion, they are not sure in their opinions, but a closer watch will be kept on the suspects.

MOVED FOR LIQUIDATOR APPOINTMENT

In Connection With Sovereign Bank, at Osgoode Hall

Examiner Special:

Toronto, Jan. 20.—It is understood that a motion for the appointment of a liquidator for the Sovereign Bank has been filed at Osgoode Hall. The papers in the motion were filed on Saturday, but the officials at Osgoode Hall refused to give them up as there was an order from the judge that they were not to be made public. It is believed, however, that a large shareholder has made the motion in the interests of the bank so as to prevent any legal proceeding being taken to upset the arrangement arrived at on Saturday. If proceedings are taken by any other party, then the motion for a liquidator, which is put in with the consent of the majority of the shareholders, must take precedence.

LOCAL OFFICER WINS COMPETITION

Staff Captain Goodwin Wins Ten Dollars For Her Shack-Stove Story

The Shack-Stove story competition which took place in December was won by Staff-Captain Goodwin of the local Salvation Army corps. The stories all appeared in the Christmas edition of the War Cry and were voted on by the subscribers. The story by the local officer was a very interesting one and received favourable comment by her brother officers in the January edition.

There were ten officers of all ranks who took part in this competition and Staff-Captain Goodwin succeeded in securing the largest number of votes which was 4,056, exceeding the second competitor by 439. The prize offered for the winner was ten dollars.

STRONGER AND FIRMER THAN EVER

Half Yearly Report of T.A.S. Shows a Flourishing Condition

A strong financial condition was the encouraging report of the treasurer of St. Peter's T.A.S. at the regular meeting of the society yesterday afternoon. During the past six months' term a gain of $451.25 has been cleared and the substantial sum of a little over $1,000 is held in the treasury. More than that the society is entirely free from debt with a membership of nearly 700 on the roll. The sentiment of total abstinence is slowly becoming deeply rooted in St. Peter's congregation and by the time the 10th anniversary rolls around an effort will have been made to run the membership to 1,000 members if such is possible.

A number of new members were enrolled yesterday and the new term is begun with the society stronger in every respect than it ever was before.

COAL GAS ESCAPED FROM STOVE IN CAR WHEN C.P.R. LINEMEN WERE SLEEPING

One of Them Overcame by The Fumes When He Arose From Bed—All Were Able To Go To Work

DOOR WAS LEFT OPEN

On Friday morning a number of linemen of the C.P.R. had a narrow escape from asphyxiation in their car, which with another was standing on a siding near Park Street. A gentleman who spoke with one of the men told the Examiner there were about ten men altogether in the car, and when the first awoke he was almost suffocated by the coal gas fumes which filled the car. He arose to open the door, but was overpowered by the denser fumes at the top of the car. Another man made an attempt to reach the door, proceeding with more care than his fellow, crawled along until he reached it, and succeeded in drawing it open.

A window was also opened and the draft cleared the car in about five minutes. All the men were more or less affected by the gas, the first man being worse than the rest, although after a little treatment he was brought around. Headaches and stomach pains were general, but before 7 o'clock these had mostly all passed off, although the men felt the effects of the gas during the day.

The men are employed in looking after the wires along the C. P. R., and two specially equipped cars are provided for them. The explanation of the affair is that the last man to bed had left the door of the heater partly open and the gas escaped into the room. It is fortunate that there was a small ventilator, as otherwise the gas would have been so dense that to live would have been impossible, and in the opinion of the man few of them could have escaped.

Thinks The Japanese Are Ill Treated in Canada

Sermon at St. Luke's Church By Rev. Mr. McGinnis a Returned Missionary From Japan

THE PROGRESS IN JAPAN

Rev. R. H. McGinnis, a returned missionary on a furlough from Japan, preached yesterday in two city churches—St. Luke's and All Saints'. In the morning he preached at St. Luke's church, and one of the important points conveyed was that just as Great Britain and Japan are closely related in the political arena of the world, so should they be spiritually, and God has laid upon Britain's shoulders the responsibility of giving to that eastern country the gospel of Jesus Christ. Mr. McGinnis kept his listeners deeply interested throughout his discourse and brought home to the congregation many striking features and existing conditions in Japan, the great country of the East. On the words found in the 15th verse of the 16th chapter of St. Mark's Gospel,—"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," was based the remarks of the reverend gentleman. This was the command of Jesus Christ over 1900 years ago, and it has come to us to-day, ringing down through the ages, the commission of God to His people, began the speaker. The Church of England has been termed the Apostolic church. Then the members, as apostles, must be missionaries in the world. We must accomplish and carry out the design laid down by Jesus in His last command.

In many respects, Great Japan of the East is similar in character to Great Britain of the West. The tremendous progress of Japan has been marvellous. It was just a few years ago that she was a recognized nation. In warfare Japan has been wonderfully successful. Also in the arts of peace she has made rapid advancement. Her railways, postal and telegraph systems, school, colleges and banking institutions are most modern and splendidly equipped. There is little chance of Japan becoming an illiterate nation.

All churches are represented in that country by some members. Every denomination is doing good work. The Church of England has five dioceses presided over by five bishops. The question has been asked, "Are the converted Japanese real Christians?" They are true disciples of Jesus Christ, and their cry is "Come over and help us." The speaker said it made him feel ashamed to think of the treatment the Japs had received in this country in Vancouver and the Northwest. In all the seven years he had spent in Japan he had never suffered an insult from any of that eastern land. He was always treated with courtesy, and he came in contact with all classes.

In conclusion the reverend gentleman urged the people to take a deeper interest in missions and keep themselves conversant with the work being done. Much has been done, but there is a great deal more to do, and Mr. McGinnis asked for the prayers and assistance of those present.

THE LESSON TO BE LEARNED

The pinch that a great many persons feel at the present time is to some a lesson. While many of those out of employment are new comers, whose arrival was ill-timed in the matter of work available, there are many who have had through the past season abundance of work at good wages. Instead of living economically, instead of laying by a portion of their wages, instead of providing in time of prosperity for a season of adversity, they have spent as they received, have patronized excursions, picnics and amusements without reference to the future. When employment ceased the income ceased and destitution came. There are other persons who with no larger income than those mentioned, are enjoying comfort and comparative competence, because their savings are available to tide them and their families over the dull season. Very much, if not most, of the suffering and destitution that come upon persons is due to unthrift—to bad judgment, to indulgence of the too prevalent craze for pleasure, to the mania for amusement, for having a "good time,"—an odious phrase which represents an untold capacity for evil, in impairment of character and the extinction of all ideals that conduce to success in life. Adversity has its lessons and the little pinch of dullness in employment will have served a useful purpose if it teaches those who are eating the bitter bread of regret, sadly enough the only bread their improvidence has left them, the wisdom of economical use of the means their labour gains, the evil of spendthriftness and the necessity of looking beyond the careless present and providing, as all must do to succeed, for the adverse conditions that come to all; to the business man to the industrial worker as well as to the labourer in a more modest sphere. In all these activities there is provision for the future; bank and other financial corporations have their reserves; thus in the event of reverse or untoward conditions, provision is made for meeting the situation. In case of failure to take these precautions the result of improvidence and foresight have to be endured. The same failure in the case of the wage earner brings similar disaster. The spirit of the lesson to be learned is that of the nation—in time of peace prepare for war—in time of prosperity prepare for adversity. A part great or small of every dollar earned should be laid aside for a rainy day. A man should certainly have as much sense as a squirrel, which in season lays aside a store of food for the winter.

AN EXPLANATION NEEDED

It is no exaggeration to say that the report of the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, was a painful surprise to many readers of the evening papers, in that it indicated that there was a very substantial deficit in the finances. Some time last autumn a vigorous effort was made to place the finances of the Association upon a satisfactory footing, to collect the sum of $1,800, to wipe out the deficit. This movement was announced to have been a success, one considered worthy of being celebrated by an elaborate banquet. The newspapers, which gave currency to information reporting from time to time, the good progress of the debt extinction campaign, were led to announce that the deficit had been wiped out, and a clean slate ready for the record of another year's financial operations. This happy delusion, as it seems to have been, was dispelled by the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Association, which was to the effect that there still remained a deficit of $1,800, and that, too, after the definite announcement, made with considerable jubilation, that the shortage had been wiped out.

It would not seem unreasonable to feel that some explanation, on the part of the Association authorities, is due the public, to whom the institution must look for support, in the matter of maintenance in effective condition. When the special campaign, for the extinction of the debt was in progress many persons were inclined to contribute more liberally than they would otherwise have done, with the object of wiping out the debt in respect of current expenditure for maintenance and operation. Now that it is known, that, contrary to the announcement that this had been done, there is still a large deficit, these persons, as well as all who contributed are, it would seem, entitled to some explanation of the extraordinary conditions revealed. It is incumbent upon the authorities responsible for the finances and management of the Association, to satisfy those entitled to information, not unreasonably demanded. It would seem they would not be acting unwisely in taking the public into their confidence.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs Albert Mann — Mrs Chester Curry

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues" sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights. I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

The following letter is from Mrs. Albert Mann, 154 Gore Vale Ave., Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with serious female trouble having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought back my good health."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to advise you wisely, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

Kidney Troubles From the Liver

COMPLICATED CASES WHICH LED TO THE DISCOVERY OF THAT GREAT MEDICINE

In his study of kidney disease, Dr. Chase found that fully 90 per cent. of the cases arose as a direct result of liver and bowel disorders, and it was working on this idea that led to the discovery of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Through over-eating, irregular meals, or food that does not agree the liver is deranged, poisonous bile is left in the blood, and the digestive system is upset. Headaches, biliousness, pains in the back and limbs, ill-temper, and general out-of-sort feelings result.

These are among the symptoms of liver complaint, but during such attacks the kidneys are overworked and after a while there is pain and smarting when passing water, the urine is highly coloured and contains deposits, the pains in the back become more severe, you have rheumatic pains it may be, and are gradually falling a victim of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were prepared for the express purpose of effecting cure in every stage of such cases. They enliven the liver, regulate the action of the bowels, and invigorate the kidneys.

In this regard they are entirely different to any treatment you ever used, and are successful in complicated cases in which ordinary kidney medicines have little or no effect. There are people in every neighbourhood in Canada ready to certify to this statement.

Mrs. John Shanahan, 319 McDonel street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"I was troubled with pains in the back, and cropsy, and was subject to fluttering and palpitation of the heart. In addition to set my kidneys right I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and I also used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at the same time.

"The combined use of these two preparations has done me a world of good. I used to have rush of blood to the head, dizziness, and headache, but I am thankful to say that all these symptoms have disappeared, and I have been cured by Dr. Chase's remedies."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MIGHT BE PETERBOROUGH

First County Councillor — Here's a fine-looking street.

Second Ditto—You're right there. What's best to be done with it?

"Let's have it dug up for a sewer."

"But wouldn't it be proper to pave it first?"

"Of course; I supposed you understood that. Then, after it is paved and a sewer put in, we'll have it repaved."

"All in readiness to be dug up again for the gas pipes? I see you understand the principles of municipal economy. And after we have had it repaved for the second time, then what?"

"Well, then it will be in order for widening. There's nothing I admire so much as system in the care and improvement of our roadways." — London Tatler.

A GOOD CONCERT AT ENNISMORE

The C.M.B.A. of Ennismore gave a concert in St. Martin's Hall Thursday night which was attended by a number of Peterborough men. There was a large crowd that thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. Mr. D. Hughes Charles acted as chairman in his usual acceptable and jovial manner and allowed no dull moments. Messrs. Harry LeBrun, W S Davidson, W McIlroy, Jas. Lynch and others were present, nearly all taking part in the programme, either by addresses or songs. A splendid programme was presented and was greatly enjoyed and appreciated by the numerous audience present, a large and important portion being supplied by the kindness of Peterborough visitors. Mr. W S Davidson gave a double entertainment, a nourishing speech on "Quaker Oats" and a song, "A Trip to the Orient." Mr. W. McIlroy contributed several songs, among others "An Irishman's Toast" and a stirring war song. Mr. H LeBrun sang with Gaelic fire, "La Marseillaise." Mr. E G Patterson, superintendent of the Canadian General Electric Works, and Mr. James Lynch accompanied the Peterborough party in the capacity of chaperon and manager. Local talent also contributed delightfully to the entertainment of the audience. Much appreciated music was provided by Miss Agnes Scollard, Miss Moloney, Miss Kennedy, Miss Guiry, Miss Carew, Miss Flood and the local orchestra, all combining to make the occasion one of the best concerts in every respect ever held in Ennismore. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick expressed his pleasure at the happy outcome and thanked all those who had contributed to it, especially the gentlemen from the city.

KILLED IN FIGHT.

Fatal Result of Scuffle on Board U. S. Training Ship.

Newport, R. I., Jan. 20.—Following a fist fight last Tuesday on board the United States training ship Cumberland, at this port, H. A. Hartnet, aged 23 years, of Philadelphia, a naval apprentice, died yesterday at the naval hospital.

D. M. Manning, 20 years of age, of Middletown, N. Y., also an apprentice, is under a sentry's charge, pending an investigation by the authorities into Hartnet's death. Hartnet, who had been appointed an acting master-at-arms, on account of his strength and ability to handle the youngsters on board ship, had trouble with Manning, who resented a push given him by Hartnet to enforce an order. The two came to blows, but were separated by one of the masters-at-arms. Later, when the day's duties were over for the time being, the two boys put on heavy gloves and began a battle, which, by agreement, was to go ten rounds.

With a crowd of about 300 apprentices and seamen as witnesses, the fight was a hard one from the outset. When the seventh round was ended both the youths were bleeding and seemed almost exhausted. In the eighth, however, Manning suddenly seemed to recover a great deal of his vigor, and after a little preliminary sparring his glove hit Hartnet on the jaw, sending the older boy to the deck.

Hartnet took the count of ten, and when his seconds went to his side they found him unconscious. The usual "first aid" employed in such cases failed to bring him to his senses, and he was removed to a sick ward.

There the ship's doctor worked over him until 1 o'clock Wednesday morning, when his condition became so alarming that he was taken ashore to the naval hospital, where an operation was performed upon him without success.

Yesterday Hartnet died without having recovered consciousness. Death was due to a blood clot on the brain. His relatives were communicated with, and his body is being held awaiting instructions from them.

BOUND THE CASHIER.

Masked Men Rob Bank After Desperate Struggle.

Texola, Okla., Jan. 20.—After a hand-to-hand fight with Assistant Cashier Jones, two masked men on Saturday night robbed the First National Bank of Texola. Jones was found bound and gagged and insensible from a blow on the head.

"Hands up" were the words that greeted Jones as he was working late on his books. Jones raised his hands, but when one of the bandits turned to grab some loose change the assistant cashier attacked the other robber. The two men struggled on the floor until the robber hit Jones on the head with a revolver. The men then tied Jones and helped themselves. They escaped.

Spice Mills Burned.

Hamilton, Jan. 20.—Fire Saturday afternoon did damage to the extent of $40,000 to the building and stock of McLaren's, Limited, South MacNab street, formerly the Hamilton Coffee and Spice Co.

The fire broke out shortly before three o'clock and gave the firemen two hours' stiff fight. The building is a three-storey brick and the fire worked right up to the roof. The building was badly gutted and the machinery and stock damaged by water. The loss is pretty well covered by insurance.

Chief Ten Eyck and his men did well to keep the flames from spreading, as there was a lively breeze at the time.

During the progress of the fire there was a peculiar accident. The hose attached to the steamer wriggled out of the hands of three firemen and bounded about the street, striking a farmer named Thomas Bell of Glanford and breaking his leg.

Canadian Composer Dead.

Montreal, Jan. 20.—Henry Herbert Godfrey, the well-known composer of Canadian patriotic songs, died here Saturday night suddenly, of heart failure.

Mr. Godfrey was born in Plymouth, England, in 1858, and came to Canada when very young. He lived for a number of years in Toronto, and later removed to Montreal.

His songs were favorites in all the Canadian schools. Amongst his best known compositions are "Land of the Maple," "Men of the North," "The Union Jack," and "Greeting to Our King," the latter of which was composed in connection with the King's coronation.

No Word From Lieut.-Col. Taylor.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—It is stated by a prominent official of the Militia Department that no intimation had been received by the Government of the resignation of Lieut.-Col. Taylor, commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston.

If the announcement that Lieut.-Col. Taylor will demand an enquiry into the rustication of Cadet Lancaster be correct, it will in all probability be granted, as charges that the commandant was actuated by malice were made on the floor of Parliament.

Would Lynch Them.

Elkins, W. Va., Jan. 20.—Fired by the murder of one fellow-workman and the wounding of three others Friday night by four supposed members of the Black Hand, every lumberman at Ellamore, near here, has joined in a determined hunt for two of the party who got away, leaving one of their companions dead and one injured. A lynching is expected if they are caught.

Catholic Convent Burned.

Montreal, Jan. 20.—The Roman Catholic Convent of St. Anne, at St. Remi, 30 miles from Montreal, was completely destroyed by fire yesterday, but all the inmates were got out in safety.

The loss is estimated at about $40,000.

New German Army Scandal.

Berlin, Jan. 20.—A news agency which enjoys confidential relations with Chancellor von Buelow states that a number of sensational new military scandals have come to light of a similar character to those for which the Counts Hahenau and Lynar are now being court-martialed at Potsdam.

Hague Conference Scores.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Mr. Leger, the Haytian Minister, was disposed Saturday to regret that American Minister Furniss should have interfered in Hayti in protesting against the summary bombardment of the rebellious forces in St. Marc and Gonaives.

The State Department officials, however, point out that the protest is entirely in the line of the rules of war in modern times, and that the second Hague conference, in which Hayti was represented by Minister Legar, had crystallised the indefinite law on this subject into permanent international obligation by the general treaty prohibiting bombardments without proper notice.

Played Violin, Dropped Dead.

Windsor, Jan. 20.—Joseph O'Neill, a popular young man of this city, for some time past bookkeeper for the Penberthy Injector Co., went to his mother's home, in Sandwich South Township, two weeks ago, for a vacation. Early Saturday morning, while playing a violin for a party of dancers who had been spending the evening with him, he dropped from his chair to the floor and died instantly. He had apparently been in perfect health up to the moment of his demise. Heart failure was the cause.

New York, Jan. 20.—A little red-hulled lightship, not as big as one of Columbus' caravels is at Tompkinsville, and will soon be ready for the 15,000 miles' voyage to California. The lightship cost $80,000, and is to take a position on Blunt's reef, one of the most famous marine graveyards of the Pacific.

She is to make the journey under her own steam and with a consumption of only eight tons a day of coal.

Aldermen Advised To Do Work With All Their Heart

City Officials Heard the Annual Civic Sermon Last Night---Rev. J. R. Webb Delivered an Inspiring Address On The Responsibility of Office---Much Depended Upon The Beginning

"Sixteen thousand souls, every one dear to the Almighty, and a pang for each one of which is felt by the heart of God, will feel the result of your acts," was the message given at the Murray street Baptist church last night by Rev. J. R. Webb to the mayor, aldermen, members of the Water Commissioners, and other officials who were present on the invitation of the Ministerial Association to hear the annual civic sermon. The members of the municipal organization occupied pews in the front of the church, and the remainder were filled by a very large congregation.

Rev. Mr. Webb delivered an impressive and forcible sermon, impressing upon the officials the responsibilities of their duties by making use of the text, II. Chronicles, xxxi., 21,—"And in every work he began in the service of the house of God; he did it with all his heart, and prospered."

"It would be unpardonable impertinence on my part," he said, "to take this opportunity to indicate what I think is your duty in the specific matters to come up before you this year. If the electors had thought me an authority on such matters they would have elected me mayor, or alderman, at least, but they have not done so; they have elected you. I stand before you as a minister of the gospel and as a student of ethics, and I am going to lay before you principles that no man can afford to disregard."

Rev. Mr. Webb explained that the words of the text were spoken of Hezekiah, the twelfth king of Judea, who had entered upon new responsibilities, and by doing his work with all his heart had risen to the occasion, so that it was said of him that there was none like him among them who had preceded him in office. The importance of the beginning of new service in the house of God was illustrated. People were too prone to regard God's house as bounded by the walls of His sanctuary, whereas God's habitation was larger than the world. Everything that God made was sacred, and every duty done under the eye of the Master was a sacred duty. God's House was the universe, and the world was but a room of His mansion.

"All service," said the speaker, "that we do in the Council chamber, in the school, in the office, or at home, is service in God's house. We do not serve God in coming to church. In fact, it should be the only hour that we don't do service, but that we press to the Master's table that He may serve us. Your best service to God may be rendered not in any church, but in the Council chamber. You should remember that in making decisions you are bringing prosperity or otherwise to the children of God. You can render service to the Creator as you serve men.

"The task will be new to many of you, and much depends upon the way in which you begin things. The way you begin to serve the city will have much to do with every hour of your service. The whole term will be influenced by what you do this coming week. What the spring time is to the farmer, what the moment of white heat is to the blacksmith, what the hour of childhood is to all maturity, so this hour means to you. Sixteen thousand souls, every one dear to the Master, and a pang for each one of which is felt by the heart of God, will feel the result of your acts. I impress this upon you and urge you to make your conscience your king."

Thought, sympathy and decision were necessary to enable a man to do things with all his heart. It had been truly said that the head was the House of Commons, the heart the House of Lords, and the will the royal chamber where all bills must be ratified.

"You are the chief citizens," continued Rev. Mr. Webb, "of no mean city, of a city surrounded by some of the most beautiful country under God's blue dome, with wondrous agricultural greatness, rich in manufacturing assets, well supplied with creditable schools, with at least one piece of engineering skill such as is seen nowhere else in the world, well furnished with parks, partly provided for in the matter of hospitals and libraries. Everything points to an increase in population, and with it will come the evils that creep their way into every prosperous place. The gospel that you will have to preach will be of a triple nature, the gospel of legislation, of education and of sanitation.

"At the present hour the pickpocket, the robber and the tramp are inclined to give Peterborough a wide berth. In no city on the continent of its size is there such a lack of certain resorts which respectable people do not want. No matter who the man may be who comes before our magistrate, he is certain to see justice and punishment if he has broken the law.

"Even aldermen cannot be expected to bring about the millennium in one year, but if you are true to yourself, working as the servant of the Father in the larger house of God, you will see that it is made as difficult as possible for any mother's boy to mar and spoil the images of God in any way. Your hands are left free, at least I hope so, and all of you have courage enough to disregard anonymous communications that make their way into our newspapers. There is an extravagance that results in the impoverishment of a city, and an economy that damns a city. You have the city's means, the city's confidence.

"The hope of a city is in its youth. The members of the Board of Education will have it their duty during the year to declare open some of the finest school buildings in the Dominion of Canada, buildings that would adorn any city. See to it that the soul of the school is worthy of the body it inhabits." To the Board of Education, Rev. Mr. Webb commended the suggestion of Dr. Hunter, that all school children over twelve years of age should receive occasional lectures from physicians on health and morals, saying that at first sight it seemed to him worthy of imitation.

In concluding, the speaker urged upon the aldermen to be not only honest and honourable men, but to be Christian men. If there was to be any suggestion of the purification or uplifting of the city, it would be because the aldermen made laws, suggested primarily from above. He advised them to be patient with one another. They might have their peculiarities, but a man without peculiarity was a man without power. He agreed with Carlyle that a clean, genuine sincerity was a promise of latent heroism.

The pastor paid a touching tribute to the late Mr. Wm. Pringle, before concluding, remarking that the city was poorer since he was gone. He was one of the builders of the city, whom the city officials would miss in committee rooms, and whom all would miss on the streets.

The musical portion of the service was well rendered by the choir, the anthem, "Oh, Clap Your Hands," by Tusper, being given with precision and effect. Miss Clara Kidd's soprano was successfully exhibited in the solo, "Child of Nazareth," with violin obligato by Miss Hope Miller, and the beautiful selection, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," was well executed by a quartette.

WORDS OF PRAISE FOR LOCAL PASTOR

Sermon by Rev. A. H. Brace in Toronto Sunday World—Editor's Note

The Sunday World of yesterday had a sermon from the pen of Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of the Park street Baptish church, accompanied by an excellent cut of this popular minister. The editor's note, introducing the sermon, is as follows:—

The sermon to-day, which is simple in its construction, and has the music of the Gospel bells in its tones, is by an old friend of the editor, Rev. A. H. Brace, at present pastor of the Park street Baptist church, Peterborough. I knew him twenty-five years ago, when he was superintendent of the Fegan Boys' Home, on George street of this city. Occasionally, especially when a new batch would arrive from England, he used to bring them over to the Agnes street church, where we would have them sing in their true English dialect Gospel songs as only English boys can sing. The late William Gooderham, "whose works do follow him," was a great friend of Mr. Brace. In addition to a bequest of $10,000 to the Fegan Home he kindly remembered Mr. Brace in his will in the following words: "To A. H. Brace, as a mark of my regard for him, $1,000."

Mr. Brace is a Welshman, was born in Monmouth, Wales, in 1845, came to Canada in 1885, and after serving the boys' home for a number of years, in the capacity of principal and superintendent, was baptized in the Jarvis street Baptist church in 1889, by the Rev. Dr. Thomas, and offered himself to the Baptist ministry. He has had great success, both as a financier and a pastor in the three charges — Cannington, Dunnville and Peterborough —that he has served so faithfully. His work at Dunnville stands as a monument to his zeal and devotion, while his pastorate in Peterborough will perpetuate his labour of love in the erection of a handsome new church edifice. May he continue to have what he is preaching for — "Souls for his hire and seals to his ministry."

FELLOWSHIP TEA WAS A SUCCESS

Many Strangers Present Who Gave Their Different Experiences in Canada

The "Fellowship Tea" which was held last night in St. John's School House under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and furnished by two of the prominent members of the church, was attended by one of the largest gatherings of strangers ever held before. The assembly was composed of men representing different portions of the British Isles, and each one voluntarily gave a three minute speech, giving an account of their experiences since arriving in Canada. His Worship Mayor Rush was present and gave a sketch of his life which proved very interesting. The refreshments furnished by Coleman Bros. were of good quality and well served. At the conclusion of the proceedings, most of the men present attended service in the adjoining church, occupying the front seats in a body.

THE STONE BREAKING PROBLEM AGAIN

Mr. Ford Writes in Reply to Saturday Evening Epistle

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I must say I was very much surprised and amused at the nice letter which appeared in Saturday night's issue by one of our brother Englishmen, who must have been living in the sunshine since he reached here, so that he has become ashamed of his fellow countrymen. I would very much like a few of his excellent chances to come my way, for walking around doesn't exceed my wildest fancies, but I can assure him he wouldn't find many opportunities now, if he was out. I think he must be the owner of a most powerful telescope to have seen all these chances, as I am almost afraid of the strain on my eyesight looking for work, and I am sure I can do a day's work with him any time. We are not all a lazy lot to be ashamed of, as I venture to say I have tried for more jobs in a month than he has since he has been here, I think. I am almost ashamed of him not having his eyes open before going to the paper. Then he goes on to talk about the stone-breaking, and the better conditions here than there. I don't know whether that large stone quarry was in Portland jail or Wormwood Scrubs jail, but I think it must be in one of them, but he didn't say whether his father was a warder or not. If so, his men work for a farthing or less a day, which is half a cent. In the place I came from they were paid at the rate of five-pence an hour at stone-breaking—that was in Berkshire,—so I don't think they are paid any better here than there, according to the price of things. Then he says board is the same price there as here. I venture to say if he kept a boarding-house there he would be minus some boarders all the time at the price it is here. I was boarding for eight years in different towns there, and the most I paid was 10 or 11 shillings per week, which would be $2.50 or $2.75. He says cheese is dearer there, which is 16 or 17 cents here, and you can get good cheese there for 10 and 12 cents. Then ask him if eggs are not dearer here than there, and butter is almost half as much again here as there. I think he knows very little about England, and less about Canada. But I don't think when I go home I shall call around for a job at his father's quarry in a hurry. I am not saying anything against Canada, as I have done very well here myself, and in England, too, but I don't think much of a real Englishman who is disgusted with some of the less fortunate than himself. I think myself he would make a first-class shipping agent, making Canada appear far better than it is, and dragging hundreds of poor people away from a comfortable little home there, selling everything they have there, and then not caring where they go after they have paid their fares here, which takes all a good many of them have in the world. There are hundreds who will tell you the same. I hope the next letter he puts in will have a little sense in it.

Thanking you kindly if you can find room in your valuable paper to insert this, I remain truly a real Englishman who is not disgusted with his fellowmen.

Yours truly,
W. FORD.

IT LOOKED LIKE CASE OF ABDUCTION

What a Midnight Straggler Saw Late On Saturday

About half past twelve on Saturday night, when the streets were vacant and the city quiet, a big disturbance began in one of the local hotels. A young man who had been working late was going home when the trouble commenced, and he states that he thought at first it was a case of abduction. The side door of the hotel sprang open and two men dragging a woman who was using profane language emerged from the doorway and hurried her into a cab which was standing near by. As soon as the woman was stowed away one of the men told the cabman to drive like the —— to ——street, and then jumped inside the cab himself. The vehicle was soon speeding on its way to the street mentioned.

BIG SHAKE-UP IN THE CLOTHING TRADE

Mr. Andrew Mercer, who is well-known throughout Canada as a designer of high class clothing, has joined the Male Attire organization, of which Mr. P. Simons is the local agent. On interview, Mr. Mercer says: "My reason for severing my connection with the firm in which I hold considerable stock, and forming a connection with the Male Attire Limited, is simply owing to the fact that I feel I must have a free hand and scope to produce the best clothing that art, skill and money can revolve. My arrangement with Male Attire, Limited, provides that I shall have this privilege to its fullest extent. My motto is to keep a little ahead of the trot, and I feel that to be consistent I must be where I can live up to my ideals."

BEEF AND POTATOES DISTRIBUTED

People Gathered at Mr. Miller's Store As Early as Six O'Clock

The distribution of potatoes and beef to the needy poor of Peterborough, on Saturday night, drew a large crowd to Mr. Finch Miller's store. The people began to appear and before 6.45 the beef and most of the potatoes were gone. That were many happy faces on Saturday night that entered the relief officer's store to secure the provisions so kindly given and there were many many homes in Peterborough yesterday which saw the sunshine of Christian charity around the house. Many men, women and children who have been, for weeks trying to exist on a small pittance of food, were able to eat to to their heart's content yesterday. This distribution of food has proven very satisfactory, and in all probability there will be a week-end distribution until the funds for this object are exhausted, and it is hoped that such will not be the case until after the snow disappears, and work is plentiful again.

IMPROVEMENTS AT CEMETRY

Presidents Report Submitted at Annual Meeting of Little Lake Cemetry This Afternoon

OTHER REPORTS TUESDAY

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock when the various reports were presented. The following is the report of President W H Moore, and the remainder will appear in to-morrow's issue:—

To the shareholders of the Little Lake Cemetery Company—

Your directors beg leave to report that during the past year no very expensive work was undertaken, but general advancement, it is believed, was made towards bringing the whole grounds into a more harmonious and desirable condition. Several driveways have been improved: Range avenue from the top to the foot of the hill, graded, with cement water tables laid along its margins, which will effectually prevent scouring out, from the large flow of water that runs down, after rain storms; a deep drain placed in Section K., 160 feet long, and the large outfall drain, that had choked, taken up and relaid, besides much more work carried out. Your directors also built an addition to the new dwelling to provide a room in which to carry on the potting of plants, in winter and early spring, with a summer kitchen over it.

The city debentures held by the company as a future maintenance fund, are the same as last year, namely, $10,917.31. The cash in bank is $582.31, in addition to which there will come in about $1200 from the year's outstanding accounts, and your directors would suggest to the incoming board, that a city debenture be purchased at an early day, of, at least, $1,000.

Your directors, in view of the fact that early in the year, they paid the balance of the loan for the erection of the new dwelling and office, and expended $250 on the addition to the house, consider there is a good showing for the year's operations, particularly as the grounds have not been in any sense neglected.

It has been gratifying to your directors to frequently hear favourable comments upon the increasing beauty of the cemetery from the city, the county and elsewhere, and to know that their efforts have been so generally referred to and recognized.

In the the month of May last Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, who had been a director for several years, resigned, and Mr. W. G. Morrow, was appointed in his place for the remainder of the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted

January, 20, 1908.

W. H. MOORE
President.

REV. MR. ALLAN SPOKE

At Y.M.C.A. Yesterday—Gave Excellent Address on "Gold Mines" in South Africa—Prospecting There

THE LAW OF GRAVITATION

A large number of people were present at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday afternoon to hear Rev. Andrew Allan, who is conducting so successful a mission at St. Andrew's church. Mr. Allan used as a text Phil. ii., 12, and his subject was Gold Mining. Mr. Allan has been through some of the largest gold mines in South Africa and is well acquainted with the whole process of mining and refining the gold. He has also had a large experience with miners and men engaged in this work. His address was most interesting and impressive and was listened to with the closest attention.

Mr Allan illustrated his text by describing the prospecting in the Transvaal. He had often had the prospectors gather around him on a Saturday night to tell him of their work for the week. These men were representatives of big syndicates from all over the world and as soon as they came upon a reef that looked like a good paying one, they immediately secured a license from the government for their claim; they thus perfectly sure of it and were then prepared to work it. They knew there was no use trying to sink a shaft or do a lot of work on it until they had the government license, when they would be sure of it as their own. The gold mine of Salvation was the same. The key note of your text was "your own,"—"Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," as the text read. Not until we appropriate our satisfaction can we work at it.

Mr. Allan then described different visits to gold mines, descents into the workings and descriptions of methods of operation, dealing with the reef. The descriptions of the process of milling by using a 200 stamp battery, and also by using powerful chemicals to extract the gold from the ore were very interesting, and were compared to the process presented to us in the doctrine of the Holy Spirit in the New Testament. The result of both processes was to get all refuse from the pure gold, so this result can be obtained as described in I Tim. i, 7, by the Spirit of power and love, and a sound mind in our lives.

Mr. Allan then showed how the appetites of our animal natures could be practically overcome by this power in our very lives, using as an illustration, the army balloon, used in the war to discover the strategy of the Boers. The law of gravitation was reversed by this new power, which was put into the balloon, and which caused it to rise to the highest degree; so with the new power of the Holy Spirit in our lives. We may overcome the appetites and desires of the lower nature and rise to the height God intended us to be when we were created.

DEATH OF A VETERAN ENGINEER

Passed Away After Sudden Collapse—Drove The Royal Trains

A recent English paper received by P. C. Newhall contains a lengthy account of the death of Mr. Ben Robinson, one of the oldest and best known engine drivers on the London and Northwestern Railway. He became suddenly ill on his way home on January 2 and was found by a passerby on a doorstep in a state of collapse. He was taken to his home, but never rallied, death claiming him at 8 o'clock the next morning.

The paper gives a most eulogistic account of Mr. Robinson's career, stating that he was one of the most trustworthy and careful men that ever stood on the foot-plate. His father was a driver before him, and between them they served on the railway for exactly 100 years. The father spent 48 years and the son 52 years. At one time he had charge of the important Scotch express trains, but of late years had day work on the Holyhead route. He was in charge of the royal train a greater number of times than any of his fellow drivers, and was invariably in charge when the late Queen was travelling to and from Scotland. These are only a few of the distinctions which Mr. Robinson enjoyed. P. C. Newhall knew the deceased quite well as they lived in the same town, and many times Mr. Newhall rode with the deceased.

The funeral is described as being an unusual one and an excellent tributs to the memory of the late engineer.

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS ?

Do You Fear Consumption ?

"When we take into consideration the fact that one out of every seven in this climate die of consumption, is it any wonder that it is feared by the people of Peterborough who have weak lungs and and chronic colds and coughs?

"A famous London physician has for years urged his patients, when the slightest tendency to consumption appeared, to take all the cod liver oil possible into their systems, and physicians everywhere have recognized its value for coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption and all wasting diseases, but unfortunately few could take it and derive the full benefit from its use on account of the indigestible grease which it contained.

"We want every person in Peterborough to know the value of our cod liver preparation, Vinol. It actually contains in a concentrated form all of the medicinal body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod liver without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard the work.

"Therefore, wherever old-fashioned cod liver oil or emulsions will do good, Vinol will do far more good. We guarantee that Vinol will improve the appetite, strengthen the digestion, make rich, red blood, create strength, cure chronic colds, and strengthen weak lungs.

"If Vinol fails to give satisfaction to our customers we return money without question." McDermid and Jury, druggists; also the Market Drug Store.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN INDENTITY

Mr. McDonnell Not the Man With Whom Witness Linked His Name

In connection with the police court article of Saturday's issue, referring to two men who entered a house in East City, the name of Mr. Charles McDonnell was mentioned by one of the witnesses. It referred to Mr. McDonnell as being folowed by the men. Neither Mr. Charles McDonnell, senior or junior, was near the place. The father was in Lakefield on business and his son was at home with the rest of the family. Neither could understand how his name could have been connected with the affair.

CORRECTION REQUESTED OF MISLEADING HEADING

In Saturday's issue appeared a news article referring to the "Salvation Army Band." The Examiner is requested to state that the word "army" is incorrectly used, the Salvation Army, whose headquarters are on Simcoe street, having no connection with the "Salvation Band," which correctly describes the organization, whose financial statement appeared in Saturday's Examiner.

A SPECIAL TRAIN TO LINDSAY

In Connection With Friday Night's Big Hockey Match

Arrangements are being made for special train to Lindsay on Friday night in connection with the return game between Lindsay and Peterborough. It is probable that a train will be secured leaving Peterborough at 6.45 o'clock and returning after the game. The locals will have the strongest line-up they have had this season and are going to retrieve their reputation by defeating Lindsay on their own ice, by accomplishing which feat they will still be very much in the running. Some of the old favourites will be on the line-up and the game should be one of the best in the history of hockey in this district. Lindsay must be beaten and the Strathconas are going to do it on Friday. A big crowd will be on hand to see the melee. The return tickets will be sold at 65c.

GORDON'S MEAT MARKET TO BE OPEN ALL DAY

Mr. Alex. Gordon, of the Market Arcade Meat Market, announces in our advertising columns his intention to keep open his store all day in the future, instead of only in the forenoons. Many of his largest customers who require quantities of meats for the evening and morning meals have urged upon him the wisdom of keeping open in the afternoon as well as the forenoon. Mr. Gordon evidently gives such satisfaction with the quality of meat which he furnishes that his patrons are anxious to confine all their business to him, and, of course, Mr. Gordon wisely concludes that "business is business." In addition to his regular selection of pure fresh meats, Mr. Gordon intends also keeping a choice stock of cooked and fancy meats to meet the demand of the public.

GASOMETER BLEW UP NEAR MONTREAL

Five Hundred Thousand Feet of Gas Explodes Skywards.

MONTREAL HAS CLOSE SHAVE

Will Cost Gas Company $30,000—Had Force of the Explosion Spent Itself Laterally City Might Now Be In Ruins — Luckily Very Little Damage Was Done to Property —The Cause is Unknown.

Montreal, Jan. 20.—Half a million cubic feet of gas went up in a sudden flare, and exploded with a crash like a thunder peal Saturday morning, when the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co.'s No. 2 gasometer, at the gas works, Harbor street, Hochelaga, was blown up, and completely demolished Not a life was lost, a limb injured, or a brick in the neighboring houses misplaced.

The explosion occurred at 4.47. Twenty minutes previously Barney Macdonald, the foreman, visited the gasometer, as it was his duty to do every half hour, inspected the valves, and found everything in its usual working order.

The gasometer blew straight up in the air. Hundreds of feet in the sky shot up the tongues of flame. The entire force of the explosion went straight up into the air. Had it spread out, a thousand homes would be in mourning, and Montreal might have blazed like another San Francisco.

Outside of the ruined gas holder, which will cost the company $30,000 to rebuild, the damage done was slight. The shock of the explosion was felt all over the island. Houses trembled even in St. Lambert, where one man reports that the pictures on his walls were moved.

Secretary-Treasurer Norris of the Light, Heat & Power Co., stated that he was absolutely at a loss to account for the explosion, for a gas holder was the last thing in the world that might be expected to explode.

"Even if you dropped a lighted match into it," he said, "nothing would happen, and if you bored a hole in the tank and set fire to the jet there would be no explosion."

The only possible theory was that some explosive mixture, probably air and gas, was in the building itself, though how gas could escape was a mystery, and how the mixture could ignite, was more puzzling still. Mr. Norris recalled, however, that an adjoining air tank exploded in 1882, before it was in use, before the contractors had handed it over to the company.

No one was allowed on the premises, so that the idea of a smoker lighting a match might be dismissed, and the possibility of an electric wire fusing and causing a spark also seemed remote.

New Home Rule Bill.

Glasgow, Jan. 20.—It is the belief that the Liberals have another Irish home rule bill in contemplation, and that it has received what is regarded as the significant support of Alexander Ure, Solicitor General for Scotland. Mr. Ure was addressing the students of Glasgow University on the contest for the lord rectorships of the university, for which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Premier, and Lord Curzon of Kedleston are the contestants. He remarked that the Premier's name would be associated with many great reforms. "Home rule?" suggested a voice in the audience. To this Mr. Ure replied:

"I fervently hope, and I am certain that my chief shares the hope, that his name will be associated with the granting to our fellow-countrymen in Ireland of full and unfettered control of their own affairs."

An Anarchist Plot.

Rio Janeiro, Jan. 20.—The Brazilian police have discovered an anarchistic plot here, having as its object the destruction of part of the American fleet now lying in the harbor. The conspiracy, while centering in Rio Janeiro and Petropolis, has ramifications n Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes. An individual named Jean Fedher, who resided in Petropolis, was the chief conspirator here.

$5,000 Fire.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—At 10.38 Saturday night fire broke out in the transfer department of East & Co.'s factory, No. 11 Agnes street, and caused about $5,000 damage.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable. . .

It takes a person that has had and is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, surely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

Mr. Wm. R. Gilchrist, New Mills, N.B., writes: "I was troubled for years with constipation and headaches, but after using four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I am completely cured."

Mr. John T. Kidner, Red Deer, Alta., writes: "I was troubled for several years with headache. I tried a number of remedies but they did me no good. I tried a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and it cured me completely."

HARRY THAW FEARS JEROME

Thinks He Has Sinister Motive in Excluding Public.

ATTORNEY MAY BE BRUTAL

Evelyn Nesbitt Rehearses Her Evidence and Prepares For Ordeal on Stand—Physicians and Experts to Testify—Judge Inclined to Cut Trial Short—Prisoner Desires Full Publicity of the Trial.

New York, Jan. 20.—When the Thaw trial is resumed to-day Justice Dowling will be called upon to determine whether or not the testimony of Evelyn Nesbitt Thaw shall be taken behind closed doors. It is freely predicted that he will refuse to exclude both public and newspaper reporters, but a compromise may be reached by the exclusion of those who come only from idle or morbid curiosity. By leaving the newspaper men in the courtroom the constitution provision as to a public trial would be met, and the young woman on the stand would have to face only a handful of people as compared with the vast crowd which thronged the court last Friday afternoon. The suggestion that if any newspaper cared to repeat the details of the recital it could do so simply by reference to its files of a year ago. Justice Dowling stated on Friday that he would hear further suggestions from counsel this morning, provided, of course, there should be a general consent to the closing of the doors—a thing never before done in this jurisdiction in a murder trial.

Mr. Littleton, Thaw's counsel, who partly concurred in the district attorney's motion when it was first made, has decided to leave the matter in the discretion of the court. Under these circumstance it is thought Justice Dowling will not attempt to keep the proceedings secret, but he may cooperate with the attorneys in an endeavor to keep the general public out of the court-room.

Why Thaw Objected.

The non-concurrence of the defence in the plan is said to be due to the attitude of Thaw himself, who believes that he sees in District Attorney Jerome's move a motive other than the public morality. Thaw believes that behind closed doors the prosecutor would go even further in his cross-examination of his wife than he did at the first trial, when with pitiless persistance he drew from her many details of the story which were omitted in the direct evidence, details of which did not reach the public through any newspaper.

Mr. Jerome based his cross-examination last year on the ground of testing the probity of the witness, and under the ruling of Justice Fitzgerald this threw the doors wide open. Justice Dowling is inclined, however, to cut down both direct and cross-examinations to the material facts, and it is generally believed that neither Mr. Littleton nor Mr. Jerome will put the defendant's wife through the same severe ordeal as last year.

When young Mrs. Thaw has concluded her testimony and has been put through the fire of cross-examination, the elder Mrs. Thaw will probably conclude. This will leave but three or four witnesses to be heard before the six insanity experts retained by the defence are put on the stand to answer hypothetical questions covering all of the testimony. Two of these physicians, Drs. Evans and Wagner, will tell again of the examination they made of Thaw in the Tombs Prison following the tragedy. The trial will be pushed with all possible haste to an early conclusion.

Rehearsal For Evelyn.

Evelyn Thaw went to the office of Mr. Littleton during Saturday afternoon, and in the presence of Messrs. O'Reilly and Peabody was rehearsed in minute detail as to the story she is to relate on the stand. Questions and cross-questions were volleyed at the young woman by the attorneys for several hours. The ordeal was a counterpart in private to that to which she will be submitted in public.

Fire at Alvinston.

Alvinston, Ont., Jan. 20.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in Newcombe & Young's general store and before the fire could be extinguished their whole stock was completely destroyed by fire, water and smoke. Loss about $15,000; insurance $10,000, in the Perth Mutual, Caledonian, Waterloo, Northern and Equity. The block, owned by Richard Code, is damaged to the extent of about $3,000, and is covered by insurance in the Caledonian and Northern. Had it not been for the excellent fire protection of the village and the efficient work of the fire company, who had three streams of water going on the fire within ten minutes after the alarm, the loss would have been far greater. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Caught Shop-Breaking.

Hamilton, Jan. 20.—Harris Heit, a Russian, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constables Brown and Gibbs on a charge of shop-breaking and theft. The officers claim they caught him red-handed in the warehouse of Harris & Siderski, 21 North Walnut street, with a couple of bags of brass and copper, all ready to be carried off. The prisoner had $40 in his pocket.

ENDEAVOUR TO PROBE THE ROBBERY

Theft of Irish Crown Jewels May Affect Noble Families.

SPECIAL TRIBUNAL NAMED

Sensational Developments Are Expected—Sir Arthur Vicars Demands Investigation — Jewels Worth a Quarter Million — Alleged Midnight Orgies—Nationalist Party Makes Political Capital.

New York, Jan. 20.—The World published the following cable despatch from Dublin yesterday:

The robbery of the Irish crown jewels has now developed into an affair of state of the first magnitude.

The astounding reports in circulation involving, it is believed falsely, even a family of well nigh as great reputation as that of the Irish viceroy himself, has compelled the Government to ask Parliament to establish by statute a special tribunal with full powers to probe the whole mystery to its foundation.

These jewels, worn by the sovereign at the installation of the Knights of St. Patrick, were kept in a safe in the office of Sir Arthur Vicars, officer of the order and the chief Irish Herald, styled Ulster King-at-arms.

That Sir Arthur Vicars was guilty of negligence in his measures for safeguarding the jewels, which are worth a quarter of a million of dollars, is admitted, but nothing further is alleged against him.

The keys of his office were at the disposal of others than himself, and, the report goes, this office being situated in the most secluded part of gloomy Dublin Castle, was used by a coterie of officials of the castle and their confederates for midnight orgies.

Indeed, when the police ransacked the office, following the discovery of the robbery, they came across certain paraphernalia used by the participants in these gatherings.

Sir Arthur Vicars demands a public enquiry, knowing that his negligence will be dwarfed to triviality beside the disclosures affecting other and more important persons who may be implicated directly or indirectly in the scandal.

It is said here that a certain individual from London, known there as an abnormalist, was the ringleader of these entertainments, and, though having no official position whatever, was nevertheless entrusted with the keys of Vicars' office.

The theft, it is believed, was committed by one of these visitors to the midnight saturnalias in Dublin Castle, and that the thief, feeling confident in the peculiar circumstances surrounding the whole wretched affair, is satisfied the authorities would rather let the jewels go than stir up the scandal now everywhere discussed.

The individuals suspected are the permanent officials of Dublin Castle, who are men drawn exclusively from aristocratic and landlord families.

The Nationalist party intends to press for a public investigation on political grounds, to expose the class to whom the government of Ireland is entrusted.

Russian Beauty Arrested.

Munich, Jan. 20.—A strikingly beautiful Russian woman presented a 500 rouble note at one of the banks here Saturday for exchange into German money. The note bore the number of one of the notes advertised as having been stolen in the robbery at Tiflis early last summer, when 314,000 roubles were stolen, and the bank cashier telephoned at once to the police.

Seeing the officers approaching, the woman hastily attempted to swallow a slip of paper, but one of the officers grasped her by the throat and prevented her from so doing. It appeared from the paper that two accomplices were about to arrive here by the Paris express.

The officers, accompanied by the Russian charge d'affaires, went to the station, and on the arrival of the train arrested them.

May be Jewel Thief.

Ottawa, Jan. 20.—A domestic of Government House named Elizabeth Lee was arrested the other day for alleged peculations there. She was charged with the offence at the police court.

Meantime the police are going further into the matter, for among her possessions are jewels of worth not usually owned by housemaids.

It is thought that the mystery of a big English jewel robbery may be cleared up by the woman's arrest. She recently came direct from England to Rideau Hall and is of refined appearance.

Col. Percy Sherwood is investigating the affair.

Confessed Brutal Murder.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 20—Earl Jacques, a 19-year-old boy, confessed Saturday night, it is alleged, to two deaths, and that he killed and robbed Miss Mary Eddy, an aged woman, on the evening of Jan. 3 at Greenville.

Miss Eddy was employed in the Greenville Woollen Mills, where Jacques has also worked. While she was on her way to her home from work on the night of Jan. 3 she was killed by a blow from a club and her pay envelope with $13.30 taken.

Leopold Surprised.

London, Jan. 20.—Louis Leopold has received the following cablegram: "Canadian Manufacturers' Association have decided to discontinue British office for the present Full particulars by letter." Leopold said he was amazed to receive such a notification, in view of the fact that already arrangements had been made to continue the business, and many bookings have been made.

Complicated Orders Cause Wreck.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 20.—As the result of a head-on collision at Cameron, 54 miles north of Raleigh, between a Seaboard Air Line freight and the northbound fast passenger train number 48, two men were killed and 20 injured.

The collision is attributed to complicated train orders.

MADE DASH FOR LIFE.

Forty Miners Run Seven Miles Underground From Fire Peril.

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 20.—Miraculously escaping death by cremation or suffocation or being blown to pieces by an explosion, forty miners employed in the Catsburg Mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Co., made their way through the dark headings for a distance of seven miles and finally reached the open air.

Without light to guide them, and given up as dead, the men battled for five hours with fire, and when they reached the surface their faces were blackened, clothes torn and all were severely bruised from stumbling in their flight for safety. Fortunately the mine contained very little gas, or another mine disaster would have been recorded in Western Pennsylvania.

The mine was fired some time during the day by a "blowout" shot, and when the fire was discovered at 9 o'clock Saturday night by the forty men all escaped to the surface, though the Monongahela entry was cut off. Momentarily expecting an explosion with its horrible consequences the men started panic-stricken, for the entry at Charleroi, seven miles away. In their frenzy they stumbled and fell, but only to jump up again and continue their mad rush for safety

When the men reached the surface early yesterday a majority of them were sobbing like children.

A large force of men are bratticing the part of the mine which caught fire, and it is believed the damage will be small.

ONE DEAD, TWO HURT.

Light Engine Crashes Into Freight Train at Parkdale.

Toronto, Jan. 20.—One man was killed and two others injured in a rear-end collision immediately west of the foot of Dufferin street on the Grand Trunk track, at 4.30 Saturday afternoon.

Zasinth Laroque, aged 27, single, a French-Canadian of St. Lazar, Que., a lineman for the G.T.W., was instantly killed.

Joseph Prefontaine, a cook, aged 29, married, of South Durham, was badly injured and was taken to the Western Hospital in the ambulance.

Maxime Champaigne, single, aged 26, lineman, of Damy, Que., had his leg broken and was also removed to the Western Hospital.

The wreckage took fire.

G.T.R. cars 93,002 and 93,003 were used as boarding cars for workmen and were attached to a freight train bound for Hagersville. At the time of the collision the train was stationary, when a light engine from the east crashed into the rear car 93,002 smashed it to kindling wood and threw it into the ditch The debris caught fire, and the body of Laroque was partially burned. An alarm was sent in to the fire department and Deputy Chief Noble and several sections responded. Two lays of hose were used to extinguish the flames.

The body of the dead man had to be dug out of the debris.

Wrecking train No. 62, from the east, arrived soon after the accident and assisted in clearing the track.

Rich Cincinnatian Seriously Charged.
